MONDAY, MARCH 17, 1884.

THE GLOBE SPOILT ALL.

THE independent Toronto Telegram says that Sir John Macdonald had determined to resist the Quebec demand for better terms, even if he had to dissolve the House and appeal to the country. It adds:—"But the Globe by waving a flag to the Bleus spoiled all." Whatever the difference of opinion there may be in other respects there seems to be a general assent as to the evil and unpatriotic nature of the corrupt bid of the Globe in Mr. Blake's name.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

Zoebehr Pasha is willing to take the place of Gordon as Governor-General of the Soudan. He advises that it be subdued by pacific measures, and says slavery will be got rid of gradually when the Soudanese appreciate the benefits of civilization. He doubts that the Mahdi is considered a prophet in the Soudan. Zoebehr says there is no feud between himself and Gordon.

THE DEFEAT ALREADY BEARING FRUIT.

General Graham telegraphs that the Sheikhs are more peaceable since Osman's defeat. It is expected the road to Berber will be clear within ten days.

REBEL CHIEFS KILLED.

Wounded rebels state that Osman Digma's nephew and many chiefs were killed in Thursday's fight. Osman was present early in the battle but fled when defeat became evident. Fifteen hundred rebel corpses were found in one pit.

THE BRITISH LOSS.

Gen. Graham telegraphs that five officers and 86 men were killed, and 8 officers and 103 men wounded, and 10 men missing. The rebels numbered from ten to twelve thousand. Three officers and seven men of the naval brigade were killed at the guns.

FLIGHT OF OSMAN.

The troops are now returning to Suakin. Osman has fled to the hills. The Arabs were defeated but not routed. They walked away leisurely and were often shot down, but this did not hasten their companions' speed. It is thought the great loss of life will appal the Arabs and break their faith in the Mahdi.

Dancing Salvationists.

The Kingston News of Saturday says:—Dancing at the meetings has caused quite a sensation here of late, and has been the result of making a split in the ranks. It is said that Major Moore approves of this practice and encourages those who indulge in it, therefore a petition has been sent to England in the matter to see if General Booth countenanced such a thing. This morning we received a copy of the War Cry and Official Gazette of the Army, printed in London, and in it is an allusion to the Kingston meetings, written by Captain Wass. The editor of the paper adds to the report a note, which is as follows:—

We have read with great regret of some doings at the anniversary of the Fifth Canadian Corps (Kingston), which we cannot at all approve of. We claim for all our Soldiers perfect spiritual liberty, but we do not think spiritual men likely to make a set practice of dancing a "war dance," and the Army is not to be condemned for the mistakes some eccentric man may have made."

From the foregoing it will be seen that dancing is condemned by General Booth, whose mouthpiece the paper in question is. In encouraging dancing, therefore, Major Moore is acting in opposition to the wishes of his superior officer.

Wide-spread Conspiracy.

A Madrid despatch says Gen. Velarde, a cavalry ensign, three sergeants, and two civilians were arrested at Gen. Velarde's house on Saturday. Several other persons were arrested at other places, including Brigadier Fillacampa. The government has for some time been aware that a conspiracy has been hatched for a military uprising similar to that which took place in August last. Many more persons were arrested to-day, including Moran, secretary for Zarilla, a priest, fourteen sergeants, and three other army officers. The Government has forbidden a proposed Communistic banquet and public serenade in honor of Portuondo, a Democratic deputy. The Government believes the plot is widespread, but the arrest of the leaders and the precautions taken in every garrison will prevent the rising.

AN ESCAPE FROM PRISON.

A Gaoler Killed and a Turnkey fatally Wounded—A Recapture.

WINDSOR, March 16.—This morning about 8 o'clock Kennedy and O'Callaghan, the two prisoners confined in Sandwich gaol for robbing the Harrow post-office a short time ago, shot and killed Gaoler Leech and probable fatally wounded Turnkey Davis and made their escape. They proceeded east from the gaol until they reached the Catholic church between Windsor and Sandwich, where they appropriated a horse and buggy belonging to a man who was attending early mass.

Kennedy was captured on board the Walkerville ferry boat, just about to cross to Detroit. He had procured a suit supposed to be an old suit belonging to a railroad man, or one of the men employed in the cattle sheds of Messrs. Walker & Sons. O'Callaghan, who shot Gaoler Leech, is still at large, and is supposed to be hiding in or around the outskirts of Windsor or Walkerville. The country is being scoured by the whole Windsor police force and citizens of Sandwich, Windsor and Walkerville, assisted by a large number of farmers.

It is claimed by Kennedy that Gaoler Leech shot O'Callaghan, and when Kennedy and he parted between Windsor and Walkerville O'Callaghan was so weak from loss of blood that he could go no farther, and that he crawled over a board fence into a yard, and that he was probably dead, but although a thorough search has been made no trace has been found of him up to 5 p.m.

The manner of the delivery was as follows, as near as can be ascertained:—The gaoler and turnkey were standing at the corridoor door while one of the prisoners was sweeping out the cells, when O'Callaghan suddenly rushed at the door and pushed it open so suddenly and with such force as to knock the gaoler and turnkey down. He then came out into the corridor and was shot by gaoler Leech. Then he turned and fired two shots at the gaoler, killing him instantly. He then got the keys and passed them into the other corridor to Kennedy, who unlocked the door and came out into the corridor and knocked the turnkey down and pounded him with a bottle that was on the stove. The two then walked out into the passage way leading to the street, one carrying the revolver and the other the bottle. The matron gave the alarm and parties saw them going away, but could not capture them. The deputy-turnkey followed them up to Windsor, where he went to the police station to get help.

THE HIGH PARK COLLISION.

Purely Accidental—The Locomotive Breaks Away While Ascending a Grade.

The collision was the result of various causes, and was purely accidental. On the track between Hamilton and Toronto, three freight trains followed each other on their way to Toronto. The distance between them was in keeping with the rules of the company. They all passed Mimico safely. From the Queen street crossing to the Exhibition grounds there is a steep grade, and up this the first train was toiling when, without any previous warning, the coupling pin connecting the freight cars to the locomotive broke, and the long train of heavily laden cars rushed back down the grade at a terific pace. The brakemen were in their places in an instant, and put on brakes so effectually that the runaway was brought to a standstill a few yards on the Toronto side of the High Park station. The second train had been signalled and was stopped a short distance away. The locomotive of the first train having backed down was again connected, and this time succeed in reaching Toronto without any mishap befalling it. The collision occurred between the second and third trains. Before the train that had been interrupted in its passage could be got under way again, the hindermost train rushed around the curve between the bolt factory and Mr. Howard's gate. It was signalled to stop, but the impetus of the down grade was too great, and it crashed into the caboose of the standing train with a terrible force, the locomotive carrying everything before it as far forward as three cars. These and the engine were totally demolished. The engineer and fireman of the last train jumped for their lives when they found that it would be impossible for them to avert the disaster, and both received serious injuries. The engineer was cut in several places on the head, more or less seriously injured about the body while the fireman received a broken nose, and is badly bruised on the head and shoulders. The damage is estimated at about $25,000. The midnight express was signalled at Mimico, just in the nick of time. As it neared the station the red light was being displayed, and the driver observed the danger signal and stopped his train. Learning the cause of his detention he moved along cautiously and stopped about fifty yards west of the wreck. The passengers were obliged to wait until two o'clock on Saturday morning, and were then transferred to a passenger train that had been sent out from Toronto to their relief, and were brought in.

A Dynamite Scare.

OTTAWA, March 16.—There were rumours around to-night that information had been received that an attempt would be made to blow up the Parliament buildings. When they started and where seems shrouded in the usual mystery, but it seemed to have the effect of driving the members out of the Commons chamber, for at half past eight there was only one member in the chamber, and he was a deaf man who evidently had not heard the report. The members of the press stood their ground however. It is reported that some of the officials and their wives left the building last evening. A close scrutiny was undoubtedly kept this evening over all persons entering the building.

Poison's Nerviline.

Hundreds who have experienced the wonderful power of Nerviline in subduing pain have testified that it is the most potent remedy in existence. Nerviline is equally efficacious as an internal or an external remedy. Poison's Nerviline cures flatulence, chills, spasms, cholera, cramps, headache, sea sickness, summer complaints, &c., &c. NEW REVOLUTIONARY PAPER.

ST. PETERSBURG March 15—The first number of a paper called Swobodnaje Slowa or Free Speech, has appeared at St. Petersburg. It summons the youth of Russia to oppose the despotic form of government. It says the Russian State machine is rapidly decaying, discontent is increasing among all classes, revolutionary ideas are spreading everywhere, even in the army. The day of victory is approaching. The paper strongly deprecates terrorism, and favours the union of all branches of Socialists, who, it says, should pursue the desired end by moral energy, not by brute force.

Sad Case of Self-Destruction.

About seven o'clock on Sunday morning the dead body of a well dressed man, apparently about forty years of age, was found in the coach house in the rear of a house in Yonge street, Toronto. It was lying on the floor, and across the throat was a deep gash. One hand was on the breast and the other was extended out, while beneath it lay, covered with blood, a pocket knife, which had fallen from the grasp of the unfortunate man in his dying agonies. Coroner Johnson was notified of the suicide, and on looking at the body decided not to hold an inquest, and ordered its removal to the Morgue. Nothing could be found to identify the body. In the vest pocket was a silver American lever watch and gold chain. The timepiece had stopped at 12.20, and was in good order, which showed that the act was not the hasty deed of a moment, as the man had evidently neglected to wind up his watch being determined to end his life. He must have entered the premises after twelve o'clock on Saturday night as if he had done so before that time he would have been noticed. It was rumoured that the name of the deceased was Lindsay, but it was impossible to verify the statement. The body is unknown to the police and detectives, but may probably be identified by friends or relatives.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

THE GRAND TRUNK TRACK.

THAT the bill enabling the Grand Trunk Railway to raise money to double track its line has passed through the Railway Committee, is a matter for satisfaction. It certainly is very desirable that with the rapidly growing commerce of Canada, and especially of the Province of Ontario, more adequate means of transport should be provided, suitable not only to the requirements of the present, but also to the certain needs of the immediate future. Even with the speedy completion of a competing route the accommodation afforded will be by no means too much for the wants of the public in a very short time, and it must be remembered that additional facilities for business of themselves have a strong tendency to increase that business. At present there is certainly not sufficient means of transport between Toronto and Montreal for the freight that converges at both those cities, and that crowds to excess the single line between them. No more effectual relief from this glut could be afforded than the double tracking of the Grand Trunk Railway between them. It will also have the good effect of expediting travel, for rapid transit is almost impossible on a single line, and it will certainly very greatly diminish the danger from collisions, of which we have lately had such terrible experience.

The passage of the bill through the Railway Committee was not accomplished without difficulties arising, but these have fortunately been removed after some little friction. The chief objection raised was to the creating of an additional debt that would rank before the claims of Canada upon the Grand Trunk. The members, fresh from a prolonged and hot discussion as to the sufficiency of the security for an advance to one great railway company, were not unnaturally disposed to scrutinize rather keenly the effect of the measure upon our security for a previous advance to another great company. When, however, it was shown clearly by the promoters that by the proposed readjustment of a portion of their debt they could obtain the required funds with a trifling addition to their outgoings for interest, and would greatly increase the earning powers of the line so as to improve the chances of a dividend upon the sum for which Canada has a lien upon the road, the matter presented a very different appearance, and assent was readily granted. There was also the additional inducement that the Great Western Branch would be included in the property covered by the lien.

Another important point raised was that there was no certainty of the application of the additional capital to the construction of the proposed double track. This also was provided for, and therefore with unimpaired security the country gains the benefit of the double track with its increased accommodation, speed and safety.

In regard to our own locality this change, though not extending immediately to Peterborough, benefits us directly by facilitating our connections eastward over the Grand Trunk, and indirectly by the favourable results it will have upon the business of the Province at large. At all events Peterborough has every reason to be satisfied with its railway prospects in the near future as probably being unsurpassed by any other town in the Province. We will be at a crossing point of the two great competing lines that will soon traverse the country from east to west. We will be on a very important route, which connecting most directly the Georgian Bay and the Bay of Quinte, will necessarily secure a large share of the transport of the products of the great plains of the North-West on both sides of the international line. By means of the extension of the North-e n to Callender, as an independent line, and we hope its continued independence will be most carefully preserved, we will have connection with the main line north of Lake Superior of our great transcontinental railway. Finally we are the very centre of a network of local lines giving us access to a wide extent of country in many directions. Peterborough will certainly have no cause to complain of the lack of railway facilities.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The O. & Q.—The High Commissioner—The Reformers Opposed to Their Old Precedents, and to the Authorities on Parliamentary Law—Sir Charles Tupper Relieved from Jealous Attacks.

THE O. & Q.

Mr. HAGGART moved that his name be substituted for that of Mr. Abott as the promoter of the bill to confirm the lease of the O. & Q. to the C.P.R. Though Mr. Abbott had a right to move he wished to avoid the delay caused by the Opposition.

Mr. BLAKE said the motion was out of order.

The SPEAKER ruled that it was in order and the motion passed.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONERSHIP.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Independence of Parliament Act to remove doubts that had been raised, it was enacted that acceptance of an office without emolument did not vacate a seat in the House. This was the meaning of the statute, but it had been disputed so it was now set at rest. There was a special clause as to the case of Sir C. Tupper. It was not really necessary but it followed the precedents set in 1867 in the case of Mr. Macdonald the Queen's Printer in Nova Scotia, and in 1877 by the bill introduced by Mr. Mackenzie when premier. He proposed that after the second reading the bill should be referred to the Election Committee.

Mr. MACKENZIE said it was an extraordinary course. The facts should be submitted to the Committee for them to report a bill.

Mr. CAMERON (Huron) was grossly abusive. He pretended that the bill was imprecedented, as if he had not just heard the precedent's given.

Mr. GIROUARD rebuked the previous speaker. Sir C. Tupper's appointment being without salary did not legally vacate the seat. He spoke of the valuable services Sir Charles had rendered as our High Commissioner.

Mr. LISTER said the government might be excused for indemnifying Sir Charles but none for confirming him in his seat. He declared this was an outrage on the electors of Cumberland, as if he or any other Reformer would venture to contest the constituency with Sir Charles.

Mr. MILLS broached the absurdity that when Sir Charles Tupper occupied the office he took it subject to the terms of the statute, though his commission especially provided that he should have no salary.

Mr. HECTOR CAMERON (Victoria) in the couse of his remarks in favour of the bill invited attention to Mr. Mackenzie's white-washing bill in 1877.

Mr. MACKENZIE insisted that his measure was to indemnify those who had violated the law "unwillingly," but Sir Charles Tupper had offended knowingly and deliberately or he would vote to indemnify him also. Besides he had not legislated to confirm members in their seats.

Mr. BEATTY quoted Todd, an indisputable authority in such matters, to show that a member did not vacate his seat by accepting an office to which a salary was attached if he was not to receive the salary, so Sir Charles' seat was not forfeited. The statute did not deprive the Crown of its right to appoint a commissioner without salary.

Mr. DAVIS repeated the assertion against the bill.

Mr. CHAPLEAU warmly defended Sir Charles from the attacks that had been made upon him. The Independence Act had been passed to prevent the subsidizing of members, but there was no such danger to the country from the Crown appointing a minister to a semi-diplomatic position.

Mr. O'BRIEN though he would support the bill, thought that it would have been better if Sir Charles had offered himself to his constituents for re-election, which would have been quite certain.

Mr. WELDON supported the measure, and Mr. Brecken opposed it.

The second reading was carried by 105 to 56.

The bill was then referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Sir C. TUPPER entering the House soon after was received with an outburst of cordial applause.

A. C. P. R. BRANCH.

The bill to confirm the lease of the O. & Q. to the C. P. R., passed through committee and was read a third time.

Its passing was then deferred to obtain the formal consent of the Crown to the first clause.

A GRAND TRUNK BRANCH.

The bill to authorize the transfer of the Welland Railway to the Grand Trunk passed through Committee.

The bill of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway also passed through Committee.

AN INTERCOLONIAL BRANCH.

Sir C. TUPPER moved the House into committee to consider the resolution to authorize the acquisition for the Dominion from the Government of Nova Scotia of the Eastern Extension Railway from New Glasgow to the Gut of Canso and the steam ferry in connection therewith, together with the right of the province in the Truro & Pictou Branch Railway. After remarks from Messrs. Vail, Mitchell, Woodworth and Blake, the House went into committee and adopted the resolutions.

The Pocahontas Colliery Explosion.

POCAHONTAS, Va., March 14.—The mines are still burning. The only means of putting out the fire is to seal them up. This is now being done, and the mines will remain closed two weeks. No bodies have been recovered.

LYNCHBURG, March. 14. The scene about the entrance of the main drift is one of ruin and destruction. The entrance is entirely torn out, and scattered hundreds of feet. The little train is torn and twisted, and the cars taken up bodily and torn in part, their iron wheels broken and shivered and thrown three and four hundred feet away. There is no probability that a single soul of one hundred and fifty can survive. One of the mangled bodies discovered has been identified as that of M. J. Hampton, night foreman. The churches and houses in Pocahontas are draped in mourning, and business is entirely suspended.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—The superintendent of the Pocahontas mine telegraphs here that he will make a desperate attempt to get in to-night. The indications are that the mine is on fire. No lives can be saved, as no one can live in the atmosphere inside. The bodies cannot be recovered unless the mine is sealed and the fire smothered.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D. Tully.

TELEGRAPH COMPANIES.

THE following clause in the charter of the Canada Pacific Railway Company undoubtedly gives it power to go into the telegraph business for the general public:—

"The company may construct, maintain and work a continuous telegraph line and telephone lines throughout and along the whole line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, or any part thereof, and may also construct or acquire by purchase, lease or otherwise, any other line or lines of telegraph connecting with the line so to be constructed along the line of the said railway, and may undertake the transmission of messages for the public by any such line or lines of telegraph or telephone, and collect tolls for so doing; or may lease such line or lines of telegraph or telephone, or any portion thereof; and if they think proper to undertake the transmission of messages for hire, they shall be subject to the provisions of the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth sections of chapter sixty-seven of the consolidated statutes of Canada. And they may use any improvement that may hereafter be invented (subject to the rights of patentees) for telegraphing or telephoning, and any other means of communication that may be deemed expedient by the company at any time hereafter."

A Shame to Canada.

The Montreal Herald, a Reform journal, but one that sets country before party, says:—

"Suppose the Liberal party of Canada called upon to assume the duties of government at an early day, with the Globe's encouragement of North-West dissension and discord, with the Globe as an organ of the malcontents, with hopes and expectations in regard to 'concessions' to the North-West unduly raised, in what position would a Liberal Government find itself? But supposing that the Globe's efforts were successful, and that a full blown secession movement was under way in Manitoba, as is really desired by the Globe, where would a Liberal Government be? It would be responsible for maintaining the territory of the Dominion in its integrity, responsible for emigration to the North-West and generally for the prosperity of the Northwest, as well as responsible for the peace of that country. Would not the Globe's policy, if successful, place fearful burthens on that Government as well as on the country? Would it not bring incalculable shame to the Government as well as misfortune on the people of Canada?"

American Pork in Germany.

ST. LOUIS, March 14.—The German consuls in the United State have received a despatch from Bismarck regarding the prohibition of American pork. Bismarck instructs them to do everything in their power to cultivate friendly relations between Germany and the United States. He says the prohibition of American pork arose altogether from sanitary reasons, and has no unfriendly character whatever.

The Summer is Come.

The birds are with us once more. Nature garbed in the brightest green brings joy to those who hate the cold and dreariness of winter. But summer brings with her many other things besides green fields and singing birds. Corns sprout and grow just as if mother earth had a share in nurturing them, and no person wants them. Go, then, to Ormond and Walsh, the nearest drug store and buy a bottle of the great and only sure corn cure—Putman's Painless Corn Extractor. A few days will relieve you of them. N. C. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

Cured Free.

Any reader troubled with Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Liver Complaint, etc., should call at John McKee's Drug Store, and secure a trial bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure at once which will convince you of the merits of the medicine. It cures permanently where all other medicines failed. As a blood purifier it has no equal. Remember it costs nothing to try it. Regular size, fifty cents and one dollar.

Fluid Lightning

Is the only instantaneous relief for Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, &c. Rubbing a few drops briskly is all that is needed. No taking nauseous medicines for weeks, but one minute's application Lightning. Twenty-five cents per bottle at John McKee's Drug Store.

The Greatest Healing Compound

Is a preparation of carbolic acid, vaseline and cerate called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store, and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.—A little son of John Spinks, Toronto, had his foot crushed by a G. T.R. Express train some time ago. Two doctors attended him without benefit, and amputation was proposed, but Hagyard's Yellow Oil was tried, which give prompt relief and effected a speedy cure, even removing all stiffness of the joint.

DANGER TRAPS.—Neglecting colds are the fatal traps that ensnare many a victim beyond possibility of rescue. Take a cold or cough in time and it is easily conquered by that safe and pleasant vegetable remedy, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Asthma, Bronchitis and pulmonary complaints generally soon yield to its healing influence.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION.

Mr. G. W. Ross on Friday stated in reply to Mr. Harcourt, that it was intended to make provision for a suitable theoretical and practical course of professional training of High School teachers as recommended by the teachers themselves at their annual meeting, but that he could not undertake it this year. He hoped to do so next session.

UNIVERSITY SENATE.

Mr. G. W. Ross introduced a bill to allow High School masters to elect an additional representative to the Senate of Toronto University, and to extend the privilege, now only enjoyed by head masters, to all High School teachers. He also proposed to enlarge the powars of convocation.

Mr. MEREDITH suggested that Public School teachers should also be represented.

Mr. Ross thought it was too large a subject for him to consider.

RAILWAY JURISDICTION.

Mr. CASCADEN moved for a return of the Provincial railways assumed by the Dominion in 1883, with their mileage, and the amounts of the Provincial and Municipal grants.

Mr. MEREDITH moved to add, and which of said railways is now operated and managed by Dominion railroads.

Mr. HARDY objected to the amendment.

Mr. FRASER said it would delay the return which otherwise could be brought down at once and they should not be coupled.

The amendment was lost and the motion carried.

Mr. MEREDITH's amendment was then carried as a substantive motion.

TEACHERS' SUPERANNUATION.

Mr. BISHOP moved for the names of teachers on the superannuation list, the date of superannuation, amount received, place of abode, and by whom recommended.

Mr. MEREDITH asked if the Act was interpreted to mean those incapacitated for teaching only or for other business also.

Mr. ROSS said he was not aware of anyone being improperly on the list. He would make enquiries.

THUNDER BAY TIMBER.

Mr. MEREDITH moved for a return as to Thunder Bay timber limits, area disposed of, receipts, &c.

Mr. PARDEE said an order-in-Council had been passed as to timber required by the C.P.R. Then a local demand arose and another order was passed.

TOWNSHIP BOUNDARIES.

Mr. MCCRANEY moved for a select committee to enquire as to the expediency of exempting Township boundary lines from the Statute of Limitations.

After some discussion the motion was carried.

DETECTING CRIME.

Mr. BALFOUR moved for a return as to the efficiency of the present means for detecting crime and bringing the offenders to justice. He thought there was a strong feeling in favour of a Provincial constabulary.

Mr. MOWAT thought it was advisable, but at present he had no definite suggestion to offer.

Mr. MEREDITH thought the matter should be left to the municipalities. In some localities the inefficiency of the magistracy was the cause of much evil.

HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICTS.

Mr. FRENCH moved to draw the attention of the Government to the discriminating legislation as to high schools in municipalities separated from the counties. The counties did not support the high schools in such cases.

Mr. BALFOUR opposed this as counties should not be made to pay to support town schools. The townships interested could assist if they choose.

Mr. MULHOLLAND thought an injustice was done to separate towns in this matter.

Mr. METCALF supported the motion.

Mr. Preston, Mr. Ferris and Mr. Brereton supported.

Mr. ROBILLARD said the towns had the remedy of charging fees.

Mr. ROSS said that there was some justice in this claim of the separated towns. The formation of High School districts was now allowed but it had not been done and he would consider the question of making it obligatory.

Mr. CARNEGIE thought that if High School districts were obligatory portions of the counties required, High School accommodation should be left out.

Mr. FRENCH withdrew his motion.

BANK DEPOSITS.

Mr. ROSS (Huron) in reply to Mr. Carnegie said that the amount of special deposits and interests in the bank since Jan. 1st was $716,781 of which he gave the separate amounts deposited.

DITCHES AND WATER COURSES.

Mr. WATER's act as to ditches and water courses passed through committee, after being amended so that an owner through whose land a drain would pass need not go to the expense if he let the drain stop on his land.

TRICK AND DEVICE.

The Mowat Government proposes to continue governing the Province by trick and device. It is impossible for it to proceed in a straightforward way to most objects desired to be compassed, but it sidles up to them like Mr Flintwinch. One of its dodges—the word is deliberately used—is to prevent by trick proper scrutiny of expenditures. The Opposition is generally supposed to watch the treasury and to expose improper items in the public accounts. But practically the opportunity to do so is refused. The public accounts are brought down so late in the session that the hurry of business prevents a proper examination of them. The accounts of 1882 were not examined till this year, when, of course, it is difficult to get at facts or to procure proper explanation.

This year the Legislature was called together at an unusually early date. That in itself was a trick. No business was ready; there was nothing to do; day after day the House met, went through the form of transacting a little unimportant business, and adjourned. Day after day the accounts and estimates were promised, but they came not; day after day important measures announced were inquired for, but always the questions were evaded and generally the questioners were insulted. At last the accounts came down, and then it might be supposed the committee would get to work. But no; necessary papers were withheld, and when they were ready the committee was found without a quorum, or was not called together. Now Mr. Mowat finds it necessary to have the House meet at 11 o'clock each day, and refuses to let the committee be called together earlier than 10 o'clock. Of course no proper investigation is made in a few sittings of an hour's length; and it is to be presumed that all manner of obstructions will be placed in the way of examination during the few short sessions which may be had.

Ministers know very well that their books will not bear investigation. And they think by delaying examination, baffling inquiry, and delaying meetings, they will thwart the efforts of the Opposition to bring the facts to light.—Hamilton Spectator.

TORONTO.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE L. AND S. SOCIETY.—The University College Literary and Scientific Society held its 130th public debate on Friday evening in Convocation hall. The room was crowded to its utmost capacity. Prof. Goldwin Smith occupied the chair. The University Glee Club opened the proceedings.

BURGLARY ON SPADINA AVENUE.—The residence of Mr. W. J. McMaster, corner of Spadina avenue and Morris street, was visited by burglars at an early hour on Friday morning, and property to the value of over $1,000 carried off. The thieves obtained an entrance by forcing open a window at the rear.

LUNG DISEASE IN THE WEST END.—During the past week or so there has been an extraordinary increase of affections of the lungs in the western part of the city. One well-known medical practitioner has had no less than fifteen cases of acute inflammation of the lungs in his practice within the past few days, and all of them severe. Another practitioner states that eight cases have been attended to by him within the same period.

FREE LIBARY BOARD.—The Finance Committee estimated the expenses for the current year at $20,103, but expected that the income from rents and the grant from the Government would reduce the figure to $17,428. The report was adopted with the amendments already noted. The Library Committee presented its report recommending the purchase, for $610, of a valuable collection of books on Canadian history, travel and topography, which was offered for sale by Mr. A. Piddington. The report was adopted.

KINGSTON.

BUILDING A CHURCH.—The brock street Presbyterians have decided to rebuild their church and make of it a handsome structure.

THE NEW FREIGHT ROUTE.—On Friday ten car-loads of grain left for New York via the Kingston and Pembroke, and this morning a quantity of potatoes arrived from Ottawa via the same road, the first freight of the kind from that city.

THE NEW CENTRAL SCHOOL.—It has at last been decided to have the central school built in the city, which will be ready by Christmas. The schools are so overcrowded that parents are preventing their children from attending.

A BONUS CALLED.—Mr. Rathbun will ask a bonus of $40,000 from Kingston to ensure his building a connection between the Napanee and Tamworth and Kingston Pembroke roads between Yarker and Verona, so as to secure the trade of the black country for Kingston. He will not require the last half of the bonus till the second link between the Napanee and Tamworth and the Midland system is constructed.

OMEMEE.

DIED ON THE ROAD.—On Tuesday afternoon while Mr. John Faulkner, of Emily, was on his way to Omemee with a load of wood and when nearing the top of Crawford's hill he dropped dead. The supposition is, that feeling unwell he stopped the horses, got off the load and unhitched them from the sleighs, probably with the intention of returning home on horseback, when he sat down and fell over dead. Some months ago, while working on the Ontario and Quebec railway, he met with a very serious accident by falling off a high load of ties, one of which struck him on the back of the head, which no doubt was the cause of his untimely end. Deceased leaves a wife and a number of children to mourn his loss.—Herald.

SMITH.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHEESE FACTORY.—A large and influential meeting of the patrons of the "Normanhurst Cheese Factory," south line of Smith, was held in the factory building on Thursday evening, March 13th, for the election of officers and the transaction of other business, Mr. Andrew Young occupying the chair. The following was the result of the election:—Directors, Messrs. Joseph Milburn, G. Scothard; W. Simpson, salesman; Treasurer, Mr. Andrew Young; Secretary, Mr. Wm. McEwan. Although this is the first season there is every prospect of this factory being a good one during the ensuing year. The management of it has been placed in the hands of Mr. Wm. Deeprose, late of the Cherry Grove Factory.

Floods in the States.

HELENA, Ark., March 14.—There are two ugly breaks in Laconia circle levee, inundating 18,000 acres of the finest cotton land in the State. The levees around the circle were built by the land-owners, who have since the war expended two hundred thousand dollars in maintaining them.

STARKWELL, Miss., March 14.—Whitfield, 18 miles west of here, suffered terribly from the hurricane of Tuesday. Houses, barns, and fences were blown away and a large number of cows killed. Some of the latter were blown a quarter of a mile.

NEW ORLEANS, March 14.—The grand levee is reported broken this evening. It is situated in Point Coupee parish, on the west side of the river, protecting probably the richest sugar producing section in the State. The water will overflow the Texas Pacific track. Many miles of the levee were built by the State last year at a cost of $67,000. If the whole levee is gone a volume of water a mile wide and ten feet deep will pour out of the Mississippi at that point.

A DELEGATION of representative brewers had an interview on Friday with a sub-committee of the Privy Council. They drew attention to the fact that liquor in the strongest form of alcohol is surreptitiously introduced into Scott Act counties, resulting in the diminished consumption of ale and beer. They asked for more stringent preventative regulations.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, MARCH 17, 1884.

LOCAL NEWS

Police News.

Another blank at the Court this morning, and the police report that quietness reigned since last report. Three tramps rested in the cells on Saturday night, and three last night.

The Concert To-Night.

The Concert in Bradburn's Opera House this evening will commence precisely at 8 o'clock. As the programme is a long one this will be necessary. There is every indication that it will be a success. Mr. Chas. Kelly has a reputation as a vocalist that should of itself be sufficient to attract a large audience, and the best local talent has been secured.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Winds veering from west to northwest; fair to cloudy weather with local showers; decidedly higher temperatures during the day and cooler again at night.

Counterfeit Coin.

Merchants and others cannot be too careful in handling money. Counterfeit twenty-five and fifty cent pieces are in circulation, and they should be watched for. Last week a young lady sold some butter on the market and received for it four spurious twenty-five cent pieces, and a grocer had a bad fifty cent piece and a quarter passed off in his store. In other places spurious coin has been detected, and there appears to be quite an amount of it in circulation.

Lundy's-Lindsay Block.

The Lindsay Post says:—

The improvements going on for some time on Lunday's block on William st. are about completed. The work has been well and neatly done under the direction of the builder in charge of the work, Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald of Peterborough. The effect has been to transform the premises, which, owing to damages by fire had been unoccupied for some years, into a handsome terrace of six comfortable and well-arranged houses. These will no doubt be occupied as soon as 'moving time' sets in."

New Spring Goods.

The choicest display of New Spring Prints, Sateens and Dress Goods are to be seen at W. Fairweather & Co's. What surprises every lady is their Colored Dress Cashmeres at 30c., a marvel of cheapness. The stock contains the richest Silks, Velvets, Brocades, Evening Dress Silks and Satins, from 25c. to $1.00. Dress Goods from 10c. up. Prices are lower than ever known in the trade here. W. Fairweather & Co. guarantee everything they advertise.

Swimming Bath.

Dr. Sproule's letter urging the establishment of baths, has called forth a second letter to the same effect, and is happily exciting public interest in the matter. Such baths should not only be advised for bathing purposes, but should also be of a sufficient size for swimming. There would be no great difficult, nor enormous expense in this, and there would be every prospect of the speculation being handsomely remunerative. Apart from sanitary considerations, it is only right that in a community where so many go upon the water for business or pleasure, that swimming should be made more generally practiced than it is. Is there no one enterprising enough to take up this matter before the season is too far advanced?

MAY WOMEN PREACH?

REV. A. H. MUNRO DISCOURSES ON THE SUBJECT IN THE BAPTIST CHURCH

An Explanation of the Scriptural Commands—They were not Intended for all Time and Women May Preach.

In accordance with the announcement previously made, the Rev. A. H. Munro, of the Baptist Church, on Sunday evening preached on the subject, "May Women Preach?" There appeared to have been a deep interest taken in the subject, as there was a large congregation present. The rev. gentlemen chose for his text the following passages:—

"Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law."—1 Corinthians xiv., 34.

"Let the women learn in silence with all subjection. But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence."—1 Timothy ii., 11-12.

The Christian religion, the speaker said, was a religion of consecration. Its aim was to restore and to devote everything to its HIGHEST AND BEST USE.

Anything not devoted to its best use was abused or perverted from its proper application. The fundamental idea of religion was that all things belonged to God and should be devoted to His service. Anything was properly employed when it was used to promote the Gospel or things in harmony with it, and anything so used would itself be benefitted thereby and sometimes turned from a curse into a blessing. This was the case with wealth, which, when not consecrated to God, might be a curse to its possessor. Religion had given to the great works of great men a perfection that they would not have attained but for its ennobling influence. This was shown in the works of architects, painters, sculptors, and poets. There were which kept persons from devoting everything entirely to God. These barriers, depravity and want of faith, existed in each one of us, but if they were wise they would submit themselves and all things to the Lord.

ERRONEOUS RELIGIOUS IDEAS

were another barrier in the way. By the Jewish law some things were set apart to be specially devoted to God, and this was done to show that all things belonged to Him. The Jew, however, fell into the erroneous idea that everything else belonged entirely to himself, to do with as he wished. Much of this feeling had descended to us, but it was wrong. Although the Sabbath day was set apart to be spent in worship, God cared just as much what they did with an hour of any other day. The Bible acknowledged no such division of life as the religious and secular life of a person, for they were to do all things "to the glory of God." Another hindrance to the worship of God was

PREJUDICE.

Some persons imagined that nothing beautiful or pleasure giving should be used in divine worship. There existed at one time a strong prejudice against singing in the church, and when this was overcome a prejudice against instrumental music was encountered. Similar prejudices were met in the cases of improved churches, the substitution of the central platform for the ridiculous thing they called a pulpit, Bible and Tract societies, and all innovations. Was the objection to women preaching in the churches a prejudice? With some persons it was and with others it was not. Some persons believed that the New Testament forbade women to speak at religious meetings and there was

SOME GROUND FOR THIS BELIEF.

Those passages which he had taken for his text appeared to forbid women to speak in religious meetings until the end of the world, if not more than that. But did these passages really prohibit women from speaking for all time? If so, it would be a violation of what he had said in regard to everything being consecrated to its highest and best use. Women were inferior to men in some respects, but they were in others. It was also true that men had more faith in women's goodness than they had in that of their own sex. A woman would touch the heart as a man could not. The mightiest power on earth that a bad man could meet was a good woman. He gave instances where the vilest men had been touched and subdued by the influence of good, consecrated women. Then did the Bible prohibit what the Holy Spirit inspired and sanctioned under the old dispensation and the new? He referred to instances in the Bible of women who prophecied, and performed public duties, as Deborah, Huldah, Anna and Mary. Among the hundred and twenty assembled on the day of Pentecost, after Jesus' ascension, were women, and it was said that they were "all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak." The Prophet Joel, looking forward to that day, had said: "And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit on all flesh, and your sons and your your old men dreams dreams, and your young men visions: and also upon my servants and my handmaids in those days will I pour out my spirit." He referred to Rhoda's speaking at the religious meeting where Peter went when he escaped from prison, to Priscilla, and to Paul's soliciting help for the women who labored with him. All were equal in Christ. It was difficult to reconcile these things with the deduction some drew from the passages in the text. These were the only two passages in the Bible that gave any hint of such a prohibition and they were both addressed to Christians living in heathen communities. The command was on account of the condition of women in these communities. The women in Pagan Society were divided into two classes. There were the wives and mothers, who were uneducated and very domestic, and who never went to public meetings, except one or two appointed services. There was another class, who were educated, and went to public meetings, and took part in the discussions. Many of these were, and all of them were supposed to be, of loose character. No woman could go to public meetings or take part in them without loss of reputation. The two classes never mingled with each other, and the domestic class were treated with profound respect. The city of Corinth was the most dissolute city in the world. To this city Paul went and preached. A church was formed, its female members saw that the Christian religion elevated them, and they rejoiced. They attended the meetings and took part in them. When this was noised abroad public opinion was shocked, and the women and the religion were lightly spoken of. A false idea was thus given of Christianity. It was no matter for wonder, then, that Paul wrote so peremptorily on this point as he did. It was and was only encumbent on them now so far as their circumstances resembled those of the communities to which the commands were addressed. Then if the texts were to be literally understood women could not be in the choirs, or take part in the singing, as the command in Corinthians was for them to be silent. In the epistle to Timothy they were forbidden to teach, and if this was to be literally understood and applied, women could not teach in the Sunday Schools, or day schools and colleges, and could not give religious instruction in the family. The prohibition was intended only for peculiar circumstances. It should not be rigidly enforced nor indiscriminately applied. Women were now allowed to teach in the schools, act on the stage, sing and read without reproach, but with reward and fame. It was only when a woman preached that a word was said. The objection came from public sentiment and feeling, but a change was taking place. The women should be patient until the time came when there would be no objection from public opinion to their speaking in meetings. Every enlightened Christian should agree with him that every man and woman should do all that they could for the cause of religion by consecrating every talent and power to God.

SUPERIOR TO MEN

DAUGHTERS SHALL PROPHECY,

NECESSARY WHERE IT WAS GIVEN

The sermon was very attentively listened to throughout, and no doubt the synopsis of it which we have given will be read with interest.

STRAY SHOTS.

Notes of the Saved Army and their Meetings and Sayings.

It is becoming monotonous to say that there was a large attendance at the Saved Army meetings, as they are always largely attended.

The meetings on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon and evening were very successful.

A silver collection was taken up at the door on Saturday evening. It realized better than the collections taken up in the ordinary way, but, in the words of an officer, "it might have been better."

The Rev. Mr. McCrea, of Cobourg, addressed the meeting on Sunday evening, as did also the Rev. John Shaw.

A children's meeting was held on Saturday, afternoon at 3 o'clock, which was conducted by Lieut. Willis. There were about 400 children present, who appeared to be greatly interested. These meetings will be held every Saturday afternoon at 3.30.

The Army have, to make use of their manner of expressing it, "won 85 souls," since they came to Peterborough.

Lieut. Munt went home to Cobourg this morning, to remain for a few days. His health was so poorly that he was compelled to seek rest.

Capt. Willis went to Port Hope this morning to see about a supply of hymn books for the meetings here.

There will be no meeting to-night, as the Opera House is otherwise engaged.

Lieut. Willis, in conversation with our reporter to-day, said that the officers were very pleased with the order maintained at the meetings. In fact, considering the large numbers who were present each night, she thought the good order astonishing.

Lieut. Willis also said that the Captain and herself did not usually remain in one town longer than three weeks. However, they expected to stay in Peterborough three months.

BATHING HOUSES.

To the Editor of The Review.

SIR,—I was pleased to see a letter from Dr. Sproule in your daily issue a few days ago in reference to the question of taking some steps to have bathing houses established in Peterborough. About one year ago I penned a letter which you kindly inserted in the columns of the Review urging the public to do something in this direction, Mr. E. B. Edwards was the only one who took the matter into consideration, and offered a few hints in its behalf. Now Dr. Sproule has set the ball rolling, and I hope the public, or perhaps a private company will immediately go to work and do something to accomplish this great necessity. There is not the slightest doubt but what they will be well patronized, for the fact is notorious that there is not a spot along the river where a bather could take his daily bath without running the chance of being "nabbed" by the police for exposing his person in a public place and brought before a magistrate and fined because he complied with Nature's call to keep himself clean. Hoping something will be done in the matter,

I remain,
Yours etc.,
"CITIZEN.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 1884.

STARTLING CHARGES

THE Legislative Assembly and the people of Toronto were electrified last night by the report that two arrests had been made for attempts to bribe members of the Provincial Legislature, and by the Speaker counting out the money received by two members and handed to him for this purpose. The persons arrested were M. J. A. Wilkinson and a Mr. Kirkland, a citizen of the United States.

Our report of the proceedings in the House will show the steps that were taken in the matter, and the anxiety of both parties for a searching investigation.

There will be general sympathy with the condemnation of the conduct of Mr. Mowat in bringing unsupported charges against a gentleman whom they did not venture to include in the arrest. The greater the charge, and it would be difficult to exaggerate the gravity in this case, the greater should be the care not to bring charges lightly. The great object of the Ministry seemed to be not to support the honor of the House, not to prevent a crime, but to make political capital.

Such an accusation must be thoroughly investigated, and the whole matter probed to its very depth, that the guilty, whoever they are, may not escape their due punishment for such an offence. Every facility should be given for the fullest enquiry. The Conservative party will, we are certain, countenance no attempts to imitate the Reform tactics in throwing every possible obstacle in the way of the investigation of equally corrupt conduct by Reform leaders and officials in Algoma. Let all such corruption be investigated without shrinking and punished without leniency, that if there are individual offenders the public honor of our country may be preserved.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

An Attempt to Corrupt Members—The Money Counted out by the Speaker Before the House—The Matter Referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

The following is a continuation of Friday's proceedings:—

COUNTY COURT JURISDICTION.

MR. MEREDITH moved the second reading of his bill as to County Courts. The extension of the Division Court jurisdiction has lessened the business of the County Courts, and their jurisdiction also might be extended. This would relieve the pressure of work in the Superior Courts, and would decentralize and cheapen the administration of justice. He would extend the jurisdiction in personal actions for debt from $200 to $500, in contract debts from $400 to $1000, in actions of replevin from $200 to $500. It was also proposed to give them equitable jurisdiction in matters of partnership accounts, creditors of deceased persons, &c., to $1000, and in regard to injunctions against waste, trespass, &c. They were also to have jurisdiction in undefended cases, or by consent of both parties. Such provision in England had worked very satisfactorily.

MR. MOWAT said he had no feeling against the proposed change, but the measure could not be expected to pass this session. It had been introduced late, and he had had no time to consider. Neither was there much pressure to make the change. He thought it would not relieve the work in the Superior Courts, and the block in the Appeal Court would soon be removed. It would be necessary to ascertain how much more work would be thrown upon the County judges, who already complained of overwork. Neither did he think they were prepared to deal with equity suit. He hoped the bill would be postponed till next session, that there might be full consideration.

MR. FRENCH said that Mr. Mowat now wanted more time to consider the subject, though two years ago he said he had given it his most earnest consideration, and had denied that it was premature to deal with it. He ought at least to have his mind made up now. Our Legislature was too much centralized and matters too expensive, and this change would cheapen and expedite it. He hoped Mr. Mowat would no longer delay giving the Province a needed reform.

MR. FRASER praised Mr. Mowat. The proposed change would give three-fourths of the High Court business to the County Court judges, and they should be consulted. Besides it would cause a number of appeals. He favored the change, but would not vote now for the bill, which he hoped would be withdrawn.

MR. O'CONNOR believed in decentralization, but thought the change was to radical.

MR. WHITE thought the bill would be popular and that it should be proceeded with. The fact that the Attorney-General was not ready was not sufficient reason for its postponement.

MR. MEREDITH said he had no wish to detract from Mr. Mowat's credit as a law reformer. The English County, which was not of the high standing of ours, had powers which ours had not, and he saw no reason for this. Mr. Mowat had promised to consider the County Court jurisdiction and should have given it his attention, but had not done so. He would be satisfied with assent to the principle and would then let the bill stand till next year.

MR. MOWAT assented, and the bill was read a second time.

VICTORIA UNIVERSITY.

MR. FERRIS' bill for amalgamating Victoria and Albert Colleges was considered in committee.

MR. MEREDITH and MR. MULHOLLAND moved amendments to secure the interests of Cobourg, but after some discussion they were rejected, and the bill was reported.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

MR. G. W. ROSS moved the second reading of his bill respecting the public health.

MR. MEREDITH objected to passing at such a late date a bill affecting the municipalities, and which they had had no time to consider.

MR. MOWAT protested that they had brought down their measures very early.

MARRIED WOMEN'S PROPERTY.

MR. MOWAT in committee on his bill as to the property of married women, said it was similar to the English Act.

MR. MEREDITH said that instead of such a long bill they might enact that a married woman should have the same rights as a single woman, as to her property for that was what was meant.

MR. MOWAT said that was not his object.

The bill was reported.

A number of other measures were advanced a stage.

THE ELECTIONEERING ARMY.

Mr. Hardy on Saturday presented a detailed statement of the constables and officers employed in the disputed territory since June 1st 1883, and the expenditure.

ANOTHER BACK-DOWN.

MR. G. W. ROSS in moving the ratification of the Order in Council as to Collegiate Institutes, said that he had withdrawn the clause requiring $4,500 as the minimum of salaries. He remarked that he did not recede from his position, but he thought it might be well to delay for another year.

MR. MEREDITH offered his congratulations on the change of policy of the Government. After some further discussion the motion was carried.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

The House went into committee on the bill to amend the Municipal Act.

MR. MEREDITH did not see why farmers' daughters should not have the same rights as farmers' sons, but it might be well to defer consideration of the matter till the Franchise Bill was brought in next session. Meanwhile he would vote to strike out the clause giving municipal votes to widows and unmarried women.

The motion was lost.

MR. FERRIS moved to strike out the words "widows and unmarried," this giving municipal votes to all women with the necessary qualification, as he said no reason for discriminatory.

The motion was lost.

MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES.

An amendment was passed providing that persons nominated for municipal offices must resign within two days from such nomination.

EXEMPTIONS.

A section was passed providing for a two-third majority of a municipal council to exempt manufacturing establishments &c.

The bill was reported.

FRANCHISE EXTENSION.

MR. MOWAT in answer to Mr. Meredith said he did not propose to introduce a Franchise Bill this session.

MEASURES ADVANCED.

On Monday a number of measures were advanced a stage, and one, the County Courts bill, was discharged.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

CORRUPTION OF MEMBERS.

MR. MOWAT stated that an attempt had been made to corrupt certain members of the House, and called upon the Speaker to open and read the letters in his hands.

MR. SPEAKER then opened the documents and read the following letters:—

"Monday morning,
"March 17, 1884.

"MR. SPEAKER,—The enclosed one thousand dollars was yesterday paid to me to influence my vote in the Legislative Assembly by Mr. Wilkinson. I place it in your hands at the earliest opportunity on your return to the city.

"I remain yours truly,
"R. MCKIM."

"HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY,
"Toronto, March 7, 1884.
"3 p. m.

"DEAR SIR,—I hereby enclose you the sum of eight hundred dollars, in one hundred dollar bills, handed to me at 2.30 p. m. to-day and now handed to you by me. It was given to me by a man named 'Big Push' Wilkinson, in room No. 9, Walker House, to influence my vote against the Government during the present session. I made no promises.

"Yours faithfully,
"WM. D. BALFOUR.

"Col. Charles Clarke, Speaker Legislative Assembly, Ontario."

MR. SPEAKER said he left the matter to be dealt with by the House.

MR. MOWAT explained that the members appointed had been in constant communication throughout with the Government, and that arrangements had been made to draw on the bribers. He endeavoured to implicate the Minister of the Interior, Mr. McPherson. He concluded with the following resolution:—

That the Attorney-General, a member of this House, has from his place in the House stated that he is credibly informed and believes that divers persons named by him, including Christopher W. Bunting, John A. Wilkinson, Edward Meek, F. S. Kertland, and one Lynch have entered into a conspiracy to accomplish the defeat of the Government in this House by corrupting members of this House to vote against the Government and Government measures.

That the first-named three persons are well-known and active members of the party in this province opposed to this Government, and that the last-named two persons are American citizens.

That for the purpose of corruptly influencing the votes of members of this House the said five persons have at divers times during the present session of this Legislature approached several members of this House with money, offers of money, promises of offices in the gift of the Dominion Government, and promises of other personal advantages to such members.

That divers members of this House so approached, being indignant at the criminal conduct proposed to them, have deemed it to be the fitting course on their part, and a duty to their constituents and the public, acting herein with the advice and approval of members of the Government, to seem for a time to entertain such approaches, in order to lead to the exposure detection and punishment of the persons guilty of making such corrupt attempts, and have in pursuance of their duty from time to time disclosed to members of the Government the approaches from time to time made to them, and the several acts therein of the guilty parties; that among the members of this House in regard to whom such corrupt attempts have been made are Mr. Robert McKim, member for the west riding of Wellington; Mr. William D. Balfour, member for the south riding of Essex; and John F. Dowling, member of the south riding of Renfrew; that in carrying out the objects of the conspiracy the said Wilkinson, to influence the vote of the said McKim, repeatedly offered him money, and has at length delivered to the said McKim one thousand dollars; that Mr. McKim immediately on receiving the money in the hands of Mr. Speaker, to be by him produced to this House; that both the said Wilkinson and the said Bunting, for the same corrupt purpose, undertook to pay to Mr. McKim a further sum of $1,000 on a future day; that the said Bunting was a party to the payment of the former sum and to the promise to pay the latter sum for the corrupt purpose already stated, and that to secure the same corrupt object the said Wilkinson and Bunting furthered and undertook that the said McKim should be appointed registrar at Regina, in the North-West, with a salary of $1000 a year, that both the said Wilkinson and the said Bunting assured the said McKim that the Dominion Minister of the Interior had pledged to them his word that their said promise of the said office would be carried out, and the said Bunting on his own part pledged his word to the same effect; that for the same corrupt purpose already mentioned, and to influence the vote of the said William D. Balfour, the said Wilkinson repeatedly offered to pay, and did this day deliver to the said Balfour, the sum of $800 in cash, and undertook to pay a further sum of $700 on a future day; that for the some purpose the said Kertland also offered to pay to him the sum of $1,200; that immediately on receiving the said sum of $800 Mr. Balfour placed the same in the hands of Mr. Speaker, to be by him produced to this House; and that further to secure the same purpose the said Wilkinson undertook that the said Balfour should be appointed by the Dominion Government to a registrarship at Regina, in the North-West; that the said Wilkinson, for the corrupt purpose already mentioned, and to influence the vote of the said John F. Dowling offered him the sum of $2,000 cash, and to pay him a further sum of $2,000 at a future period; that the sum so offered to be exhibited to him by the said Wilkinson, and that there is reason to believe that other corrupt offers were made by the said conspirators to, and rejected by, other members of this House, and it is hereby

Resolved, That the charges and matters referred to and set forth in said statement of the information and belief of the Attorney-General be forthwith referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, with instructions to enquire and report thereon, and with power to send for and examine all necessary persons and papers in or concerning the premises.

MR. BALFOUR related how he had been approached, and the steps he had taken with the advice of the Government.

MR. MEREDITH expressed his sense of the gravity of the offence charged, and his anxiety for a thorough investigation. He thought that men of honor, zealous for the good reputation of the House should have indignantly spurned such offers at once. He condemned the light manner in which the name of Mr. Bunting had been introduced by Mr. Mowat without so far any attempt to justify it.

MR. MORRIS also dwelt upon the gravity of the charge, and the necessity for a full investigation. He censured the Government for their admitted endeavour it had on men to commit a crime.

MR. MCKIM said he thought his honour was dragged in the dust by the corrupt offer made to him, but he had consulted the administration and had acted as they advised.

MR. FRASER made a violent attack upon the Conservative party, showing much less concern for the honour of the House, than desire to make political capital.

MR. GRAHAM had also been approached, but being more sensitive of his honour had indignantly spurned the offer.

MR. CLARKE said it looked very much as if the Government had arrangement to cause this explosion on the very eve of the election in Grey in order to influence it. He condemned Mr. Mowat's attack on Mr. Bunting without producing any evidence. They had no right to assume guilt till it was proved.

A number of other members, chiefly conservative, spoke of their anxiety for a searching enquiry.

The motion was carried.

The House then adjourned till 3 o'clock on Tuesday.

He said Ireland's future was promising, that the time was near at hand when an Irish Parliament would send a message of peace to the English Parliament. A. M. Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 1884.

STARTLING CHARGES

THE Legislative Assembly and the people of Toronto were electrified last night by the report that two arrests had been made for attempts to bribe members of the Provincial Legislature, and by the Speaker counting out the money received by two members and handed to him for this purpose. The persons arrested were M. J. A. Wilkinson and a Mr. Kirkland, a citizen of the United States.

Our report of the proceedings in the House will show the steps that were taken in the matter, and the anxiety of both parties for a searching investigation.

There will be general sympathy with the condemnation of the conduct of Mr. Mowat in bringing unsupported charges against a gentleman whom they did not venture to include in the arrest. The greater the charge, and it would be difficult to exaggerate the gravity in this case, the greater should be the care not to bring charges lightly. The great object of the Ministry seemed to be not to support the honor of the House, not to prevent a crime, but to make political capital.

Such an accusation must be thoroughly investigated, and the whole matter probed to its very depth, that the guilty, whoever they are, may not escape their due punishment for such an offence. Every facility should be given for the fullest enquiry. The Conservative party will, we are certain, countenance no attempts to imitate the Reform tactics in throwing every possible obstacle in the way of the investigation of equally corrupt conduct by Reform leaders and officials in Algoma. Let all such corruption be investigated without shrinking and punished without leniency, that if there are individual offenders the public honor of our country may be preserved.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

An Attempt to Corrupt Members—The Money Counted out by the Speaker Before the House—The Matter Referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

The following is a continuation of Friday's proceedings:—

COUNTY COURT JURISDICTION.

Mr. MEREDITH moved the second reading of his bill as to County Courts. The extension of the Division Court jurisdiction has lessened the business of the County Courts, and their jurisdiction also might be extended. This would relieve the pressure of work in the Superior Courts, and would decentralize and cheapen the administration of justice. He would extend the jurisdiction in personal actions for debt from $200 to $500, in contract debts from $400 to $1000, in actions of replevin from $200 to $500. It was also proposed to give them equitable jurisdiction in matters of partnership accounts, creditors of deceased persons, &c., to $1000, and in regard to injunctions against waste, trespass, &c. They were also to have jurisdiction in undefended cases, or by consent of both parties. Such provision in England had worked very satisfactorily.

Mr. MOWAT said he had no feeling against the proposed change, but the measure could not be expected to pass this session. It had been introduced late, and he had had no time to consider. Neither was there much pressure to make the change. He thought it would not relieve the work in the Superior Courts, and the block in the Appeal Court would soon be removed. It would be necessary to ascertain how much more work would be thrown upon the County judges, who already complained of overwork. Neither did he think they were prepared to deal with equity suit. He hoped the bill would be postponed till next session, that there might be full consideration.

Mr. FRENCH said that Mr. Mowat now wanted more time to consider the subject, though two years ago he said he had given it his most earnest consideration, and had denied that it was premature to deal with it. He ought at least to have his mind made up now.

[illegible] lature was too much centralized and therefore too expensive, and this change would cheapen and expedite it. He hoped Mr. Mowat would no longer delay giving the Province a needed reform.

Mr. FRASER praised Mr. Mowat. The proposed change would give three-fourths of the High Court business to the County Court judges, and they should be consulted. Besides it would cause a number of appeals. He favored the change, but would not vote now for the bill, which he hoped would be withdrawn.

Mr. O'CONNOR believed in decentralization, but thought the change was to radical.

Mr. WHITE thought the bill would be popular and that it should be proceeded with. The fact that the Attorney-General was not ready was not sufficient reason for its postponement.

Mr. MEREDITH said he had no wish to detract from Mr. Mowat's credit as a law reformer. The English County, which was not of the high standing of ours, had powers which ours had not, and he saw no reason for this. Mr. Mowat had promised to consider the County Court jurisdiction and should have given it his attention, but had not done so. He would be satisfied with assent to the principle and would then let the bill stand till next year.

Mr. MOWAT assented, and the bill was read a second time.

VICTORIA UNIVERSITY.

Mr. FERRIS' bill for amalgamating Victoria and Albert Colleges was considered in committee.

Mr. MEREDITH and Mr. MULHOLLAND moved amendments to secure the interests of Cobourg, but after some discussion they were rejected, and the bill was reported.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

Mr. G. W. ROSS moved the second reading of his bill respecting the public health.

Mr. MEREDITH objected to passing at such a late date a bill affecting the municipalities, and which they had had no time to consider.

Mr. MOWAT protested that they had brought down their measures very early.

MARRIED WOMEN'S PROPERTY.

Mr. MOWAT in committee on his bill as to the property of married women, said it was similar to the English Act.

Mr. MEREDITH said that instead of such a long bill they might enact that a married woman should have the same rights as a single woman, as to her property for that was what was meant.

Mr. MOWAT said that was not his object.

The bill was reported.

A number of other measures were advanced a stage.

THE ELECTIONEERING ARMY.

Mr. Hardy on Saturday presented a detailed statement of the constables and officers employed in the disputed territory since June 1st 1883, and the expenditure.

ANOTHER BACK-DOWN.

Mr. G. W. Ross in moving the ratification of the Order in Council as to Collegiate Institutes, said that he had withdrawn the clause requiring $4,500 as the minimum of salaries. He remarked that he did not recede from his position, but he thought it might be well to delay for another year.

Mr. MEREDITH offered his congratulations on the change of policy of the Government.

After some further discussion the motion was carried.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

The House went into committee on the bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. MEREDITH did not see why farmers' daughters should not have the same rights as farmers' sons, but it might be well to defer consideration of the matter till the Franchise Bill was brought in next session. Meanwhile he would vote to strike out the clause giving municipal votes to widows and unmarried women.

The motion was lost.

Mr. FERRIS moved to strike out the words "widows and unmarried," this giving municipal votes to all women with the necessary qualification, as he said no reason for discriminatory.

The motion was lost.

MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES,

An amendment was passed providing that persons nominated for municipal offices must resign within two days from such nomination.

EXEMPTIONS.

A section was passed providing for a two-third majority of a municipal council to exempt manufacturing establishments &c.

The bill was reported.

FRANCHISE EXTENSION.

Mr. MOWAT in answer to Mr. Meredith said he did not propose to introduce a Franchise Bill this session.

MEASURES ADVANCED.

On Monday a number of measures were advanced a stage, and one, the County Courts bill, was discharged.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

CORRUPTION OF MEMBERS.

Mr. MOWAT stated that an attempt had been made to corrupt certain members of the House, and called upon the Speaker to open and read the letters in his hands.

Mr. SPEAKER then opened the documents and read the following letters:—

"Monday morning,
"March 17, 1884.

"MR. SPEAKER,—The enclosed one thousand dollars was yesterday paid to me to influence my vote in the Legislative Assembly by Mr. Wilkinson. I place it in your hands at the earliest opportunity on your return to the city.

"I remain yours truly,
"R. MCKIM."

"HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY,
"Toronto, March 7, 1884,
"3 p. m.

"DEAR SIR,—I hereby enclose you the sum of eight hundred dollars, in one hundred dollar bills, handed to me at 2.30 p. m. to-day and now handed to you by me. It was given to me by a man named 'Big Push' Wilkinson, in room No. 9, Walker House, to influence my vote against the Government during the present session. I made no promises.

"Yours faithfully,
"WM. D. BALFOUR.

"Col. Charles Clarke, Speaker Legislative Assembly, Ontario."

Mr. SPEAKER said he left the matter to be dealt with by the House.

Mr. MOWAT explained that the members appointed had been in constant communication throughout with the Government, and that arrangements had been made to draw on the bribers. He endeavoured to implicate the Minister of the Interior, Mr. McPherson. He concluded with the following resolution:—

That the Attorney-General, a member of this House, has from his place in the House stated that he is credibly informed and believes that divers persons named by him, including Christopher W. Bunting, John A. Wilkinson, Edward Meek, F. S. Kertland, and one Lynch have entered into a conspiracy to accomplish the defeat of the Government in this House by corrupting members of this House to vote against the Government and Government measures.

That the first-named three persons are well-known and active members of the party in this province opposed to this Government, and that the last-named two persons are American citizens.

That for the purpose of corruptly influencing the votes of members of this House the said five persons have at divers times during the present session of this Legislature approached several members of this House with money, offers of money, promises of offices in the gift of the Dominion Government, and promises of other personal advantages to such members.

That divers members of this House so approached, being indignant at the criminal conduct proposed to them, have deemed it to be the fitting course on their part, and a duty to their constituents and the public, acting herein with the advice and approval of members of the Government, to seem for a time to entertain such approaches, in order to lead to the exposure detection and punishment of the persons guilty of making such corrupt attempts, and have in pursuance of their duty from time to time disclosed to members of the Government the approaches from time to time made to them, and the several acts therein of the guilty parties; that among the members of this House in regard to whom such corrupt attempts have been made are Mr. Robert McKim, member for the west riding of Wellington; Mr. William D. Balfour, member for the south riding of Essex; and John F. Dowling, member of the south riding of Renfrew; that in carrying out the objects of the conspiracy the said Wilkinson, to influence the vote of the said McKim, repeatedly offered him money, and has at length delivered to the said McKim one thousand dollars; that Mr. McKim immediately on receiving the money in the hands of Mr. Speaker, to be by him produced to this House; that both the said Wilkinson and the said Bunting, for the same corrupt purpose, undertook to pay to Mr. McKim a further sum of $1,000 on a future day; that the said Bunting was a party to the payment of the former sum and to the promise to pay the latter sum for the corrupt purpose already stated, and that to secure the same corrupt object the said Wilkinson and Bunting furthered and undertook that the said McKim should be appointed registrar at Regina, in the North-West, with a salary of $1000 a year, that both the said Wilkinson and the said Bunting assured the said McKim that the Dominion Minister of the Interior had pledged to them his word that their said promise of the said office would be carried out, and the said Bunting on his own part pledged his word to the same effect; that for the same corrupt purpose already mentioned, and to influence the vote of the said William D. Balfour, the said Wilkinson repeatedly offered to pay, and did this day deliver to the said Balfour, the sum of $800 in cash, and undertook to pay a further sum of $700 on a future day; that for the some purpose the said Kertland also offered to pay to him the sum of $1,200; that immediately on receiving the said sum of $800 Mr. Balfour placed the same in the hands of Mr. Speaker, to be by him produced to this House; and that further to secure the same purpose the said Wilkinson undertook that the said Balfour should be appointed by the Dominion Government to a registrarship at Regina, in the North-West; that the said Wilkinson, for the corrupt purpose already mentioned, and to influence the vote of the said John F. Dowling offered him the sum of $2,000 cash, and to pay him a further sum of $2,000 at a future period; that the sum so offered to be exhibited te him by the said Wilkinson, and that there is reason to believe that other corrupt offers were made by the said conspirators to, and rejected by, other members of this House, and it is hereby

Resolved, That the charges and matters referred to and set forth in said statement of the information and belief of the Attorney-General be forthwith referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections, with instructions to enquire and report thereon, and with power to send for and examine all necessary persons and papers in or concerning the premises.

Mr. BALFOUR related how he had been approached, and the steps he had taken with the advice of the Government.

Mr. MEREDITH expressed his sense of the gravity of the offence charged, and his anxiety for a thorough investigation. He thought that men of honor, zealous for the good reputation of the House should have indignantly spurned such offers at once. He condemned the light manner in which the name of Mr. Bunting had been introduced by Mr. Mowat without so far any attempt to justify it.

Mr. MORRIS also dwelt upon the gravity of the charge, and the necessity for a full investigation. He censured the Government for their admitted endeavour it had on men to commit a crime.

Mr. MCKIM said he thought his honour was dragged in the dust by the corrupt offer made to him, but he had consulted the administration and had acted as they advised.

Mr. FRASER made a violent attack upon the Conservative party, showing much less concern for the honour of the House, than desire to make political capital.

Mr. GRAHAM had also been approached; but being more sensitive of his honour had indignantly spurned the offer.

Mr. CLARKE said it looked very much as if the Government had arrangement to cause this explosion on the very eve of the election in Grey in order to influence it. He condemned Mr. Mowat's attack on Mr. Bunting without producing any evidence. They had no right to assume guilt till it was proved.

A number of other members, chiefly conservative, spoke of their anxiety for a searching enquiry.

The motion was carried.

The House then adjourned till 3 o'clock on Tuesday.

ENGLAND'S FOREIN CATTLE SUPPLY.

LONDON, March 18.—A meeting was held in the town hall at Manchester to-day to protest against the restriction placed upon the importation of foreign cattle. Jacob Bright and John Slagg, members of Parliament, spoke in furtherance of the object of the meeting. A resolution was adopted condemning the House of Lords for meddling with the Contagious Diseases (Animals) bill. The United States consul declared that American cattle and food-producing animals were the best fed and watered and the healthiest in the world. A similar meeting was held at Salford.

LONDON, March 17.—A banquet was given in London in honour of the day. No loyal toasts were offered. Mr. Parnell, in proposing the toast "Ireland a nation," urged Irishmen not to depend upon any body of Englishmen, but to rely upon themselves. He said Ireland's future was promising, that the time was near at hand when an Irish Parliament would send a message of peace to the English Parliament. A. M. Sullivan said there would be no truce or peace with England until Ireland was endowed with institutions which alone could make the Irish race what its genius intended it should be in the economy of the world.

A MISPLACED APPEAL.

THE Toronto Telegram calls upon the Conservative members of the House of Commons from Ontario to repudiate an alleged bargain with the Quebec members to pay from Dominion funds $12,000 a mile on the North Shore Railway and four millions for a bridge, to secure their support for the C. P. R. loan. The Telegram should rather appeal to the Reform members, for it was their chief organ which promised this and other inducements in the name of their leader to the Quebec Conservative members if they would sell their votes. Neither Mr. Blake nor his followers have denied that they were willing to make this bargain, or that they are still willing to do so. Mr. Blake has only denied that he authorized the Globe to publish the offer, and he let it stand as long as it could be of service, if the Quebec Conservatives had been as corrupt as the Reformers supposed, and as they have always called the Bleus.

MR. MOWAT'S BACK-DOWN.

MANITOBA is not disposed to allow Mr. Mowat falsely to assume the credit of having of his own free will abandoned his violent course in the Boundary question in favour of the Opposition policy of an appeal to the highest court of the realm. In the "speech from the throne" in the Manitoba legislation, the truth is thus told as to who took the initiative:—

"During the recess steps have been taken by my Government to secure an early determination of the boundary between this province and Ontario. A conference between the Attorneys-General of Manitoba and Ontario has resulted in an agreement on the basis upon which a reference of the question will be submitted to the Judicial Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council for their decision thereon. Pending said decision a provisional arrangement has been agreed upon for the government of the territory in dispute. You will be asked to pass an Act giving effect to the same, and ratifying the provisions contained therein."

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTES.

THE insolence with which some of the Ontario Ministers early in the session sneered at Mr. Meredith and his supporters as being utterly powerless in the House, has been fittingly condemned by the stern logic of events. In many instances this session the Conservative Opposition has most beneficially affected the Provincial Legislation. Mr. Mowat may have fancied himself an autocrat before the last election, but now that he knows that he has only a minority of the electors, and a small, temporary majority of the members at his back, he stands in salutary awe of the Opposition, and is very careful of his proceedings. There was a very satisfactory instance of this during Saturday's session, when Mr. G. W. Ross withdrew the clause by which it was proposed to dictate to the municipalities the salaries that they should pay to teachers. Mr. Mowat found that not only did the Opposition resist this encroachment upon our rights of local self-management of our own finances, but that probably some of his own followers were not ready to countenance this fresh instance of centralization, to the detriment of our municipal rights. Thus he has made an ignominious back down.

THE ALGOMA CONSPIRACY.

THOUGH Mr. Burden had a very defective memory as to important points, had destroyed much of the evidence of the Algoma conspiracy, and withheld other portions as being private and confidential, yet his first examination before the Public Accounts Committee has thrown no inconsiderable light on the subject.

Among other things we have the following facts established by this unwilling witness. Mr. Mowat personally gave him his instructions before he left for the scene of operations. He had destroyed the telegrams which he received from the members of the Mowat Administration. He withheld other communications because they were private and confidential. The telegram from him to Mr. Pardee as to affording means for corruption is correct as published, and is not, as some have asserted, a forgery. One of his official papers, an account, was mutilated after it left him, a portion being cut off. Provincial money had been spent on the Rat Portage streets by Mr. Lyon.

As Mr. Burden asserts that he was employed on legitimate departmental business, and not on election matters, how is it that his official correspondence with his superiors has to be so private and confidential? Does not this secrecy and the destruction of the evidence in itself amount to a confession of guilt? And is not the same conclusion to be drawn from his shifty evidence, his unwillingness to swear as to matters within his own knowledge, and his eager readiness to swear to falsehoods that came to him in the shape of street gossip.

Mr. Hardy's line of defence was almost as suggestive of guilt. In the first place, not being able to deny the genuineness of the messages by which the plot was carried on officially, but privately, he endeavored to excite prejudice against this evidence by drawing from his very willing witness a lot of hearsay evidence as to these incriminating documents having been improperly obtained. And his other way of meeting these grave charges was to carry against Mr. Meredith a vote by means of his majority that the committee should not meet on Monday. This investigation must be burked if the Government can manage it by means of a hurried prorogation and every dishonest shift meanwhile to impede the work of the Public Accounts Committee.

DEGRADING THE GREAT SEAL.

It will be remembered that on behalf of Mr. Plummer, suits have been started against Messrs. Burden, White and Pardee to punish them individually for their share in the Algoma fraud. A material portion of the evidence in these cases is contained in the telegrams which passed between them when the two former were up in the district on their pretended mission in connection with the disputed territory. It is well understood that the telegraph company keeps the originals of telegrams for a certain length of time and then destroys them, and in order that these telegrams might not be destroyed before the cases are ready to come to trial, application was made last week in the case of Burden to the Court to bring an officer of the telegraph company before it with the telegrams so that the Court might be in possession of them. But the Government are determined that the ends of justice shall be baulked, and we had the extraordinary spectacle of the counsel for the defendant setting up the plea that Burden was acting under the Great Seal of the Province, and what he did under it could not be enquired into by the Court! Is it possible to conceive a lower depth for a Government to descend to than that of setting up the Great Seal as a cover to protect those accused of corruption and fraud from the consequences of their acts? The Great Seal is the symbol of the authority of her Majesty, who is regarded as the fountain of justice and honor in the empire; but it has come to this, that Mr. Mowat, the Christian politician, the high-minded Premier, is driven to such straits that he does not scruple to drag the symbols of her Majesty's authority with which he is entrusted through the mire, to shield colleagues and co-conspirators from justice! The people know that he is desperate over this Algoma business but he might at least have spared us the degradation of putting the Great Seal to such base purposes.—Owen Sound Times.

CANADIAN LUMBER TRADE.

We take from the Toronto Telegram the following:

"The American Congressional Tariff Committee's decision to place Canadian lumber on the free list, has caused a ripple of excitement in local lumbering circles. In conversation with several city lumbermen a Telegram reporter was informed that the result of the change in the improbable event of its being sanctioned by the Senate, would be to give a much needed impetus to the Canadian lumber industry. Mr. R. A. Lyon, M. P. P., for Algoma, and an extensive lumber manufacturer at Micheal's Bay, Manitoulin Island, in answer to a query said:—"It would be the best thing that could happen to us Canadian lumbermen at the present time. The trade is now extremely dull; large stocks of lumber are awaiting shipment at the principal centres in the Dominion. Although the accommodation of lumber at Chicago is one million feet less than at this time last year, it is an undoubted fact that the lumbering industry is depressed. The abolition of an American tariff which is virtually prohibition on cheaper grades of lumber would give an outlet to the over-stocked Canadian market."

Mr. Riches, of S. C. Kanady & Co., remarked, "I believe that tariff will go. We will then be able to compete on the American market with the home producers. At present we are barred out by a duty of $2 per thousand all around. This tariff isn't burdensome in expensive lumber, but when you come to ship lumber at $8 per thousand it in effect closes us out from placing our lumber on the American market."

"The change will do more than anything I know of to relieve the present financial stringency in Canada," answered Mr. S. S. Mutton to the reporter's interrogation. "Why, you known," he continued, enthusiastically, "our lumber export trade almost equals our grain shipment. The lumber exports would be doubled by the change, and we would have a chance to deal with those men in Buffalo and elsewhere who give us big orders and always pay cash. Now, we are left in tendering on American orders on the cheaper grades by from 75 cents to $1.25. With the $2 duty off we could overcome this difficulty and still have a handsome profit. One result of the abolition would be to raise the price of lumber in Toronto by perhaps $1 a thousand. I, however, don't believe the change will be made. If passed in Congress the influence of the Stalwarts from the Maine pineries will force the Senate to kill the project."

Mr. Kerr, of Christie, Kerr & Co., was not extremely sanguine as to the effect of placing Canadian lumber on the free list. If the American market was in a flourishing state it might enliven the trade considerably. In view of the prevailing depression he thought the good effects would be limited to opening a market for the cheaper grades of lumber.

Mr. McCracken, of McCracken, Galt & Co., did not believe that the change would result in increasing the price of lumber in the local market. It would largely increase the demand for cheap lumber, but in his opinion there was not the slightest probability of the Senate assenting to the abolition of the duty.

Mr. A. H. Campbell believed the change would benefit Canadian lumbermen in the unlikely event of it taking place.

"There is no doubt that the Globe's corrupt bid did a great deal to force Sir John Macdonald into compliance with the demands of the French Canadian members."

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

Bayonets Crossed—Telegraphic Communication Cut—The Rebels Still Active.

Adams Fraser, the largest man of the Black Watch Regiment, killed twelve Arabs with his bayonet in the recent battle. Drummond, of the same regiment, bayonetted Osman Digma's nephew.

REBEL ACTIVITY ON THE NILE.

There is increasing activity on the part of the rebels near the Nile. Beyond Berber telegraphic communication is cut and a steamer has been fired upon.

NO DANGER AT KHARTOUM.

Many partizans of El Mahdi have been arrested in Hedjaz, Arabia. A leading sheikh between Shendy and Khartoum has declared in favor of El Mahdi. Gordon telegraphs that there is no immediate danger at Khartoum. It is reported that Zobehr Pasha has been appointed Governor of the Soudan.

BAD NEWS FROM KHARTOUM SUPPRESSED.

Advices from Berber make no mention of any uprising of Arabs in that region. The country is reported quiet as far as Shendy. Despatches from Cairo, however, state that the Government is suppressing bad news from Khartoum. A number of Arab rebels have reappeared at Tamanieb and attack all stragglers that approach them. There are no signs that the defeat of Osman Digma has crushed the spirit of the rebel tribes. The Haddendowas, who suffered the greatest loss of life, still adhere to Osman.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, March 15.—In the House of Commons to-day the War Secretary announced that telegraphic communication with Khartoum had been broken, and a steamer passing down the Nile had been subjected to a continuous fusillade for three days. He believed the tribes in that region had risen. A battalion of British troops had been despatched to Assouan.

Messrs. Bartlett and Labouchere attacked the Government.

The Under-Foreign Secretary denied that Gordon was in extremities. He asserted that the withdrawing of the garrison from Kassala would be perfectly easy as soon as the differences were settled, as the King of Abyssinia was friendly. It was necessary that a civilized power should control the ports of the Red Sea to insure the suppression of the slave trade and to maintain communication with India. Instructions had been sent to Gen. Graham not to proceed to Berber.

Mr. Labouchere offered a motion that the loss of British and Arab lives in the Soudan was unnecessary, which was rejected by a vote of 111 to 94.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Conservative, stated he overheard Sir William Harcourt, Home Secretary, say, after the vote had been taken, "So this dirty trick did not succeed."

Sir William Harcourt expressed regret at having made use of the words complained of. He said he had no intention of giving pain to anyone.

FENELON FALLS.

THE FURNITURE FACTORY.—The foundation for the furniture factory on Francis street has been laid since our last issue. The size is 20x60 feet and the factory is to be 14 feet high. It will stand about thirty yards east of the Gazette office and double that distance west of Colborne street.

NEW HOUSES.—Building operations are not likely to be at a standstill in Fenelon Falls during the coming summer, as it is certain that at least three or four new houses are to be erected, and probably others that we have not heard of. Dr. Wilson has let the contract for a $2,000 brick residence on the north-east corner of Bond and Colborne streets to Mr. John Kennedy, of Bobcaygeon, Mr. Henry Austin is preparing to put a substantial white brick house, to cost at least $1,200, on Louisa street, Mr. Henry Stewart, who lately sold his farm and moved into the village, will build a fair-sized frame house on Bond street west, and Mr. E. R. Edwards talks of putting up on his lot on Francis street two small houses that will rent for about $3 per month each.—Gazette

MADOC.

LARGE MOOSE.—Some few weeks ago a large moose was killed a short distance north of Maynooth, which weighed over 800 pounds. The owner asked $30 for the hide. It was the largest ever known to be killed in that district.

KILLED IN THE WOODS.—Although the news is pretty late, we have only just heard of the sad death of a young man named Gannon, whose parents reside some miles east of Maynooth, which took place in the woods near Baycroft, on Thursday, the 21st February. He was engaged in lumbering, and while driving through the woods a large limb fell from a tree top, striking him on the head and killing him instantly. He was a young man of good habits, and highly respected in that neighborhood.

AN INDIAN PARTY.—A party of noble red men and women from Rice Lake are encamped in the woods a short distance north of Bannockburn, where they have been the most of this winter. They are engaged in the industrious occupation of basket making, which goods they dispose of principally at Millbridge.—Review.

KINGSTON.

GRAIN.—At present there is a large quantity of grain in the country, and, a dealer says, he would not be surprised if the farmers decided to hold it over till next year, as the prices were low and the roads bad.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual public meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Kingston, was held on Monday evening, in St. Andrew's Hall, at 7.30 o'clock, when Principal Grant and other members of the Presbytery addressed it.

LOST ON THE ICE.—On Friday last, about 2 p. m., Mr. John McKenty, of Amherst Island, left Napanee for Deseronto. A blinding snow storm prevailed, and as he drove on the ice he soon lost his way. He wandered around for a long time, until he accidentally came to a house which he fondly imagined was near his destination, but imagine his surprise to find that he was on Hay Bay. He secured a pilot and reached his journey's end after hours of travelling.—News.

Floods Anticipated in Montreal.

MONTREAL, March 16.—There seems to be a strong concurrence of opinion amongst persons of long experience here that a more than usual spring flood will visit the parts of the city contiguous to the St. Lawrence when the deep snow on the ground begins to rapidly disappear under the warm rays of the sun. The springlike weather of the past few days has had the effect of raising the water in the river considerably, which engineers think is an evil omen in view of what is likely to follow. As the inhabitants are getting timely warning of what they may expect they will not be taken by surprise as they were earlier in the winter, and which caused such great damage to property. There is a joint committee of civic dignitaries and mercantile citizens engaged in an inquiry to find some means of preventing the loss that the annual floods inflict. The only true remedy is said to be raising of the streets all along the water front, which would be an expensive proceeding. The Harbor Board is enquiring if the deepening of the bed of the river near Boucherville, where the ice accumulates and becomes a great obstruction, is not the principal cause of the floods.

The Sandwich Gaol Escape.

There is very little doubt but that the gaol delivery was all planned in advance, as a round hole was cut in one of the window panes in a window of the outside wall directly in front of O'Callaghan's cell some time last night, and a revolver placed therein, which he took and secreted as soon as he was let out of his cell into the corridor this morning. It is supposed that some person must have climbed over the wall surrounding the gaol yard during the night and cut the hole with a diamond, placed the revolver there, and climbed out again. A report was circulated that O'Callaghan was in a place called Pelton's Bush, four miles east of Windsor, on the Canada Southern Railway, that the place was surrounded to prevent his escape, and that he said he would not be taken alive. Chief Baines proceeded at once to ascertain if the report was true, and if so he would go out there with a posse of volunteers and Detroit officers to catch him.

High School Districts.

The New Minister of Education was waited upon a few days ago by a deputation from York County, requesting him to consider the advisability of dividing the various counties into high school districts, and taking each part for its own individual school. The Hon. G. W. promised to give the subject his earnest consideration.—Newmarket Era.

Making Love to Mrs. Siddons.

Talleyrand asked if Fox had not been "tres occupe de Mme. Siddons." Oh, no," said Brougham, "that was not possible; one might as soon have thought of loving the sea, as Siddons. She was of far too high an order of beings to inspire love. The East India Company might perhaps have dared to love her—nothing short of that."—Letters from the Diary of Henry Grevill

Wanton Destruction of Deer.

The ceaseless destruction of deer in the Canadian Provinces has led to a warm, and it is to be hoped profitable, discussion as to the enforcement of the game laws and the enactment of more stringent statutes. The Province of Ontario seems to have suffered most from the depredations of market hunters and others. Mere discussion of ways and means will avail nothing if the sportsmen of the country do not act as well as speak for game protection. "The way to protect is to protect."—Surf, Field and Farm.

The Pocahontas Disaster.

LYNCHBURG, Va., March 15.—Experts express the fear that there may be another explosion in the Pocahontas mine, and precautions are being taken to prevent further loss of life. It is thought the governor will recommend an immediate appropriation of $2,500 to meet the pressing necessities of the sufferers. Work in the mine where the explosion took place will not be resumed for two months.

POCAHONTAS, Va., March 15.—The victims of the mine disaster leave 97 widows and orphans. There were five distinct explosions, and their force was so great that the mountain was cracked. There were no expert gas men employed in the mine and no safety lamps used. The officers say the explosion was not caused by a lamp but probably by a blast which opened up a large quantity of gas.

The Toronto Suicide.

The unfortunate man, whose death by his own hand we recorded yesterday as having taken place on Saturday night in Toronto, seemed to have had a very good knowledge of how to best end his life. The knife—a mere pocket knife—was plunged into the neck about midway between the ear and the collar bone, cutting, probably, the large internal jugular vein. The knife was found lying between his legs, and his right hand naturally was deluged with blood. In his pockets were found pipe, tobacco, an Evening Telegram, etc., but nothing by which he could be identified. The place which he chose for his desperate act was certainly a curious one. The gates, it is said, were closed at ten o'clock on the previous evening; consequently it was necessary to climb a high fence to enter the coach-house. Apparently he was in his sober senses when the final act was committed, there being no odor of alcohol detected. His appearance is described as respectable, fairly well dressed in a pea-jacket, sealskin cap, over-shoes, good mitts, &c., slightly bald, with a long red beard.

Notes About a Saw.

The Germans use at the present day among their furniture makers, carpenters and joiners, thirteen different varieties of saws, each one of which has its own peculiar size of the teeth, as well as a different relation of the teeth to each other. How important the thin saw blade is, not only as as a means to save power, but also as a means to save wood, can be seen from the following:—A log of walnut, four meters long and one meter in diameter, cut into 20 pieces by the new horizontal saw frame saves thirty millemeters of wood when compared with the cutting of the old fashioned vertical saws. This is equal to a profit of from $9 to $12. For Germany, where annually 100,000 cubic meters of this wood is used in the various industries, this would represent a saving of $37,500 to $50,000.

The greatest enemies of saws are the particles and pieces of iron found in woods; these are often driven in some form into young trees and succeeding growth covers them up entirely. A curious collection of such ingrown iron particles was recently exhibited in Germany. It had been obtained from America, Prussia, Germany, Spain and other countreis, and exhibited the queerest forms of wood formation covering particles of iron of various shapes and sizes, whose presence was revealed only by a breaking of the teeth of the saw, and which without the cutting would have remained invisible to the human eye.—Buffalo Lumber World.

A Vessel of Irish Oak.

The Timber Trades Journal says:—We make the following short extract from the Dundalk Examiner of Saturday last, giving an account of the launch of a new vessel by the Dundalk Patent Slip and Shipbuilding Company. This young but enterprising company owes its inception to Mr. John Connick, and seems to grow rapidly in prosperity and vigor, says our contemporary. On Thursday last they launched their first new vessel, the Lake Patos.

A large company assembled, and no sooner had the custom of breaking the bottle of brandy against her bow been complied with than the ship gracefully glided out. The Lake Patos is a three-masted schooner or barquentine, and is intended specially for the Brazilian trade, being of a peculiar although very symmetrical build. The vessel is made long and shallow, and takes a low draft of water in order to suit some of the shallow harbours of the South American empire. She is 102 ft. in length, 23 ft. in breadth, and 9 ft. in depth. She is registered at 107 tons, but will carry 220 tons. Built under special survey she is classed A 1 at Lloyd's for 12 years. The material used in her construction is all of the first quality, Irish oak and teakwood, her timbers being fastened with yellow metal bolts. The owner of the new schooner is Mr. William Larmour, of Liverpool, and her first voyage will be for Rio Grande at the mouth of Lake Patos, in South Brazil. She will sail from Dundalk to Cardiff when completed, and take on board a cargo.

The Boundary Line

Between comfort and discomfort is often very slight. Have you rheumatism or neuralgia? or are you a sufferer from obscure nervous pains? Why suffer longer? You can purchase for 10 cents a bottle of that king of pain—Polson's Nerviline, or you can get a large bottle for 25 cents. It cures promptly. It is sure, pleasant to take, and never fails to cure all kinds of pain. Don't wait an hour, but send to Ormond & Walsh's drug store and get a trial bottle. Nerviline, the sure pain cure.

MRS. ELIZABETH MASON.—Dr. M. Souvielle & Co., Gentlemen.—Yours of last week to hand, and reply to your inquiry I have much pleasure in stating that from the first time of using the spirometer and the medicine I have improved very much. The bronchitis has entirely left me. I sleep well and have a good appetite. I must also add, that coming to you as I did as a last resort, the cure effected has been wonderful. Gratefully yours,
MRS. E. MASON,
Jarvis, Ont.

Theatrical.

The "Silver King," which met with such marked favor at Wallack's Theatre, New York, for an extended period last season, and which since, in the various cities throughout the country, has achieved a series of long runs and extraordinary success, by invariably attracting the largest possible attendance, and arousing the greatest excitement and enthusiasm, will be presented at Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening, March 24th. An unusual effort will be made—its original production and its multifarious effects, accessories and appointments generally will receive the most careful attention. Entire new scenery by J. J. Mazzanovich, of Wallack's, and Harley Merry, the famous artist, is furnished by Mr. Haverly, and is said to excel that originally used in New York. The cast is remarkable for its symmetry and strength, and will contain some of the original members.

IRELAND'S PATRON SAINT.

St. Patrick's Day is Celebrated in Peterborough by a Grand Concert.

The large audience that assembled in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening, March 17th, must have felt on leaving the hall that they were amply repaid for their trouble in attending. The large and spacious hall was crowded, and certainly made both managers and performers overflow with a feeling of sincere gratification to see their efforts to cater for the public enjoyment thus crowned with such success—financially and otherwise. As announced, at 8 o'clock the Peterborough Orchestra—who by the way, have improved wonderfully of late—opened the programme with an overture, which was well rendered. Next came Mr. Porteous, who sang "The Old Brigade." This is a rousing and soul-stirring Irish song, and one that is well suited for a baritone voice. It is needless to say that it was rendered in a finished and superior manner. Mrs. Chambers, who is thoroughly appreciated by a Peterborough audience, sang a solo in her usual fine concert-like style, which was loudly encored. Mr. D. Donohue (formerly know as "Dublin Dan)" gave his hearers a real taste of "Ould Ireland" in two comic songs that put the large audience in roars of laughter and drew forth burst after burst of applause. The Orchestra again played a medley, with cornet and picolo solos, which was very effectively rendered. Mrs. Bowman's "Kathleen Mavourneen" was given with good taste, and did justice to that beautiful song. Mr. Kelly, from Collingwood, sang "Committed to the Deep," with guitar accompaniment, which he gave in good style. This is a bass solo, and the manner in which Mr. Kelly acquitted himself, drew forth loud applause. Mr. Thos. McNaughton gave an exhibition of Indian club swinging, and without doubt, it was the best exhibition of the kind ever witnessed in Peterborough. His movements were graceful and even, and he did not make the slightest perceptible error from start to finish. The orchestra opened the second part with a selection of music, when Mr. Geo. Ball sang "You'll Remember Me." Mrs. Bowman then sang "Tender and True" in a pleasing manner, and again Mr. Donohue sang "Miss Fogarty's Christmas Cake," for which he received an encore. A solo on the guitar was then given by Mr. Kelly, when Mrs. Chambers sang "Terrance's Farewell to Kathleen." Mr. Porteous then gave that beautiful Irish song, "The Harp that once Through Tara's Halls," with much feeling, and to judge from the prolonged applause that followed his disappearance from the stage, it took effect on the hearts of many in the audience. In response to an encore he sang with exquisite taste "The Ministrel Boy." Mr. Porteous has a well trained baritone voice of considerable compass, and sings with an evenness and finish that at once characterizes him as far above the average professional. The taste and judgment displayed in his rendition of different solos is perfect. "Alone in the Desert" by Mr. Kelly, was sung with splendid effect, and was loudly and deservedly applauded. The accompaniment of this song is simply grand. The singer is supposed to be lost in a vast desert, and after long suffering, and when on the verge of the grave, about to give himself up to die of hunger and thirst, he hears the very faint and hardly perceptible jingle of the camel's bells in the distance, which, as it gradually draws nearer and nearer, grows louder, inspires him with fresh hope for his life, and when at last friends draw nigh, and rescue him from the beak and talons of the vulture, that all the while is hovering over his head, he gives thanks in a joyous and sudden outburst of music, thrill's his hearers, and makes the piece as interesting as it is grand.

Mr. Heathfield played the accompaniments during the entire performance in excellent style and spirit.

Mr. T. McNaughton brought the performance to a close by another exhibition of club swinging. The gas was turned down, and the large clubs were illuminated.

God Save the Queen was played by the Orchestra, and the audience dispersed all highly pleased.

Groundlessness of the Dynamite Scare

Ottawa, March 17.—It is stated to-day that the reason why the guard was increased at the Parliament buildings was due to the fact that sneak thieves were operating in the corridors of the House recently, and an effort was being made to capture them. This was the reason why parties not known to the messengers last evening had to give a full explanation as to what they were doing in the premises.

Cattle Plague in England.

Washington, March 15.—Secretary Frelinghuysen has received a letter from Minister Lowell setting forth that the cattle plague in England is likely to become an important political question there in agricultural localities, and gives anxiety to the Government. The wish and hope of the farming interest is for the absolute exclusion of foreign cattle. The question has grown to such dimensions, the latter says, that the person most qualified to give an opinion thought it to be politically the most important which would confront the Ministry in any election that might occur in an agricultural constituency.

The Press on the Liberals.

London, March 17.—The Daily News predicts an early resignation of the Cabinet, and asserts that the existence of the Government and Parliament is in hourly jeopardy. The Echo says Mr. Gladstone's worry is retarding his recovery. It urges him to maintain the policy of refusing to annex or protect the Soudan, notwithstanding the objections of his colleagues Mr. Gladstone's career, it says, is drawing to a close, and it hopes it will end in a manner worthy of his fame. The St. James' Gazette asserts that a serious Cabinet crisis is imminent. The Soudan trouble is not the only trouble about which there is a disagreement.

Rumours are current in the lobbies of the House of Commons that the resignation of Mr. Gladstone and other members of the Government have been under consideration at three Cabinet Councils. The majority of the Cabinet are in favor of a prolonged occupation of Egypt, to which Mr. Gladstone is opposed. Mr. Gladstone is suffering from laryngeal catarrb, and requires rest and care.

There are undoubtedly differences in the Ministry as regards the length to which Great Britain should go in the Soudan war, but not enough to cause a split. The Ministerialists are confident that whatever happens Mr. Gladstone will insist upon a final decision by Parliament on the county franchise question.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required in nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarilly be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

EAST GREY.

MR. NEIL MCCOLEMAN, the Liberal-Conservative candidate, was yesterday returned by the electors of East Grey, to succed the late Mr. Lauder as their representative in the Provincial Legislature.

THE CHARGES OF BRIBERY.

So far no very clear light has been thrown upon the circumstances of the alleged attempted corruption of members of the Local Legislature.

Messrs. Wilkinson and Kirkland were brought before the Police Magistrate on Tuesday, but the case was adjourned till Friday, bail being refused.

In the Committee on Privilege, Dr. Dowling and Mr. Balfour made unsworn statements implicating Mr. Kirkland, a lumberman from the United States, with limits on the international line and extending into both countries, as making the first advances, to secure advantages in his business, and Mr. Wilkinson as paying them money, or depositing it as a guarantee of their obtaining office.

Mr. Dowling also spoke of offers from Mr. Bunting, but Mr. Bunting flatly denies the statement of Dr. Dowling, whose unsupported account is of course worthless, he being notoriously corrupt, and his offences having been pronounced by a judge so grave as to unfit him to sit in the House, or even to exercise the franchise.

A sub-committee, consisting of Messrs. Mowat, Fraser, Badgerow, Meredith and Morris, was appointed to prepare a report.

ONE EXAMPLE.

The Ontario Government endeavours in every possible way to keep information respecting the Public Accounts from the Opposition and the people. The necessities of their position require concealment. Nevertheless scraps of information come to light occasionally, much to their discomfort.

A scandalous fact was revealed on Friday. The Government is just now trying to make a little cheap capital by pretending to be opposed to immigration. At the same time it is spending laree sums of money to promote immigration. A writer was employed to prepare a pamphlet in [illegible] to come to Canada, but it was not desirable to let the people know that anything of the sort had been done; and the sum paid for the service was fraudulently charged to another account.

It is difficult to say how far such a transaction partakes of the nature of crime. If a merchant should detect his book-keeper doctoring accounts in that manner he would discharge him on the spot. Probably he could not have him otherwise punished; and we presume the Provincial Treasurer cannot be punished for fraudulently charging money for a service never rendered. But this is not by any means a singular instance. The accounts are made up in the most general terms. In "Sundry items," so much may be made to cover almost anything; and the Public Accounts are filled with such entries.

But to such a government as that of Ontario the falsification of accounts is a trifling matter. —Hamilton Spectator.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, March 17.—The troops at Suakin manifest great discontent at the prospect of being ordered to advance to Berber. They consider the campaign useless. The Gordon Highlanders and mounted infantry will go to Handouk to-morrow.

RUMOUS REFUTED.

Gen. Graham has been ordered not to push his reconnoissance far beyond Handouk. It is not true that Turkish troops are going to Suakin, or that the British Government has decided to send an expidition to Sinkat and Berber. The offer of a reward for the head of Osman Digma was made against the orders sent Gen. Graham.

THE SANDWICH GAOL TRAGEDY.

DETROIT, March 17.—The details of the escape of Kennedy and Callaghan are as follows:—Leech, the gaoler, accompanied by turnkey Davis, made their usual rounds at 8 o'clock in the morning. Just as the key clicked in the lock, indicating that the grated iron door was to be opened that the dirt might be swept out and the turnkey admitted to lock the cells, Callaghan made a rush. He timed his action so accurately that he struck the door when partially ajar. His sudden movement crowded Leech behind the door and against the wall. Callaghan had a pistol, which he presented full in Leech's face, exclaiming, "Throw up your hands." As to what occurred just at this moment there is a conflict of testimony. Davis says no sooner had Callaghan made this cry to Leech than he (Callaghan) fired his revolver, while the prisoners claim that there was no report at this point of the struggle, nor until the combatants had reached the front part of ward No. 1. Be it as it may, Callaghan had no sooner reached the corridor than he struck Davis a stunning blow with the butt of his revolver, cutting an ugly gash in the cheek and breaking his nose. The two men made their way struggling across the corridor to the front of Ward No. 1, Callaghan having first thrown the door of ward No. 1 shut, having secured the keys as he forced his way out. With these in his hands, impeded somewhat by Davis, who was half stunned by the blow received, the two came to the door of ward No. 1. Callaghan shook his opponent off for a sufficient time to insert the key with a view to Releasing Kennedy, but Davis, with admirable pluck again grasped Callaghan and succeeded in pulling him away from the door. Kennedy up to the time the unusual disturbance had attracted his attention had been enjoying himself in a game of checkers. Soon he saw his old pal, and realizing that a life and death struggle, involving his liberty, was on hand, he rushed to the door of his ward. Just as he reached there Callaghan had been jerked away by Davis, and Kennedy reached his hand through the door to turn the key and get the assistance of his fellow-prisoner. On noticing this movement, Leech thought the desperate situation demanded a resort to extreme measures. Then, according to the prisoners' statement, occurred the first discharge of a revolver, though Davis says Callaghan had fired at Leech just as he burst through the door of the ward. Leech aimed at Callaghan and fired twice, the latter responding with two discharges of his revolver, and also firing twice at Davis, who says he dodged and escaped. At the first shot Leech was seen to reel, and at the second fell upon the stone floor. Kennedy by this time made his way into the corridor and took a hand in the conflict. Davis was fighting as well as he could after the injuries he had received, but appreciating the necessity of securing help was crying "murder" at the top of his voice. Kennedy rushed upon him, but Davis struggled and sounded the warning at the same time. Under the stairway was a heavy bottle in which oil was kept. Seizing this, Kennedy dealt Davis a murderous blow over the head, stretching him unconscious upon the floor. The two prisoners then unlocked the corridor door leading to the main hallway, a short flight of stairs intervening. The noise made in the desperate struggle below had aroused the attention of a crazy woman in the flat above, and she stepping to the speaking tube, notified Mrs. Palmer, the matron, that there was a row going on in the basement. The latter started for the basement to learn what was going on, but at the top of the stairway encountered Kennedy and Callaghan. The latter pointed his revolver at her and snapped it, and the two then rushed past her through the hallway and out into the street. The desperadoes were seen to take a horse and buggy from the Catholic church. Several farmers' conveyances were pressed into service, and the houses in the neighborhood were ransacked for firearms. In fifteen minutes the road leading to Windsor, in which direction the murderers fled, was swarming with armed men.

DETROIT, March 18—During yesterday the excitement across the river was stimulated from time to time by reports of the progress made in searching for the murderer Callaghan. The first report was to the effect that he had been found dead in a field behind Windsor, which gave very general satisfaction, but the report was too good to be true. Next came the startling intelligence that he had been caught and lynched. This also proved on investigation to be false. Towards evening a man came rushing to Walkerville with the information that he had seen a man enter a charcoal pit at the rear of the place. The pit was at once surrounded by about 200 men, and Chief of Police Bains and policemen went through the pit and made a thorough examination, but found no trace of their man. To make assurance doubly sure, the furnaces were lighted that they might drive him out, but he did not appear, and search in that direction was abandoned.

Last night Windsor and its vicinity were watched as closely as on Sunday night, and the authorities are determined not to relax their vigilance until the murderer has been starved out of his hiding place and once more placed under lock and key.

Speculation as to Callaghan's whereabouts is indulged in as freely as ever. The latest theory is that the man who it is claimed handed the escaped prisoners revolvers crossed the river in a small boat and when he met his pals sent Callaghan to the boat while he went on with Kennedy towards Windsor. No reliable clue has been found to Callaghan's whereabouts. Several Detroit officers are working with the Windsor police. One rumor, which comes from a source that might be expected to be authoritative, is that Callaghan crossed to Detroit under the very noses of the officers disguised as a woman. His small figure and feminine cast of features would render such an attempt possible.

The funeral of the murdered gaoler, George O. Leech, will be held in St. John's Episcopal Church to-morrow afternoon.

The Paris Matin refers to the communication as parallel to Mr. Sargent's letter on Germany's exclusion of American pork, with the difference that both political parties in England accept the truth of Mr. Lowell's statement, which rather tends to raise him in English estimation.

RULE OR RUIN.

THE efforts of the Reform emissaries in Manitoba to create discontent and stir up sedition in our Prairie Province and the adjoining territories have had very little success where they are known and are properly appreciated. They have unfortunately been more successful in their openly avowed attempt to injure the country if they are not allowed to rule it. The carrying by this traitorous political clique of a resolution warning emigrants not to settle in Manitoba, has been already used abroad, as was the intention of the movers, by our rivals in the work of settlement, to induce people leaving the old world to settle south instead of north of the international line. It has also already answered its other intended purpose, by making capitalists shy of investing in public works in a country cursed with such base domestic enemies. These agitators thus hope to injure the whole country and to persuade the people that they will be permitted no peace or prosperity till these conspirators can obtain office.

Winnipeg papers that have just come to hand show that the country is now becoming alive to the mischief that is being done. The genuine farmers, whatever their politics, are now repudiating these disappointed politicians, bankrupt traders, and venal journalists who have had the effrontery to pose as genuine settlers. The municipalities, too, are moving to counteract the evil as far as possible. The Winnipeg city council has unanimously adopted a resolution condemning the unpatriotic resolution of the Reform clique. The only objection came from Ald. Calloway, so bitter a politician that he actually blamed Ald. McCreary as a Reformer for moving the condemnatory resolution, and even he dared not raise hand or voice against the proposition to make it unanimous. In Brandon, too, the Council passed a similar resolution by a vote of six to one, and other municipalities are following their example. This is very satisfactory but it cannot undo the mischief, for as Ald. Dewrey informed the Winnipeg Council, the Northern Pacific has already had the traitorous resolution printed on fancy paper for circulation, and capitalists have already withdrawn promised funds for the construction of branch railways.

Although this evil has culminated among these broken men, this Reform clique in Manitoba is after all but the natural outcome of the policy of the Reform party throughout Canada. They seem to have adopted for their motto, "Rule or Ruin," and their efforts seems to be concentrated upon impeding the progress of the country, maligning it and making its government impossible, unless they are restored to the power that they so greatly abused.

WANTING COMPANY.

THE Globe is making desperate efforts to implicate the managing Director of the Mail in the charge of attempting to corrupt members of the Ontario Legislature. Without attempting in any way to substantiate the charge against him, it is endeavouring, with Mr. Mowat's assistance, to make the country believe him guilty by mere force of clamour. Infamous as this conduct is, it is not unnatural from the Globe's point of view. The leading Reform journal has proved itself guilty of vainly endeavouring to corrupt not only two or three but over forty members of the Dominion House of Commons, and has been vigorously condemned even by friendly journals for its iniquity. That is why it is so anxious to have the country believe that it has companions in guilt. So it abuses the Mail without a shadow of proof, though even if all it said were true the fault of the Mail would not be one tenth as great as its own. The Globe not only attempted to corrupt a whole Province, but it offered to do this by means of a payment from the moneys of the people of Canada, the very demand for which it had hitherto been stigmatising as an attempt to rob the people of Ontario.

It is not surprising that the Globe is anxious to make the country believe that it has companions in guilt, and that being taken red-handed in its own crime, it wishes others to be condemned unheard.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

No St. Patrick's Holiday—The C. & Q. Bill passed—Dioceses Incorporated—The Reform Leaders and the Grand Trunk—The Orange Bill Defeated—Mr. Blake leads the Opposition to it.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Mr. DALY on Monday moved that the House adjourn at 6 o'clock as it was St. Patrick's Day.

The Speaker after some discussion stated that the motion could not be made without notice.

R. C. DIOCESE OF PONTIAC.

Mr. WHITE (Renfrew) moved the House into committee on the bill to incorporate the Roman Catholic Diocese of Pontiac.

Mr. BLAKE said the decision in the Dobey case had thrown doubt upon Local Legislation, so he would support the bill.

Mr. MCMILLAN objected to such powers being given to deal with real estate.

Mr. CARON said they could only do so subject to personal laws, and they could not hold property for more than ten years except for church purposes.

The bill passed through committee and was read a third time.

R. C. DIOCESE OF OTTAWA.

Mr. CHAPLEAU moved the House into Committee on the bill as to the Roman Catholic Diocese of Ottawa, explaining that it was to ratify a Provincial Act.

Mr. WHITE (Hastings) said he and his friends were not opposing these measures, and he hoped the leaders of both sides of the House would give as little opposition when the Orange bill came up, both of them being largely responsible for the legislation of the House.

Mr. BLAKE disclaimed such responsibility but said that individually he was willing to support the bill to remove the doubt as to the jurisdiction of the Provinces.

The bill passed through committee and was read a third time.

DOUBLE TRACKING THE G. T. R.

Mr. CURRAN moved the House into Committee on the bill enabling the Grand Trunk to re-arrange its debt and to raise money for double tracking their line.

Mr. CAMERON (Victoria) called attention to the fact that there was a doubt as to the present legality of the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk and Great Western, and that it would be legalized by this bill.

Mr. MACKENZIE said he thought it had been decided that the amalgamation was legal. He was opposed to such amalgamations, and if it were not already complete he would object to legalize it.

Mr. CURRAN quoted the opinions of Messrs. Westlake and Dorey, eminent English counsel, of Sir J. Macdonald, of Mr. Blake's firm, of Æ. Irving, Mr. C. Cameron, J. Hillyard Cameron and John Bell, to the effect that the amalgamation was legal.

Mr. MITCHELL proposed to prevent the Grand Trunk from buying the sureties of other companies.

Mr. BLAKE regretted the amalgamation. If it had been effected they would do nothing, but if it were still to be leagalized they should not do so, though he was in favor of facilitating working arrangements between the two companies.

NO ST. PATRICK'S HOLIDAY.

Mr. BLAKE, who had risen shortly before six o'clock, continued speaking till that hour, so as to prevent Mr. Daly upon moving the adjournment for St. Patrick's day.

G. T. AND G. W. AMALGAMATION.

Sir J. MACDONALD after recess said that it was not the fact as stated that the Government had taken charge of the bill. In view of the statement of Mr. Cameron, Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Blake, he thought the debate should be adjourned for further consideration.

Sir C. TUPPER said the bill had been amended so as to meet the views of the Government and to remove their objections. They approved of the construction of the double track between Toronto and Montreal, and believed that their lien, though postponed, would be more valuable. As the leader of the Opposition had expressed grave doubt of the legality of the amalgamation and was prepared to oppose it if not already effected, he thought the debate should be adjourned.

Mr. MILLS asked what course the Government would adopt if the views expressed as to the illegality of the amalgamation were found correct.

Mr. CAMERON (Victoria) said he did not wish to be taken as opposing the amalgamation, which might be advisable now that the fusion was so complete, but if the House legalized it they should do so with their eyes open.

The motion for the adjournment was carried.

THE ORANGE BILL.

Mr. HECTOR CAMERON (Victoria) moved the second reading of the Orange Incorporation Bill. He said the Bill was substantially the same as last year, with the alteration of a few words, which had seemed to give some offence. They only asked to be empowered to hold property like other societies. They were willing to have a vote taken at once, but they were prepared to discuss the question if it were desired.

Mr. MILLS was for discussion. The House had not the power to deal with the matter which was within Provincial jurisdiction. Besides the history of the society showed that it was not advisable to give them the power they asked.

Mr. CAMERON (Huron) quoted Sir John Macdonald as authority for the matter being within Provincial jurisdiction. He objected to an Orangeman being allowed to bequeath property to his lodge, and in the incorporation of the by-laws in the bill. He argued at some length that it was a political organization and a cause of strife and ill-will. He read various speeches and documents to prove this.

Mr. THOS. WHITE (Cardwell) said it was strange that want of jurisdiction to give rights to hold property was alleged. That afternoon they had passed without opposition bills to give to corporations such powers. Earlier in the session they had incorporated the Methodist Church with similar powers, and in that case also their by-laws were made a part of that statute. Mr. Cameron had quoted an old Orange platform, but it was also the old Reform platform. "No separate schools;" that was a Reform cry, but the Conservatives gave separate schools, and two Grand Masters voted for the bill, while the Reformers, as a body, opposed it, under the lead of Mr. Geo. Brown. "No sectarian grants," and that also was an old Reform cry. "Taxation of church property," also a cry of the Liberals, and so with the rest of the platform. It contained the very principles of the Reform party. Mr. Cameron had talked of the strong language of Orangemen. It was mere milk and water compared with the speeches of his late great leader. The Orangemen were in truth far more Liberal than the pretended Liberal party. But they were to be denied incorporation because the Opposition members said they did not like their politics—a dangerous principle for legislation, if it were to become general. In his own constituency Orangemen and Roman Catholics met as friends and neighbors, and an act of incorporation, far from causing ill-feeling, would tend to remove any where it existed.

Mr. BLAKE said he would speak as an individual, not as a leader of the Opposition. He denied that the Reformers had held any caucus as to this question last session. This measure was not similar to that as to the Methodist Church. When the Provinces desired to empower to hold property he would confirm it.

Mr. THOS WHITE said there was nothing of the kind in the Methodist Bill.

Mr. BLAKE understood that there would be concurrent legislation. Orangemen were incorporated in Manitoba, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, but they wanted to coerce unwilling provinces. The law in Quebec made Orangeism illegal. He strongly condemned all secret societies. The Orange Society was political, but he did not oppose its incorporation because its political views were opposed to his own. It was because they opposed him as a charitable and political society. He was not acting from clerical dictation as had been said. He opposed Orange incorporation because Orange Tories were united in political bonds with Quebec Tories. He objected also to their assumption of having a monopoly of loyalty. He was a strong Protestant but he could not support a society of this kind.

Mr. WOODWORTH censured the leader of the Opposition for the bitterness he had introduced into the debate, and his attack upon all secret societies, including the Masons, of whom the heir to the throne was Grand Master in England. Mr. Blake maligned those of whose good deeds he knew nothing. As to the charge that Orangeism was a political institution, they had never so acted as a body or invaded private rights, but as a majority of them were Conservatives, Mr. Blake opposed them. His other motive was a hypocritical attempt to make party capital with the Roman Catholics. Mr. Blake had quoted opinions of them expressed by Orangemen, but said nothing of the virulent abuse employed by his party and his leading journal, never repudiated by them, against the Roman Catholics. Some quotations from the Globe proved the truth of this charge. He thought Mr. Blake in his new role would not make much by his strategy.

Mr. WHITE (Hasting) said Mr. Blake had ridden into power by his hypocritical use of the death of Thomas Scott, having offered in one legislature a reward of $5,000 for the murderers, and then in that House let some of them go free. By his insults to the charitable societies, Mr. Blake had overshot his mark.

Mr. CURRAN thought that the House had no right to deal with the bill, and several other members took part in the discussion.

Mr. CAMERON (Victoria) said that much time had been wasted in this discussion without a vote being charged. He criticised the hypocricy of Ontario Reformers who had stifled the bill in the local house and then denied the jurisdiction of the House. Mr. Blake's blandishments would be lost upon the Quebec members, who knew that the Orangemen were better friends to them than the Reformers. He discussed fully the legal question of jurisdiction.

The motion for the second reading was negatived by 105 to 68.

N. P. OBJECT LESSONS.

The Toronto News feigns some amusement over what it calls the "object lessons" by Mr. Wigle; but is this not the most convincing form of argument after all? As has been remarked, the member for North Essex came armed with proofs at all points. One of the "object lessons" he produced was a good felt hat which could be bought from the Canadian makers at $4.50 a dozen, or 37½ cents each, and asked how an article of that quality, at so low a price, could be increased by 25 per cent., the amount of the duty. This was a poser to the Opposition. The yard of Canadian tweed which Mr. Wigle next held up was another simple, yet convincing, "object lesson." It weighed 1 lb. of wool to the yard, and could be purchased at 50c. a yard, or 20c. for wool and 30c. for manufacture. The Opposition were again silenced as he put the query, "Where does the duty of 70 per cent. come in?" as they asserted, To clinch the matter, Mr. Wigle produced a yard of grey cotton of Canadian manufacture purchased at 5½c. a yard, enquiring again where the duty of 60 per cent. applied. These practical illustrations, call them "object lessons" or what you will, completely upset the pretension that the price of home manufactures is increased by the amount of duty, and destroyed all calculations of the Liberal speakers. Yet it is probable that they will go on asserting and reasserting that the amount of duty is necessarily added to the price of an article. They make no allowances for the effect of internal competition which follows possession of the home market, whereas every one knows from this own experience from the "object lesso" before them every day, that goods which are among the highest protected by means of the tariff can be had in Canada to-day cheaper than they can be imported for from the States. As Sir Leonard Tilley pointed out lately, we pay less now for our sugar than we did under the Grit tariff, which gave the American refineries control over our market. And not only are we getting the goods cheaper, but the sugar industry gives direct employment to over 3,000 persons, who but for the tariff would have to look elsewhere for a livelihood. The same with cottons, hats and caps, tweeds and other branches of manufacture. Such "object lessons" appeal to every one in the community, and are the very best argument and refutation of the fallacy that the consumer is bled at all points for the benefit of grasping monopolists.—London Free Press.

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the "great pain cure." It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

is a preparation of carbolic acid, vaseline and cerate called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

A DOUBLE BENEFIT.—James Moore, a prominent resident of Leamington, writes that he cured himself of Dyspepsia of a year's duration by one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and two bottles cured his wife who had been for years a sufferer from the disease. He conscientiously recommends it to all suffering from similar troubles.

A FAVORITE EVERYWHERE.—Wherever introduced Hagyard's Yellow Oil finds friends. It is the old reliable household remedy for external and internal use in all aches, pains, lameness and soreness of the flesh. A. I. Geen, a prominent druggist of Shelleville, says: "It is a great favorite here, and has a good sale."

THE DRESS OF THE DAY.

The chief particular in which the dress of our day errs against common sence in the excessive weight that characterises it, owing to the quantity of material now used for dresses. "Silk is sold by the acre now, is it not?" asked a gentleman in the days of rotund crinoline and distended skirts, referring to the quantity needed for a gown, and the satire in applicable now, though even the crinolette is no longer worn. The stuff is obsorbed in ocasionally incoherent trimmings and too often irrelevant draperies. It needs skill—and skill is too costly to be at the command of any but the wealthy—to produce a costume that shall have the air of being elaborately trimmed, and yet be light enough to wear without inconvenience during a brisk walk. It has been within the experience of thousands of Englishwomen during the last few years, to have chosen a fabric, selected the style of making, and decided upon the trimming, with the result of a gown delightful to look upon, but impossible to wear. Thus arose the demand for woollen materials, combining warmth and lightness, a demand which was promptly responded to, with the occasional result of disgusting old-fashioned shoppers who test a fabric by its weight, as well as by a peculiarly horrible way of trying to scrape a hole in it with the thumb-nail. Minds open to more enlightened impressions were soon, however, convinced of the value of these vicugnas, serges, tweeds and other cloths; but, unfortunately, they have had the effect of encouraging, rather than discouraging, elaborate trimmings. Thus the fact remains that for the million unduly heavy dresses are the rule. It seems absurd that fourteen or fifteen yards are needed to make a gown for a woman, while about five yards are sufficient to make a greatcoat for a man. It is fortunate, in view of this fact, that train dresses are worn only at dinner and in the form of tea gowns. The added weight and inconvenience of a train, which must be held in the hand, would render a walk a penance instead of a pleasure. It may be hoped that Fashion will never reintroduce the long skirt for outdoor wear. It has nothing to recommend it, even from the point of view of the dressmaker, who has now found it possible to crowd all bearable trimmings upon the limited surface of the short dress. When trains first went out, leaving the feet plainly visible, coquetry brought them more prominently into evidence by the introduction of the high heeled boot. This has now almost entirely disappeared from the walking gear of the fashionably dressed, and there is even a hope that high heels may vanish from the ball-room before long; and, with them, their peculiar influence on the dances of the day. The jerky valse, now in so much vogue, would soon be consigned to oblivion, together with the sharp little "tap tap" of the narrow, enlongated heel of the fashionable shoe; and those who realise that even ball room dancing might be softly poetic and dreamily graceful would cease to be irritated by the sudden swing and the violent onslaught of couples engaged in the arduous trois-temps. Let such as these hope for the abolition of the high-heeled dancing-shoe, even though it be followed by the mournful elegies of those deficient in stature though not in the ambition of preferring tall partners.

In addition to short skirts and to low heels, the present form of bonnet may be enumerated among the sensible points of the dress of the day. The sweeping reformer, it is true, advocates the headgar that shall protect the ears, the upper part of the forehead, and the back of the neck, in addition to shading the eyes. Efforts to "think out" such an article of dress result in something resembling the cabriolet or coalscuttle bonnet of a by-gone period. Were such to reappear, the wearers would be assailed by a storm of satire, whose winds would blow from every quarter of the heavens at once. The studieds quips and scorns of the Press would be to the same effect as the less studied utterances of the colloquial coal-heaver or the pert street boy. Were the national head gear feminine to come to be of this shape, the charwoman and laundress would be provided with a lucid reason for wearing their bonnets all day long, as they do in the house, and even in bed, as is their apparent custom, since no one has ever within the memory of man seen a charwoman bonnetless. The coal-scuttle variety would be too comprehensively protective to be doffed without some serious risk. It could not be called neat, nor, though some faces would look lovely enough in the depths of its calm secinsion, would it prove generally becoming. The pretty little close bonnet which the Princess of Wales introduced among us, and exerted her influence to retain, may be said to be both, notwithstanding the curious and inexplicable fact that it is always the woman with extremely large noses and obstrusive foreheads who wear the very smallest samples of the Princess bonnet. Again, in the matter of sleeves, the dress of to-day is at one with the dictates of common sense. The modern sleeve gives freedom to the arm, and it is no longer necessary for any one to adopt the inconsequent course of putting on the bonnet before getting into the bodice of the dress, as a young lady confessed to doing when Fashion decreed such tight sleeves as incapacitated her from raising both hands to her head at once. When approaching Summer, sleeves may again recede to the vicinity of the elbows, but during the Winter they have been adequately long. In another direction, a serious indictment must be brought against those who follow Fashion into extremes. It is still too much the custom to lace tightly, and to pinch the waist into an unsymmetrical deformity. But it must be conceded that the fashions of the day very fairly admit of the natural waist being displayed at the owner's will, and have even permitted the usual allowance of hips to be worn again, after a temporary enforced retirement. It is as true of reigning modes, as of all others, that the best dressed persons accept as much of them as they find adaptable to their requirements, and unhesitatingly reject the remainder.—London Standard.

A Curious Journal.

An anti-English journal is about to be published in Paris by General Ed-Din, an Afghan sheikh. Ed-Din is acquainted with prominent Irish Nationalists. He claims to be descended from the Prophet. His journal will be circulated in Moslem countries, and bales of it are now ready at Constantinople. Ed-Din professes undying enmity to England. He took part in the Sepoy revolt, and a few years ago occupied the chair of philosophy at Cairo University. He was arrested for sedition and sent to India.

The Cause of Ireland.

At a meeting in Newcastle-on-Tyne on Monday Mr. William O'Brien, M.P., said the cause of Ireland was never more hopeful. He declared the Government was on the eve of a downfall. Mr. Charles Dawson, Liberal, speaking at a meeting in Glasgow, said the agitation conducted by Mr. Parnell in Parliament, and by Michael Davitt outside, had resulted in the gift of forty-five million pounds to Ireland.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE SHANTIES.—Messrs. Ullyott and Sadler are now breaking up the shanties for the season. Men and teams are coming out daily. Messrs. John Barr and Mr. Burke, were the respective foremen in the two shanties on this route. A good steady winter's work has been the result of their operations. We hope that all the lumbermen will realize good prices when they ship their lumber in the summer.

LICENSE INSPECTOR.—Mr. Chas. Leary, License Inspector for the Provincial Government, paid this place an official visit last Thursday. He brought with him the necessary credentials for the re-issue of licenses for the Lakeview House, Jas. E. Kearney, proprietor. Mr. Leary looks hale and hearty, and makes one of the best license inspectors the Ontario Government has yet appointed for this riding.

THE ROADS AND WEATHER.—We have had one or two snow storms of a mild form lately, but the strong sun soon melts the snow, and by-and-bye, especially when the drifts in the regular highways have to be tackled, which must be soon, good-bye to the roads for travel for two or three weeks. Vennor says we are going to have a late spring. I say no. So just wait and see. He has been off his base this winter so far.

SPRING.—Any amount of black crows have been seen about for the last ten days, and even the sparrows look jolly, their old-fashioned chirrup making one feel good and forget the long dreary winter.

SURPRISE PARTIES.—The young lads and lassies are enjoying themselves this winter by going around to their neighbors and having a good time dancing, &c., a very innocent way of spending the long winter evenings.

CARE OF FORESTS.

The Agricultural Committee of the House of Commons of Canada met on Friday March 14th, and heard the evidence of Mr. Thayne of the parliamentary library, who said he had devoted a great many years to the study of forestry and had visited most of the finest forests of Europe. Forestry, he said, is intimately bound up with agriculture. The denudation of forest trees is a great injury to the agricultural interests of the country. In South France, for instance, whole districts have become depopulated, owing to the shepherds on the slopes of the Appenines having cut off the small growing trees for fuel and having left the surface soil exposed to rains, which washed it away. Other countries in Europe have suffered in the same way, and the damage done can only be repaired at immense cost. If we, in this country, said Mr. Thayne, destroy the vegetable barrier at the north, we expose ourselves to severe storms and cold. Forests have, it is well known, ameliorating influence upon the climate. They equalize the weather and preserve our lakes and running streams. As to forest planting in this country he thought it was not yet necessary; but every farmer in the country who had bare fields should plant trees, to break the winds of and afford shelter to his stock in summer. In many European countries the government has taken away some of the private rights over forests, and insists that they shall not be destroyed; and if a man thinks it advisable to cut down his forest wood, the whole of the neighbouring landholders must be consulted. In Canada no cafe is taken of the forests, and the government makes no provision whatever for maintaining the supply of wood. But in Europe the tendency to control the forests is every year stronger, and it is considered necessary that at last 25 per cent, of the land shall be covered with wood. In the older provinces of Canada the government should, in Mr. Thayne's opinion, set apart the timber lands to leased out in blocks, from which all the trees of a certain diameter might be cut down, and after this is done they should be left alone for a while, till the remaining trees became sufficiently large to be cut. Such care of forests would be an advantage in supplying employment in winter to men who would without them have had nothing to do here, and would afford timber for a continuous supply to meet the requirements of trade. Mr. Thyane said he favoured the the importation of foreign trees, on the same principle of culture which renders expedient a change of seed. A new species can be introduced to general advantage only by a government agency in which the public would have confidence. It would be absurd to compel persons who go to live on the great plains of the Northwest to plant so many acres of trees; for there are no nurseries from which to obtain plants and no protection against the fraud and carelessness of dealers residing hundreds of miles away. If proper nurseries were established by the government, so that new settlers could obtain young trees, and the information necessary to their successful cultivation, they would prove a great benfit. He favoured the establishment of a central bureau of agriculture as a source of information and encouragement for farmers all over the country. The race of life is now so keen that unless special measures be taken we shall lose in the competition with our neighbours and the rest of the world. The Federal Government looks after the interests of trade and commerce, and therefore, should not neglect the chief sources of trade and commerce that the country possesses. Upon agriculture and the care of our forests depends in a great measure the prosperity of our country, and the best known methods should be adopted for their promotion and care. Under central bureau these methods could be taken, and, by means of experimentation, new methods could, from time to time, be introduced and applied. There is, in Mr. Thayne's opinion, no reason why a central bureau and experimental stations should not be as beneficial in Canada as in other countries,

The Spanish Conspirator's Plot.

The conspirators arrested at Madrid had formed a plot to seize the palace when the Ministers were assembled and the King was presiding. Several of the men arrested Saturday and Sunday on suspicion of being engaged in a conspiracy against the Government have been set at liberty, there being no evidence against them. The total number of persons arrested is twenty-two. The newspapers Progresso and Porvenir have been seized, and will be prosecuted for attacking public institutions.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

Grand Concert.

We understand that the Cricket Club intend giving a grand concert on the 17th of April, and that the celebrated young violinist, Lenora Clench, has been secured for the occasion.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—North-east to north winds; fair to cloudy weather, with local rains in southern Ontario, slightly higher temperatures. During the month of February 136 probabilities were issued for this district. Of these 109 were fully verified, 15 partly verified, and 12 not verified. The whole number issued was 587, of which 72.2 per cent were fully verified.

The Streets.

The Street Inspector did a good action yesterday, when he put a man to work with a scraper to clean the crossings on George and Water streets. They were in a bad condition, but to-day they are almost as clean as floors. The work of clearing the snow off the sidewalks on portions of certain streets, which the Street Inspector was instructed to do by the Town Council, is nearly completed, and the people living in the north, south and west parts of the town will be thankful for it. Men are still engaged in carrying out these instructions, and the money appropriated will just about do the work.

A Lively Scene.

A man who hired a rig at Tierney's livery stable on Tuesday brought it back to the stable at about six o'clock with a broken shaft. He refused to pay for the damage done, and when urged to do so he threw off his coat and prepared to fight. He got the worst of the bargain in that, however, and he then drew out of his pocket a large pocket-knife. This he was persuaded to replace in his pocket (a club having been picked up to enforce the persuasion), and a comrade having agreed to see that remuneration was given for the broken shaft, he paid for the use of the horse and departed. Quite a crowd collected while the argument was going on and witnessed the encounter.

Artistic.

We had the pleasure to-nay of viewing two oil paintings in Mrs. Esterbrook's photographic studio of the late Mr. T. Esterbrook and the late Mr. W. Thompson, and also a crayon picture of Mr. W. Croft, of Lindsay, painted by Mr. W. Mason, a deaf and dumb artist of Toronto. The paintings are life-like and excellent. Mrs. Esterbrook, as agent, receives orders for such paintings. They were painted from cabinet photographs. We were also shown several photographs colored in water colors, which work was done in the studio. They were very pretty indeed, and the work was artistically executed. Other cabinet pictures showed that excellent work is done in Mrs. Esterbrook's studio, and the scenery used in many of the photographs was unique and very fine.

THE MIDLAND OFFICES.

Their Removal to the Station Building—Where they will be Situated.

Carpenters and workmen are engaged at present in making alterations in the Midland station building, preparing offices for the reception of the officials of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk. The alterations will make a great change in the interior of the building, and when they are completed all the offices of the Division in the town will be moved into the rooms prepared there.

The public rooms—the ladies' and general waiting rooms—which have been in the southern wing of the building, will be moved to the northern part. It is thought that this will be a more convenient situation for them, as they will then occupy that part of the building next to the town, and which is first reached by persons going to the station from the town. They will not be quite as capacious as the waiting rooms were, but they will be plenty large enough, it is thought, for the purposes for which they are intended.

The district traffic manager's offices will be in the southern part of the building. A partition is being built in what was the general waiting room, making two large offices in that wing of the station.

The central portion of the building will be occupied by the district superintendent, the despatcher's office, and the town agent.

The upper story of the building has not heretofore been used, and was not finished. It is now being prepared for occupation. A small portion of the north-east room called the gentlemen's waiting room, but which was not used, has been partitioned off, and the steps leading to the upper flat have been put in it. The engineers' department will occupy the whole of this upper portion of the building.

It is expected that these offices will be ready for occupation by the end of the present month, when the offices at present occupied by the officials will be vacated and those at the station made use of. The change is expected to make matters more convenient for business purposes by having all the offices so close to the station and freight sheds, whatever other effects it may have.

The preparation of these offices in this building looks as though the departments for the reception of which they are being made were to be a permanent fixture in Peterborough.

We also understand that arrangements will be made to preserve order at the station, and to prevent loitering in the waiting rooms.

STRAY SHOTS.

Notes of the Saved Army and their Meetings and Sayings.

A supply of the hymn books used by the Saved Army having arrived, officers went among the audience on Tuesday night selling them. They were bought up rapidly, and an improvement was noticed in the singing.

The collection was taken up in hats, the collection baskets being absent. The impression was that they had been "appropriated" by mischievous persons, but they had only been mislaid.

While the collection was being taken up Capt. Willis sang a hymn. He sings very well.

The Rev. T. Manning, B.A., read a portion of scripture and commented on it. He dwelt on the experience of Christians—the evidence they possessed of being saved.

Mr. Manning remarked that he had read the various views that men entertained regarding life, but none of them were as reasonable as the Christian's belief.

The experience meeting was livelier than usual. The soldiers did more "sharp shooting.

Capt. Willis again referred to the good order maintained at the meeting here, which was better than at any of the stations he had visited. The order during the prayer meeting, however, might have been much better.

One man who was making himself conspicuous, was escorted out of the hall by Constable Adams.

The ranks of the soldiers were swelled on Tuesday night by the accession of a number of converts.

The Opera House will be the scene of battle again to-night.

Personal.

The Rev. Mr. Stobo was very cordially received on the occasion of his introduction to his congregation in Quebec.

Venturesome Stenographers.

Three young gentlemen, whose social position and rare intellectual acquirements are guaranteed by the fact that they are all stenographers, on Tuesday afternoon determined to do a famous act. They were bound to have the first canoe ride of the season. They drew their canoe out on the ice, and shoved it along until it reached the open channel, and then they boarded the frail vessel and had their ride. We wish to add the startling information that they got back to the boathouse without getting wet.

Social.

A very successful social entertainment was held at the residence of Mr. J. J. Lundy, Ashburnham, on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Society of St. Andrews' Church. There was a large attendance, upwards of one hundred persons being present. The "instrumental trio," Messrs. Best, Sanderson and Leck, were present, and delighted the audience with their music. The Misses Edmison furnished some excellent instrumental music, and Miss A. Errett gave a solo, Miss Errett playing the accompaniment. Mr. D. Galletly gave one of his favorite songs, Miss B. Hall gave a recitation, and readings were given by Messrs. H. Kay Coleman and A. Clegg. The programme was a good one and was appreciated. Refreshments were served during the evening, and a most enjoyable time was spent by those who attended. Mr. T. Fitzgerald kindly gave 'buses to convey to and from the social, free of charge.

BATHING HOUSE.

To the Editor of The Review.

SIR,—Circumstances occurred last year which prevented, for the time, the carrying out of the project of erecting a bathing house, but I am glad to see that it is being revived this year. A little effort will now carry it through. Even independently of the question of comfort and cleanliness, it is a fact that every improvement of this sort will tend to make our town a more desirable place to live in, and will naturally attract strangers.

Our present Mayor was elected to his high office because it was justly considered that he would be a leader in all matters of a progressive nature affecting the town. I call on him as such leader to take the matter up, and suggest that he should call a public meeting to consider the question with a view to immediate action.

There are some other things that our progressive Mayor will be expected to take the initiative in, especially the planting of trees and the park question. But one thing at a time, and first, the bathing house.

Yours, &c.,
E. B. EDWARDS.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—St. Patrick's day, as a religious festival, was observed in the different Catholic churches. A concert was given at Albert hall under the auspices of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Association. An excellent musical programme had been prepared, and in addition an oration by Mr. T. Phillips Thompson had been announced. The annual entertainment in aid of St. Nicholas Institute was held in St. Lawrence Hall. The place was crowded to the doors, and many who came late could not get even standing room, and had to go away disappointed.

FREE LIBRARY READING ROOM.—The public reading-room in connection with the Free Library was opened to the public on Monday. The room is at present only temporarily furnished, but it is expected that in about ten days the proper furniture will be put in.

THE PLASTERER'S STRIKE ENDED.—After five months of dispute the differences between the plasterers and their masters have been amicably settled. Last night a joint committee, representing both parties, met at 88 York street, and before they adjourned everything was satisfactorily arranged. Messrs. C. Chase, Alex. McCord, and E. Coath represented the plasterers; Messrs. M. J. Hynes, R. C. Dancy, and John Poucher, the masters. The men have been out on strike since the 18th October last.

THE SUICIDE.—The body of the man who committed suicide in the coach house at the corner of Yonge and Anne streets on Sunday morning still lies at the morgue unidentified. The morgue was visited by a large number of persons who thought that the description of the body published in the Mail seemed like that of a friend or acquaintance. Yesterday evening a despatch was received from Conductor Osborne, of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway, stating that he thought the body might be that of his uncle.

THE HUMBER DISASTER.—A communication was received by his Worship the Mayor from the Grand Trunk authorities announcing that Mr. Bell, who has for some time past been at Ottawa on business of the company, will on his return arrange with the city as to the amount of damages to be paid by the Grand Trunk for the benefit of the wives and families of those killed in the Humber disaster. The city authorities are prepared to advise those claiming relief as to what amount they should claim from the company. In case the Grand Trunk are not willing to agree to the damages asked by the city it is probable that legal proceedings will be taken to recover.

Fatal Schoolboy Trick.

NEWARK, March 17.—Rollie Coleman, aged 10, a son of Prof. Coleman, died yesterday after undergoing an operation to extract a lead pencil, which had been held perpendicularly under him as he was sitting down, by a schoolmate in one of the public schools.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand respect—but the grey hairs of young people require attention—In the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Thousands of men and women lose their beauty with their hair, and very large numbers restore it by using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold J. D. Tully.

Every one speakes highly of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters as a Stomach, Liver and Kidney Medicine. "The best family medicine we ever used," say they all. Try a bottle this Spring as a blood purifier.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

The new Scotch Tweed Suitings at "Habiliment Hall" are the admiration of all who see them.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy.

A marvellous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Headache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50 cts. Sold by J. D. Tully wholesale, retail agent.

A CAIRO despatch says the Khedive's mother is dead.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

THE failure of Mason and Semonine, tobacco firms at Louisville, Kentucky, depresses the tobacco trade very greatly. Mason's liabilities reach $100,000 or more. Semonine is missing. It is believed he has left the country.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, MARCH 20, 1884.

THE BRIBERY CASE.

THE documents produced before the Committee on Privileges on Wednesday go to show that the bribes offered to members of the Legislature were to further some private business speculations. The principal one was a letter to F. S. Kirkland, one of the prisoners, from his partner, R. G. Peter, of $10,000 to secure certain timber limits in which the firm was interested.

The report of the committees recommending a continuance of the investigations was adopted.

The feeling is growing that, taking advantage of these private transactions of speculators, the bribed members conspired with Mr. Mowat and some of his colleagues to entrap if possible some prominent Conservative in order to make political capital by their own iniquity. The men of most shady reputation in the Reform ranks seem to have been chosen to act as decoys.

HALIBURTON.

From Our Own Correspondent.

EXTORTION RESENTED.—The stand which Dysart made against extortion by the County has been fully justified by events. The County Council admit the illegality of the grant by their predecessors of $25 to each municipality, and of the levy on Dysart for their share. The execution against Dysart on this account is withdrawn, and the other municipalities repay to the County Treasury the balance of the illegal appropriation. Our Reeve is entitled to the chief credit of this satisfactory settlement.

DEER.—A deer came into our village on Wednesday, March 18th, but it was soon chased out by his natural enemies.

A BULL FIGHT.—Mr. Capon, of Minden, township, was nearly killed by his bull the other day in his place. It got loose and gored and trampled on him breaking one of his ribs and breaking or seriously injuring his leg, his young son then rushed at the bull with a pitchfork; Capon, injured as he was, grasped the ring in the bull's nose and made him secure, when Mrs. Capon pulled him away in a fainting condition.

A BALL.—The ball given by the representatives of the lumbering firms in the Company's Townships was a brilliant affair. There was a large gathering of guests from all quarters, the train bringing up quite a number. The Town Hall, in which the ball was held, was gaily decorated with evergreens, flags, snowshoes, and other appropriate emblems, and an abundance of choice flowers added to the attractions of the supper room. The supper, which was served in the basement of the Town Hall, was worthy of a city, and included every conceivable luxury, rare fruits, etc. Dancing was kept up until early dawn.

LINDSAY.

SHOT WITH A PISTOL.—A boy named Sanderson was shot with a pistol on Wednesday. He tried to fire the revolver, and "it" hung fire." While looking down the barrel the cartridge exploded, the ball entering his neck near the artery. It was feared the wound would prove fatal, but we learned by telephone this morning that he was recovering.

PORT HOPE.

FOR MANITOBA.—A train of five coaches filled with passengers, and fourteen freight cars with live stock, implements, &c., from Millbrook, Port Hope, and vicinity, started on Tuesday night for Manitoba and the North-West. Mr. S. Beamish went with the party.—Guide.

The Royal Canadian Academy.

The Royal Canadian Academy have issued their annual report containing the announcement that they will hold their next exhibition in montreal, the gallery of the Art Association having been granted for the purpose. His Excellency Lord Landsdowne, who is patron of the Academy, will be preside at the assembly of members on the 15th of April, and the exhibition will open on the following day.

For a Nobby Pair of Pants try Andrew McNeil.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, March 18.—The News says it believes the Government will decline to sanction the appointment of Zoebehr Pasha as Governor of the Soudan.

PACIFICATION OF THE SOUDAN.

Zoebehr Pasha says no settlement of the Soudan question will be stable without a supreme power at Khartoum, that a suzerainty is essential, and that trade is the best antidote to slavery.

MUTINEERS FLOGGED.

Sixteen Egyptian camel-drivers have been flogged at Suakin for bolting during the battle at Tamaneib. Forty Egyptian gendarmes have been flogged for mutiny.

OSMAN COLLECTING A FRESH FORCE.

Spies report that Osman Digma is trying to collect a fresh force. The officers of the Black Watch regiment have received a despatch from Lord Wolseley, saying, "Black Watch, well done."

FRANCE AND CHINA

PARIS, March 18.—it is reported that Li-Hung-Chang is submitting a basis of peace to to the English and American Ministers at Pekin, and is asking them to intervene. It is stated that France will demand a heavy indemnity and will occupy Chinese territory to guarantee its payment.

THE CHINESE ROUTE COMPLETE.

Gen. Millot has been instructed to advance as far as he considers advisable. The occupation of Langson, Kaobang, and Laokai, it is thought, will be necessary to provide for the security of Tonquin. Gen. Millot telegraphs:—"The rout of the Chinese is complete. It is useless to pursue them further, Fort Phulang will be our advancing post."

A Texas Hero.

Mr. Ben Thompson, who killed twenty men in Texas, was buried with as much pomp as if he had built twenty churches.

Brant's Monument.

BRANTFORD, March 18.—The two French models competing for the Brant monument arrived yesterday. One of the French competitors is a relative of Rosa Bonheur.

Kingston Tramway Company.

KINGSTON, March 19.—The directors of the street railway met last night and endeavoured to raise $8,000 to pay Mr. Britton's claim, but only $7,000 could be secured. The railway is now a total wreck.

Mormonism in Georgia.

ROME, Ga., March 18.—Elder Echols, of the Mormon Church, has created another sensation by introducing polygamy into Georgia. He has made many converts in Paulding County, and has just started for Salt Lake with a beautiful young lady who is to be sealed to him.

Unruly Medicos.

MONTREAL, March 18.—A man called at No. 4 Police Station to-day to complain of the medical students who go to the Hotel Dieu for instructions. He stated that they insult people, even young girls, on the street, and they had pitched snow at him. The matter will be immediately taken up and seen to by the police.

A Steamer for Stanley Pool

A steamboat, named the Stanley, has recently been shipped in sections by the British and African steamship Senegal for the Congo river. On arrival the sections will be conveyed to Stanley Pool, and will be used on the waters of the Congo between that point and Stanley Falls.

Earthquake in Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F. March 19.—A violent earthquake shock was experienced here yesterday. The weight of the disturbance was felt in Trinity, Harbour Grace, Heart's Content, Hant's Harbour, Brigus Bay, Roberts, and Holyrood. At St. John's the disturbance was feeble. ### An Impecunious M. P. P.

At Osgoode hall yesterday an order was obtained on behalf of Messrs. Stewart & Mc Pherson, wholesale grocers, of Hamilton, attaching the $1,000 paid to the Speaker by Mr. McKim, M. P. P. Wellington West. The latter gentleman is a judgment debtor of the applicants for $1,300, and they seek to recover this money, if Mr. McKim is entitled to it, in part payment of the debt. The order has the effect of binding the money in the hands of the Speaker, and the argument for its payment over will take place in a day or two.—Mail

A Serious Charge.

TORONTO, March 20.—On complaint of Mary Kelly, a girl about 19 years of age, Patrick Sullivan, cab-driver, was arrested last night at his home, 66 Anne street, and locked up at No. 2 station. He is charged with rape. A warrant was also taken out for Thomas Best, 33 Murray street, but it was not put into execution, as Best went to police headquarters and gave himself up. The charge against Best is indecent assault. It is said that the girl was riding with him in Sullivan's cab, and that they took advantage of her after driving out King street, west. Best's friends claim that the whole affair is an attempt at blackmail. The charges will be investigated to-day.

DYNAMITERS IN FRANCE.

PARIS, March 19.—The speeches made on St. Patrick's Day at Belleville contained hints that more explosions would occur in London shortly. The ranks of the dynamiters are being recruited by large accessions of the Irish in Paris. Radical revolutionists and delegates from the Irish Republican Brotherhood are joining them, as they are convinced it is impossible to face England in the battlefield.

LONDON, March 19.—Mr. Gladstone has gone to Coombe, in Surrey. He is guarded by a detective.

THE PEERS AND THE REFORM BILL.

LONDON, March 19.—Sir Charles Dilke, speaking at the National Liberal Club this evening, said the Opposition had been trying to force a dissolution of Parliament in order to save the peers from the odium of rejecting the Reform bill.

THE COPYRIGHT CONFERENCE.

BERNE, March. 19.—Switzerland's efforts to hold a conference at Berne on international copyright in August are faintly supported, England will send a delegate without power to bind her to the decision of the conference. Greece and Holland decline to enter into a compact. The only answer from America is a notice of the receipt of the invitation.

A JOURNALIST WITH THE MAHDI.

LONDON, March 19.—O'Kelly, the correspondent of the London News, is now with El Mahdi. He was well received. Sir Evelyn Baring considers Gordon safe, as steamers are able to navigate the Nile to Khartoum.

GORDON'S SITUATION CRITICAL.

LONDON, March 19.—A further advance of the British in the Soudan is imminent. Gen. Graham favors a continuation of the campaign. Gordon's situation is considered critical. An extended reconnoisance was made this morning from Handouk, but the rebels were nowhere seen.

SUFFERINGS OF BRITISH TROOPS.

LONDON, March 19.—The men and horses under Col. Stewart entrenched at Handouk are suffering from intense heat and brakish water. It will be impossible for them to maintain their position. Gen. Graham urges an early decision to either order the advance of the reinforced army against Sinkat or to withdraw all to Suakin.

WALLACE AND THE VIZIER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 19.—Minister Wallace brought the Grand Vizier to reason by hinting that he was in readiness to receive his passports. The General was not only received but Said Pasha has accepted from him what he had previously refused when declaring that the Minister of Foreign Affairs was the proper person to address—namely, a formal protest on the petroleum question. There is a general delay in the settlement of American claims.

He has not been arrested.

Denunciation of Bismarck.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—In the House today, on the second Lasker resolution, Ochiltree delivered a eulogy on the high abilities and noble character of Lasker. He said the present incident showed of what base metal Bismarck was moulded. He had ever been a flatterer and sycophant to royalty, who had never upheld the rights of the people, and lost no opportunity to denounce popular sovereignty. Well might this proud and haughty instrument of despotism seek to shut out American principles from the hearts of the German people. The principles of absolute imperialism could not withstand the moral power of American freedom.

Guenther contended that the citizens of the United States were not in favour of submitting to affronts on the national dignity without presenting them in the most decided manner. He was opposed to the apologetic tone of the resolutions adopted, but heartily favoured those under consideration.

Reduction in G. T. R. Eastern Rates.

KINGSTON, March 19.—Another answer was received to-day from the Grand Trunk railway to the merchants' petition asking for a reduction in Eastern rates. It said that instructions will be given the agent at Kingston to way-bill eastbound freight at special rate. This is satisfactory, and will enable Kingston merchants to control a large amount of business.

THE GRAND TRUNK.

THE Reform leaders during the discussion of the loan to the Canada Pacific Railway Company strenuously opposed the advance in the interests of the Grand Trunk. Now they are adopting a similar obstructive course to place obstacles in the way of the Grand Trunk's proposed development of the country by the construction of a double track between Toronto and Montreal. Apparently their opposition springs from the fact that the Government, having secured certain modifications they considered necessary, are supporting the measure. Perhaps, however, the hostility of the Reform leaders to this improvement arises from the feeling that it would never do for them to aid a measure that will be so beneficial to the country, and that would reflect credit upon the Macdonald administration in the eyes of the people who would be greatly benefitted by the additional facilities.

THE CHARGE OF BRIBERY.

The History, Objects, and Interests of one of the Prisoners.

We take from the independent Toronto World usually a very well informed journal, the following particulars as to one of the prisoners on the charge of corrupting members of the Ontario Legislature :—

WHERE KIRKLAND COMES IN.

Frank S. Kirkland of the city of Neillsville in the state of Wisconsin, counsellor-at-law, arrived in Toronto before Christmas, bringing with him letters of introduction to various persons in the city. He located at the Rossin House. He gave out that he was interested in lumber and in mining lands on both sides of the Pigeon river. The Pigeon river empties into Lake Superior and runs northwesterly from the extreme northwestern corner of the lake. It forms the boundary line between Ontario and the state of Minnesota. Kirkland and his partners own a large tract on the Minnesota side of the Pigeon river some few miles up from its mouth. Kirkland and his associates bought 10,000 acres on the Canadian side. They could not get a patent till it was surveyed and in order to get the document they employed surveyors of their own to do the work, which cost them forty thousand dollars or more. Then Kirkland says he applied for the patent and got it, but he was surprised to find, so he says, that patent reserved the timber to the government. In Minnesota the timber goes with the land. Altogether they had spent $60,000 on the lands which was worthless to them without the timber. Kirkland was sent down to Toronto to secure the timber if he could. He interviewed Mr. Pardee, but it was told he could not get the timber except at public sale.

KIRKLAND'S OPERATIONS.

Kirkland stopped at the Rossin. He mixed among the members a great deal. He was anxious to make their acquaintance. He did make their acquaintance. More than this, he is said to have entertained them lavishly. He is even said to have taken them to places where members would not [illegible] their constituents. Kirkland, whenever opportunity offered, insinuated his grievances into the ears of members, conservative and reformer alike. Kirkland, so it is said, was told that he would get the timber if the government was defeated and Mr Meredith got in power. He was told that Mr Pardee was anxious to keep the timber for his political friends, the Cooks, the Caldwells, etc. Accordingly he joined forces with the conservative cabal and sought to defeat the government. He tried to buy reform members to vote against the government's timber policy.

WHO IS KIRKLAND WITH?

If Kirkland is only a lumberman anxious to secure timber he does not care a rap for either party. He has played his game and lost, and is anxious to get home. Who can help him best out of the scrape? Conservatives or Reformers? If the Conservatives wash their hands of him as Mr. Bunting did in the Mail yesterday, and as did certain prominent members of that party on the street, then Kirkland will look to the Reformers, and if he knows anything damaging to Bunting and Meek he will expose it and them? It is said that he complains that the Conservatives are not standing by him.

KIRKLAND'S INTERESTS.

One of Kirkland's partners is a big lumberman named Peters, of Manistee, Mich. They own the tracts on both sides of the Pigeon river. They own also the improvements on the river, and these are mostly on the American side. But they are now applying in the Ontario Gazette for letters of incorporation for the "Arrow river log-driving association and improvement company," a tributary on the Canadian side of the Pigeon river. The capital is $3,000, and the first directors are to be Mark H. Irish, of Toronto, Thomas Marks, of Port Arthur, Thomas Caswell, of Toronto, and Frank S. Kirkland, of Neillsville, Minn. The object of this company is to work the Canadian side of the Pigeon river.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The Motion to Repeal the McCarthy Liquor Act Defeated—An Appeal to the Law Courts as to Jurisdiction Resolved upon —Suspension of Penalties Pending the Decision.

THE LIQUOR LAWS.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD moved on Tuesday that Mr. Houde's motion for the repeal of the McCarthy Act should be the first order of the day.

MR. HOUDE called attention to the paragraph in the "speech from the Throne" in 1883, that legislation on the liquor question was necessitated by the Privy Council decision re Russell. He argued that the later Privy Council decision re Hodge disposed of this contention, as it recognized the jurisdiction of the Province, and therefore he thought that they should repeal the McCarthy Act to which effect he moved.

SIR HECTOR LANGEVIN complimented Mr. Houde upon his temperate advocacy of his views. He disclaimed in this instance or in any other a wish to encroach upon Provincial rights. He believed, however, that the liquor law should be uniform as far as possible throughout the Dominion. He could not agree with Mr. Houde in his conclusions from the decision in the Hodge case. But he believed that the whole question of jurisdiction should be referred to the courts. He therefore moved in amendment that it was "expedient that the question of the competence of Parliament to pass the Liquor License Act of 1883 should be submitted with all convenient speed to the Supreme Court of Canada, or the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council or both." To prevent hardships in the meanwhile it would be provided by a bill to be introduced that penalties should not be imposed pending the decision.

MR. AMYOT did not believe that the Government wished to interfere with Provincial right, but thought it in error in this matter as the Privy Council had decided against it. He therefore thought an appeal to the Courts unnecessary, and would support the motion for repeal.

MR. FLEMING thought the plea of necessity was proved to be unfounded. The Province had the right to legislate, so he would vote for the motion of Mr. Houde.

MR. BOSSE said as there were conflicting decisions he was in favour of a final appeal to the Privy Council. The suspension of the act would prevent any rights being infringed meanwhile.

MR. LAURIER said the true reason for the Act was the desire of the Government to deprive the Ontario Ministry of a power which it was asserted they had used for political purposes. He opposed the Act as being in the direction of centralization.

MR. GIROUARD contended that the Hodge decision only applied to police regulations, and in support of his view quoted the judgment. He considered the McCarthy Act constitutional, but as there was a doubt he considered the right course was being taken. Of course the local government would be represented, and by this precedent they would establish a safeguard for Provincial rights.

MR. DAIRES thought the Act had been proved unconstitutional, and that a suspension of the penalties would preclude an appeal to the Privy Council.

MR. MACMASTER said the Hodge decision did not go to the constitutional question, but the Scott Act being held valid the McCarthy Act was valid also. He thought the Privy Council should be called on to interpret decisively the B. N. A. Act. The Opposition seemed to wish to make a political football out of the question.

MR. WELDON thought the Hodge decision had set at rest any doubts raised by the Russell case. He argued for Provincial rights and for the special charter of the city of St. John.

MR. FAIRBANK opposed the McCarthy Act.

MR. OUIMET moved in amendment to strike out all clauses not relating to prohibition, and to leave other questions to the Provinces.

The amendment to the amendment was lost on a division.

Sir H. LANGEVIN's amendment was then carried by 117 to 63, several Quebec Conservatives voting for repeal.

PROPOSED LIQUOR LEGISLATION.

MR. MILLS asked what was the intention of the Government to give effect to the motion just carried.

Sir J. MACDONALD said the Government would introduce a bill to carry out Sir H. Langevin's motion, and the course they intended to pursue would then be explained.

MR. MOWAT'S CONDUCT.

MR. MACPHERSON in the Senate on Wednesday spoke of the charge against him, repeated by Mr. Mowat in the Ontario Legislature, of having been a party to corrupting members of the House. He expressed surprise at this improper conduct of Mr. Mowat, and gave a most unqualified denial to the statement.

NORTH-WEST NEWS.

ARRIVAL OF GRAIN.—Grain is arriving in large quantities at Morris.

ORANGE MEETING.—A meeting of Orangemen will be held at Pilot Mound on 21 inst, for the purpose of forming the new L. O. L. County of Lorne, and for the election of officers, etc. New lodges are about to be organized at Smith's Hill and Wakopa.

PROMOTION OF IMMIGRATION.—Ald. Mulvey introduced a motion at the Winnipeg Council meeting recently to the effect that the new debenture by-law be ammended by inserting the sum of $10,000 to be expended in promoting immigration. He said he believed a resolution had been published to the world setting up a wall barring immigrants from coming into the country, and he wished to have the voice of the council as representstives of the city of Winnipeg on the matter.

HARDSHIPS OF TRAVELLING.—A Swift Current despatch of the 10th says: The train has been fifty hours in a snow drift. A terrible blizzard is blowing. Provisions are short. A relief engine from Swift Current was twenty hours making fifteen miles. The passengers had one biscuit each for supper on Sunday; coffee for breakfast this morning and another biscuit at 2 p. m. Mr. Shields and party started to meet the relief engine, and had a hard time. The men were nearly exhausted shovelling. Provisions have been divided among all the company.

Destruction at Durham.

DURHAM, March 18.—Last night Cochrane's large foundry was completely destroyed by fire together with all the mahinery and a great quantity of finished and unfinished horse rakes, land rollers, horse powers, and mowers were consumed. The total loss is estimated at $25,000; insurance as far as can be ascertained $3,000.

DRINKING BAD WHISKEY.

Two Men Dead from Its Effects and Two More Seriously Ill.

OTTAWA, March 17.—A shocking story of the sad results of a night's debauch comes to the city from Buckingham, a village about twenty miles from here, down the Ottawa river. It seems that one day last week three young men named Gilbert Roi, Thos. Bruneau, and Hewston, and another party whose name my informant could not recollect, entered a hotel kept by John Windsor at that place, evidently for the express purpose of having a jolly time. They drank freely during the afternoon of the fluid which is dealt out in country taverns about this vicinity under the name of whiskey, and in the evening when the hour for closing had arrived they were helplessly drunk and unable to go to their homes. While in this condition they made their beds on the floor of the bar, and there slumbered, one of them, Bruneau, never to wake in this world, for in the morning it was found that he was stone dead. An inquest was subsequently held, and the intelligent jury brought in a verdict of death from heart disease. The other three men were taken to their homes. After much suffering Gilbert Roi died two days later. The other two are still dangerously ill. The liquor sold to these men must have been rank poison, and the fatal results produced by it only shows the necessity of a stringent law to prevent the adulteration of liquors.—Toronto News.

An Extraordinary Woman.

NEW YORK, March 18.—A woman's screams brought a policeman to a livery stable on 125th street to-day between twelve and one o'clock. He found a girl clinging to the door of a carriage in which a newly-wedded couple were about to start on their wedding journey. The girl made a desperate but vain attempt to enter the coach and her shrieks aroused the neighborhood. All the parties were taken to the station-house, where it was ascertained that the couple was Ferdinand Braun, a furniture manufacturer, and his bride, the daughter of a wealthy citizen. The parties were married last evening. Braun was a widower with two children, and the girl who raised the disturbance was employed by him as a servant. She claimed that Braun led her to believe he would marry her, and learning he had married another woman she took oxalic acid, and was trying to get into the coach that she might die in presence of the newly-wedded pair. The poison was pumped out of her stomach and she will recover. Braun and his wife were allowed to depart.

Marriage Among Convicts.

A party of fifty women are this week leaving Bordeaux for New Caledonia under peculiar circumstances. They are, in fact women, sentenced to lengthened terms of imprisonment for grave offences, who have elected to go to the French penal colony, where they will each find a husband in one of the "convicts of the first class"—that is, those convicts by their good behavior entitled themselves to a government grant of land and obtained permission to marry. An inspectress of prisons recently made the round of six central female prisons, and selected the fifty inmates—all of them described as young and good-looking—who are now going abroad to make a frest start in the world. Once out they will be housed in a religious establishment at Noumea, managed by a community of sisters, where bachelor convicts of the privileged class will be permitted to visit them, and as often as a marriage is arranged the colonial government will provide the bride with a trosseau and set the couple up in housekeeping in a small way. It was Prince Napolean who, when he was Minister for Algeria and the colonies, introduced this system of convict marriages which has given excellent results so far.—St. James Gazette.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PROPERTY CHANGED HANDS.

Messrs. R. & J. Chapin have this week completed the purchase of that valuable water power north of Bridge street and intend to carry on extensively a planing mill, sash factory and cabinet factory. These works will be of great advantage to this village and the surrounding country. The prospects are pleasing.

NEW STAGE.

Mr. Charles Tighe, of this place, has purchased a team, &c., and is running a daily stage to Peterborough from Lakefield. Charley is, we understand, meeting with considerable success. The stage leaves Lakefield every morning at 9 o'clock, and returning leaves Peterborough at 3.30 p.m.

LAKEFIELD DAM.

Mr. Charles Wynne, the contractor of the Lakefield dam, has begun operations in real earnest, having a number of teams drawing stones and different parties getting out timber, etc. The construction of the two dams at Lakefield and the Point during the ensuing summer will give employment to a large number of men, and will be a great help to both places in making business lively. The hon. the Minister of Railways and Canals, deserves credit for his promptness in responding to the call of the people, and ordering the construction of these important works.

FORESTERS' MEETING.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Court Lakefield, No. 42, C.O.F. will be held in Union hall, Lakefield, on Thursday evening next, the 27th instant at 8 o'clock. On the last meeting night three candidates were initiated and three others ballotted for and accepted, and four propositions were received. This Court is making rapid forward strides, not only in the accession of good members but in financial position.

COUNCIL MEETING.

An adjourned meeting of the Village Council of Lakefield will be held in the council room on Monday evening next, the 24th instant, at 7.30 sharp.

CUT FEET.

Last week the old saying accidents seldom come singly was verified in this village. A young man named Carter cut his foot very badly, and a day or two after a young lad named Bell met with a similar accident. Both are, we understand, very painful and serious cuts.

ENNISMORE.

To the Editor of The Review.

DEAR SIR,—St. Patrick's day was celebrated with all due solemnity in Ennismore. The largest congregation ever seen within the sacred precincts of the Parish church assembled on the morning of the 17th. High mass was celebrated at 12 o'clock by the Rev. Father Keilty and two hundred and twelve of the sons and daughters of Erin received the Holy Communion. Miss Williams of Peterborough presided at the organ and performed her duties most creditably. Father Keilty preached a sermon on the life and works of the Saint of the day. He said that Irishmen and the sons of Irishmen were deservedly proud of their spiritual ancestry and it behoved them always to act according to the glorious ideal left them by their forefathers in the faith.

CONCERT.—In the evening a largely attended concert was held in the Town Hall. Recitations under the supervision of the teachers interpersed with music and singing under the supervision of Miss Williams reflected the greatest credit on all concerned. A brief address was then delivered by Father Keilty upon the material prospects of old Ireland. Everything seemed, he said, to point to a happy and a glorious future for Ireland. Under the leadership of Mr. Parnell and by aid of constitutional methods wonders were being achieved. Under the aforesaid leadership Ireland was soon to be, and in the near future, a contented and flourishing, albeit an integral portion of the British Empire. And in this sense would be realized the aspiration of Ireland's immortal poet,

"Great, glorious and free,
First flower of the earth,
First gem of the sea."

The people dispersed to their homes at 9.30 p.m., after giving hearty cheers for Parnell and constitutional methods—happy to meet sorry to part, happy to meet again.

MILITARY CERTIFICATES.—Lieut.-Col. Villiers is examining candidates for second class military certificates at Belleville. The following candidates were up for examination on Monday:—Capt. ## HASTINGS.

CREDITABLE.—Mr. Wm. O'Rielly, in the examination in Algebra at the Model School, Ottawa, obtained second place, with a score of 96 out of a possible 100.

RUNAWAY.—On Monday evening the Rev. Mr. Lewis' horse ran away from Fleming's crossing. As the excited animal reached the bridge in its mad career it happened that there was a cutter crossing at the same time and going in the same direction. The driver of the aforesaid cutter, hearing a clatter behind him and turning to learn the cause, took in the situation at a glance, concluding that in flight alone was safety, lashed his horse into a gallop to keep ahead of the beast tearing along in his wake, and which he succeeded in doing, reaching and turning Front street in safety. At this point an effort was made to stop the runaway but which only had the effect of causing the horse to diverge slightly from the straight course and which brought the cutter in contact with a telegraph pole, nearly throwing the horse on its side by the violence of the shock, the upturned cutter preventing the beast from again getting under way. It staggered across the street and came to a standstill at the hall door of the Clarendon Hotel. With the exception of a few slight cuts, a well-warmed hide and a broken shaft, no great damage was done.—Star.

Knowledge v. Trash.

Now that Toronto has its free library, we should look for a rapid increase of its population in knowledge and intelligence. Twenty-two thousand good books, with more to follow within a short time, placed freely within reach of all, should furnish a powerful aid to the general cause of education. It is to be remarked, however, that in the "circulating" portion of the library, the fiction nearly equals all the other departments put together. Five thousand volumes of novels does seem a liberal supply. We fear there must be some trash in the collection. Are there more than one thousand novels in the English language really worth reading? Are there a thousand?—Montreal Star.

University of Toronto Endowment.

The committee of Convocation of Toronto University appointed a few months since to present a memorial to the Government praying for assistance to enable the University to carry on its work waited upon the Attorney-General on Tuesday. The members of the committee present were:—Messrs. R. E. Kingsford (chairman), F. W. F. Creelman (secretary), W. Fitzgerald and Wm. Houston. Mr. Fitzgerald read and presented the memorial. Mr. Kingsford stated that he thought $30,000 or $40,000 would make the improvements which were absolutely necessary. This amount would give them a convocation hall and provide lecture rooms for ladies. The additions to the teaching staff would be another matter. Mr. Mowat promised to lay the matter before his colleagues.

The Suicide Identified.

About 11 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Osborne, of the T. G. and B. Railway, arrived at Toronto from Owen Sound and at once proceeded to the morgue, where he identified the body of the unknown suicide as being that of his uncle by marriage, Dr. Graham, of Chatworth, a station on the T. G. & B. Railway, a short distance beyond Orangeville. He states that the deceased came down the line last Thursday, but he does not know where he stayed in Toronto, and cannot assign any reason for his committing suicide. Dr. Graham was a married man without family, and his actions never led anyone to suppose that he was of unsound mind. The remains will be taken by train to-night to Chatworth for interment, in charge of Conductor Osborne.

How a Bear Caught Fish.

Very few people know that bears take to water naturally. They roam over the mountains and through the forests, dig open rotten logs for ants and worms, and secure all the hornets' nests they can, and tear them to pieces and eat the young grubs, pick berries of all descriptions and eat them, and would seem to belong to the dry land animals. The fact is different. They love the water, not, perhaps, as well as the moose and deer, but better than most dry land animals. They are very fond of fish and are expert fishermen, and show more cunning and instinct, if not reason, than many city chaps I have seen about the lakes. I came suddenly upon a very large bear in a thick swamp, lying upon a large hollow log across a brook fishing, and he was so much interested in his sport that he did not notice me until I had approached very near to him, so that I could see exactly how he baited his hook and played his fish. He fished in this wise: There was a large hole through the log on which he lay, and he thrust his forearm through the hole and held his open paw in the water and waited for the fish to gather around and into it, and when full he clutched his fist and brought up a handful of fish, and sat and ate them with great gusto: then down with the paw again, and so on. The brook was fairly alive with little trout and red-sided suckers, and some black suckers, so the old fellow let himself out on the fishes. He did not eat their heads. There was quite a pile of them on the log. I suppose the oil in his paw attracted the fish and baited them even better than a fly hook, and his toe-nails were his hooks and sharp ones, too, and once grabbed the fish are sure to stay. They also catch frogs in these forest brooks, and drink of the pure water on hot summer days, and love to lie and wallow in the muddy swamps as well as our pigs in the mire. They often cross narrow places in lakes by swimming, and also rivers, and seem to love to take a turn in the water. I once saw one swimming from the mainland to the big island in Mooselmaguntic Lake, with just a streak of his back out of the water, looking like a log moving along. Sometimes you see only their heads out of water; at other times half of their bodies are to be seen. We account for this difference by their condition. If fat, the grease helps to buoy them up; if lean, they sink lower in the water.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

The Spirometer.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

The Rev. A. H. Munro will preach a series of sermons in the Baptist Church on "Christ's Personal Interviews." The first of the series will be delivered on Sunday evening next.

Cricket.

The Globe, under the heading, "An acquisition for the Peterborough Club," says that the Peterborough Cricket Club are to be congratulated for the cricket spirit in negotiating with the capital cricketer and "coach," Mr. Walter Crosthwaite, to secure his valuable services for their club, although the Uxbridge Club would part with him very reluctantly.

For a Perfect Fitting Shirt try "Habiliment Hall."

Call Sustained.

The Guide says that at the regular meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery held in Cobourg on Tuesday, the call of the first Presbyterian Church, Port Hope, to the Rev. J. W. Mitchel, was sustained. The reverend gentleman was immediately communicated with and accepted the call. The induction will take place on Wednesday, April 22nd, the Rev. J. Cleland to preside.

Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. Charles Wynne, the contractor for the construction of the new dams on the Trent Valley route at Lakefield and Young's Point, evidently intends to push forward the work. He is now hauling the stone and preparing timber for the dam at Lakefield, having previously hauled stone and got out timber for the Young's Point dam. It is satisfactory to know that these important works are in such energetic hands.

New Maple Syrup!

First of the season just to hand. Also choice Mixed Pickles and Tomato Catsup. The above is sold by the quart or gallon. Also, by the pound, evaporated Pumpkins. Raspberry, Plum, and Black Currant Jams. Fine Assorted Jellies, and other varieties too numerous to mention. Pure Apple Butter, try it. Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Which is the Church?

Mr. Sailsbury has for sale, "Which is the Church?" by the Rev. G. W. Smithwell, A.M., in which the position of the Church of England, and the other branches of the Anglican Communion is forcibly and clearly upheld. He has also "Papal claims, in the light of Scripture and History," with an introductory chapter by Bishop Seymour, of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, being a very temperate and learned discussion of the right of the See of Rome to supremacy in the church.

Best Accommodation and Talent.

The Lindsay Warder of last week contained the following:—

"The music loving portion of the people o Lindsay are much indebted to Mr. Bradburn for the many varied and popular entertainments afforded them this winter. Since assuming the management of the hall he has spared no expense or trouble in first providing the best accommodation and then in securing the bes talent on the road. This season the Lindsay people have been treated to the same companies which have appeared in Toronto and in many cases exactly the same plays. This is more than can be said by any other town in this district, and even Mr. Bradburn could not accomplish it without sometimes running considerable risk. But we trust he will always receive sufficient encouragement to do so.

Our Boys' Jersey Suits are the Prettiest and Cheapest ever offered in Peterborough. Andrew McNeil.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

The Midland Mixed Delayed Six Hours—No Lives Lost.

The Mail says that on Wednesday night another railway accident occurred, the scene this time being at Scarboro'. The usual "trifling accident" was what they called it at the station, but if a trifling nature it was enough to delay the passengers for nearly six hours. The train was due at the Union station at 7 p.m., but did not reach its destination till near one o'clock this morning. The Midland mixed, which was the unlucky train, arrived at Scarboro' shortly after six o'clock last night. The passenger coaches contained a number of persons living in Toronto, and whose friends were at the Union station awaiting their arrival. Hour after hour passed, however, without the expected train putting in an appearance. It was at last announced on the blackboard that it was three hours late, no reason, however, being given for the delay. When questioned the officials as usual appeared to know less about the matter than any one else. It was discovered that another "trifling accident" had occurred. Part of the train had left the track, but it was nothing serious. The facts are that when the train steamed up to Scarboro' the locomotive struck an open switch, and engine and tender left the track. The shock to the passenger cars in the rear was anything but trifling, and the affrighted occupants rushed out to enquire as to the damage. It was learned that the accident had fortunately not been accompanied with loss of life. Through somebody's blunder a switch had been left open and the locomotive and tender were standing powerless on the sleepers. The engineer and fireman, although somewhat shaken up, escaped with unbroken bones.

STRAY SHOTS.

Notes of the Saved Army and their Meetings and Sayings.

Although the weather on Wednesday evening was very unfavorable for a large attendance at the Army meeting, it did not appear to affect the attendance much. All the seats in the Opera House were occupied, and many were compelled to stand.

The Rev. J. W. Butcher read a portion of scripture and delivered a brief address. He pointed out that many persons besides the twelve Apostles were allowed to preach in their time, and argued that others besides ministers could preach.

The Rev. T. W. Glover was also present and took part in the meeting.

Capt. Willis again referred to the presence of children. A meeting was held on Saturday afternoons, and in future children under fourteen years of age would not be allowed into the evening meetings, as they occupied seats while many older persons were compelled to stand.

The Army won eighteen or twenty more converts at the meeting.

Could not the enterprising manager or the obliging caretaker of the Opera House make arrangements for better ventilation in the building? When the hall is as full as it usually is at the Saved Army meetings it is badly needed.

The meeting this evening will again be held in the Opera House.

A Big Cut.

We hear that a chopper of the name of Harry Lebbee, in the employ of Mr. Rober Dunlop, of North Monaghan, cut eight and a quarter measured cords of black ash between six o'clock in the morning and six o'clock in the evening last Tuesday, with a Wetmore axe. Who can beat this for a day's work?

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—North-east to north-west winds; cloudy weather with occasional showers of rain or sleet, followed by partly clearing weather; not much change in temperature.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Otonabee Lodge.

Otonabee Lodge, I.O.O.F., as is well known, possesses a very fine hall in Cluxton's block, which is magnificently furnished. This week an important addition has been made to the furnishings of the hall, which will add greatly to the pleasure of its weekly meetings. The addition is a fine piano, manufactured by Messrs. Mason & Risch, of Toronto. It is said to be a very fine instrument, with excellent tone. A committee of members visited Toronto last week and made the selection and completed the purchase. It is an upright, concert grand piano, and besides being used at the regular meetings of the Lodge, will be convenient for concerts and entertainments. We understand that the catalogue cash price of the instrument was $600.

Chow-Chow.

—Snow last night.

—Fine, spring-like weather.

—And sidewalks in a disagreeable condition.

—Five tramps inhabited the police cells last night.

—The curling season is about over and the stones will soon be laid on the shelf till next season.

—Joseph Murphy and his company are booked to appear in Bradburn's Opera House in September next.

—No cases in the Police Court this morning. Constable Pidgeon was anxious that we should not have another blank to report this morning, and he kept guard until two o'clock a.m. The town was almost as quiet as a church.

Bass & Co., Burton-on-Trent, India Pale Ale now on draught, at Chamberlain's Restaurant—direct importation.

Turnips.

Another supply of turnips at Carton Bros.

Fluid Beef.

Johnston's fluid beef on draught at Chamberlain's Restaurant.

Love and Suicide at Thirteen

Bentonville, Ind., March 10.—W. M. Dane, a school teacher here, aged 20, became enamoured of Ada Swift, 13 years old. The parents of the girl objected to the continuance of his attentions on account of her age. Saturday night Dane purchased two ounces of laudanum giving Miss Swift half and taking half himself. The poison failed to have a fatal effect being an overdose. Yesterday the father of the girl had Dane arrested for giving his daughter poison. Last night Dane shot himself, dying in a short time. The girl is seriously sick.

Foot-and-Mouth Disease.

Topeka, Ks., March 18.—The Legislature convened a special session this afternoon in accordance with the proclamation of the Governor to consider the means of prevention of the cattle disease.

Burlington, Iowa, March 18.—Dr. P. D. Frame, veterinary surgeon of this city, has examined the herd of cattle at Wapello reported to be afflicted with foot-and-mouth disease. He gives it as his judgment that the cattle are suffering from an ailment produced by frost. He says not one symtom of foot-and-mouth disease is manifested.

Respect.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand respect—but the grey hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Thousands of men and women lose their beauty with their hair, and very large numbers restore it by using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold J. D. Tully.

Every one speakes highly of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters as a Stomach, Liver and Kidney Medicine. "The best family medicine we ever used," say they all. Try a bottle this Spring as a blood purifier.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy.

A marvellous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Headache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50 cts. Sold by J. D. Tully wholesale, retail agent.

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the "great pain cure." It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

The Greatest Healing Compound

is a preparation of carbolic acid, vaseline and cerate called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 1884.

THE HON. D. L. MACPHERSON.

IT now appears that the only ground for Mr. Mowat's cowardly and knavish attack upon the Minister of the Interior, the Hon. D. L. Macpherson, was a letter from him promising to recommend the appointment of Mr. J. A. Wilkinson as Registrar at Edmonton, N.W.T., and giving him no authority to name anyone in his place. Before this affair there certainly was no reason why a Government appointment should not be given to Wilkinson, who was put to very heavy pecuniary loss by his exposure of the part taken by the Hon. George Brown, the great head of the Reform party, in the formation of the "Big Push" corruption fund for the use of the "party of purity."

Railway Accident in Ohio.

Ohio has been the scene of two more than usually horrible accidents this week. On Monday night, in a railway accident near Bayton, a fireman was pinned under the boiler of the locomotive and literally roasted alive.

Explosion of an Oil Still.

Sandwich Gaol Murder.

WELLAND, March 20.—Chief of Police Gilchrist last night arrested a man here on the strength of his resemblance to Callaghan, the Sandwich gaol murderer. He gave his name as John Wilson, and said he was born north of Toronto, but refused to give the county or township, and appeared very anxious to get out of the country, It is considered doubtful if he is the murderer.

Scott Act in Oxford.

WOODSTOCK, March 20.—The Scott Act was carried in Oxford to-day. A very large vote was polled. The majority for the Act will be about 800. The following are the places heard from at present:—Woodstock, against, 202; East Oxford, 5; Tilsonburg, 48. The following all gave majorities for the Act:—Ingersol, 3; West Oxford, 49; North Oxford, 1; North Norwich, 79; South Norwich, 142; Dereham, 150; Norwich, 70; Ebro, 45; West Zorra, 37; East Zorra, 56; East Nissouri, 154; Blenheim, 79; Brownsville, 60.

A Whiskey Detective's Cunning.

An inspector in Halton, Ont., entered a suspected hotel with a search warrant. As he went in unannounced there was the sound of a stampede, and he followed hard upon the footsteps of the retreating host. Disappointed at not seeing his man when he reached a bedroom he officer burrowed among the bed clothes that seemed to have been recently disturbed. Between the ticks he found a quantity of liquor, and further explorations of the chamber revealed the fugitive hiding in a closet. The hotelkeeper appeared before the police magistrate, and confessed to "keeping for sale" intoxicating liquor, and was fined $100 and $20 costs. That is the way the Scott Act is proving a failure in Halton.—Witness.

Callaghan, the Sandwich Gaol Murderer.

DETROIT, March 20.—A Toledo paper has the following about Callaghan, the burglar who murdered Gaoler Leech at Sandwich on Sunday:—"John W. Callaghan, and a gang of robbers invaded this city in 1876 and remained a year. During that time they committed numerous robberies, but could never be caught. At last, one eveping in the spring of 1877 the gang robbed a car driver of his box of change and left him for dead, Later they tried the same game on another car driver and were again successful. Suspicion at once fastened on the gang and Callaghan was arrested. At the first trial he was cleared, but on another charge he was found guilty, and sentenced to seven years in the Ohio penitentiary. After he served five years he was pardoned by Governor Foster. He came back to this city but did not remain long, taking up more comfortable quarters in Detroit."

LAFLAMME-MERCIER.

Split Between Hon. Messrs. Laflamme and Mercier—The Leader Denounced.

The independent Montreal Star says:—"The rupture between the leader of the Opposition in the Local House, and Hon. Mr. Laflamme, ex-Minister of Justice, is par excellence the burning question in provincial political circles, and promises to be fraught with the most serious consequences to the Liberal porty of the Province. Hon. Mr. Laflamme makes no secret of his feelings, and stated today that he was heartily sick of Mr. Mercier's double shuffling. The hon. gentleman has addressed a most scathing letter to La Patrie of to-day, in which he says that Mr. Mercier's conduct in nominating Mr. Descarries is a personal insult to the Liberal party. The fact, he says, of Mr. Mercier so nominating Mr. Descaries, does not make him the candidate of the party, and he does not think it is the duty of a political leader in a democratic country such as this, and much less of a Liberal leader, to impose a candidate upon them. Mr. Mercier, may, he continues, make secret alliances with the Conservatives in order to get himself into power, but he cannot choke off the expression of opinion which has been raised in opposition to his policy in the interest of his Conservative protege. Mr. Laflamme goes on to say that he is very much mistaken if the Liberals of Jacques Cartier will be duped by such measures, nor could they or the country be congratulated upon his accession to power by such means as he is now adopting, which must disgust any honest man. Mr. Laflamme then gives as his special reason for opposing Mr. Descarries the fact of his attending a Conservative caucus at which Hon. Mr. Taillon presided, and as he was unable to force his candidature upon the Conservatives he sold himself to the leader of the Opposition. After such disgraceful tactics, Mr. Laflamme asks If any honest Liberal can support such a candidate, and calls upon his friends to support Mr. Arthur Boyer as the true Liberal candidate in the country.—Montreal Star.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, March 19.—The men of war Condor and Myrmidon have gone to Suakin from Alexandria.

BEDOUINS IN FORCE ON THE NILE.

Telegraph communication beyond Berber is still cut off. The Bedouins are massing at points on the Nile. They have already occupied the region abont the Sabooka cataract and have blocked the river at that point. The Batakheer tribe is preparing to attack Schendy.

SURRENDERED GARRISONS MASSACRED.

The great tribes, the Haggas Bisharés and Butakheers have risen, and occupy the Nile from Duem to Shendy. It is rumoured at Dongola that the garrisons under Lupton Bey, in the Province of Bapr Gazelle, have surrendered and been massacred.

THREATENING ASPECT OF AFFAIRS.

The tribal rising in Egypt is universal from Kassala to Berber. The Arabs between Korosko and Assouan are also threatening revolt. Sheikh Soliman, with a section of the Hadden. dowas who fought at Tebb, will reoccupy Baker Pasha's fort near Trinkitat. Osman Digma's force around Tamanieb is increased by 35,000. Only two Sheikhs have gone to Suakin. Their tribes are small, numbering less than 15,000 combatants. Their adhesion is very deceptive.

IMMIGRANTS.—A batch of immigrants, mostly from Ontario, and several from the United States arrived on March 13th, and proceeded next morning to Indian Head and other places in the west. They are a fine class of people, and are pretty well-to-do.

Telegraph Competition.

A report that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is about to enter the lists as a competitor for telegraph business is confirmed on good authority. The Company, as is well known, has long been taking public messages on its lines in the North-West. The new departure will simply mean the extension of this practice to the older provinces. Ultimately telegraphic correspondence will be established by the Company's route between Montreal and Winnipeg, thus competing with the Western Union, which takes messages to the North-West round by St. Paul.

It is also said that the Canadian Pacific authorities, in pursuance of this poliey, are negotiating for cable connections with Europe. The question, in case they really wish to compete for transatlantic telegraph business, would be whether the company could legally work a line from Montreal to New York. This as an official of the company remarks, is a matter for the lawyers to settle.—Witness.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, March 20,—The Hawkeye on Tuesday published a humorous sketch of the celebration on St. Paterick's day. SOCIALISM AND ANARCHISM.

BERLIN, March 20.—In a debate on the anti-Socialist law in the Reichstag to-day, Hazenclever and Bebel protested against the identification of the Anarchists with the Socialists. They said the law had not injured the Socialists, it only exasperated them. The Prussian Minister of the Interior said the abrogation was now less than even advisable, as it protected Germany against dangerous excess with which most countries were afflicted. He said, "who dares deny there is danger, or affirm that strong measures are unnecessary? The views which Herr Bebel expresses here are brutally taught elsewhere. Revolution is the final object. A weapon is demanded for a short time to defeat socialism, and must be furnished." Bismarck said it was impossible to abandon preventive measures. The Progressist press promoted the objects of the Socialistic press in rendering the Government odious by exciting workingmen against the new social policy, and it behoved Parliament to combat the present dangers to society before blood, petroleum, and dynamite re-appeared. Bebel stated that Neumann, one of the promoters of the Freichets, the Socialistic organ, was actually a member of the Berlin police force.

The Black Flags will be allowed to retain all the towns from Tuan Kuan to Laokai on condition that they will guarantee the free navigation of the Upper Songkoi. ### CORRUPT LEADERS.

The recent instances of corruption, or attempted corruption, of legislators are very lamentable, not only as being in themselves great crimes, but also as staining the honor of our country in the eyes of the world. And this stigma on the good name of Canada is the more serious because there are implicated in these outrages men in high places, the acknowledged leaders of the party that has claimed to be exceptionally pure. The astounding laxity of the Reform leaders in this respect is calculated to besmirch the reputation of the whole country.

A few weeks ago we had the debasing spectacle of the leading Reform journal making a foul attempt, condemned even by the more honest of the press of its own party, to corrupt the whole of the Quebec Conservative members, by promising them public moneys in return for their support, after its persistent cries that they were robbers even for suggesting such payments. But the grave aspect of the case is that Mr. Blake, the Reform leader, actually allowed his name to be used to give weight to this corrupt bid, that he carefully avoided any repudiation or condemnation so long as the event to be fraudulently affected was undecided, and only expressed hypocritical dissent when the bribe was spurned, in short, giving his countenance to the corrupt attempt, and being quite ready to accept any advantage to be derived from his silent partnership in the iniquity.

Still more recently we have had a case of members of the Ontario Legislature taking bribes from some lumbermen and their allies, who wished to secure some timber limits, withheld from them, as they assert, for political favorites. This would be bad enough, but here again we have not only private members and outside bribers in the matter, but the leaders of the Reform party confessedly in the very front of this disgraceful affair. It is not only confessed but it is even boasted that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues plotted with some of the most unscrupulous of their followers, to deal with these private speculators, to meet them with lie after lie and with acceptance of their corruption, and above all to strive to entrap and decoy some unwary Conservative into complicity with all this roguery, or at least such dealings with them as might be represented as complicity. Can one conceive the state of a party whose leader could conceive the plot and find followers base enought to go to Conservatives and invite bribery in order by means of this conspiracy to raise a cloud that would hide the equally corrupt dealings of the leaders in their fraudulent mock election in Algoma? Fancy an Attorney-General of Ontario and his chosen followers acting the part of whiskey detectives, who would seduce a man into selling them liquor on the plea that it was for a sick man, and then give information of the crime they had invited to get the reward.

A little time ago men might have doubted whether Attorney-General Mowat could fall so low. But this session they have heard him defend his appointment of a thief to the bench, by saying that the wrongful appropriation of other people's money did not, in his eyes disqualify a man for the magistrary, and in spite of dishonest attempts to conceal the truth, they knew that he and his colleagues have carried out this theory by acting in the same way, by falsifying the public accounts so as to disguise as expenditure for the public service their outlay from the Provincial Treasury to corrupt Algoma in their own private interests.

With the leaders of the Reform party thus dealing openly with corruption, what can be expected from their followers? Is it strange that men are asking who are the members who silently accepted the bribes of the limit hunters, and what inducement to disgorge the money they had accepted for a corrupt purpose did the others receive? Conspirators to induce bribery in order to make political capital out of it, palterers with their own honor (such as had any left) in order to entice into guilt their political opponents, cannot be supposed to be very scrupulous under any circumstances.

It is a dirty mess and it is sad to see the Attorney-General of Ontario in the thick of it.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

Garbling the Evidence—New Parliament Buildings—The Government afraid to Stir—Waiting the Consent of the Opposition—Lively Bidding from Rival Cities.

THE BRIBERY MATTER.

Mr. HARCOURT presented the first report of the Committee on privilege on the bribery matter, incorporating some of the letters found and recommending further inquiry.

Mr. CREIGHTON pointed out the unfairness of not publishing the letters in full if at all.

Mr. FRASER said they could appear in the supplementary report.

NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDING.

Mr. GIBSON (Hamilton) moved that the present Parliament and Departmental buildings were indequate and unfit for their requirements and not in keeping with the resources and position of the Province. He said he had not consulted the Government as to this motion. He condemned the present buildings as unhealthy, inconvenient and unsafe, in fact a disgrace to the Province.

Mr. MORRIS supported the Mowat Administration, and hope that the Government would announce their policy. He spoke of the danger of their records from fire.

Mr. HAGAR also condemned the building and advocated a new one.

Mr. CLARKE (Toronto) held the same views. He pointed out the inadequate accommodation for the Press. Strangers seeing the building formed a very poor opinion of the Province. They could afford three quarters of a million for a fit building.

Mr. MCMANUS thought it a disgrace that the members be confined for two months in such unhealthy quarters. He thought, however, the government should not move unless the Opposition supported them, and he said that Mr. Meredith was responsible for the present state of things.

Mr. LEE thought it was generally admitted that new buildings were necessary.

Mr. WEELON said that if they had the surplus claimed they could erect a fit building. He would put in a claim for St. Catherines, which would give a free site and $100,000.

Mr. GIBSON (Huron) did not regret having voted half a million for new buildings for they were urgently needed.

Mr. METCALFE said Kingston would go $50,000 better than St. Catherines.

Mr. ERMATINGER offered $200,000 for St. Thomas. The Government should declare their policy. The proposal to raise a loan in the guise of scrip showed that the boasted surplus did not exist.

Mr. FERRIS maintained that there was a surplus and thought that when the Opposition agreed the Government should proceed. Toronto should not tax the buildings.

Mr. CARNEGIE thought that according to our Constitution it was the Government, not the Opposition, that was responsible to the country. But the Ministry shirked their duty and tried to lay it upon the shoulders of the Opposition, who were not called upon to frame a policy for them.

Mr. MEREDITH said the Government was abnegating its functions. He ridiculed the action of the Commissioner of Public Works who had stated in his place that new buildings were necessary, but that they must be postponed till the minority were ready to come to the aid of the Government. He believed the public buildings should be in Toronto, and should be appropriate for the purpose. He was ready to join in any reasonable expenditure for the protection of the public records, but the Government, though declaring them unsafe, took no steps to protect them. The Executive of the day was responsible for the expenditure of the public money and should formulate their policy. He moved in amendment:—

That the question of the propriety of and the necessity for new Parliament and Departmental buildings is one that ought to be dealt with in the first instance on the responsibility of the Government, and that this House ought not to be called upon to express an opinion upon the abstract proposition such as that embodied in the motion, or until a definite proposal comes down from the Lieutenant-Governor.

Mr. FRASER defended the cowardly inaction of the Government, and argued that it was not a matter for them especially.

The hour for recess interrupted the discussion.

ANATOMY.

Mr. MCLAUGHLIN moved the second reading of his bill providing that the bodies of persons who died in public institutions receiving Provincial aid should be used for dissection unless claimed within 24 hours by relations not farther distant than first cousins.

Mr. CREIGHTON thought the time allowed was not sufficient for friends to make their claims.

After some discussion the bill was read a second time and referred to a special committee.

LINKS STILL MISSING

The independent Toronto World says:—"Were there only three Reform members actually bribed is getting to be an interesting question. Seven at least were wanted to defeat the Government, and those who did the bribing would not be disposed to pay over the money unless they had that number of men sure. Who then were the other four? or were there other four? It is a fact that certain persons who were on the inside of the conspiracy were willing to bet money that the Government would be defeated on Monday night. If that is so they must have been assured that seven Reform members had been got at. It was even said last night that seven had been fixed and that Balfour's 'squealing' had frightened McKim and Dowling, but that there were four others who had been seen and who had agreed to vote against the Government. If Stimson and Shields had $3,000, who got the unaccounted-for $1,200? And it is a fact that certain members on the Reform side were altogether too thick with Kirkland, and too much addicted to sharing his hospitality at times and at divers places. 'Mark my words,' said a man who ought to know, 'there are others implicated and they will not be able to say that they too were acting under the instructions of the Government.

"Another story heard last night was this:—That a Reform member whose name has not yet come out was the first to approach Kirkland with a proposition to get him his limits if he would 'come down.' Several names of Reformers were mentioned and the price at which they could be got."

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Facilities for Repatriation—The Chinese Invasion—Double Tracking the Grand Trunk—Prohibition of Intoxicating Liquors—A Petition but no Signers.

REPATRIATION.

Sir J. MACDONALD on Wednesday, in reply to Mr. Tasse, said that proportionate facilities to those of European immigrants had been afforded to Canadians desiring to return from the United States to their own country.

J. A. WILKINSON.

Sir C. TUPPER, in reply to Mr. Cameron (Middlesex), said that J. A. Wilkinson had been employed by the Department occasionally as a valuator, but not permanently.

MONEY ORDERS WITH FRANCE.

Mr. CARLING in answer to Mr. Houde, said that arrangements had been made for the interchange of money orders with France.

JUDGE HUGHES.

Sir J. MACDONALD explained that the papers concerning Judge Hughes had not been brought down because the old ones of 1862 had not been found after a diligent search, and a recent paper purporting to be a petition had no signature. It had been sent back and had not been signed.

LAKE SUPERIOR LANDS.

Mr. DAWSON moved for reports as to the lands through which the C.P.R. passed north of Lakes Huron and Superior. He pointed out the extent of this district, its fertile land, rich mines and valuable forests. He censured Mr. Trow for stating that there were only $10,000 of cultivated land between Callendar and Winnipeg.

Mr. TROW said later information had raised his estimate.

Mr. WHITE (Renfrew), condemned the use of such disparaging statements made without foundation. He gave his testimony from personal experience in favor of the land in question.

THE CHINESE.

Mr. SHAKESPEARE moved in favor of prohibiting the incoming of Chinese to British Columbia, giving the reasons why it was bad for the country.

Mr. GORDON seconded the motion, and said that they should adopt the policy of the United States, who had passed a restrictive measure.

Further debate was deferred.

GRAND TRUNK DOUBLE TRACK.

Sir C. TUPPER said that the legal opinion was that the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk and Geeat Western was legal. It would be specifically provided that the Grand Trunk must apply the new capital to the double track, and that they could not deal in the bonds and stocks of other roads.

Mr. PATTERSON proposed an amendment that the bill should not legalize the amendment.

The amendment was negatived and the bill with Sir C. Tupper's amendment was read a third time.

SEDUCTION.

Mr. CHARLTON moved the third reading of his bill to punish seduction, &c.

Mr. BOSSE moved the six months' hoist, which was negatived by 74 to 69.

The bill was then read a third time and negatived.

PROHIBITION.

Mr. FISHER seconded Mr. Foster's motion for the prohibition of intoxicating liquors. He argued from the success of the Dunkin Act in his own county that the wider measure would be still more effectual.

Mr. BERGIN moved the adjournment of the debate.

France and China.

PARIS, March 19.—The Government has decided to occupy Tonquin as far as the Chinese frontier.

The Republique Francaise says France can treat with China only upon the basis of an indemnity and the recognition of French supremacy over the whole of Tonquin.

Gen. Millot has decided to attack the Black Flags at Hunghoa. Gen. Negrier has ceased pursuing the Chinese, and is returning to Baeninh.

EX-SPEAKER Sir Henry Brand is a direct descendant, in the sixth generation, of John Hampden, of Long Parliament renown.

FOR ALL AGES.—The aged, debilitated and infirm will find renewed vigor and strength by taking Burdock Blood Bitters. The young hastening to early decay will also find in this revitalizing tonic a remedy worth trying.

FACT STRANGER THAN FICTION.—It is a fact that Alonzo Howe, of Tweed, had a fever sore that afflicted him for thirty-five years. Six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him, which he considers almost a miracle. It was but the natural result of the remedy restoring pure blood and perfect secretion.

A DOUBLE BENEFIT.—James Moore, a prominent resident of Leamington, writes that he cured himself of Dyspepsia of a year's duration by one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and two bottles cured his wife who had been for years a sufferer from the disease. He conscientiously recommends it to all suffering from similar troubles.

"I HAD BEEN for eight months unable to work, and felt as though I would as lief die as live, through Dyspepsia and Indigestion. I weighed at the time of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy cure 130 lbs.; used three bottles and now weigh 165 lbs. and never was better in my life. It was McGregor's Speedy Cure that brought me around." So says William Fell, Hamilton. Go to John McKee's drug Store and get a free trial bottle or the regular size for fifty cents and one dollar.

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

CAMPBELLFORD.

BUILDING PROSPECTS.—There will be considerable work for bricklayers and carpenters during next summer, the evidence being the large number of dwellings contemplated by farmers in the township, and property owners in the village.

DISEASE AMONG SHEEP.—One of the yeomanry of Seymour township has lost eight out of a flock of valuable Cotswold sheep by disease. Four of the number were affected at the same time, and died, and four others pined away soon afterwards. The first affection of the malady is blindness, then follows sickness which causes the animal to refuse food, and it soon pines away and dies. The owner attributes the disease to the length of winter and the entire absence of bare ground.

STAGE CONTRACT.—The contract for carrying Her Majesty's mails between Campbellford and Brighton, tenders for which were asked through the colums of this paper some weeks ago, has been awarded to Mr. John Weese, of Campbellford. His tender was $4.68. The contract could not have been given to a more obliging and trustworthy man if the Government had invited applications from every part of the Province.

AT THE RINK.—On the ice on Friday night a prize for the best lady amateur skater, given by the brass band, was awarded to Mrs. Cummings. The number of costumes was not as large as usual, but good taste was displayed in their preparation. The Norwood band kept their engagement precisely, and were praised by their spectators for their very liberal supply of music. Its members are an unassuming company of young men, showed good sense in exemplary behaviour, and showed also that in some of them the talent of the musician is well marked. They played well, and will be remembered as a creditable band.

AGRICULTURAL GROUNDS PURCHASED.—Several of the leading members of the Seymour Agricultural Society met together on Saturday, and came to a final decision as to the matter of show grounds. The general opinion prevailed that Mr. R. Cockburn's offer was the best that could be obtained at the present time, and it was decided to make a purchase of ten acres of his farm property in the locality of Mr. Dunk's sawmill. The price to be paid for the same is $1,000. Now that this matter is settled preparations will be made at once to secure material for fencing the premises and putting the grounds in shape; and we have no doubt a great time will not elapse before a building will be erected for the exhibition of the different articles other than live stock. The situation is a pleasant one, and as central as can be obtained. We hope the society's membership may increase, and that it may flourish more and more by this very good step.—Herald.

COBOURG.

THE FIRST SLEEPER.—The first immigrant sleeping car for the C. P. R. was turned out at Crossen's Car Works last week. It has the appearance of a first class car on the outside, the inside finish being white oak, white wood and black cherry, and is finished with nearly all the accomodations of a pullman, and no doubt will be quite as comfortable. Mr. Crossen, we understand, has eighteen to construct.

WHISKY THIEF.—A man was walking up King street on Saturday evening, with a bottle of whisky wrapped in a paper, when a thirsty individual overtook him and demanded the parcel. The owner refused, whereupon he received a blow in the face, laying him on his back, and before he could recover from the blow the thief made away with the bottle. The matter is in the hands of the police.

WHERE IS HE?—Some time ago Fountain Hose band advertised for a bandmaster. The advertisement was answered, among others, by Mr. R. Gardner, of Trenton. He came here and took charge for about a month. At the last carnival, when his services were most wanted he was found missing. Reports so far are not much in his favour. Where is he?—Sentinel-Star.

LONDON.

CONFIRMATION.—Bishop Baldwin confirmed 100 persons in Holy Trinity Church, Lucan, on Tuesday. In the Town Hall subsequently the Bishop and Mrs. Baldwin were presented with an address of welcome.

FALL IN THE PRICE OF LAND.—A man owning three lots in London West had been offered $300 for them by a city lawyer before the ice jammed in the river. He refused the offer. On Wednesday he visited the lawyer and offered the three for $100, and that gentleman ordered him out of his office.

THE RIVER RISING.—It has been raining here all the afternoon, and the water in the river has risen a foot in twenty-four hours. It is believed that the ice will be dislodged to-night as a great body of water is flowing.

BELLEVILLE.

SALVATION ARMY TROUBLE.—About a dozen members of the Salvation Army have seceded and give as reasons that the arbitrary rules of the organization are irksome, such as the restriction against attending any church. They also strongly object to the funds being shipped to Major Moore.

The Sandwich Gaol Tragedy.

The jury in the Sandwich gaol murder case yesterday returned a verdict of wilful murder against O'Callaghan, and upon Kennedy's counsel objecting to it as ignoring Kennedy, added a rider including the latter as an accomplice. No clue to the murderer's whereabouts has yet been discovered, and it is generally believed that he effected his escape across the river.

Special Detective Organization.

Col. Jenkinson, director of the Irish Criminal Investigation Department, has appointed fifty detectives in London to be under special pay and have special duties. Twelve are English, eight Irish, and eight American. The rest are Russian, French, German, Austrian, Italian, Spanish and Canadian. Irish constables have been appointed to act as detectives in English seaports.

University College Temperance League.

The following officers have been elected for the ensuing year for the University College Temperance League:—Honorary President, Daniel Wilson, LL.D.; President, Mr. Heber J. Hamilton; Vice-President, A. D. Crooks; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. A. H. O'Brien; Committee, Messrs. R. J. Duff, C. C. Owen, F. B. Hodgins.

We pride ourselves in keeping the Largest and Prettiest stock of Gent's Furnishings in Town. Andrew McNeil, George Street.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

A very well attended public meeting was held in the Town Hall, Baillieboro' for the purpose of organizing a union Agricultural Society for the townships of South Monaghan, Cavan, Hamilton and Hope.

After the meeting had been called to order, Mr. J. H. Fisher was appointed chairman.

Addresses were then delivered by the chairman, and other gentlemen deeply interested in the subject, upon the necessity for an organization such as was proposed, at the conclusion of which the society was organized by the election of the following officers:—

PRESIDENT,—Mr. Richard Parker.
VICE-PRESIDENT,—Mr. James Wood.
SECRETARY,—Mr. Alfred Dawson.
TREASURER,—Mr. John Byers.
DIRECTORS FOR SOUTH MONAGHAN,—Messrs. Alex. Anderson, Peter Dawson, Asa Barnard, James Fisher, Herbert Perrin, Edward Kerr, Thomas Wood, John Smithson, Walter Finnie, J. W. Lucas.
DIRECTORS FOR CAVAN,—Messrs. J. J. Armstrong, James Johnston, Thomas McCamus, James Eagleson, Henry Earl, John Elgar, George Berry.
DIRECTORS FOR HOPE,—Messrs. Jas. Wood and David Jewison.
DIRECTORS FOR HAMILTON,—Mr. John Heaslip.
AUDITOR,—Mr. Mr. Martin Parker, Jr.

The business of electing officers having been concluded, Mr. Joseph Barnard addressed the meeting at some length on the plans and aims of the society, and the ends which it is necessary should be achieved in order to obtain success. He congratulated them upon their choice of officers, and wished them every success in their efforts to advance the interests of the agriculturist. After a few remarks from Mr. Berry the meeting adjourned.—Port Hope Times.

A LOSS TO LITERATURE.

Mr. Charles S. Calverly, better known as C. S. C., the author of Verses, & Translations; Fly Leaves, &c., is lost to the world. "Mr. Calverly," says the London (Eng.) Spectator, "worked a peculiar vein of humour with a success which we venture to think scarcely any writer, in the past as well as in the present, has equalled. He had, in the first place, an extraordinary facility of expression. His rhymes flow with an ease and an abundance which are absolutely astonishing. He seldom, indeed, indulges in the tours de force with which "Ingoldsby" so often dazzles us; but there is never the faintest sign of constraint—however heavy the fetters which he chooses to impose upon himself, he moves under them in the airiest and lightest fashion. In "Play" and "Under the Trees," for instance, he disports himself with a multitude of rhymes which would be sufficient to set up half-a-dozen minor poets in business. Here are some sample lines from "Under the Trees.

"Some sit in twos or (less frequently) threes,
With their innocent lambswool or book on their knees.
And talk, and enact, any nonsense you please,
As they gaze into eyes that are as blue as the seas;
And you hear an occassional, 'Harry don't tease!'
From the sweetest of lips, in the softest of keys:
And other remarks which to me are Chinese.
And fast the time flies; till a lady-like sneeze,
Or a portly papa's more elaborate wheeze,
Makes Miss Tabitha seize on her brown muffatees,
And announce as a fact that it's going to freeze,
And that young people ought to attend to their P's
And their Q's, and not court every form of disease.
Then Tommy eats up the three last ratafias,
And pretty Louise wraps her robe de cerise
Round a bosom as tender as Widow Machree's;"

—and so on, till he comes to an end, because all things human must so come, not in the least it would seem, because he is exhausted.

Mr. Calverley published in 1869 a verse translation of Theocritus, a work of elegant scholarship, and exhibiting much of the felicity of diction which was his peculiar gift. His life, though not as busy as it might have been had the stimulus of necessity been present in it, was not inactive. He had begun to acquire considerable practice as a local barrister, when about two years ago an accident on the ice shattered his powers both of mind and body.

An Interesting Horse Race.

A racing man, writing from New Orleans, says Zamora's victory last Saturday was one of the most thorough surprises experienced this season. The filly has not been doing well, and has had scarcely anything but slow work recently. At exercise she is ridden by a boy named Eilke, a youngster whom Mr. Green Morris engaged last year in Louisville. He is an honest industrious lad, and showed talent in the saddle. For some weeks he pestered Mr. Morris to let him ride in a race, and last Saturday, just to please him, Zamora was entered, and Eilke was directed to put on the colours. Mr. Morris told the starters that they were not to pay any attention to Zamora, as she was out for work only and could not possibly win. So the regular lightweight of the stables, was put on Mr. Cook's mare, Queen Esther, and Morris and all the talent backed her. Zamora got off way in the rear, but Eilke did not hurry her, and let her run easily until near the head of the stretch, where he came with a rush, quickly passed all except Queen Ester and Nat Timble, and after a grand finish won by a neck from the Queen, who beat Nat Timble a neck for the place. The little fellow was cheered to the echo, and although Mr. Morris lost his bets he complimented the boy highly and made him a handsome present.

A Sect of Child Killers.

The Novoe Vremya warns Russian mothers of a new religious sect which has given several proofs of its existence. In Rostov, on the Don, an officer engaged a middle-aged nurse for his three year-old son. She was very attentive and seemed fond of the child, but after two months she suddenly left the situation and the town. The child began to ail the very next day, lost its memory, and suffered from continual drowsiness. A week later it died without having been really ill. The corpse was placed in the coffin, when a young Jewess burst into the house, threw herself on the dead child, and crying bitterly said, "The same woman poisoned my child. She was my nurse before, and now she has murdered your poor boy!" The woman spoke the truth. It has been found that in Rostov there is a society of child murderers, who poison children by means of narcotics. They are instigated to do so by a fanatical woman, who says: "It is every woman's duty to spare the evils of life to as many children as possible, and to make them share in the bliss of heaven before the earth has contaminated their souls."

Have You Thought of It?

For four thousand years or more the world groaned, suffered, and fumed about its corns, for there was no positive relief—no certain and painless cure until Dr. Scott Putnam gave to the world his Great Corn Extractor. If there is suffering now it is a result of carelessness, for the remedy is at hand. Try Putnam's Corn Extractor. It is sure, painless and prompt. Beware of substitutes. N. C. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

FRIDAY, MARCH 21, 1884.

LOCAL NEWS

Police News.

There was no business in the Court this morning. Three tramps were accommodated with lodgings in the cells last night.

Journalistic.

Mr. Stanley Paterson, of Port Hope, has purchased the Times and Canadian Craftsman, published in that town. Mr. W. T. Martin assumes the management of the business.

To-day.

To-day, the 21st of March, is the Vernal Equinox, when the nights and days are of equal length, the sun rising at six o'clock in the morning and setting at the same hour in the evening. It is also known as Lady Day.

The Streets.

The channels which the Street Inspector had cut along the sidewalks on George street have prevented many cellars from being flooded. The scraper is again doing good work this afternoon on the crossings.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to moderate, variable winds; fair weather; not much change in temperature.

Desirable Property for Sale.

As will be seen by reference to a card in another column, the residence and premises occupied by Gen. Haultain, near the Central School, are offered for sale and will be sold cheaply. Intending purchasers should apply to Mr. R. H. Carew or Mr. C. A. Weller.

Railway Notes.

Three spans of the superstructure of the Ontario and Quebec bridge over the Otonabee have been placed in position. Only one span remains and it will probably be in position before the end of next week.

The department known as the railway men's room at the Midland station is now used for the general waiting room.

The "Masher" Tie can be procured in all the latest colorourings at Andrew McNeil's.

New Maple Syrup!

First of the season just to hand. Also choice Mixed Pickles and Tomato Catsup. The above is sold by the quart or gallon. Also, by the pound, evaporated Pumpkins. Raspberry, Plum, and Black Currant Jams. Fine Assorted Jellies, and other varieties too numerous to mention. Pure Apple Butter, try it. Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Personal.

The Rev. E. F. Torrance, of Peterborough, preached in the Presbyterian Church, Cobourg, last Sabbath morning and evening.

Mr. Chas. L. Andrews, business manager of the "Silver King" company, is at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Andrews states that the company will appear here on Monday in full force, and that all its members who appeared in Toronto will take part here. Also that all the scenery carried by the Company will be used here.

Send Him Home.

The Queen's College Journal says:—

"We would ask what is to be done with a certain Soph, hailing from Peterborough, who was actually seen, not long ago, to fall on his knees before a young lady three times in one evening, with the most imploringly anxious expression on his face? A few nights afterwards he left the same house in such a confused state of mind that he did not notice that he was not wearing his own hat."

If the Journal is anxious to know what to do with the Soph, we would say, send him home. Several young ladies here are anxious to know which of the Sophs is referred to, and when once his identy is established, by carrying out our advice, he will be quickly brought to his senses.

Bass & Co., Burton-on-Trent, India Pale Ale now on draught, at Chamberlain's Restaurant—direct importation.

THE FURNITURE BUSINESS.

Mr. Comstock's Factory, which Arose out of the Ashes of His Former Premises.

It will be remembered by our readers that last August several buildings at the corner of George and Charlotte streets were destroyed by fire, and that they were rebuilt. One of the buildings burned at that time—the chief one—was the brick building occupied by Mr. Aaron Comstock's cabinet factory and undertaking establishment.

Mr. Geo. Taylor, who owned the block, at once set to work to rebuild it, and it is creditable to him and to Mr. Comstock, as well as to the business enterprise of the town, that the new building is more capacious than the one which formerly occupied that place.

The main building, which is constructed of brick, is forty by twenty-four feet. It is two stories high, and in addition has a mansard roof which affords a third room at the top of the building, and gives that much more space in the main building than there was in the old one.

In the rear of this there is a brick addition thirty by twenty feet, and two stories high. The building which occupied this space before the fire was considerably smaller, and was only one and a half stories high.

On the ground floor of the main building the showroom is situated. It is the full size of the building (24 x 40), and is filled with a good stock of household furniture of all kinds, and the second story is also used for the same purpose.

The third story is occupied by the furnishings necessary in the undertaking department of Mr. Comstock's business, and, as he has a good hearse for this branch, he keeps on hand a good stock of furnishings necessary on those mournful occasions when the services of the undertaker are required.

The second story of the addition is occupied by the workmen, where a number of hands are employed turning out household furniture and all goods usually manufactured in such an establishment.

The ground floor of this building is used as a varnishing and finishing room, and it is there that the goods are finished ready for the customer or the show room.

Besides being larger than the building it replaced, the new structure is much more handsome. The mansard roof gives it a better appearance, and the front part of the building, on George street, is handsomely ornamented with carved work and fine designs.

It is also better finished throughout. The ceilings are higher, giving the rooms a more comfortable appearance. The windows are larger, letting more light into the interior, which is an advantage to the workmen, as well as making the showroom better for exhibiting the manufactured goods to advantage.

Mr. Comstock now possesses a fine large factory and show rooms in which to carry on his business, and there are bright prospects of a good trade during the season.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH.

Meeting at Cobourg—Call from port Hope to the Rev. J. W. Mitchel.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met at Cobourg on the 18th March. There were 13 ministers and 7 elders present. Mr. Jamieson, of Garden Hill and Knoxville was appointed Moderator for the next six months. Mr. Patterson, late of Bayfield and Bethany, being present, was invited to sit with the Presbytery. A call was sustained from 1st., Port Hope, on behalf of the Rev. J. W. Mitchel, late of Mitchel, and has been accepted of by him. The call contains a guarantee of salary of $1,200 per annum—payable quarterly. Mr. Mitchel's induction was appointed to be held on the 2nd of April, at 2 o'clock p.m. Mr. McCleland to preside, Mr. Thompson to preach, Mr. Bell to address the ministers, and Mr. Cook the people.

The ministers appointed, as delegates to the General Assembly, were Messrs. Erving, Bell, Cameron, Cooke and Jameison. The elders chosen were Messrs: J. Best, Mount Pleasant; H. Carruthers, Cobourg; J. L. Tisdale, Port Hope; Hershaw Little, Garden Hill; and J. Lawless, Baltimore.

The report of the Committee on Augmentation of Stipend was adopted and ordered to be transmitted to the Secretary of the Assembly's Home Mission Committee.

The report of Committee on Presbyterial visition reports was read by Mr. Bell and considered.

The following recommendation of the report was adopted:—"The Presbytery records its devout gratitude to God for the greatness of His kindness and the evidence of His refreshing spirit manifested throughout the Presbytery."

Messrs. Bennett, Bell, ministers, and Mr. Tully, elder, were appointed a committee to consider the remits of Assembly, and to report at a meeting of Presbytery to be held at the time of the meeting of Synod.

The next ordinary meeting of Presbytery was appointed to be held in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, on the first Tuesday of July, at two o'clock p.m.

Mr. Windel was authorized to moderate in a call at Cartwright and Ballyduff, so soon as the people are prepared to choose a minister.

A letter was read from the Rev. W. White, formerly of Warsaw and Dummer, renewing his application for leave to retire from the active duties of the ministry, and praying that his retiring allowance date from the time of his first application. There accompanied the letter a medical certificate of Dr. Bell, testifying to Mr. White's illness and the improbability of his ever being able to resume pastoral work.

It was unanimously resolved to renew the application on behalf of Mr. White for leave to retire from the active duties of the ministry, and Messrs. Ewing and Bell were appointed and instructed to support the application at the meeting of Assembly.

Presbytery held a conference at the evening sederunt, on the subjects of the state of religion, Sabbath Schools and temperance. Presbytery agreed to hold a further conference on the subject of temperance, on the first evening of next meeting in Peterborough.

STRAY SHOTS.

Notes of the Saved Army, their Meetings and Sayings.

The subject of the attendance at the Saved Army meeting is as monotonous as usual—seats all filled on Thursday night and hundreds standing.

Mr. Geo. E. Williams, Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, officiated as the reader of the Scripture for the evening.

All the soldiers on the platform gave their experience, and several of them spoke very well.

The number of church members who assist the officers in the meetings is increasing steadily.

The Saved Army in Port Hope has the following officers:—Two as a Council of War, a Treasurer, two Secretaries, a Sergeant Major, Color Sergeant, six Sergeants, and six Gunners.

About sixteen persons forsook the ranks of the enemy and went forward to the penitent bench.

To-night's meeting will again be held in the Opera House.

For a Nobby Pair of Pants try Andrew McNeil.

Turnips.

Another supply of turnips at Carton Bros.

Fluid Beef.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required in nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarilly be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

The first assistant of Mr. Buckle, the new editor of the London Times, is Arthur Aikin Brodrib, formerly of Exeter College, Oxford, who joined the Times staff soon after taking his degree. He has been editor of the Summary since that publication was started by the Times, and is said to possess undoubted abilities.

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the "great pain cure." It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

Concurrent instructions have been sent to the Congo river settlement by France to De Brazza and by the Belgium Association to Stanley to maintain absolute accord and render mutual assistance.

Thousands Say So.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your electric bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundred's of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

The Greatest Healing Compound

is a preparation of carbolic acid, vaseline and cerate called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

Crushed by the Cars.—A little son of John Spinks, Toronto, had his foot crushed by a G. T. R. Express train some time ago. Two doctors attended him without benefit, and amputation was proposed, but Hagyard's Yellow Oil was tried, which give prompt relief and effected a speedy cure, even removing all stiffness of the joint.

Every one speakes highly of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters as a Stomach, Liver and Kidney Medicine. "The best family medicine we ever used," say they all. Try a bottle this Spring as a blood purifier.

THE BRIBERY PLOT.

Proceedings Before the Police Court Adjourned.

On Friday Messrs. Kirkland, Wilkinson, Meek and Bunting appeared before the Toronto Police Magistrate on the charge brought against them of conspiracy to bribe members of the Legislature. Mr. McKim gave evidence somewhat similiar to his statement before the committee, but gave the additional facts that he was employed by the Mowat Administration to go to Mr. Bunting to endeavor to, entrap him into giving his signature to a note, and that he (McKim) was suggesting bribable Reformers and negotiating with them for the sale of their votes. The round robbin signed by McKim and Lyon has mysteriously disappeared from the papers in the hands of the Ministry and its employed. The procedings were adjourned.

A FIT TOOL.

AMIDST all the conflicting accounts of the Mowat conspiracy to invite bribery, there seems to be a very general agreement upon one point namely that Mr. McKim was the leading spirit in all the corrupt proceeding. By his own confession he took a bribe to sell his vote and signed a paper for the double purpose of binding the bargain and acting as a decoy for other members as venal as himself. By the confession of his following conspirators it was he who induced them to apply for bribes and acted as the master of the ceremony. Mr. Kirkland swears that Mr. McKim constantly reported his progress in inducing Reform members to join them and persistently demanded payment for his services. Mr. Meek shows that it was McKim, who ordered a bond to confirm the bargain, and as is his custom is still in debt for it. Mr. Bunting shows how Mr. McKim came to him and solicited a bribe from him However much these accounts differ in other respects they all agree in portraying Mr. McKim, as the foremost in selling his vote, as the foremost in corrupting other members, and as the foremost in carrying out the plot of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues to invite Conservatives into some complicity that might be used politically. And this man it must be remembered is bankrupt both in purse and reputation, is disqualified even from sitting as a township councillor or appointing path master. Even the wages of his treason have been impounded by defrauded creditors. And this man is a member of our legislature and is Mr. Mowat's instrument in this disgraceful conspiracy. Probably we will next hear of him as being appointed Stipendiary Magistrate by Attorney-General Mowat.

TELEGRAPH COMPETITION.

WE have received a little pamphlet entitled "The Canadian Pacific Railway Telegraph," which is indeed welcome reading. It is composed of articles and letters that have appeared in the Montreal Herald and other journals, showing how we are about to obtain relief from the present telegraph monopoly through the establishment of independent lines by the C.P. R., under the powers contained in its charter. The general statistics that are given show the enormous gains of the Western Union and Great North-Western monopoly, through their exorbitant charges. What is there given as the result of their system, the business men of Peterborough know by personal experience to be unfortunately too true. Since the absorption of the Dominion Company, resulting in the destruction of competition and the reign of a gigantic monopoly, we have had inferior service and higher charges. Now, however, there is hope of speedy relief by the competition of the C.P.R. telegraph, which will be heartily welcomed and well patronized.

COMPLIMENTARY SUPPER.

Mr. J. R. Smith, of the Auburn Mills, Entertained by His Friends.

The friends and well-wishers of Mr. John R. Smith, Overseer, Auburn Woollen Company, assembled in the Darcy House to partake of a supper and to enjoy a few hours of social intercourse, previous to his departure from Peterborough to Muskegon, Michigan. About thirty persons sat down to supper, which was got up in the usual splendid manner, peculiar to the Darcy House.

The chair was ably filled by Mr. J. M. Masson, the vice-chairman being Mr. William Somerville.

After partaking of the good cheer provided for the company, the chairman called the meeting to order, and, after a few preliminary remarks, proposed the usual patriotic toasts. The toast of the "Army and Navy" especially calling forth bursts of applause when the chairman spoke of the brave and heroic men who won another victory in the Soudan. Mr. Geo. Way then sang in his own inimitable manner, "The British Lion," which was enthusiastically cheered.

The toast of the evening, "Our Guest," was then proposed by the chairman, who, in a few well-chosen words, spoke of the great respect and esteem in which Mr. Smith was held by all those associated with him, and the general regret at his leaving Peterborough. With the usual cheers, &c., the company sang "He's a jolly good fellow."

Mr. Smith replied with much feeling, thanking them for the honor they had conferred upon him. He became visibly affected when he spoke of the many years he had been among them, some of the happiest years of his life, and although he was going from amongst them, yet he would always cherish a warm friendship towards his old Peterborough friends.

"Our Manufacturing Industries" was then proposed by Mr. Somerville, and responded to by Messrs. Kendry and Rutherford. "Our City and City Fathers" was next proposed, and responded to in an able manner by Councillors Rutherford and Kendry. The chairman then proposed "The Ladies," which was received with great glee by all present. The chairman here experienced a little difficulty in restoring order, as all the young men were on their feet wishing to say a few words in honor of the ladies! Order being restored, the toast was gracefully acknowledged by Mr. John Bain, who thanked the chairman for the high honor upon him, by coupling his name with such a time honored toast as "The Ladies." It was one of the happiest moments in his life to have the opportunity of speaking in their favor. He was an adherent admirer of the fair sex himself, and he was glad to see by the beaming faces of those around him, that he was not the only one. He quoted the following verse from Burns:—

"Gie me a canny hour at e'en,
My arms aboot my deary o';
An' warrly cares, an' warrly men,
May a' gae tapsilterrie o'"

This was received with great cheers by both old and young, no doubt the words recalling to many some scene of sweet enjoyment.

"The Auburn Woollen Company" was then proposed, and responded to by Mr. Kendry, who then proposed "The Operatives." In proposing this toast, Mr. Kendry spoke of the great pleasure it afforded him to meet occasionally with his overseers, &c., around the festive boards. He paid a high tribute to his workmen, regarding their diligence and abilities, and spoke feelingly of the general unanimity existing between him and them.

Mr. James Burnett responded in an able manner, thanking Mr. Kendry for the high compliment paid to the workmen, and hoped the same feeling of unanimity would always continue.

The following toasts were afterwards proposed and duly honored, viz:—"Our Bachelors," "Our Absent Friends," "Our Host and Hostess," &c.

During the evening the company were favored with songs, instrumental solos, &c., by the following gentlemen:—Messrs. Way, Queen, Hewie, Clark, Davidson, Somerville, Dunn, &c. One very noticeable feature in the musical entertainment was an instrumental duet by Messrs. Clark and Kendry, which deservedly called forth bursts of applause. Mr. Clark presided at the piano with his usual ability. The company broke up at an early hour after singing "Auld Lang Syne" and quoting the well-known motto, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again," despersed to their respective homes.

A Dynamite Gun.

On the floor in one of the rooms of the Norwalk Iron Works Company is a long heavy cylinder. Its length is about twenty-eight feet, and the diameter of the bore is about four inches. In another department men are at work constructing an air compressor. When the latter is completed it will be connected with the tube mentioned above, and what the inventor confidently believes will be a most tremendous engine of war will be completed and ready for trial. Several years ago, while in Washington, a gentleman from Ohio heard a naval officer say that if a gun could be constructed that would throw dynamite it would thoroughly revolutionize modern warfare. Mr. Miffin—that was the gentleman's name—proceeded at once to invent such a gun, and he has reason to believe that it will be a perfect success. It would not do to use powder as a propelling power, for its sudden action would explode the dynamite cartridge at the start, and blow the gun to atoms. Compressed air, at a pressure of about 300 pounds to the square inch, will take the place of powder, and the gun now in South Norwalk is expected to throw a three-pound cartridge a distance of two miles. Imagine the effect of a cartridge of even so small a weight striking the side or deck of a vessel, or the rampart, of a fort. The explsion would be terrible in its results. If the gun is a success others of a size sufficient to throw 100 pounds of dynamite ten miles will be constructed. The gun, loaded with sand instead of dynamite, will be tested in South Norwalk at an early day in the presence of naval officers, scientific men and others.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, MARCH 22, 1884.

Mr. MOWAT is very lax in his regard to the truth. In discussing his bill to adopt the policy of the Opposition to refer the Boundary Question to the Privy Council, he denied that he had ever said that we were entitled to more than the award would give us. He only put the greater claim in the statute book.

THE Attorney-General and his follower voted down an amendment proposed by Mr. Meredith to the preamble of the Stream's Bill, and persisted in affirming the law to be what the great majority of our judges who have considered the matter have declared it is not and has not been. Mr. Mowat would over-ride our judiciary and affirm a falsehood to enable his supporter, Mr. Caldwell, to appropriate the property of a political opponent. But our constitution, like that of the United States, provides means to frustrate the intended robbery.

GLORYING IN CORRUPTION.

APART from his own confession of joining in a conspiracy to incite to bribery, Mr. Balfour has given other evidence of his readiness to make light of corruption and to benefit by it. In his letter to so grave a personage as the Speaker for use in the carefully prepared theatrical disclosure of the corruption to which he was a party, he used the nick-name of "Big Push" as applied to Mr. J. A. Wilkinson, though the allusion was to the exposure of the formation of a corruption fund by the Hon. Geo. Brown, the then head of the Reform party. That Mr. Balfour should on such an occasion go out of his way to glory in the disgrace of his party, renders less surprising his present confessed attempts to procure and accept a bribe, with the corrupt intent of benefitting his party.

OATH OR NO OATH.

WE notice that some remarks have been made as to the unfairness of allowing the self-confessed conspirators to procure bribery to make their statements in the Committee on Privilege without being sworn. We confess we attach no very great importance to this fact. The chief informer, Dr. Dowling, not long ago gave testimony on oath; other sworn witnesses flatly contradicted him; the judges believed the opposing testimony and disbelieved him, holding him guilty of such corrupt conduct as to unfit him to sit in the House, or even to be a poundkeeper, though it is true that one of the judges took the lenient view of letting him off with a caution, like a magistrate in the case of a drunkard pleading a first offence. The judges therefore held him to be guilty of perjury. We must own we cannot see that it makes any difference whether Dr. Dowling is sworn or not. His evidence is of precisely the same weight in either case. It might, however, have been well if Mr. Mowat had been sworn before he uttered what is now known to be the deliberate and cowardly falsehood that Mr. Macpherson had taken a part in corrupting Mr. Mowat's willing supporters. The Attorney-General of Ontario is evidently not backward to utter falsehood, to slander the innocent, or to stab an opponent behind his back, but it is possible that he might shrink from perjury and its consequences.

BEGGING TO BE BRIBED.

It is a little singular that those who were not first approached by Kirkland were approached by one of the Reform members. Dr. Dowling says that on Thursday last Mr. Bishop and Mr. McKim went to his room in the Continental hotel, and all three then went to Wilkinson's room at the Walker house. Wilkinson appears to have acted as agent for Kirkland.

In fact the lambs seem to have gone round hunting for the wolf. The victims were hunting high and low for criminals to bribe them. Let us collect the evidence on that point:

Mr. Dowling—"We three [himself, Bishop and McKim] went down to the Walker house together, and went into Wilkinson's room." * * * "I did not intend to go to Mr. Bunting's office then, as, if he wanted to see me, he could come to my hotel. They [the Ministry] told me I might as well go and see him anyhow. I went and saw him at three o'clock that same afternoon." * * * "On another occassion we went down to Lynch's room."

Mr. Balfour—"After dinner Mr. McKim came to my room and told me that Big Push Wilkinson wanted to see me in his room, which is next to mine. I went in and after some general conversation about the weather, he asked me what I thought about a coalition Government for the Province." * * * "On Friday, the 14th, after dinner, Mr. McKim came and said Mr. Wilkinson wanted to see me. I went into his room, where he was alone, and told him I hadn't gone to see Mr. Bunting as I was busy." * * * "On Monday, Mr. McKim came to me saying that Mr. Wilkinson had just seen him, and had asked him to say that he wanted to see me in his room. I went into Wilkinson's room."

It will be seen that the victims went round hunting up men to bribe them.—Hamilton Spectator.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

The Price of Corruption—Legislation for Detective Dowling—The Opposition Policy on the Boundary Question Adopted—The Streams Bill Robbery—Mr. Mowat's Increasad Expenses for Immigration.

THE LATE A. W. LAUDER, M. P. P.

Mr. MOWAT on Thursday moved that the full sessional allowance be paid to the widow of the late Mr. Lander.

THE PRICE OF CORRUPTION.

Mr. FRASER moved that the Speaker impound the money &c. which Messrs. McKim and Balfour had placed in his hands, to be produced in any court.

SHERIFF'S FEES INCREASED.

Mr. MOWAT moved resolutions to increase certain fees of Sherriffs. It was adopted and referred to a committee.

CORRUPT PRACTICES.

Mr. MOWAT moved the second reading of the bill to prevent corrupt practices at elections. One clause prohibits betting on the result. Another requires residence, and voting at the nearest polling place. Still another clause makes deputy-returning officers judges of whether an elector is entitled to vote (re Apjohn). Indians must give up their tribes to gain the franchise.

Mr. MEREDITH taunted the Government with not adopting the severe clauses advocated by their political allies out of office at Ottawa. Years ago he had voted in that house to prohibit betting, but the Government and their followers voted against it. He saw no necessity for two judges. There had been numerous cases of difference of opinion between the two judges, but it was as to law, not fact, and there was the Court of Appeal. He condemned the clause inserted to seat Dr. Dowling, whom the judges found guilty of corrupt practices, but had differed as to his disqualification, on which there was an appeal with which they should not interfere. He strongly objected to making the deputy returning officers judges as to who should vote, instancing the Apjohn case, and pointed out that they were retaining the power to appoint partisan returning officers in Algoma and Muskoka. The intent seemed to be not to prevent corrupt practices, but to continue a party advantage.

Mr. WHITE objected to the provisions as to Indians as being retrograde instead of progressive.

Mr. MORRIS said that it would disfranchise a number of French half-breeds near Fort Francis.

Mr. BALFOUR though it would disfranchise Indians intelligent enough to vote.

Mr. WATERS supported the bill, as did Mr. Phelps.

Mr. CARNEGIE pointed out that after sitting nearly two months they had only now reached the second reading. The Government seemed anxious to avoid discussion on this important measure.

The bill was read a second time.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.

Mr. G. W. ROSS moved the second reading of the bill respecting Toronto University. He proposed an additional clause giving power to confer the honorary degree of LL.D.

Mr. MEREDITH urged the suggestion that the public school teachers should be represented on the Senate.

Mr. ROSS declined to accede on the ground of difficulties.

THE DISPUTED TERRITORIES.

Mr. MOWAT moved the second reading of the Bill as to the disputed territory, saying that it embodied the terms of the agreement between Ontario and Manitoba. The Dominion authorities had expressed, in a recent despatch, their willingness to come to an agreement as to a reference of the whole question, but there were some details still to be considered.

Mr. MEREDITH asked if the question of the title to the land was to be referred.

Mr. MOWAT said the Dominion had positively refused to refer that question.

Mr. MEREDITH suggested that the Dominion despatch should be brought down.

Mr. MOWAT doubted the propriety while negotiations were pending.

Mr. MORRIS was gratified at the prospect of a settlement of the question, and at the Dominion becoming a party to the proceedings. He would like to see the despatch before voting.

Mr. MEREDITH thought it would be more satisfactory if the question of title as well as jurisdiction could be settled now. How was it that the first question referred to was the validity of the award, when Mr. Mowat had repeatedly declared that the award was valid? He thought if they were going to the Privy Council, according to Mr. Mowat's own argument it would be better not to be limited by the award.

Mr. MOWAT thought the jurisdiction carried the title to the land, and probably it was because the Dominion authorities thought so too that they refused to refer that question. He thought the award was all they could justly claim, and that the Province would be contented with what it gave.

Mr. MEREDITH asked why then he had said that we were entitled to more.

Mr. MOWAT denied that he had said so, but admitted that he had argued it.

Recess stopped the discussion.

THROUGH COMMITTEE.

The bills respecting married women's property, industrial schools, license duties, and the supply of water and gas, passed through Committee.

THE STREAMS BILL.

Mr. MEREDITH, in committee, moved in amendment to the preamble of the Rivers and Streams Bill "That the construction put upon the said Act by this Act has been determined by the Supreme Court not to be the true construction thereof, and that an appeal from the judment of the said court to the Privy Council of England is now pending.

The amendment was voted down, and the bill was reported.

IMMIGRATION.

Mr. MEREDITH in Committee of Supply suggested that $31,950 for immigration should be very greatly reduced, if not discontinued, as it was not advisable to glut the labor market.

Mr. CREIGHTON said that the estimates had been exceeded last year from two additional agents being sent to Europe, Mr. Hay and Mr. Higgins.

Mr. HARDY said both these gentleman had done valuable service. The Dominion was promoting immigration to Manitoba but not to Ontario.

After some further discussion the item was passed.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

Mr. WOOD was opposed to the grant of $10,000 to the Agricultural and Arts Association and to Provincial shows.

Messrs. Drury, Broden, Balfour, Waters, Graham and Carnegie all supported the Association and most of them the Provincial Fair.

A number of other items were passed.

See our New Ties, just in, and also just out. Andrew McNeil, George Street.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The High Commissionership — Giving up Patronage—The Parliamentary Librarian—Public Printing—Our Cattle Trade—The Militia and the N.P.

AN INTERCOLONIAL BRANCH.

Sir C. TUPPER on Thursday introduced a bill for the acquirement of the Eastern Extension and Pictou branch of the Intercolonial.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONER.

Sir J. MACDONALD in committee in reply to Sir R. Cartwright and Mr. Mills, said the High Commissioner would be retained and would reside in England, though he might sometimes have to come to Canada to confer with the Government.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

Mr. CHAPLEAU in reply to Sir R. Cartwright said the increase in the vote for civil service examiners was due to the increased number of examiners and examinations.

Mr. GAULT, Mr. BEATY and Sir R. CARTWRIGHT complained that the examinations were too severe to be exacted from all employes.

Mr. MILLS thought the system was not carried out strictly enough, and advocated competitive examinations.

Mr. CHAPLEAU said that they would have nobody admitted to the service but schoolmasters, many of whom already presented themselves for the qualifying examinations. The law had been properly observed.

PARLIAMENTARY LIBRARIAN.

Sir J. MACDONALD in reply to Sir R. Cartwright and Mr. Mills said that a librarian would be appointed when they determined upon one with the peculiar qualification necessary. They would not publish the names of applicants they might have to reject.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

Sir J. MACDONALD in reply to Mr. Mills said it was being considered whether there would not be economy in placing the public printing under Government control. They might adopt the English system which yielded some profit instead of a loss on Parliamentary papers.

QUARANTINE FOR CATTLE.

Mr. MCLELAN in reply to Mr. Patterson said that owing to the importance of the cattle trade great care as to quarantining cattle was necessary. By making it certain that they did not import diseased cattle, they were less likely to be refused free admission into England.

MILITIA.

Mr. CARON in reply to Mr. Mills said they were giving $150 each to about 600 veterans of 1812. They were now obtaining arms, ammunition and clothing, &c. for the militia as far as possible at home instead of abroad, at a slightly increased expense, but in many cases obtaining a better article.

Some other items were passed, when the Committee rose and reported progress.

A heavy stock of Coarse Towellings to choose from at Turnbull's, made by the Russian Farmers in the Winter Months.

War Correspondents in the Soudan.

Among the correspondents, the Scotsman with the American training, who made his mark at Tel-el-Kebir, scored again at Teb. All the others waited for the steamer from Trinkitat to Suakin, and Graham characteristically held the steamer till he should round off his despatch by an accurate list of the casualties. Mr. Burley had foreseen this. There was the temptation to essay the ride into Suakin—a distance of not more than thirty miles—with one's own messages. That would have saved time, and if there was a risk the game was intrinsically worth the candle. But there was chance of further fighting on Saturday, which a man riding to Suakin would forfeit; and again, a native messenger had a better likelihood of getting through. So Burley started off his man, who made good time on his adventurous tramp. He was in Suakin about noon on Saturday, and Mr. Burley's long message, practical, coherent, and full of detail as it was, had a clear wire for its transmission. The steamer did not arrive at Suakin till 4 p.m., and then, of course, the official messages had priority over those of the correspondents.

THE MOUSE AND THE CAKE.

A mouse found a beautiful piece of plum-cake,
The richest and sweetest that mortal could make;
'Twas heavy with citron, and fragrant with spice,
And covered with sugar all sparkling and nice.

"My stars!" cried the mouse, while his eyes beamed with glee,
"Here's a treasure I've found; what a feast it will be:
But, hark! there's a noise, 'tis my brothers at play;
So I'll hide with the cake, lest they wander this way.

"Not a bit shall they have, for I know I can eat Every morsel myself, and I'll have such a feast;"
So off went the mouse, as he held the cake fast;
While his hungry young brothers went scampering past.

He nibbled, and nibbled, and panted, but still
He kept gulping it down till he made himself ill;
Yet he swallowed it all, and 'tis easy to guess
He was soon so unwell that he groaned with distress.

His family heard him, and as he grew worse
They sent for the doctor, who made him rehearse
How he'd eaten the cake to the very last crumb
Without giving his playmates and relatives some.

"Ah, me!" cried the doctor, "advice is too late,
You must die before long, so prepare for your fate;
If you had but divided the cake with your brothers,
'Twould have done you no harm, and been good for the others.

Had you shared it, the treat had been wholesome enough;
But eaten by one, it was dangerous stuff;
So prepare for the worst," and the word had scarce fled,
When the doctor turned round and the patient was dead.

Now all little people the lesson may take,
And some large ones may learn from the mouse and the cake
Not to be over-selfish with what we may gain;
Or the best of our pleasures may turn into pain.

ELIZA COOK.

PICTURES.

Long rolling surges of a falling sea,
Smiting the sheer cliffs of an unknown shore;
And by a fanged rock, swaying helplessly,
A mast with broken cordage—nothing more.

A young Faun making music on a reed,
Deep in a leafy dell, in Arcady;
Three girl-nymphs fair, in musing thought take heed
Of the strange youth's mysterious melody.

The sad slow dawn of winter; frozen trees
And trampled snow within a lonely wood;
One shrouded form, which to the city flees;
And one, a masquer, lying in his blood.

—LEWIS MORRIS.

HORRORS OF SIBERIA.

Few of those who have endured the horrors of hard labor and exile in Siberia have committed to paper their sad experience. The protapope Avvakum did, and his letters still feed the fanaticism of the raskolniks. The melancholy stories of the Menshikoff, the Dolgorouky, the Biron and other exiles of high rank have been transmitted to posterity by their sympathizers. Our young republican poet Ryleeff, before be hung in 1927, told in a beautiful poem, "Voinarosky," the sufferings of a little Russian patriot. Several memoirs of the "Decembrista" (exiled for the insurrection of Dec. 26, 1825), and the poem of Nekrasoff, "The Russian Women," are still inspiring the young Russian hearts with love for the prosecuted and hate to the prosecutors. Dostoevsky has told in a remarkable psychological study of prison life his experience at the fortress of Omask after 1848; and several Poles have described the martyrdom of their friends after the revelations of 1831 and 1848. * * * But, what are all these pains in comparison with the sufferings endured by half a million of people, from the day when, chained to iron rods, they started from Moscow for a two or three years' walk toward the mines of Transbaikalia until the day when, broken down by hard labor and privations, they died at a distance of five thousand miles from their native villages, in a country whose scenery and customs were as strange to them as its inhabitants—a strong, intelligent, but egoistic race!

What are the sufferings of the few, in comparison with those of the thousands under the cat-o'-nine-tails of the legendary monster, Rozguildeef, whose name is still the horror of the Transbaikalian villages; with the pains of these who, like the Polish doctor Szokalska and his companions, died under the seventh thousand of red strokes for an attempt to escape; with the sufferings of those thousands of women who followed their husbands, and for whom death was a release from a life of hunger, of sorrow, and of humiliation; with the sufferings of those thousands who yearly undertake their escape from Siberia and walk through the virgin forests, living on mushrooms and berries, and inspired with the hope of at least seeing again their native village and their kinsfolk? Who has told the less striking, but not less dramatic, pains of those thousands who spin out an aimless life in the hamlets of the far north, and put an end to their wearisome existence by drowning in the clear waters of the Yenisei? M. Maximoff has tried, in his work on "Hard Labor and Exile," to raise a corner of the veil that conceals these sufferings; but he has shown only a small corner of the dark picture. The whole remains and probably will remain unknown; its very features are obliterated day by day, leaving but a faint trace in the folk-lore and in the songs of the exiles, and each decade brings its new features, its new forms of misery for the ever increasing number of exiles.—Prince Krapotkine in Nineteenth Century.

Elopement at Riverside, Toronto.

The wife of a highly respectable man, a carpenter by trade, residing in Harris street, eloped with a blacksmith from the same locality on Wednesday last. The woman is of prepossessing appearance, about 30 years of age, and has two children by her husband, both of whom she took with her, and also about $100 in money, besides some wearing apparel and a valuable carpet. A note was found on the sitting room table stating that she had resolved not to live any longer with her husband, and that it would be of no use to follow her. The seducer is about 45 years of age and a widower. The parties are supposed to be in Chicago. Much sympathy is felt for the husband, who is a steady, industrious man, earning good wages and a good provider for his family.

Ice Breaking up.

The ice in the river above Brantford broke up on Thursday. As there was great fear of a flood when the river broke up, hundreds of people assembled along the bank to see the ice go down, but no serious damage has been heard of. The river is now clear.

TORONTO.

SEMI-CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.—The press sub-committee of the Semi-Centennial Celebration Committee met on Thursday evening at the City Hall. It was decided to issue invitations to all the newspapers throughout Canada and the principal cities of the United States. A draft of the circular was submitted and adopted, and a special committee was appointed to see to the mailing of the invitations. It was proposed to have a room at or near the Union station, where the representatives of the press could be received. The committee, however, adjourned without taking definite action in the matter.

SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH.—On Wednesday last, at St. Joseph's convent, seven young ladies went through the ceremony of taking the veil. Archbishop Lynch and a number of the clergy were present. The young ladies were first attired in bridal costumes. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Michael, Superior of St. Michael's College, and a sermon was preached by Rev. Father Kenny. At the conclusion of the ceremony the young ladies, assuming the veil retired, but soon reappeared attired in the dress worn by the Sisters of St. Joseph. They then partook of the Holy Sacrament, and finally retired to assume their new duties.

ALLEGED OUTRAGE.—Best and Sullivan, accused by a young woman of the name of Kelly of outrage in a cab, on Thursday morning appeared before the Police Magistrate, but the complainant, Miss Kelly, was not to be seen in court. The Magistrate, after reading the statement made by the girl when first laying information against the prisoners, remarked that the evidence against the cabman was very weak, and that altogether the story told was a very thin one. Mr. Murphy said that he did not think that a crime of the character charged could have been committed in the cab without the knowledge of the cabman. The fact that the complainant was not present was commented upon. Mr. Bigelow said he understood the detectives were looking for her, but had not found her. The case was then adjourned till the 24th inst.. Sullivan being admitted to bail in two sureties of $200 each, and Best in two sureties of $500 each.

OMEMEE.

RIBS BROKEN.—While Mr. Thos. Henderson of this village was felling a tree east of the village on Saturday he had three of the ribs on his left side broken. After chopping through the tree he stepped to one side and the falling tree, striking a low stump, bounded up giving Mr. Henderson a hard rap, with the above serious results.

STATION ACCOMMODATION.—A meeting was held in the village hall for the purpose of taking step with reference to securing better station accommodation for this village. After Mr. C. Laidleys had been moved to the chair, quite a discussion was entered into by those present. Dr. Norris, Messrs. Jas. Evans, Geo. McWilliams, S. English, and several others making some sensible remarks. The following gentlemen Dr. Norris, C. Laidley, T. English, I. McNeely, W. Neill and Thos. Stephenson, were appointed to draw up a memorial to the general manager of the Midland.—Herald

KINGSTON.

AT THE QUEEN'S.—A notice is posted in Queen's College calling a meeting for Thursday night to discuss a matter which concerns the "honour of every student in divinity and arts.

TIMBER RATES.—Some of the vessel owners state that they made up their minds not to fit out their boats, for the simple reason that timber rates are so low. Last year they made no money, and unless the rates are in advance of those of last year they will let their vessels lie idle and save insurance and wear and tear.

Lazarus at the Gate.

In an article upon the terrible condition of the London poor, in the last Contemporary, Mr. Francis Peck makes some valuable practical suggestions. He dwells upon the horrors of some of those filthy tenement houses where whole families are crowded into little rooms black and foul with the accumulated filth of years, and grown-up daughters in rags are forced to sleep in the same room with men, and sometimes with pigs. The thing is terrible, but what can be done? Drunkenness is usually at bottom of the poverty, but much of it is the fierce, brutal craving for excitement of ill-developed organizations which our laws seem powerless to control. Mr. Peck does, however, make two vigorous suggestions. He proposes a sanitary board which should have special police powers over these vile dens, and be authorized where the owner did not keep them in proper repair to put them in repair forthwith, and repay the cost by collecting the rent of the tenants. This is a strong measure; but in the hands of an energetic officer who was specially responsible for that and that alone it might be very efficient.

Another suggestion that he makes involves a more radical legal change. The hardship of these sad lives of want falls most severely upon the women and children. They have no means of preventing the father from spending his whole week's wages in the bar-room on Saturday night, and this he proposes to remedy by giving them some right to his earnings. He does not go into details, but probably he would approve of some regulation by which the wife or children might by notice to the employer compel him to withhold one-half, or some such portion of the wages, and pay it directly to them. This is a suggestion which it would be well to consider. If the heart-rendering suffering which so often results from this reckless improvidence could be lessened even in a slight degree, and the children protected, it would be an excellent thing.

Railway Receipts.

MONTREAL, March 20.—The large decrease in the traffic receipts, of all our great railways continues, owing principally to the snow blockades and a manifest falling off in freights. For the week ending the 15th inst. the Grand Trunk receipts were $301,000, a deficiency as compared with a similar period last year of over $38,000. The Canadian Pacific's receipts for the same week were $7,000 less, with 881 miles additional track, than the corresponding week of 1882.

A Wealthy Rag Picker.

An old rag picker, who lately died in Paris, made a will in which he directed that his funeral should take place at 6 o'clock in the morning, and that his furniture, consisting to all appearances of one old mattress, should become the property of those who followed his body to the graveyard. When the procession started there was only one man in it, and he got the mattress, which, when ripped open, was found to contain $40,000 in cash.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

LOCAL NEWS

A New Awning.

Mr. John Webber has erected a handsome new awning in front of his grocery store. Trade is brisk and the corner is becoming quite business-like.

The Assizes.

Five civil cases are entered for hearing at the Assize Court, which opens on Monday. They will be tried with a jury. There are no criminal cases to be heard.

New Maple Syrup!

First of the season just to hand. Also choice Mixed Pickles and Tomato Catsup. The above, is sold by the quart or gallon. Also, by the pound, evaporated Pumpkins. Raspberry, Plum, and Black Currant Jams. Fine Assorted Jellies, and other varieties too numerous to mention. Pure Apple Butter, try it. Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

A Handsome Prize.

We have been snown a handsome silver medal won by Mr. Charles E. Clarke, formerly in Mr. McKee's drug store in Peterborough, and brother of Dr. Clarke, by having passed the best written examination at the Metropolitan Sunday school, Toronto. The medal was given as the senior first prize for the year 1883, and is a fine one, beautifully chased, and with the winner's name engraved on it, as well as the reason for which it was awarded to him. It is a prize of which he might well be proud. He has won the first prize two years in succession, which is very good for a Peterborough boy entering one of the largest Sunday schools in the country.

If you want a Collar that combines comfort with style and beauty, call for the "Grantley" at Habiliment Hall.

A Fine Shop.

By alterations and improvements made in the premises occupied by Mr. W. J. Devlin, that gentleman now has a neat and tasty, yet capacious business shop, and these improvements testify to the friendly relations existing between Mr. Devlin and his landlord, Mr. Wm. Cluxton. The show room, by the changes made, was enlarged and is now 50 by 20 feet. A matched pine and varnished ceiling was put in and also a new hardwood floor, and the walls were calsomined a light blue color, giving the shop a better and more cheerful appearance. A glass case 30 feet long, 3 deep and 10 high, with nine sliding doors, stands at one's left on entering, and it is filled with light single and double carriage harness. The woodwork on it is grained in dark oak, and it is very handsome. The rear portion of the show room is taken up with a stock of heavy harness and parts of harness, and in this part a tasty office, with a glass screen, has been fitted up. The centre of the room is occupied by a stock of trunks of almost every size and variety. Both the windows are neatly dressed, one with samples of harness and harness furnishings, and the other with trunks, valises and ladies' satchels. On the right of the showroom the shelves contain a good stock of valises, satchels, and all kinds of hardware necessary for the manufacture of harness. In the rear of the show room is the workshop. It is lighted, in addition to the common windows, by a skylight, and in it skilled workmen are kept busily engaged. The outside of the shop is to be painted and more handsomely finished when the weather permits. Altogether Mr. Devlin has now a fine shop in which to carry on his business.

STRAY SHOTS.

Notes of the Saved Army, their Meetings and Sayings.

The attendance was as usual on Friday night—an immense crowd.

Gen. Lindsay was present and conducted the meeting.

Lieut. Munt, who had returned to Peterborough in the afternoon, was also present, and he hopes by being careful, to be able to assist in carrying on the work here.

The Rev. W. Joliffe read a portion of Scripture and commented on it.

Capt. Willis was not present at the meeting. He and Lieut. A. White went to Port Hope on Friday, the Captain to see about an additional supply of hymn books, and the Lieutenant to see her friends.

The Trumpet publishes a hymn on the "Judgment Day," which is dedicated to Lieut. Munt by J. B., Peterborough. It is set to the tune of "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."

Lieut. Nellie Willis sang this hymn at the meeting on Friday night, assisted by the soldiers. She was not familiar with the tune, and had to stop twice. When the people laughed at her for breaking down, she said, very pleasantly, that they felt happy now, but she hoped they would feel more happy soon through having their sins forgiven.

Ten or eleven persons went forward to the penitent bench before the meeting was concluded.

A meeting will be held in the Opera House again to-night.

A telephone message from Port Hope says that "there was an immense crowd at the Opera House on Friday night. One gentleman tried to get out at about 9 o'clock but found it impossible. The meeting was opened by Capt. Willis, and addresses were given by Lieut. Nellie Payne and Lieut. Annie White. Seven converts. Glory! Total number of converts so far about 475, and more to follow."

Police News.

There was another clean sheet in the court this morning—the seventh in succession. Two tramps occupied the cells last night.

Sporting.

Several of the Peterborough sporting men have measured off race courses on Chemong Lake, in order to be ready for aquatic contests next summer. Courses have been surveyed for races for any distance from half a mile up to six miles. The indications are that there will be some lively contests of this character during the coming season.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

Athletic School.

Mr. E. W. Johnstone, the celebrated athletic champion, who holds the Philadelphia Centenniel medals, and others presented by the Marquis of Lorne, Lord Dufferin, the late Hon. Geo. Brown, and societies innumerable, has been paying a visit to our town. He proposes to return next week with the view of forming an athletic school. His medals and trophies, which are now to be seen in the Daly House, will show in how many branches of athletics he has won distinction.

Splendid assortment of Gro Grain Silks, Ottoman Cords, Satin De Lyons, for Mantles, at Turnbull's. Also all the latest Novelties in Trimmings to match.

Railway Notes.

From the Register we learn that tracklaying has been recommenced on the Ontario and Quebec at Norwood.

The Lindsay Post says that Mr. Jas. Bell, assistant-supt., G.T.R., and Mr. W. B. Ferguson, of the Midland division, made a trip over the line and as far north as Coboconk, on Tuesday. At Lindsay the facilities for handling the business of the road was discussed, and it was pointed out that more yard room was absolutely necessary in order to allow of freight being handled properly. The advisability of placing a watchman at the Lindsay street crossing was referred to, and it will probably be done.

The "Silver King."

Of this play and the company which is to present it in the Opera House here on Monday night, the Toronto Mail of Wednesday last said:—

"In none other of the many melodramas at present on the stage are the elements of humour and pathos so fully developed as they are in 'The Silver King.' Scenery and mechanical effects aid plot and dialogue in the presentation of a charming performance, and a deep interest in the play is at once created. Of course, Mr. Charles A. Haswin, who assumes the role of 'Wilfred Denver,' the 'Silver King,' meets with a generous recognition of his admirable impersonation, and is frequently and loudly applauded during the evening. Miss Etelka Wardell, who is remembered since her last appearance here has strengthened the good impression she had made as "Nellie Denver." On more than one occasion last evening she was called before the curtain. Mr. Harry Rich, also, deserves mention for his representation of the lovable and faithful "Jakes." Mr. Perkins Fisher, as "Father Christian," provokes laughter at every word, and his faculty for creating mirth makes his every appearance on the stage a very welcome event. Every character in the cast might be alluded to in terms of praise, but there are so many of them that the task must be avoided. Reference should be made, however, to little Blanche Newcomb, who, as "Cissy," the six-year old daughter of "Wilfred Denver," gives evidence of an intelligence remarkable in a child of her age. Last night there was a very large audience in attendance at the Grand, and judging from the loud and frequent outbursts of applause, the performance was found to be a thoroughly enjoyable one."

Those popular Blue Polka Dot Shirts in all sizes, Collars separate or attached, always in stock at Andrew McNeil's.

Turnips.

Another supply of turnips at CARTON BROS.

Fluid Beef.

Johnston's fluid beef on draught at Chamberlain's Restaurant.

Personal.

Mr. Hugh D. Lumsden, Toronto, and Mr. H. Ryan, Perth, of the Ontario and Quebec, are registered at the Oriental Hotel.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—South to east winds; continued fair weather; higher temperatures, followed by local rains to-night or to-morrow.

A Good Example.

The municipal authorities of Ashburnham set those of Peterborough a good example in the matter of cleaning the sidewalk. On Sunday morning of last week the snow plough had been around the village before the hour of morning service, so as to allow the congregations to get to church. In preparation for the coming thaw they have since then had a force of men actively cleaning the village sidewalks. We need not point the comparison picture, especially for the outskirts of our town.

The New Ballot Box.

OTTAWA, March 19.—Mr. Ernest Myrand, of Quebec, was in the city to-day with a new ballot box which he has got patented, and which he claims will obviate all recounts and disputes in regard to elections. A committee of the House of Commons has been appointed to examine and report upon the invention.

The Cattle Trade.

A Toronto cattle and sheep dealer is authority for the opinion that unless Canadian sheep were sold at very low prices to the English market they would be superseded by the Australian sheep because of the low prices which the latter are sold and the high freight on the sheep from here to England.—Witness.

Presbyterian Missions.

The Home Missionary Committee of the Presbyterian Church will meet at Toronto next Tuesday, for the purpose of giving appointments for the summer months to students connected with all Colleges of the Church, and also for furthering the interests of the scheme for the augmentation of ministers' salaries.

Tennis.

The annual meeting of Trinity Col. club was held on Wednesday and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President G. E. Haslam, B. A.; Secretary-Treasurer, J. A. Richie; Committee, Messrs. N. F. Davidson, R. W. Rogers, E. C. Cayley, together with the officers.

The prospects for the season promise unusually well. It is proposed to hold a tournament on the college grounds for the members sometime during Trinity term.

AN ANECDOTE.

One evening, a short time since, the curate of a small village in the north of France returned much fatigued to his humble dewelling. He had been visiting a poor family who were suffering from both want and sickness, and the worthy old man, besides administering the consolations of religion, had given them a few small coins, saved by rigid self-denial from his scanty income. He walked homewards, leaning on his stick, and thinking, with sorrow, how very small were the means he possessed of doing good and reliving misery.

As he entered the door, he heard an unwonted clamour of tongues, taking the form of a by no means harmonious duet—an unknown male voice growling forth a hoarse bass, which was completely overscreeched by a remarkably high and thin trebel, easily recognised by the placid curate as proceeding from the well-practised throat of his housekeeper, the shrewish Perpetua of a gentle Don Abbondio.

"A pretty business this, Monsieur!" cried the dame, when her master appeared, as with flashing eyes and left arm a-kimbo, she pointed with the other to a surly-looking man, dressed in a blouse, who stood in the hall, holding a very small box in his hand. "This fellow," she continued, "is a messenger from the diligence, and he wants to get 15 francs as the price of the carriage of that little box directed to you, which I am sure, no matter what it contains, can't be worth half the money."

"Peace, Nanette," said her master; and taking the box from the man, who, at his approach, civilly doffed his hat, he examined the direction.

It was extremely heavy, and bore the stamp of San Francisco, California, together with his own address. The curate paid the 15 francs, which left him possessed of but a few sous, and dismissed the messenger.

He then opened the box, and displayed to the astonished eyes of Nanette, an ingot of virgin gold and a slip of paper, on which was written the following words:—

"To Monsieur the Curate of B——,

"A slight taken of eternal gratitude, in remembrance of August 28th, 1848."

CHARLES F——.

"Formerly Sergeant-Major in the —th Regiment; now a gold digger in California."

On the 28th of August, 1848, the curate was, on the evening in question, returning from visiting his poor and sick parishioners. Not far from his cottage he saw a young soldier with a haggard countenance, and with bloodshot eyes, hastening towards the bank of a deep and rapid river, which ran through the fields. The venerable priest stopped him, and spoke to him kindly.

At first the young man would not answer, and tried to break away from his questioner; but the curate, fearing that he meditated suicide, would not be repulsed, and at length, with much difficulty, succeeded in leading him to his home. After some time, softened by the tender kindness of his host, the soldier confessed that he had spent in gambling a sum of money entrusted to him as sergeant-major of his company. This avowal was made in words broken by sobs, and the culprit repeated several times, "My poor mother! If she only knew."

The curate waited until the soldier had become more calm, and then addressed him in words of reproof and council, such as a tender father might bestow on an erring son. He finished by giving him a bag containing one hundred and thirty francs, the amount of the sum unlawfully dissipated.

"It is nearly all I possess in the world," said the old man, "but by the grace of God, you will change your habits, you will work diligently, and some day, my friend, you will return me this money, which, indeed, belongs more to the poor than to me."

Housekeepers are invited to look through Turnbull's heavy stock of Scotch Lace Curtains, which has now arrived after many delays, owing to the vessel they were on being disabled at sea, and the snow blockade at Halifax.

Thousands Say So.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your electric bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

IN future all ironclads are to be fitted with torpedo nets and spars in order to defend them against torpedo attacks, more especially in harbour. The officers and men will be frequently drilled in the use of the nets, so as to enable them to become thoroughly acquainted with them.

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the "great pain cure." It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neurnigia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline.

IT has been industriously reported that The Scot will carry the Prince of Wales' handsome colours in the Grand Military Gold Cup steeplechase at Sandown Park next Friday. But H.R.H. is not likely to jeopardize his horse's Grand National chance by running the risk of incurring a penalty therein, which a victory at Sanddown will entail.

The Greatest Healing Compound

is a preparation of carbolic acid, vaseline and cerate called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

Every one speakes highly of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters as a Stomach, Liver and Kidney Medicine. "The best family medicine we ever used," say they all. Try a bottle this Spring as a blood purifier.

THE SPRING ASSIZES.

FIVE CIVIL SUITS WITH JURY AND NO CRIMINAL CASES.

Mr. Justice Cameron Receives a Pair of Gloves and Discourses on the Grand Jury System—Should it be Abolished or Modified.

The spring assizes opened at one o'clock this afternoon, Mr. Justice Cameron presiding on the bench. There being no criminal cases to be tried, the judge was, previous to taking his seat on the bench, presented with the customary pair of white kid gloves by Sheriff Hall.

Mr. W. Kerr, Q.C., Cobourg, appeared as Crown Prosecutor, and Mr. G. T. Blackstock, Toronto, was also present. The following local members of the legal profession were present when the court opened:—Messrs. C. A. Weller, County Attorney; A. P. Poussette, Geo. Edmison, E. A. Peck, R. E. Wood, John O'Meara, James Henry, E. B. Edwards, G. M. Roger, C. W. Sawers, G. W. Hatton, E. H. D, Hall and W. A. Stratton.

Five civil cases were entered for hearing, all jury cases. There were no criminal cases.

THE GRAND JURY.

The Grand Jury was composed as follows:—

JOHN BERTRAM, Foreman.

|---|---|
| J. P. Brown, | P. Gillespie, |
| Joseph Barnard, | James Horner, |
| James Bibbe, | Thos. Hetherington, |
| Robt. Brodie, | Dawson Kennedy, |
| Wm. Collins, | Jas. McCliggott, |
| C. Crozier, | D. Molopey, |
| John Corkery, | W. McKew, |
| Wm. Davidson, | Wm. O'Brien, |
| James Foley, | W. E. Sherwood, |
| John Grady, | H. T. Strickland, |
| C. H. Sheffield, | John Smith. |

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE.

HIS LORDSHIP, addressing the Grand Jury, said that he had just been presented by the Sheriff with a pair of gloves, which was an indication that this County was free from crime, or at least that no person was awaiting his trial for a criminal offence. He therefore congratulated them on the lightness of their duties, and congratulated the County. The absence of crime was an indication of the prosperity of the country. They were present to investigate crime, and as there was nothing of this nature for them to do, they might think that the summoning of them was unnecessary. But although there were no criminal cases for them to investigate this time, it did not follow that the county would always be free from crime, and the services of the Grand Jury might be required at another session of the Court. Legislation had been introduced in the Ontario Legislature on the Grand Jury system, but no result had followed, as there was a doubt as to which Parliament had jurisdiction in the matter. This legislation was to reduce the number of Grand Jurors from 24 to 15, but made no change in the principle of the action of the Grand Jury, as 12 would have to agree in finding a true bill. One objection urged against the present Grand Jury system was that the expense overbalanced the benefit derived from it. The expense was a mere bagatelle, but the expenses connected with the administration of justice were considerable. There were not less than 9,000 committals in the Province during the past year. During the year previous there had been over 9,000 committals, and of them 2,000 had been acquitted. This showed that persons could be put on trial who had committed no crime, or that the administration of justice was deficient. The proportion of prisioners acquitted by the County Judges and by juries was about equal, and justice would be received at the hands of either. It was, however, undesirable that the people should give up their hold on liberty that they possessed in the jury system. He had yet to find the one man who was capable of judging of a case as well as 12 honest men who was trying to do what was right. They possessed a voice in the Legislature of their country through their representative, and why should they not have a voice in the administration of the laws? The expense was trifling compared with the great benefit that might accrue. Although better educated, we were not better than our forefathers. It had been said that the magistracy could discharge the duties of the Grand Jury, but it was often the case that the Grand Jury did not find a true bill against a man committed by a magistrate. There ought to be no politics or partism in the administration of justice, and magistrates should be appointed on account of their integrity and intelligence, and not because they belonged to a certain party, as was often the case. Both political parties were equally blameable in this respect. It had been suggested again that the county attorneys could perform the duties of the Grand Jury, but to do that the system of payment to the county attorneys would have to be changed. The question was, could they get any persons to perform the duties as well and at less expense? If the number of Grand Jurors were reduced from 24 to 15, and 12 were still required to find a true bill, 4 of the 15 summoned might fail to attend, and it would be impossible to proceed with the criminal business. He presented these views to them with a view to asking them for their opinion as to whether the Grand Jury system could be abolished or modified. He wished their opinion because they represented the intelligence of the county and were from different parts of the county. Their presentment would be sent to the Secretary of State at Ottawa, and to the Provincial Secretary. They were not bound to offer any answer unless they wished. It was part of their duty to examine the gaol. In some counties provision was made for the care of the poor, but he was not aware that it had been done in this county. A few centres of population, the cities and towns were burdened with the care of the poor, and it was not right. This was, however, a matter within the jurisdiction of the County Councils.

The Grand Jury then retired.

A Domestic Tragedy.

SAN, FRANCISCO, March 21.—On Wednesday night Mrs. John Schaefer, of Oakland, became insane over the death of one of her children, and cut her baby's throat, and then her own. When her husband reached home and saw his wife and baby dead he became crazed and attempted suicide, But was prevented, Mrs. Letrolli, who visited the house, was so shocked that she became a maniac.

Adulteration of Food.

ALBANY, March 21.—The Senate Committee on Public Health, which investigated the matter of the adulteration of food, presented its report to-day. The committee d scovered wholesale and alarming adulterations of food which are dangerous to the consumer and ruinous to proderty in rural districts. Adulteration by means pof tallow, oil, bone oil, and lard oil was found in almost every town and city in the State, and in amount equal to half the production of natural butter. The imitation has been so disguised that often it can only be detected by chemical analysis.

The Lord's Prayer Backwards.

An acquaintance of ours who has a bright, keen little girl in her family, related to us the following incident:—The family were dining, when the conversation turned upon an excursion about to take place. A clergyman at the table spoke to the little girl and asked her if she could repeat the alphabet backwards. She said, "No, sir," when the gentleman remarked, "Then you can't go on the excursion." She looked very demure for a moment, when she asked:—"Can you say the Lord's Prayer backwards?" "No, dear." "Then" replied the girl, "you can't go to heaven."

The London (ont.) Ice-Jam.

LONDON, March 21.—The ice jam, which has been a source of annoyance and fear to the London West people for a month past, moved at six o'clock this evening, and was carried on a rapid current past the city and over the water works dam down to Chatham without doing the slightest damage to any house in the village or to the dam. The scene at the water works is described as magnificent. Huge cakes of ice, pitched on top of each other, would linger for a minute of two on the crest of of the dam, then swing around and topple over into the river below with a crash. From six to eight this was continued, until the river was completely cleared of ice. A feeling of relief pervades everybody in London West to-night.

SHOWING THEIR HANDS.

THE manner in which the Mowat conspirators have been conducting themselves in the House shows the motive of their plot. They are charged, in accordance with the facts, that they have used the Colonization Road fund to corrupt the electors. The reply is neither a defence nor an explanation, but a bullying taunt and sneering advice not to mention bribery. The fact is that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues employed men of bad repute to solicit bribes, for the very purpose of procuring a counter charge to call public attention from their own proved frauds and corruption.

PUBLIC PATRONAGE

The discussion that arose in Committee of Supply at Ottawa on the subject of civil service examinations shows the different policies adopted by Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Mowat. Member after member declared the examinations too severe, and it was plainly shown that Sir John and his colleagues, following the old country precedent, have divested themselves of much of their patronage. Mr. Mowat on the other hand, not only clings to the power of appointing partisans, but steadily usurps municipal and local patronage that he may have more opportunities of rewarding political services and of securing electioneering agents at the expense of the country. Such contrasts as these show who are the true liberals.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL MOWAT'S PLOTS.

THE Montreal Witness professes to be very religious, very moral, and considerably independant, but all this does not prevent it from being as untruthful, uncharitable and partisan as any of its more worldly contemporaries. It gives what purports to be an account in considerable detail of the career of Mr. J. A. Wilkinson. Yet the Witness entirely ignores the most prominent incident in that career. It makes no mention of the facts that as a journalist Mr. Wilkinson was instrumental in the exposure of the great head of the Reform party, the Hon. George Brown, as being the prime mover in organizing a Reform corruption fund, that he applied for and obtained the assistance among others of Mr. Simpson, President of the Ontario Bank, and that the Reform leaders at Ottawa and Toronto both took steps to complete Mr. Brown's bargain by giving exceptional pecuniary advantages to Mr. Simpson's bank. It omits to mention that Mr. Wilkinson had his business broken up through the expenses to which he was put in connection with this affair, and that ever since then every big and little Reform politician, every big and little Reform journal has been ceaselessly assailing Mr. Wilkinson with the coursest abuse in revenge for his exposure of Reform corruption in high places.

Now if Mr. Wilkinson is found guilty, on better evidence than that of the loose fish who are now bringing charges against him, of half the offences that are laid at his door we have no word to say in his defense, corruption must be punished, and both bribers and bribed should meet with their deserts. But at the same time we would point out that though inexcusable, Mr. Wilkinson's hostility to the Reform hypocrits and his eagerness to defeat them at any cost are easily understood after they have been persistently howling him down for exposing their corruption. It would be adopting their own maxim of "fighting the devil with fire."

The reasons why the Witness omits these incidents are obvious. It wishes to convey the false impression that the Reformers are ever pure and the Conservatives ever corrupt. It wishes also to represent the alleged actions of Mr. Wilkinson as unaccountable except on the theory that he was the tool of others, so his own personal feud and its grounds are ignored. So far the ingredients in this disgraceful affair appear to be: A Minnesota lumberman fleeced, as he asserts, for the benefit of Reform operation and eager for revenge; a journalist well-nigh ruined and abused for exposing Reform corruption and also burning to avenge himself; a set of members of already shady reputation, who ran after men for bribes, and seemed to have been perfectly ready to sell their votes either to them or Mr. Mowat as might be found most profitable; and last, an Attorney-General and his colleagues who plotted with and hired some of these members to endeavor to entrap some Conservative into participation in the affair, and who conspired to solicit bribery in order that they might make corruption turn to their advantage, by calling attention from the investigation of their own corruption and frauds in Algoma, for which one of the gang has already received his deserts in a law court.

It is a shameful and disgraceful affair, and all who are guilty should be exposed and punished.

See our New Ties, just in, and also just out. Andrew McNeil, George Street.

THE MOWAT PLOT.

Evidence by Mowat Employees of their Conspiracy to Invite Bribery

On Friday evidence was given before the Legislative Committee by Mr. Cascaden, and before the Police Court by Mr. McKim as to the notorious bribery charges.

AN INVITATION TO BRIBE RESENTED.

Mr. CASCADEN testified that Mr. Meek, an old acquaintance of his, had endeavored to induce him to oppose the Administration, and also to resign his seat that Mr. Meek might run for it. Mr. Cascaden, like his fellow-informers, put himself in communication with the Administration. Like their other employees, Mr. Cascaden admits that in a chance interview with Mr. Bunting he broached the subject of corrupt inducements, which was indignantly resented by Mr. Bunting, the language being described as "more forcible than polite." Mr. Cascaden also endeavored to connect the Conservative party with Mr. Meek's alleged offers.

THE PLOT TO CORRUPT.

Mr. MCKIM in the Police Court also implicated himself and his employers, Mowat & Co., in a plot to invite bribery. We take the report of the Globe, for though dishonestly garbled, it shows enough to condemn their conspirators. The reports of the independent Toronto press agree with the Mail and not with the Globe.

TOUTING FOR VOTE-SELLERS.

This is how Mr. McKim barganed to procure votes according even to the Globe's sophisticated version:—

Q.—What was the object of your being asked to speak to Lyon? A.—I was to try to get Lyon to vote against the Government generally during the session.

Q.—Was this application to yourself in regard to selling Mr. Lyon? A.—Yes.

Q.—Had this any particular view to the House of Assembly? A.—It was to get him to vote against the Government.

Q.—On any particular occasion? A.—On any vote of want of confidence or any amendment to any Government measure that would come up.

Q.—To what end was it that they were to vote against the Government? A.—To defeat the Government.

Q.—How could that be done? A.—I was also asked to use my influence with other members for the prisoners.

Q.—Was anything said by Wilkinson or Meek on this occasion of their own action in the matter? A.—They were to withdraw the petition against Mr. Lyon. They said that they could easily find some excuse to withdraw the petition.

And again:—

Q.—Have you seen Meek at any other time? A.—Yes. One evening Mr. Lyon and I went to see Mr. Wilkinson in his room at the Walker House concerning the protest about Mr. Lyon's election. Mr. Meek was in the room, and remained there the whole time.

This is how he owns he secured Lyon:—

"Mr. Murphy—Did you tell Mr Lyon anything about your conversation with Mr. Pardee? A.—I can't remember.

Q.—Did you tell him what was to be done if the petition was withdrawn? A.—I told him of the proposition that Mr. Wilkinson had made me—that if he would support the Opposition his petition would be withdrawn.

Q.—Did Mr. Lyon falter in his allegiance at all? A.—He said he would vote against the Government on the timber question, but if it came to a vote of want of confidence he would not vote against them.

Q.—Then when you told Mr. Wilkinson that you thought Lyon would vote against the Government if the petition was withdrawn were you telling him what you believed to be true or false? A.—I said he would vote against the Government on the timber question.

Q.—The round robin showed that it was not the timber question alone that you were propose the Government on, and Mr. Lyon's name was on it when you affixed your signature, was it not? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then you were telling a falsehood when you said you thought Mr. Lyon would vote against the Government? A.—I said on the timber question.

Q.—But you were only to vote against the Government on the timber question? A.—I was to give a general support to the Opposition, and Mr. Lyon also.

Q.—Did you make Wilkinson believe that Lyon would go straight against the Government? A.—Yes; I led him to believe that Lyon would go straight against the Government.

Q.—Were you telling him the truth? A.—I don't think that Lyon would vote for the Government on every occasion.

Q.—What would they call this in Wellington? Lying or telling the truth? A.—It would depend upon the kind of men you met.

Q.—Is this what an honorable man would do? A.—Well, I came to the conclusion that I was not dealing with honorable men, so I mind my own reputation and I'll mind my own.

And thus he approaches others:—

Q.—Are you aware whether Mr. Wilkinson saw Mr. Lyon, Mr. Dowling, or Mr. Balfour at all, or did you see them for him? A.—I am not aware that he saw them.

Q.—You said to Wilkinson that they would have to make their own arrangements with these gentlemen?

Mr. Irving—Did you bring these gentlemen to his room at Mr. Wilkinson's request? A.—Yes.

HIS FELLOW PLOTTERS.

This is how he gives away his confederates:

Q.—And you admit, do you not, that you were being used as an informer by the Ministers with a view to entrapping some of the defendants into the alleged conspiracy? A.—I admit that I had interviews with the defendants I have named, and reported to the Ministers.

Q.—You kept this plot in your own hands, to work yourself? A.—No, I told the members of the Government, and worked it out with their knowledge.

He confessed how he approached other members:—

Q.—You were the medium through which Mr. Balfour was approached? A.—Yes; I was the man who approached all that now stand with the man who nailed the bribers.

Q.—Were you the party who furnished the names of these gentlemen to Mr. Wilkinson? A.—Mr. Wilkinson repeatedly asked me the names of what gentlemen I thought could be influenced and could be got at by him. I gave him the names of Mr. Balfour, Dr. Dowling and Mr. Lyon. He asked me about Bidgerow, and he thought he could also get at Gaudie.

THE MEDIUM OF INTRODUCTION.

It seems also that it was he who brought Kirkland and Wilkinson together:—

By Mr. Alex. Cameron—I am not quite sure whether I introduced Mr. Kirkland to Mr. Wilkinson. I met Mr. Kirkland first, and he spoke of his timber limits, and said that he had several thousand acres from the Canadian Government. He had the land without the timber and wished for the timber also. He said he was prepared to pay as much for the timber as any one else. I promised to speak to Mr. Pardee about it, and assist him to the best of my ability. I believe that Mr. Kirkland's sole idea was to get possession of the timber, and that he did not care whether he got it from one party or the other.

Mr. Cameron—Just so; that is exactly what we say.

Mr. Denison—Did you get any admission from Kirkland that he knew anything of what the other defendants were doing? A.—He made no such distinct admission.

THE PLOT TO ENTRAP.

Mr. MCKIM was equally plain in his exposure of his employment by the Government in order to entrap Mr. Bunting:—

Q.—When did you tell the Government that you had got the offer? A.—I believe it was the same day. I told Mr. Pardee that he had better look out, for they were trying to buy up supporters of the Government. Mr. Pardee then told me to go on and see how far they would go. I had no other object in this matter. I was not content with the security of Mr. Meek. I did not like the appearance of his face, and I wanted to see Mr. Bunting.

Dr. McMichael—I am afraid you intended to use Mr. Bunting's signature. A.—Yes, I did intend to use it as I did that which I got from the others.

Q.—$500 was not enough, then? A.—No.

Q.—The next offer was $1,000, and you did not think it enough? A.—No.

Q.—Finally they offered you $2,000, and you accepted that as your price? A.—If you like to put it that way.

And again he repeats his revelation of the plot against Mr. Bunting:—

Mr. Clark then proceeded to cross-examine the witness in behalf of Mr. Bunting. He said—Why did you object to the note? Was it because it was not sufficient security without Mr. Bunting's name? A.—That was one of the objections.

Q.—What was the next objection? A.—I wanted to know how far they were going, and if Mr. Bunting was a party to this transaction, as he was represented to be by Mr. Wilkinson.

Q.—Were you instructed by any of the members of the Government to take that step?

After describing some fencing between witness counsel and magistrate the report proceeds:—

The witness answered that Mr. Pardee and Mr. Fraser had instructed him to go and see if Mr. Bunting was in the transaction.

We have so far given the worst of the Globe which are damaging enough, but as to this point we will quote the unbiased version of an independent journal certainly not prejudiced in favor of Mr. Bunting or against Mr. Mowat. The Toronto World says:—

Witness continuing, testified that from the moment he was first approached by Wilkinson until the latter's arrest his one object was to lead the conspirators into a trap. He was fully and distinctly advised by Mr. Fraser and Mr. Pardee to do this when he first reported to them that he had had a definite offer of a bribe. He never spoke a word to Mr. Mowat about it until the night the disclosures were made on the floor of the house. The Government and witness appeared to be very anxious to get Bunting's name to a paper which would criminate him and expose. This was why he was so anxious to have Bunting's name to the promissory note for $5,000, which was to be given him as a bond guaranteeing that the terms of the alleged bribe would be carried out if he would vote against the government.

HIS FORMER PRICE FOR SUPPORT.

In cross-examination Mr. McKim confessed that years ago he had been approached with offers of a situation. He also owned that he had more than once applied for registrarship and that he had obtained from the Mowat Administration the Registrarship of Dufferin for his son.

The Globe dishonestly omits this episode which is given in all the independent papers.

BURNING EVIDENCE.

There was one very suspicious incident in the police court proceedings. The round-robin which, in return for their price, Messrs. McKim and Lyon signed, pledging them to desert their party, has mysteriously disappeared. This is the Globe version:—

Inspector Ward, who made the search of the defendants Wilkinson and Kirkland, was called. He said he did not remember seeing the name of Mr. McKim affixed to any of the documents found on the defendants.

Mr. Murphy—Are you not a strong politician? Did you not help to carry Algoma at the time of the election? A.—Yes.

Mr. Murphy—It is very strange, I say, that when a conspiracy is charged, the only document bearing the signature of one of the witnesses is not to be found.

Mr. Clark—Are all the documents found on Wilkinson produced here? A.—All the documents produced were found on Wilkinson and Kirkland. I gave them to the Hon. Mr. Fraser.

Q.—Had you counted them? A.—No.

Q.—Had you read them? A.—I had looked them all through, and took them to Mr. Fraser, who was sitting in the Committee. Mr. Fraser made a few selections from the documents, and gave me back the others, which I brought away. I went to see Mr. Fraser this morning to get possession of the papers for service in the police court to-day. Mr. Pardee was with Mr. Fraser, and they did not give me the remainder of the papers.

It thus appeared that an important document criminating two of the conspirators, had shared the fate of the Algoma evidence against some of the same gang. The responsibility seems to rest between some of the Mowat administration and one of their official electioneers and tools.

EARNING HIS EMPLOYERS' WAGES.

Of course Mr. McKim's evidence was full of accusations, heresay reports and surmises against those whom he was confessedly plotting to lead into crime. This, however, will have little weight coming from a self-confessed liar, vote-seller, pimp and decoy, his involuntary admissions may, however receive more credence.

An Unknown Man Killed

As No. 9 express, which left Toronto at 6.30 on Friday evening for Hamilton, was running west at a high rate of speed, the engineer noticed a man on the Humber bridge. Before the train could be stopped, however, the locomotive struck the unfortunate man throwing him into the ditch. The train hands picked him up dead, and the body was sent to Union station on the incoming express, No. 12, whence it was removed to the morgue. No one knew who he was, and there were no papers found on his person by which he could be identified. Deceased was apparently 50 years of age, hair nearly white, rather a full beard and good features. He wore a brownish tweed suit, white shirt, a small-colored silk handkerchief around his neck and a plaid cloth overcoat. The body was not mangled in any way.

The Sandwich Gaol Murderer!

HAMILTON, March 21.—John E. O'Callaghan was arrested here this morning on supposition of being the man who escaped from Sandwich gaol. He says he is not the man, but his brother. Communication has been had with the Detroit police, and so far as learned he is not the man, but he is still detained in custody.

WINDSOR, March 21.—A man giving the name of John Wilson was arrested here on Wednesday on account of a resemblance to O'Callaghan, the Sandwich gaol murderer. He has been remanded until Monday to secure identification.

DETROIT, March 21.—This morning a despatch was received from the authorities of Buxton, Ont., stating that a man was arrested at that point last night whom the officers are sure O'Callaghan. He had a fresh bullet wound in his leg, was very reticent about himself, and the description furnished resembles that of O'Callaghan. Chief Bains, of Windsor, does not feel very sanguine that the man is O'Callaghan, but so positively are the Statements of the Buxton people that Mr. Baines started for the place this afternoon to see if the much-longed for O'Callaghan is in custody.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.—A little son of John Spinks, Toronto, had his foot crushed by a G. T. R. Express train some time ago. Two doctors attended him without benefit, and amputation was proposed, but Hagyard's Yellow Oil was tried, which gave prompt relief and effected a speedy cure, even removing all stiffness of the joint.

"I HAD BEEN for eight months unable to work, and felt as though I would as lief die as live, through Dyspepsia and Indigestion. I weighed at the time of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130 lbs.; used three bottles and now weigh 165, and never was better in my life. # ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

ADVANCED A STAGE.

On Friday a number of measures were advanced a stage.

PETERBOROUGH REGISTRARSHIP.

Mr. MOWAT in reply to Mr. Carnegie said that the appointment of Registrar of the County of Peterborough had been made upon the recommendation of a number of residents. He refused to name them or to say whether the number for the East Riding was among them.

ILLEGAL IMPRISONMENT.

Mr. MOWAT in reply to Mr. French, promised to bring down papers as to the imprisonment of certain men at the instance of the Parry Sound Lumber Company. The Magistrate appeared to have acted under an old act which was now repealed, though it still remained in some of the text books.

THE MERCER ESTATE.

Mr. FERRIS moved for certain detailed particulars as to the estate of the late Mr. Mercer, and the amounts received by his son from the property of father and mother.

PARLIAMENTARY BUILDINGS,

Mr. CLARKE (Toronto) moved for estimates as to the cost of repairs required on the Parliament Buildings with the view of showing that the repairs would cost nearly as much as new buildings.

Mr. FRASER refused the information requested.

Mr. CREIGHTON moved to add a municipal committee to the Standing Committee, and to choose all standing committees for the term, not for the session.

Mr. FRASER assented to the first part, and would not agree to the second part of the motion, which passed as thus amended.

MUNICIPAL BILL.

Mr. MEREDITH moved an amendment to add two members of the City Councils to the Police Commissioners.

Mr. MOWAT of course opposed further powers to Municipal Councils.

After some discussion the amendment was negatived by 38 to 33.

RAILWAY PASSES.

Mr. MEREDITH moved an amendment to the corrupt practices bill to prevent the furnishing of railway passes to convey voters to the polls. He pointed out that according to the English law it was illegal.

Mr. FRASER sneeringly refused to give up this means of corruption.

CONSERVATIVE INDIANS.

Mr. WHITE objected to the wholesale disfranchisement of Indians.

Mr. HARDY and Mr. LYON objected to the Indians as electors because they voted Conservative, and the clause was allowed to stand.

THE DUCK ISLAND VOTE.

Mr. WHITE urged that there should be a polling place on the Duck Islands, as there were 60 good votes there.

Mr. LYON and Mr. HARDY again objected to Conservative voters, the latter making sneering remarks as to Americans and bribery.

MORE APJOHNS WANTED.

Mr. MEREDITH moved to strike out the clause giving deputy returning officers a judicial power to refuse votes, pointing out the danger of partisan rejections.

Mr. FRASER and Mr. PARDEE persisted in retaining the power to manufacture more Apjohns.

BRIBERY FUNDS.

Mr. MEREDITH in Committee of Supply pointed out that though last year's appropriation for Colonization Roads in Algoma was only $18,000, the Government had expended over $36,000, in order to influence the election.

Mr. PARDEE said the over-expenditure was to promote settlement, not to influence the election. He said the expenditure was shown in the accounts.

Mr. CREIGHTON said that was not the case, as was proved by their asking for over $36,000 to meet over-expenditures in the last four years.

Mr. FRASER made some bullying remarks about the plot of himself and his colleagues to induce corruption of members.

Mr. MEREDITH denounced these sneers as to a matter now being judicially investigated. The Conservatives desired the closest scrutiny and were not to be frightened by the threats of those who were raising a cry for the purpose of shielding themselves and hiding their own misdeeds.

Mr. CARNEGIE gave instances of colonization road funds expended for political effect.

Mr. PARDEE joined his colleague in sneering remarks as to their bribery plot.

PROROGATION.

Mr. MOWAT said the prorogation would take place on Tuesday.

Mr. FRASER said Monday.

A Nasty Fix.

A funny incident has grown out of the business which may involve a pretty nice point of law; to wit, who owns the money paid to Mr. McKim? That patriot, it appears, is not in a first-class financial position. In fact, though a man of great promise, he is not a man of ready pay. Among those who had trusted him not wisely but too much were Messrs. Stuart & Macpherson of this city; and the firm has obtained a garnishing order attaching the money paid McKim, now in the Speaker's hands. The money was actually received by McKim, and it is quite possible it will be held to be his in law. It will be a little strange if the bribery money becomes a means of paying one of his debts. And then if the money which McKim actually received is used to pay McKim's debts where does that patriot stand? Dare he sit and vote in the Legislature after having received money to influence his political action? He will say, perhaps, that he did not intend to accept a bribe. But he did accept it. At least he will explain, he did not intend to keep it. But it will have been applied to his personal use. He had better dodge around and raise $1,000 to return to Wilkinson. But if he could not raise $1,000 to pay his honest debts, how can he raise it to refund the bribery money And if he does raise it, will not some creditor seize that also? It looks as if Brother McKim is in rather a 'nasty' fix.—Hamilton Spectator.

False Accusation of Treason

A Madrid dispatch says a sergeant has confessed that he brought a false accusation against the sergeant clerks of the War Office who were dismissed yesterday on suspicions of having divulged the contents of documents passing between the War Office and the provincial commanders. They will, therefore, be allowed to return to the army.

The Conservative Reaction in England.

There was great excitement in the lobbies on Thursday night. A telegram arrived announcing a Tory victory in Cambridgeshire. The Conservatives were jubilant. Following Marriott's election at Brighton this new success opened up prospects of the immediate return to office.

A VERDICT OF $300 FOR SEDUCTION.

Chief Justice Hagarty Unbosoms Himself on the Above Crime.

The seduction case of Baird against Sweetman was resumed at Toronto on Friday at the Assize Court. The defendant Sweetman took the witness box. He swore that he was a member of the church, a Sunday School teacher, a postmaster, a merchant, and held family prayers regularly. He denied ever having had any criminal relations with Hannah Baird. His wife had once suspected it but he denied it. He said that he had been dismissed from the church on account of the scandal. A couple of witnesses were called, who gave unimportant evidence. The letter published in the World of Thursday was declared by an expert to have been written by a female.

His Lordship addressed the jury at great length, and after reviewing the evidence charged strongly in favor of the defendant. He said that the girl's own contradictory statements showed that she could not be believed on oath, and it looked more like a case of fornication than seduction. It was not a question whether the defendant had been criminally intimate with the woman; they had to find if it was he who had seduced her. He spoke strongly against the seduction law recently passed in the House of Commons, and said it was a terrible thing to give women the power to send men to the penitentiary in such cases as the one before them.

After being out two hours the jury came into court with a verdict for defendant for $300. The verdict was evidently a genuine surprise to the court. Justice Hagarty said he was sorry that the jury had not seen fit to throw the abominable case out of court. Mr. Bigelow asked that costs be awarded his client. His Lordship replied that he could not possibly see how he could do it. The legislature had given him the power to refuse costs. He would not do it only in extreme cases, and he considered that this most assuredly was one. As the jury had seen fit to take their view of it, he would have his way. However, he would take till to-morrow to consider. He said that with all his experience on the bench this was the foulest case that had ever come under his notice. He only wished that it layed in his power to punish some of the parties in the case.

Mr. Bigelow said he hoped that he was not one of them.

"No, no," said His Lordship, "you are free from blame. Indeed, I have seldom seen a counsel handle a poor case so ably as you did this one."

THE WIMBLEDON TEAM.

Appointment of the First and Second In Command of this Year's Team.

OTTAWA, March 21.—It is understood that Lieut.-Col. Mason, Chairman of the Council of the Dominion Rifle Association, has offered the command of this year's Wimbledon team to Capt. Perley, of New Brunswick Engineers. Capt. Perley is well known among the force for the interest he has taken in military matters and as an experienced rifleman. This is the first time the command has been given to this important branch of the military service. Capt. Perley is Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department in Ottawa. The position of second in command has been offered to Capt. Bosse, of the 65th Regiment, Montreal.

The present of a diamond ring," she continued, "might awaken joy in my heart, but I am sure nothing else would."

THE most prolific source of disease of the kidneys is traced by scientists to the impurities of the water we drink. To guard against this evil, Sir Garnet Wolseley is said to have ordered 10,000 cases of Dr. van. Buren's Kidney Cure for the use of the army. It is the only known remedy that will cure permanently all forms of kidney disease, and every family should keep it.

The Spirometer.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an exiled surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

LOCAL NEWS

Police News.

No cases at the Court this morning. Two tramps rested in the cells on Saturday night and two on Sunday night.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Home will be held at the Home, to-morrow, Tuesday, at 3 o'clock, p.m.

Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the Town Council will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock, p. m. when business of importance will be transacted.

Rink Closed.

As the Rink is now closed for the season, all parties who have skates there, will have an opportunity of getting them on Wednesday, from 9 to 11 am. and 4 to 5 pm., when the caretaker will be there.

Theatrical.

Haverly's Company will present the "Silver King" in the Opera House to night. The Toronto World says of the play:—"It is one of the best plays produced at the Grand this season, and has been drawing large audiences. The 'Silver King' is a play long to be remembered, both on account of the moral lesson it conveys and the perfect manner in which it is produced."

If you want a Collar that combines comfort with style and beauty, call for the "Grantley" at Habiliment Hall.

Give the Baby a Drive.

By reference to his advertisement it will be seen that Mr. C. B. Routley again calls attention to the baby carriages which were so extensively used last year. He claims that he can give the best goods that the New York market can produce, and guarantees his prices to be at least 10 per cent. less than any other make His stock of express wagons and dolls' carriages is also very extensive and should be seen by all.

New Maple Syrup!

First of the season just to hand. Also choice Mixed Pickles and Tomato Catsup. The above is sold by the quart or gallon. Also, by the pound, evaporated Pumpkins. Raspberry, Plum, and Black Currant Jams. Fine Assorted Jellies, and other varieties too numerous to mention. Pure Apple Butter, try it. Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Football.

We are delighted to see, by to-day's Mail, that, at a meeting of the Match Committee of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, held last week for the purpose of drawing the ties for the Ontario Challenge Cup, the match between the Peterborough and Toronto Clubs is to be played here. Last year, it will be remembered, this tie was played in Toronto, which unhappily prevented one or two of our best players from being present. We sincerely hope that the disadvantages which, we believe, caused our defeat last year will this season be eliminated, and that Peterborough will be able to show Ontario of what stuff she is made. The date for the game is favorable, viz.: on or before Friday, October the 10th. If lawn tennis does not tempt any of our football players away from regular practice, we firmly believe that Peterborough will give Toronto a great deal more than a tight game. The club should organize as soon as possible and adhere perseveringly to a system of judicious practice.

STRAY SHOTS

Gathered at Four Meetings of the Saved Army—Presentation to Lieut. Munt.

About 500 or 700 young folks attended the children's meeting on Saturday afternoon. It was conducted by Lieut. Willis and Lieut Munt. Lieut. Willis appears to feel at home in all the meetings, but she was particular happy among the children and displayed considerable tact in dealing with them.

Lieut. Munt read a portion of Scripture and commented on it in a manner suitable for the young hearers.

The children then read pieces and recited verses they had learned during the week. Tickets were then given to them with verses on them to be learned for the next meeting.

Some older persons who were in the hall smiled at the manner in which one boy read some verses. "Dear friends," said Lieut. Willis, as soon as the boy had taken his seat, "you must remember that this is a children's meeting, and I will not have my chidren laughed at. If some of the young ladies who were smiling were up here they might not do even as well as the boy did." The smiling ceased.

All the officers were present at the meeting on Saturday evening, and it was one of the most successful held by the Army here. About 23 or 25 persons stepped out from the "ranks of the enemy."

At the meeting on Sunday afternoon, one speaker said that visits had been paid to the gaol and that some of the prisoners were anxious about their spiritual welfare.

Lieut. Munt urged the elders, deacons, class-leaders etc., of the different churches to look after the new converts and get them into the fold of the church.

The prayer meeting in the afternoon was brief, but there were 5 or 6 converts.

On Sunday evening the rule preventing children from attending the meetings was enforced. As a consequence there were more adults present

The Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., officiated as the reader of the Scripture. He remarked that the converts on the platform were the Saved Army's letters of commendation.

The Rev. John Shaw also occupied a seat on the platform.

One result of this meeting was the addition of 10 or 11 persons to the number of the converts.

There will be no meeting of the Army in town to-night.

The officers go to Lakefield to-night to make an attack on the enemy in that village.

A PRESENTATION.

Lieut. Munt, during his visit to Cobourg, was presented with a purse and the following address by friends in the Army there:—

"Our Respected and Beloved Brother,—In presenting you with this address, we do so with intermingled emotions of joy and sorrow. Joy enters our hearts, and we praise the Lord, when we reflect upon the glorious results of your efforts at the Peterborough camp during the short period that you had charge of that division of the Army; joy at having your spiritual strength renewed, so that your light now shines more brightly upon the benighted ranks of the enemy, and joy that we are enabled to present you with a small donation to help you along with your good work, which you will please bear in mind is entirely independent of your regular allowance. We feel sorrow at seeing you return in a shattered state of health, sorrow at having to part with you when the time relapses for you to take your departure again; and in bidding you farewell, we wish you God speed, and hope that you will be instrumental in capturing many more souls for our King Immanuel. It gives us pleasure on behalf of the Army to now present you with this small purse, the only regret being that the sum is not larger.

"Oh, may you ever grow in grace,
Beloved friend, and ever share
The light of our dear Saviour's face,
In our most earnest, heart-felt prayer.

"And may our golden tie of love
Increase as months and years roll by,
Until we all unite above
In realms of bliss, with God, on high."

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Winds mostly westerly, fair continued mild weather.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Bad Travelling.

The roads in the country are in a most deplorable state. In places, as has been the case for some time, one is compelled to leave the main road and take to the fields to avoid the immense quantity of melting snow that has accumulated in drifts, and in other places there are any number of minature lakes or pools, to say nothing of "pitch-holes" too numerous to mention.

Athletics.

Mr. E. W. Johnston, the noted athlete, has left a book in the hands of the Clerk at the Oriental Hotel. All wishing to join his class should enroll themselves at once. It might be well to say that this gentleman has served a life time at the business, having the management of the Belleville Mechanics' gymnasium, Baltimore Y. M. C. gymnasium, Brooklyn, N. Y., gymnasium, and Toronto gymnasium, and had a very large and successful school in Lindsay last year. An advertisement in another column will tell the branches he intends to teach. Any one interested in this line of sport will never have a better chance to learn and remember the words: "Mens sana in corpore sano."

Those popular Blue Polka Dot Shirts in all sizes, Collars separate or attached, always in stock at Andrew McNeil's.

Turnips.

Fluid Beef.

St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. John W. Alford, of Peterborough, has been awarded the contract for the erection of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church at Millbrook. The work is to be proceeded with at once. According to the plans the entire length of the church will be one hundred feet, and it will be thirty-eight feet wide. It is designed in the decorated style of Gothic architecture, and will have a handsome tower and spire over one hundred feet high, an entrance porch, organ chamber, robing room, nave and chancel. The tracery of the windows is of chaste design. The building will be constructed of white brick, with stone dressings. The seats will be neat open benches, on raised platforms, and they will accommodate over four hundred persons. The ceilings will be of pine, divided into panels by richly moulded ribs, Gothic shaped. The heating and ventilation have been well considered, and the entire structure, when completed, will be a handsome edifice, and will reflect credit on the exertions of the congregation and their esteemed rector, the Rev. Rural Dean Allen, who, we understand, has already had five churches erected in his parish. The plans were prepared by Mr. John E. Belcher, architect, with his usual good taste, and we feel sure that the committee will have no reason to regret their choice of a contractor.

Personal.

The Post says that the Rev. Father Keating delivered "an eloquent and highly interesting lecture" in Lindsay on the evening of St. Patrick's Day.

The Post says that Mr. J. G. Edwards has won the junior medal offered for competition by the Lindsay Curling Club. Mr. Edwards has now added to his former honors the degree of "double first."

In Dio Lewis' Monthly for March we notice an article on "Burmah" by Mr. T. Arnold Haultain, M.A.

We clip the following from a recent issue of the Brantford Expositor:—

"At a meeting of the Supreme Court in Toronto on Friday last the judges appointed Mr. Rubidge, Local Registrar H. C. J., special examiner for the county of Brant in all the courts."

Mr. Walter Rubidge, the gentleman above alluded to, is the youngest son of the late Capt. Rubidge, R. N., the first Registrar of the County of Peterborough.

Mr. Justice Cameron and Mr. W. Kerr, Q. C., are at the Grand Central Hotel.

Mr. Geo. T. Blackstock, Toronto, is at the Oriental Hotel.

Among those registered at the Oriental Hotel are Messrs. J. R. Dundas and F. C. Taylor, Lindsay, and E. S. Vinden, Port Hope.

The "Silver King" Company are divided between the Grand Central and the Oriental. It is a large company. A special car with their scenery arrived with the noon train.

STATE OF WATER STREET.

To the Editor of The Review.

Dear Sir,—Please direct the attention of the Council to the neglect in not attending to the shovelling and cleaning of snow from the water ditches or channels of "Water Street." Numerous complaints have been made respecting this neglect.

The taxes collected on this street amount to a good large sum, and consequently the requirement of the property owners should receive attention, and they should not have their property injured by the non-attention to the present flooded condition of the steet or probably the sufferers may demand damages.

Yours, etc.,
WATER STREET.

Peterborough, March 22, 1884.

Foote the Tragedian.

New York, March 21.—Richard Foote, the so-called tragedian, who recently abandoned his company on the road, yesterday sailed for Europe after dodging officers of the law and and abandoning his wife. It is reported that he was accompanied by Blanche Revere, the actress.

Their Fitting Business.

Now that Messrs. McKim, Balfour and Dowling have developed much talent as informers, their service will be much in request by Mr. Mowat's whiskey inspectors. The informer's turpitude does not, of course, excuse the briber's baseness; neither does the wickedness of the briber excuse the shameless immorality of the informer.—Hamilton Spectator.

Is it Proof you Want.

No one can doubt the great merit of Polson's Nerviline, for it has been placed in the market in 10 cent bottles, just to give you the opportunity of testing its wonderful power over all kind of pain. This is the best evidence of its efficiency, for every person can try for himself. Polson's Nerviline is a positive (it cannot fail) cure for cramps, headache, colds, neuralgia, and the host of pains that flesh is heir to. Good to take, good to rub. Go to Ormand & Walsh's drug store and buy a bottle.

Thousands Say So.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your electric bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundred's of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

Danger Traps.—Neglecting colds are the fatal traps that ensnare many a victim beyond possibility of rescue. Take a cold or cough in time and it is easily conquered by that safe and pleasant vegetable remedy, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Asthma, Bronchitis and pulmonary complaints generally soon yield to its healing influence.

If it were possible

to get the testimony of the multitude who have used The Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, languor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelmming mass commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that The Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medical value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking The Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public; and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as far as people will allow themselves to be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those people who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting The Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer, because the people have been so often humbugged by the weak decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of The Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making.

TUESDAY, MARCH 25, 1884.

TORONTO.

VITAL STATISTICS.—There were registered at the City Hall last week 62 births, 11 marriages, and 60 deaths.

MR. BETHUNE.—Mr. James Bethune, Q.C., who has been in England arguing the appeal in McLaren v. Caldwell, has sailed for home and is expected to arrive on the 25th inst.

SALE OF TOWN PROPERTY.—The property recently occupied by Patterson & Son, on King street east, has been sold for $32,000. The property on the corner of Simcoe and Nelson streets belonging to the same firm, was sold for $4,000.

LECTURE AT THE ZOO.—A lecture was delivered by Prof. Ramsay Wright, of University College, to the pupils and teachers of Victoria street school at the Zoo on Saturday afternoon. The lecture, the subject of which was "Natural History," was made very interesting by reference to the animals. It was listened to attentively throughout.

THE BLOCK PAVEMENT.—As a result of the action of the frost during the past winter the block pavement on some of the streets is sadly in need of repair. In some places on Queen street west the blocks have been forced completely out of place, while in others, especially alongside the rails of the street car tracks, they are as much as half a foot above the general surface.

THE BODY IDENTIFIED.—The body of the man who was killed by a train on the Humber bridge on Friday evening has been identified as that of a pensioner named Black. He came to this city from Kingston and lived the life of a vagrant. The only work he did was to pick up rags and coal on the Esplanade. He became acquainted with a number of men and women who followed the same calling and several of these identified the body. It still lies in the morgue and will probably be interred to-day.

MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS.—The examination of candidates in the faculty of medicine before the University of Trinity College, Toronto, commenced on Monday morning. They continue daily throughout the week, and are expected to close on Friday or Saturday.

BELLEVILLE.

THE ICE.—The ice on the river Moira, at Belleville, is breaking up.

[illegible] SHIPMENT.—The Hastings wardenship case was continued on Saturday morning at Belleville. The testimony was very conflicting as to the number of hands held up for Dr. Faulkiner. The case was argued by Mr. G. D. Dickson, Q.C., for Mr. Wilmont, and Mr. S. Burdett for Dr. Faulkiner. Judgment was reserved.

The Maid of the Mist.

BUFFALO, March 24.—A Niagara Falls correspondent states that the sensational story about the Maid of the Mist being fitted up for another trip is made by some unauthorized person, and there is not a grain of truth in it. the little craft stands high and dry on the bank at Lewiston, and will probably remain there until sold to some enterprising party. The gentlemen connected with her former trips do not care to bother with any more Maid of the Mist trips. The fact has been settled by them that the rapids are navigable down stream. It now remains for some one to show the same result up stream.

Presidential Forecasts.

BOSTON, March 24.—The Post to-morrow will print a number of letters from Democratic members of the Legislatures of New England except Rhode Island, in which the writers give the preferences for presidential candidates. Tilden leads in each State, save Massachusetts, where he and Butler are about even. He is a strong favorite in Maine. In Vermont nearly every Democratic member of the Legislature is for Tilden. On the tariff question a majority of all heard from are for "Tariff for revenue only." There is an overwhelming majority for the Morrison bill and a gradual reduction of tariff taxation.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

Starting a Provincial Debt—A Dominion Subsidy and Squandering our Timber to Make both Ends Meet—Mr. Mowat's Patronage for the House of Commons Reformers.

THE BOUNDARY QUESTION.

Mr. CREIGHTON on Saturday in Committee on the Disputed Boundary, protested the agreement with Manitoba as prejudicial to our claim.

Mr. MEREDITH thought the agreement should appear in a schedule.

Mr. MOWAT proposed an additional to enable the Dominion to become a party, and the bill thus amended was passed.

LIMITS OF DISTRICTS.

Mr. MOWAT'S Bill to limit the boundaries of Algoma, Parry Sound, Nipissing and Renfrew was passed.

EGRESS FROM BUILDINGS.

Mr. FRASER'S Bill as to egress from public buildings, was discharged.

A RAILWAY LOAN.

Mr. ROSS (Huron) moved resolutions to sanction the issue of terminable annuities for not longer than 40 years to retain the railway and certificates. He contended that it was better to aid railways in this manner than out of ordinary revenue. He hoped their revenue would be augmented by an increased subsidy from the Dominion, and by large sales of our timber. The money could be diverted to paying off this railway debt. It would be absurd to pay it out of their surplus, as they were receiving 5 per cent. interest and could borrow at four and a half.

Mr. MEREDITH was against starting a provincial debt, for it would encourage extravagance. As to the profit the Treasurer spoke of, such reasoning would authorise the undertaking of other banking operations. He moved in amendment:—

That all after the word "that" be struck out and the following substituted therefor:—The aggregate amount of the outstanding certificate issued in aid of railways is $2,862,144, the present value of which, discounting the future payments at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum is $2,091,704.

That these certificates are by their terms payable in equal half-yearly instalments, and most of them will mature within eight years, and all of them within eighteen years from the present time.

That the aggregate amount of the payments required to retire these certificates by new certificates payable in forty years from their maturity, according to the terms of the proposed resolutions, is $4,185,967, and, in the opinion of the House, it is inexpedient to authorize the renewal of the existing certificates on the terms mentioned, and thereby to begin the establishment of a Provincial debt, especially in view of the statement of the Treasurer, claiming that the Province had at the beginning of the year a surplus of $1,884, 241.

The amendment was negative by 38 to 26.

Mr. WATERS, a supporter of the Government who had voted for the resolutions, pointed out the gravity of the circumstances, and hoped that no annuities would be issued unless absolutely necessary.

A bill founded on the resolution was passed.

A DAM FOR A FRIEND.

Mr. CARNEGIE in concurrence moved to strike out the appropriation of $2,750 for a dam on the Burnt River near Kinmount.

The motion was negatived.

PATRONIZING HIS FRIENDS.

Mr. MEREDITH asked if it were true that Mr. David Mills a member of the Dominion Parliament had been retained as counsel for the Province in the Boundary Case.

Mr. MOWAT explained that Mr. Mills was not a member when retained, and defended the choice.

Mr. MORRIS said by Ontario law it was illegal for a member of the legislature to accept a fee from the Dominion and the opposite case should come under the same rule.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

The Berber Route to be Opened—The Relief of Halfya—Rebels on the Nile.

LONDON, March 23.—Admiral Hewett is sanguine of being able to open the Berber route. He proposes to divide the road into sections, and make the tribes answerable for their respective divisions. The troops will advance from Suakin on Wednesday and form camps around Tamanieb, and attempt to surround Osman Digma.

PRISON DELIVERY ORDERED.

A Cario despatch says Clifford Lloyd, Under-Secretary of the Interior, has ordered the release of a hundred and twenty-five untried prisoners in the gaols at Assiout and Esneh. Some of them have been imprisoned for years.

THE RELIEF OF HALFYA.

The expedition from Khartoum to relieve Halfya consisted of twelve hundred men in three steamers. The men were concealed in the holds to avoid the fire of the Arabs on the banks of the river. The expedition returned to Khartoum, having rescued the garrisons raised the siege, captured many cattle and armes, and lost only two men. There was great rejoicing over the victory and enthusiastic demonstrations in honour of General Gordon.

REBELS ON THE NILE.

Six thousands rebels face the palace on the right bank of the Nile. They recently fired upon three hundred blacks who were sent down the river for wood, and killed a hundred of them.

THE butchers of New Jersey have appointed a committee to confer with the New York Association on measures to stop the influx of dressed beef from Chicago, which has almost ruined the cattle-slaughtering business in Hoboken and Jersey City.

CABLE.

FRENCH FINANCES.

PARIS, March 24.—At a meeting of the Republican Union to-day M. Rouvier explained that the financial situation was good. The deficit of thirty-seven francs for 1885 could easily be covered by various economies.

NATIONALISTS DEFEATED.

DUBLIN, March 24.—The Nationalists have been defeated in many places in elections for poor law guardians. This is notably the case at Balling-Glass, Parsonstown and Tullamore, where great efforts were made to oust the anti-Parnellities.

THE CONGO TREATY.

LONDON, March 24.—The Rotterdam Courrier demands that France, Germany, America, and Holland shall intervene to defeat the proposed treaty between England and Portugal regarding the Congo country and to maintain the status quo.

ANGLO-SPANISH TREATY.

MADRID, March 24.—The British Ambassador at Madrid is going to London to report the proposals of the Spanish Government for a commercial treaty and for an agreement regarding Morocco. The last project is induced by the suspicious manœuvres of France.

THE FRANCHISE REFORM BILL.

LONDON, March, 24.—In the House of Commons to-day the Marquis of Hartington moved the second reading of the Franchise bill. Lord John Manners (Conservative) moved as an amendment that the House decline to proceed further with the bill until it has before it the entire scheme contemplated. Mr. John Bright spoke in support of the bill, advocating a perfect and full representation of Ireland in the House of Commons.

ELECTION OF A MONARCHIST.

PARIS, March 24.—M. Abrial (Monarchist), has been elected a member of the Chamber of Deputies from Castres.

THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, March 14.—The latest advices indicate that the whole country south of Berber is in revolt. The rebels have surrounded Khartoum on all sides and cut off communication. The situation of Gordon is considered serious but not alarming.

OSMAN DIGMA.

CAIRO, March 24.—Osman Digma has assumed the dress of a dervisch. His followers, estimated at from 1,000 to 5,000, are exhorting him to fight a third time, with promises of success. It is expected a battle will be fought to-morrow.

Destructive Floods.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—There are now ten crevasses in the levees on the west side of Mississippi, between Vicksburg and New Orleans, all pouring great volumes of water into the country which the levees were intended to protect. In the great Marganza, the largest of the crevasses is now nearly a mill wide, and would propably average a depth of ten feet. The water is going through like a mile race. Twelve parishes, embracing the most productive sections of the State for cotton and sugar, will be inundated. An estimate of the loss cannot be made.

BATON ROUGE, La., March 23.—Mulay Point crevasse is now fully two hundred feet wide and twelve feet deep. No further effort will be made to close the opening. West Baton Rouge suffers so the extent of several hundred thousand dollars. Plantations never before overflowed are now under water.

MILWAUKEE, March 24.—Serious floods are reported from Darlington and Calamine, Dodge county. The Pesatonia river has flooded both towns. The people have left their homes.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Congressman King has received a large number of despatches from the flooded districts of Lousiana, showing that there is great distress among the people. An appeal will be made to Congress on their behalf.

BATON ROUGE, La., Marsh 24.—The Mulatto Point crevasse is widening steadily. A tremendous volume of watet is now pouring through. The belief is that no sugar will be made at West Baton Rouge the coming season.

New Brunswick House of Assembly.

In the New Brunswick House of Assembly Hon. Mr. Blair moved for a committee of three to act in conjunction with a committee from the Upper House, with a view of placing the financial condition of the province before the Governor-General, and its just claims on the General Government. The Attorney-General, Provincial Secretary, and Mr. Ellis, M. P. P. for St. John city, were appointed such committee.

CONSISTENT CONSPIRATORS.

Mr. MOWAT and his colleagues are now very anxious to obtain all telegrams that can possibly be used against Conservatives in regard to the great bribery plot, and have taken the legal steps to obtain them. This is very proper, but a short time ago the same gentlemen were doing their utmost to exclude such evidence, where it had not already been destroyed by themselves or their fellow conspirators, in order to hide their corrupt and fraudulent conduct in Algoma and if possible escape the fate or their friend Apjohn.

JUDGING BY THEMSELVES.

As the Mowat conspirators failed in their plot to seduce leading Conservatives into complicity with bribery, they have to manufacture evidence. Mr. Mowat wilfully slandered Mr. Macpherson in the House, but the document when printed showed the vile falsehood of the Attorney-General. And now Reform journalists are driven to assert that Mr. Macpherson is as ignorant as themselves, and that when he promised an appointment to an individual, it was intended to mean the right to appoint somebody else. So a Minister of the Dominion and a gentleman of emblemished repute is to be accused of crime because the grammar of Reform editors is defective.

LEGALIZING CORRUPTION.

INTO an Act, which is falsely described as being for the prevention of corrupt practices at elections, Mr. Mowat has introduced a clause to enable Dr. Dowling to sit in the Legislature, though a judge has declared him too corrupt to be worthy of a seat or even of the franchise. Reform papers, in a manner not very complimentary to the bribe-takers or to themselves, are marvelling at the honesty of these conspirators in "sacrificing" the price of their treachery. Is it so certain that they have sacrificed anything, or that they are not getting more than they give up? To say nothing of any hard cash that may possibly appear hereafter under the head of "colonization roads," &c., we may be sure that good fat offices will sooner or later reward these spies and inciters to a breach of the law. Already Mr. Dowling is obtaining part of his pay in legislation to save him from pending legal proceedings, and the consequences of his corrupt actions. Oh, no, Mr. Mowat will see that his pimps sacrifice nothing for aiding him in his conspiracy. He will pay them well if it costs him nothing but the money of the people and his own ragged reputation.

WHO OWNS THE $1,000?

We have heard it remarked that Mr. Mowat and his colleague should not have impounded the $1,000 for which Mr. McKim sold his vote and influence as a member, and should not have interfered to keep it from some of Mr. McKim's defrauded creditors, who had garnisheed it. This is not so certain. Mr. McKim shows that he was employed by Mr. Mowat and his colleagues to solicit bribes and especially to tempt Mr. Bunting to commit some act that would make him appear as an accomplice. Of course the evidence of Mr. McKim would not weigh much even against such doubtful reputations as that of Mr. Mowat and his fellow plotters, but we have the confessions, even the boasts, of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues that they did employ Mr. McKim and others to procure bribes. It may therefore be argued by the Mowat firm that Mr. McKim was merely in the position of a "drummer," engaged by them to traffic in their honor, and that the moneys he might receive really belonged to them, subject, of course, to his claim for his hire. This, however, will probably be in the shape of a fat office, more useful to him than cash, which might be seized by the creditors he has defrauded. We all know that he has already received such hire for past service in the shape of a registrarship, made transferable in that case, and handed over to his son, in order that he himself might retain his seat and have further opportunities of making money of his position. Thus the money probably belongs to Mowat & Co. The suggestion that these gentlemen intend to apply it to meet the penalty imposed upon Apjohn, their Algoma pal, is probably unfounded, as the two plots appear to be distinct, though the latter seems to have been conceived chiefly to draw public attention from the former.

THE MOWAT PLOT.

The Government Spies in the Police Court —Running After Bribes.

In the Police Court on Saturday the bribery case was resumed with little additional points, but the efforts of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues to invite bribery being still more plainly shown by their own witnesses and spies.

HUNTING FOR BRIBES.

Mr. BALFOUR gave much the same evidence in chief as before the Committee. After narrating Mr. Kirkland's efforts to get him and other members to take up his timber grievances, he showed in his next steps how he and his brother spies had hunted the alleged bribers. We will again quote from the Globe's most favourable version :—

Q.—What was the next matter that took place? A.—Mr. McKim came to me, and it was in consequence of this that I went to Mr Wilkinson's room. He wanted to see me.

Presently another of the bribe hunters appears on the scene :—

Q.—When did you see Wilkinson again? A.—On the Monday Mr. Lyon told me that Mr. Wilkinson wished to see me.

The victims in fact were persistently putting their virtue (?) in danger :—

Q.—How many interviews took place in Wilkinson's room? A.—Three.

Q.—Then in the majority of the interviews you went to Wilkinson's room? A.—Yes, at his request.

Q.—Who conveyed this request? A.—Mr. McKim and Mr. Lyon.

Q.—Mr. Harcourt never asked you to see Wilkinson? A.—No.

Q.—Who asked you to see Bunting? A.—Wilkinson.

Q.—What was the object of this? A.—Wilkinson said Bunting was interested in the matter.

Q.—Was it not merely for you to report to Bunting that you would support the Opposition, and that Mr. Harcourt could depend upon you? A.—I think not, but this may have been mentioned in the contract.

ENGAGED AS A SPY.

Present we have the Ministry plotting with them to invite bribes :—

Q.—Had you been approached, or had you arranged with anybody that an offer should be submitted to you? A.—Mr. Lyon told me that Kirkland was prepared to pay for the work he wished to be done.

Q.—Mr Lyon seemed sincere? A.—Yes; he wanted Mr. Kirkland's timber policy adopted.

Q.—Did Mr. McKim say Mr. Wilkinson was prepared to make you an offer. He intimated such to me.

Q.—And knowing this you consented to see Mr. Wilkinson? Did you go to Mr. Wilkinson's room for the purpose of having the offer made you? A.—I went there understanding that an offer would be made.

Q.—Did any of the members of the Government know that the offer would be made you? A.—Yes; they told me to go and let us see how far they would go in trying to bribe us.

Q.—Then there was a settled plan between you and the members of the Government to let those parties come to you and bribe you? A.—I had communication with all the members of the Government and they agreed that we should let the matter go on and see how far they would go in their attempt to bribe us.

Q.—You were told to let them bribe you? A.—No; I was not told to let them bribe me because I did not intend to allow them to bribe me.

Q.—Are you aware that it is an offence against the law for a member of Parliament to receive a bribe? A.—I presume a member of Parliament who accepted a bribe would be amenable to the law.

And yet he did the very thing he did not intend, and accepted a bribe, if his own word is to be believed.

OWNS HIMSELF A LIAR.

But it is hard to know what to believe for in his avocations of spy and decoy he finds his want of truthfulness very handy; he swears :—

Q.—Did you pledge your word of honor that you would not mention Mr. Harcourt's name to any one; that his name should not be brought into the affair at all? A.—Mr. Wilkinson wanted me to do so; I did not promise, but I may have given him the impression that I would not speak of Mr. Harcourt.

In fact he owns that he "nodded" assent, probably for the sake of emphasis. This piece of rascality was too strong even for the Globe, which dishonestly suppressed it though it is given by other not unfriendly journals.

REASONS FOR TRAPPING.

He even confesses that he would trap a man simply because he was associated with Conservatives.

Q.—Did you report your interview with Kirkland to the Government? A.—Yes, I reported the matter to Mr. Pardee. I told Mr. Pardee that there were a number of parties engaged in this business with Kirkland.

Q.—Had you any intention of trapping Kirkland? A.—I had no intention of trapping Kirkland if he had kept away from the other parties. At that time I thought there was something in his policy, and would have left him alone had he had no connection with the other parties.

Q.—At that interview you say your intention was not to entrap Kirkland? A.—I found that Kirkland had become involved with the other party in the plot.

Such a witness, self-confessed liar and spy, taker and solicitor of bribes, and trapper of even those associating with political opponents, may be speaking the truth as to other matters to which he testifies, but the probability is very small.

MR. BUNTING DISCOURAGING THE AFFAIR.

MR. GOLDIE gave some evidence as to the innocence of his correspondence and interviews with Mr. Wilkinson, and the staunchness to his party of Mr. Laidlaw. He said Mr. Bunting discouraged the whole affair.

COURTING SEDUCTION.

Mr. Davies proceed to have had the same experience of being led willingly to endanger his honor. He says, still to quote the Globe :—

Q.—Was any other person present? A.—Mr. McKim introduced us.

Q.—Where did the introduction take place? A.—In a private room, which I believe was Mr. Wilkinson's.

Q.—Was Mr McKim present? A.—He went out after the introduction.

Q.—Had you reason to believe that you were going to meet Wilkinson that evening? A.—Yes.

Q.—And in consequence of that you went there. A.—Yes.

Then he runs after another supposed seducer :—

Q.—Do you know anything about a gentleman by the name of Lynch? Has he ever been introduced to you? A.—Yes; he was introduced to me by Wilkinson.

Q.—When? A.—I think on the 14th.

Q.—Where? A.—At the Walker House, in Mr. Wilkinson's room.

Q.—How came you there? A.—Mr. Wilkinson got me to go down and see him.

Q.—Are you sure it was Wilkinson's room? A.—It was the same room in which I had first met Wilkinson; and I presume it was occupied by him.

Q.—Did Wilkinson remain with you? A.—No; he showed me into the room, introduced me to Lynch, and left us together.

NOT THE FIRST BRIBERY CASE.

Perhaps he was so bold because used to such matters :—

Cross-examined by Mr. Murphy.

Q.—You have admitted that this is not the first bribery case you have been concerned in? A.—No.

Q.—And that Mr. McKim was the first to speak to you of this business? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did he approach you for the purpose of getting you to sign? A.—He said that Mr. Wilkinson wanted to see me in the Walker House.

Q.—What was said by anybody about your changing your allegiance to your political party? A.—Mr. McKim said something was going on, and Wilkinson wanted me to go down and see him.

Q.—Mr. McKim then asked you to go down and see Wilkinson with the object of defeating the Mowat Government. Did you think from Mr. McKim's words that he was sincere? A.—I did not know.

PINING FOR PARTY FUNDS.

Even in his common conversation Dr. Dowling showed his craving for cash :—

Q.—You admitted that your expenses were very heavy, and that the Reform party had not helped you to pay them? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is it true that by way of complaint against your own political party you made this remark? A.—When they were speaking of a few dollars' expenses at an election on one occasion, I remarked that they had no cause to complain, as mine were so much more. Some of the Conservatives present accused Mr. Mowat's Government of spending money in Algoma, and I said that I wished they had come along to help me. But of course this was only a joke and was taken as such.

And of course it was a joke and not to invite commiseration (and cash) that in his first interview with Mr. Wilkinson he told him how unwilling he was to run, and how Mr. Preston and other Reform wire-pullers had urged him; to say nothing of parading his domestic correspondence with advice to quit politics,

A VILE CONSPIRACY.

When these men were dallying with the hope of bribes to desert their party took panic and rushed to inform of course Dr. Dowling was willing now to turn spy for his chief, and to pump for them in their plot to invite bribery, as he says :—

Q.—Did you go to the Mail building? A.—Yes; but I went first to the Parliament Buildings and told Mr. Fraser of the whole affair, and objected to going to the Mail. He persuaded me to go, however, and I went.

or as he represents it :—

Q.—How about going to the Mail office when the appointment was made for you to go there. Why did you go? A.—Because the members of the Government told me to go and see how far they would go.

Q.—You went there as a spy? A.—No, I went for my own satisfaction.

Q.—If it had not been for your being urged you would not have gone? A.—No; I would not.

He leaves no doubt as to who was inciting him to break the law and to tempt others to do so :—

Q.—How soon after McKim came to you did you speak of this affair to some member of the Government? A.—As soon as I left Wilkinson I went to the Parliament Buildings and saw Mr. Fraser and Mr. Pardee.

After some sparring with council he goes on :—

Q.—What were the instructions given you? A.—They told me to go and see Mr. Bunting and have the interview that had been arranged.

Q.—For what purpose? A.—To see what he had to say in the matter.

Mr. Murphy.—Then there was a concert between you and Mr. Pardee and Mr. Fraser to go and see Mr. Bunting and induce him to do what was unlawful. We have contended all along that there was a conspiracy to get Mr. Bunting into difficulties. Had you met with any other Conservative gentleman, would you have gone and told Mr. Pardee or Mr. Fraser of what had taken place between you? Are you so much under the lash in the Reform party that you cannot meet a Conservative gentleman without telling Mr. Fraser or Mr. Pardee? A.—It was with reference to what Mr. Wilkinson had said that I spoke to Mr. Fraser and Mr. Pardee.

THE TRUTH, NOT A DOUBT OF IT.

We will give one more question (not a long one) from Dr. Dowling's evidence :—

Q.—Did not two judges find that you were guilty of corrupt practices? A.—Yes.

This we know is the truth for it is on record. It is also the truth that in so finding the judges manifested their opinion that Dr. Dowling was a perjurer, for he had sworn to the contrary. As we quite agree with the judges, we would have doubted on such evidence of the vileness of the Mowat Administration in thus soliciting a breach of the law far their political benefit if they had not themselves boasted of it.

BAIL GIVEN.

Mr. GOLDWIN SMITH amidst applause offered himself and was accepted as bail for Mr. Kirkland, and Mr. Wilkinson was also bailed.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

A Satisfactory Agreement With British Columbia Ratified — Another Attack upon Sir Charles Tupper Defeated—Tribute to his Valuable Services.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA SETTLEMENT.

SIR C. TUPPER on Friday moved resolutions to grant $750,000 to aid a railway from Esquimalt to Nanaimo; $250,000 to purchase from the Province the Esquimalt dry dock; to grant to the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway the lands given to the Dominion for that purpose, to waive duties upon materials on the construction and to prove that the line should be the property of the company. He related the history of the negotiations concerning these matters since Confederation. An agreement had not been made and the Province had confirmed it by Legislation, as the Dominion was now asked to do, and it would be found to be for the benefit of both the Province and the Dominion.

Mr. HOMER moved an amendment in favor of an enquiry as to the best site for a dock and the value of the mineral lands to be given to the Railway Company.

Mr. GORDON seconded the amendment on the ground that the company had too good a bargain.

Mr. HESSON said he had been asked to support the settlement as the people in British Columbia were in favor of it.

Mr. SHAKESPEARE supported the resolutions, saying that the opposition to them was only sectional, and that nine-tenths of the people favored them. The introduction of foreign capital and the development of their mines would be a great benefit to the Province.

Mr. BLAKE supported the resolutions as the settlement had been accepted by the Province, but he made some critical remarks.

Sir C. TUPPER replied to these criticisms.

Mr. BAKER (Victoria, B. C.,) agreed that nine-tenths of the Province concurred in the settlement, which would be for the benefit of all concerned.

Mr. HOMER'S amendment was negatived.

Mr. REID moved an amendment to give the $750,000 to the Provincial Government and leave it to settle with the company.

This amendment was also negatived, and the resolutions being passed, a bill founded upon them was read a first time.

ATTACK ON SIR C. TUPPER.

Mr. MILLS moved an amendment to the motion to go into Committee of Supply, condemning the hold of the two offices of Minister of Railways and High Commissioner by Sir C. Tupper. He made use of no new arguments.

Sir J. MACDONALD considered this attack, and gave due praise to the great services rendered by Sir C. Tupper in England. They had been glad to obtain his services, and at the same time, to give him a change of duties which had fortunately restored his health. He had the patience to repeat the statement of precedent to show the falsehood of Mr. Mills' contention that a Minister could not undertake diplomatic functions.

Mr. BLAKE objected to the two offices being held jointly for a continuance. He utterly abandoned Mr. Mills' contention that a Minister could not be an ambassador, but urged that the difference in width of the channel and the Atlantic made it objectionable in the case of Canada.

The amendment was negatived by 95 to 51.

SUPPLY.

Several items were passed in Committee of Supply.

IN SEARCH OF TEMPTATION.

Dr. Dowling states in his evidence that he went to see one Wilkinson at the Walker House and listened to overtures from him. He then went to Mr. Bunting; and subsequently received several visits from Kirkland, Lynch and Wilkinson in his room. He does not appear to have been at all obnoxious to the temptations of those three last named. On the contrary, he deliberately and diligently sought them out, and held out his hand while Lynch put into it an envelope containing $2,000, upon the condition that he would vote against Mr. Mowat. Kirkland was of opinion that if Mowat was out he would be able to do better in the matter of timber lands, which has been witheld from him in the interest of some favorites of the Government. A more willing victim to the wiles of self-seeking briber than Dr. Dowling has seldom been seen.

Mr. Balfour's statement is much to the same effect, only that he was sought out by Kirkland. But what is so strange respecting him is that he states that Mr. McKim "handed me $1,000, which he "said that Wilkinson had given him to "give to me." Only conceive of a member of the Legislature becoming the medium of a bribe from Wilkinson to a brother member of the same political party! Mr. Balfour does not say that he prepared to kick McKim down stairs for offering him such an insult. He does not tell us what McKim said when he refused the money. But it seems that McKim must have taken the money back to Wilkinson, for that person called on Mr. Balfour subsequently and offered to procure him a position of emolument, and gave him $800, which he at once put in his pocket, without my promising anything." In other words, he took from Wilkinson that which he refused to take from the hands of McKim, for, as it would appear, good and sufficient reasons. The public will see in the evidence of these two worthies of the Ontario Legislature ample reasons to believe that they hunted Kirkland and Wilkinson, were quite ready to accept bribes, and only consented to make a clean breast of it when they were found out.—London Free Press.

THE RIVER.—The river is open just below the point, and the ice between here and the islands is weakening fast.

TRAMWAY STOCK.—Street car stock is depreciating rapidly. One thousand dollars' worth of it has been offered for $50.

THE SALVATION ARMY.—The Salvation Army has taken the Magistrate's advice and stopped marching on the principal streets on Saturday night, and refrained from beating drums as well.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.—There is some agitation here in connection with the Collegiate Institute, the principal of which has added two branches of studies to the programme laid down by the Department of Education. When the council was asked for its annual grant the matter was discussed, and finally referred to the city solicitor for his opinion as to the legality of adding to the curriculum. He decided that such an act was illegal, and now Principal Knight has written to the department asking that his action in enlarging the curriculum be endorsed. An answer has not as yet been received.

APSLEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

C. O. F.—The entertainment which was held here in the Temperance Hall on Wednesday, the 19th inst., under the auspices of Court McGill, No. 95, Canadian Order of Foresters, was attended with great success. Messrs. Barrie and Spencely, of Peterborough, were a host in themselves, and their comicalities were enthusiastically received. The hall was packed to the door, and the music, which was rendered by the Reynolds Bros., was extra good. The singing of our local talent was well received. The same performance was given again by special request on Thursday evening, and was again greeted by a full house and received with even greater enthusiasm. The Foresters deserve all the support which was given them, as they are doing their utmost to induce a physician to locate here.

COW LOST.—The Rev. Mr. Harding, pastor of the English Church here, met with a serious loss on Friday, the 14th inst., through the drowning of a valuable cow. The animal in going on to the ice on Eel's Creek for water broke through and was drowned before assistance could be had.

BEAR TRAP.—Though sympathizing with Harding in his loss we must say it's an "ill wind that blows nobody any good," as Mr. G. W. Coones can testify, for he immediately secured the carcass, and had it hauled to the vicinity of Crab Lake to bate his bear traps, which are eight in number of the very latest and improved pattern, manufactured by the Oneida Manufacturing Company. Poor bruin, his chances are slim, if when he comes out in the spring he scents that carcass and wanders in the direction of Mr. Coones traps.

The Assessment of the Capital.

According to the assessed value of real and personal property in Ottawa this year, the total valuation on which to levy is $10,600,000. The rate will consequently be 19½ mills, or an increase of a quarter of a mill over last year. This increase was occasioned solely by the extra demand of the school boards.

Bicycling.

Nominations for chief consuls and representatives of the Canadian Wheelman's Association for 1884-85 must be sent into the secretary, H. B. Donly, Simcoe, before April 1st. Each nomination must be proposed and seconded by two members of the district.

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. ## THE ONTARIO & QUEBEC

ASK FOR A PORTION OF WOLFE STREET FOR STATION GROUNDS

A By-law to Grant the Request Read a First Time at Special Meeting of the Town Council—Lumber Measurement and Accounts.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening.

Present—His Worship Mayor Cox, and Councillors Cahill, Allen, Kelly, Davidson, Green, Hartley, Millar, Douglas and Rutherford.

The reading of the minutes was, on motion, dispensed with.

THE MAYOR EXPLAINS.

The MAYOR explained that the meeting had been called in reference to the closing of a portion of Wolfe street by the Ontario and Quebec Railway. They wished to commence the building of their station at once. They could give, the By-law granting them the portion of the street its first reading to-night, and then give the necessary notice. The Council might pass the By-lay at a further meeting, or deal with it as they thought best. At any rate, it would do no harm to give the By-law its first reading to-night.

THE APPLICATION.

A communication was read from Messrs. Hatton and Wood, Solicitors for the Ontario and Quebec Railway, asking the Council to grant a portion of Wolfe street for railway purposes.

A plan accompanied the letter, showing the position of the proposed railway buildings and the portion of the street required which was 370 feet about midway between George and Aylmer streets.

A LETTER FROM THE ENGINEER.

The following communication was also read:—

To the Mayor and Council of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to make a few suggestions with reference to the petition of the Ontario and Quebec Railway Company, asking your honorable body to take the necessary steps to pass a By-law to enable you to close up a portion of Wolfe street, between George and Aylmer streets, for the consideration of which it has pleased you to call a special meeting.

As will be seen by looking at the plan before you, which shows the position of the proposed passenger depot and freight sheds respectively, the former being south and the latter north of the railway track, it is apparent that the relative positions of these buildings should be reversed, not only for the purpose of reducing to a minimum the danger to passengers and vehicles to and from this railway, and on the ground of convenience to all persons having business in connection with the station, but, in addition, that it will place in an eligible site a handsome structure instead of a huge, unsightly erection, completely obscuring the view of the station house.

Owing to the limited building space purchaseable, suitable to the purposes of the railway, and its passengers in this respect, and the dimensions of the freight shed, the buildings cannot be placed otherwise than as above indicated, the company property to the south being too small for the freight shed required, nor is it large enough to erect as comodious a passenger depot as the Company intend to erect, and will erect if your honorable body will accede to the application of the company, in which event the depot will be built on George street, north of the track.

From the fact that this street between Aylmer and George streets is as yet hardly opened for traffic, and that on it there is but one dwelling house, which lies close to Aylmer street and that persons using this street to town would have to cross the railway track with its network of tracks twice, it is evident that this route will be used but seldom, and that the closing of the street will not inconvenience any one materially.

Trusting that this will receive at your hands the attention due to a matter of this nature, in the interests both of the town and the railway company,

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
HUGH RYAN.

A BY-LAW INTRODUCED.

A by law was introduced granting the Railway Company the portion of the street asked for, and it was read a first time.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved a resolution giving notice that the Council would, on the evening of Monday, April 28th, meet for the purpose of passing the by-law, and it was adopted.

LUMBER MEASUREMENT.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That the Street and Bridge Committee be requested to suggest some means for providing a check on the proper measurement of the lumber used on the streets.—Carried.

A number of accounts were referred to the Finance Committee.

The Council adjourned.

The Silver King.

Haverly's Company presented the "Silver King" to a full house in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening. The plot of the play is a strong one, and is filled up by many interesting incidents and episodes which serve to increase the interest of the story. The chief part was taken by Mr. C. A. Haswin, who portrayed the unfortunate "Silver King" in such a manner as to stamp him as an actor of merit. All the parts were acted with ability, and we cannot do justice to each in the space at our disposal. However, Miss Etelka Wardell, as "Nelly Denver," Mr. W. Morris as "the Spider," and Mr. Harry Rich, as the faithful "Jake," may be specially mentioned. Little Miss Blanche Newcomb as "Cissy" acted her part intelligently and with cleverness. The scenery used was greatly admired, especially the garden scene at the home of "Will Denver." The applause which followed each act, and which burst forth frequently during the progress of the play, testified to the fact that the audience was thoroughly satisfied.

Mr. G. W. Morgan's Drug Store and Dispensary—A Personal Notice.

An additional business house has been opened on George street, next to Mr. Menzies' bookstore. It is a drug store, of which Mr. G. W. Morgan, formerly of Collingwood, is the proprietor. Mr. Morgan had the new shop arranged according to his own ideas, and it is a neat store, handsomely fitted up.

All the work about the store has been tastily done. The shelving and drawers are of white ash and butternut, picked out in black. The shelving and bottles are arranged exactly the same on each side of the store. The walls are filled from the rear of the store to the windows, and the bottles are divided into sections, the patent medicines being enclosed in cases at equal distances apart. The effect of this arrangement is pleasing. The bottles, which were procured from a Philadelphia firm, are an expensive kind and very uncommon, this being only the third set of this style brought into Canada. The jars are of French white porcelain, with labels of glass sunk in a recess. The bronze draw-pulls were purchased in New York and are of a very neat style.

On the counters stand four show cases made uniform in design. They were manufactured by Millchamp, of Toronto, especially for Mr. Morgan, and the larger ones are exceedingly handsome. They are of black walnut with silver joints. He also possesses four fine pairs of scales, with marble tops and nickel-plated pans which were purchased direct from the manufacturers. The dispensary scales are a marvel of neatness and exactness.

The dispensing counter is a novelty, and is an ornament to the store. It is at the rear of the room, and in the centre there is a large mirror, with glass perfume cases on each side, formed like bay windows.

There is a neat office at the back of the store, which will be nicely furnished, and which may be used by members of the medical profession as a consulting room. It is well adapted for this purpose on account of its privacy. The laboratory is also in the rear of the store, the door opening from the dispensing counter. Mr. Morgan intends to make a especialty of the dispensing department, and of making up prescriptions.

Mr. D. Belleghem, who did the work of putting in the shelves, counters, &c., did his work in a most satisfactory manner, and with promptitude.

A word regarding Mr. Morgan himself, who comes here as a stranger. Mr. Morgan served his apprenticeship with Prof. Saunders, of London, Ont., who has the largest establishment for the manufacture of fluid extracts and similar preparations in Canada. Prof. Saunders is public analyst for that section of the Province, and is one of the best posted men in his profession in the Dominion. Mr. Morgan has had the advantage of twenty-three years' experience in the best establishments in Canada. When departing f om Collingwood he was presented with a very flattering testimonial and recommendation, which was signed by all the doctors in Collingwood, in which they acknowledged the services Mr. Morgan had rendered them as an analyst.

No expense has been spared in fitting up this drug store with all necessaries, and with a large stock of drugs, &c. Mr. Morgan's investment is a large one, and having had a large experience in the business, he will no doubt receive a fair share of patronage.

Stealing a Ride in England.

A man wishing to travel free from Wolverhampton, England, to Liverpool, procured two stout pieces of rope, which he fastened to the axles of a railway carriage, leaving a noose at the end of each. Into one noose he put his legs while he inserted his shoulders into the other. In this position he hung when the train started. The train was an express, and did not stop until Crewe was reached, which is about 70 miles from Liverpool. He was rather uncomfortable when the train began to move, but when it got into full swing he had real torture, and when he reached Crewe he was nearly dead with fright. Here he was taken into custody. To the magistrate who adjudicated on the case he explained that his sensations when swaying to and fro were something awful, and the effect of the sleepers as they rushed past him nearly robbed him of reason, and he "was afraid that every moment the rope would slip from his shoulders and hang him." The magistrate decided that he had had enough punishment, and, remarking that he was not likely to repeat the experiment, sent him about his business.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

THE ONTARIO & QUEBEC

ASK FOR A PORTION OF WOLFE STREET FOR STATION GROUNDS

A By-law to Grant the Request Read a First Time at Special Meeting of the Town Council—Lumber Measurement and Accounts.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening.

Present—His Worship Mayor Cox, and Councillors Cahill, Allen, Kelly, Davidson, Green, Hartley, Millar, Douglas and Rutherford.

The reading of the minutes was, on motion, dispensed with.

THE MAYOR EXPLAINS.

The MAYOR explained that the meeting had been called in reference to the closing of a portion of Wolfe street by the Ontario and Quebec Railway. They wished to commence the building of their station at once. They could give, the By-law granting them the portion of the street its first reading to-night, and then give the necessary notice. The Council might pass the By-law at a further meeting, or deal with it as they thought best. At any rate, it would do no harm to give the By-law its first reading to-night.

THE APPLICATION.

A communication was read from Messrs. Hatton and Wood, Solicitors for the Ontario and Quebec Railway, asking the Council to grant a portion of Wolfe street for railway purposes.

A plan accompanied the letter, showing the position of the proposed railway buildings and the portion of the street required which was 370 feet about midway between George and Aylmer streets.

A LETTER FROM THE ENGINEER.

The following communication was also read:—

To the Mayor and Council of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to make a few suggestions with reference to the petition of the Ontario and Quebec Railway Company, asking your honorable body to take the necessary steps to pass a By-law to enable you to close up a portion of Wolfe street, between George and Aylmer streets, for the consideration of which it has pleased you to call a special meeting.

As will be seen by looking at the plan before you, which shows the position of the proposed passenger depot and freight sheds respectively, the former being south and the latter north of the railway track, it is apparent that the relative positions of these buildings should be reversed, not only for the purpose of reducing to a minimum the danger to passengers and vehicles to and from this railway, and, the ground of convenience to all persons having business in connection with the station, but, in addition, that it will place in an eligible site a handsome structure instead of a huge, unsightly erection, completely obscuring the view of the station house.

Owing to the limited building space purchaseable, suitable to the purposes of the railway, and its passengers in this respect, and the dimensions of the freight shed, the buildings cannot be placed otherwise than as above indicated, the company property to the south being too small for the freight shed required, nor is it large enough to erect as comodious a passenger depot as the Company intend to erect, and will erect if your honorable body will accede to the application of the company, in which event the depot will be built on George street, north of the track.

From the fact that this street between Aylmer and George streets is as yet hardly opened for traffic, and that on it there is but one dwelling house, which lies close to Aylmer street and that persons using this street to town would have to cross the railway track with its network of tracks twice, it is evident that this route will be used but seldom, and that the closing of the street will not inconvenience any one materially.

Trusting that this will receive at your hands the attention due to a matter of this nature, in the interests both of the town and the railway company,

I remain,
Yours respectfully,
HUGH RYAN.

A BY-LAW INTRODUCED.

A by law was introduced granting the Railway Company the portion of the street asked for, and it was read a first time.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved a resolution giving notice that the Council would, on the evening of Monday, April 28th, meet for the purpose of passing the by-law, and it was adopted.

LUMBER MEASUREMENT.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That the Street and Bridge Committee be requested to suggest some means for providing a check on the proper measurement of the lumber used on the streets.—Carried.

A number of accounts were referred to the Finance Committee.

The Council adjourned.

Fresh Lager.

Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

The Silver King.

Haverly's Company presented the "Silver King" to a full house in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday evening. The plot of the play is a strong one, and is filled up by many interesting incidents and episodes which serve to increase the interest of the story. The chief part was taken by Mr. C. A. Haswin, who portrayed the unfortunate "Silver King" in such a manner as to stamp him as an actor of merit. All the parts were acted with ability, and we cannot do justice to each in the space at our disposal. However, Miss Etelka Wardell, as "Nelly Denver," Mr. W. Morris as "the Spider," and Mr. Harry Rich, as the faithful "Jakes," may be specially mentioned. Little Miss Blanche Newcomb as "Cissy" acted her part intelligently and with cleverness. The scenery used was greatly admired, especially the garden scene at the home of "Will Denver." The applause which followed each act, and which burst forth frequently during the progress of the play, testified to the fact that the audience was thoroughly satisfied.

NEW AND NEAT.

Mr. G. W. Morgan's Drug Store and Dispensary—A Personal Notice.

An additional business house has been opened on George street, next to Mr. Menzies' bookstore. It is a drug store, of which Mr. G. W. Morgan, formerly of Collingwood, is the proprietor. Mr. Morgan had the new shop arranged according to his own ideas, and it is a neat store, handsomely fitted up.

All the work about the store has been tastily done. The shelving and drawers are of white ash and butternut, picked out in black. The shelving and bottles are arranged exactly the same on each side of the store. The walls are filled from the rear of the store to the windows, and the bottles are divided into sections, the patent medicines being enclosed in cases at equal distances apart. The effect of this arrangement is pleasing. The bottles, which were procured from a Philadelphia firm, are an expensive kind and very uncommon, this being only the third set of this style brought into Canada. The jars are of French white porcelain, with labels of glass sunk in a recess. The bronze draw-pulls were purchased in New York and are of a very neat style.

On the counters stand four show cases made uniform in design. They were manufactured by Millchamp, of Toronto, especially for Mr. Morgan, and the larger ones are exceedingly handsome. They are of black walnut with silver joints. He also possesses four fine pairs of scales, with marble tops and nickel-plated pans which were purchased direct from the manufacturers. The dispensary scales are a marvel of neatness and exactness.

The dispensing counter is a novelty, and is an ornament to the store. It is at the rear of the room, and in the centre there is a large mirror, with glass perfume cases on each side, formed like bay windows.

There is a neat office at the back of the store, which will be nicely furnished, and which may be used by members of the medical profession as a consulting room. It is well adapted for this purpose on account of its privacy. The laboratory is also in the rear of the store, the door opening from the dispensing counter. Mr. Morgan intends to make a specialty of the dispensing department, and of making up prescriptions.

Mr. D. Belleghem, who did the work of putting in the shelves, counters, &c., did his work in a most satisfactory manner, and with promptitude.

A word regarding Mr. Morgan himself, who comes here as a stranger. Mr. Morgan served his apprenticeship with Prof. Saunders, of London, Ont., who has the largest establishment for the manufacture of fluid extracts and similar preparations in Canada. Prof. Saunders is public analyst for that section of the Province, and is one of the best posted men in his profession in the Dominion. Mr. Morgan has had the advantage of twenty-three years' experience in the best establishments in Canada. When departing from Collingwood he was presented with a very flattering testimonial and recommendation, which was signed by all the doctors in Collingwood, in which they acknowledged the services Mr. Morgan had rendered them as an analyst.

No expense has been spared in fitting up this drug store with all necessaries, and with a large stock of drugs, &c. Mr. Morgan's investment is a large one, and having had a large experience in the business, he will no doubt receive a fair share of patronage.

Turnips.

Fluid Beef.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to moderate winds from south-east and north-east; partly cloudy weather, with local rains by night; slightly higher temperature.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

Stealing a Ride in England.

A man wishing to travel free from Wolverhampton, England, to Liverpool, procured two stout pieces of rope, which he fastened to the axles of a railway carriage, leaving a noose at the end of each. Into one noose he put his legs while he inserted his shoulders into the other. In this position he hung when the train started. The train was an express, and did not stop until Crewe was reached, which is about 70 miles from Liverpool. He was rather uncomfortable when the train began to move, but when it got into full swing he had real torture, and when he reached Crewe he was nearly dead with fright. Here he was taken into custody. To the magistrate who adjudicated on the case he explained that his sensations when swaying to and fro were something awful, and the effect of the sleepers as they rushed past him nearly robbed him of reason, and he "was afraid that every moment the rope would slip from his shoulders and hang him." The magistrate decided that he had had enough punishment, and, remarking that he was not likely to repeat the experiment, sent him about his business.

ONE OF MR. MOWAT'S SPIES.
A Reformer's Opinion of one of the Bribe Takers and Decoys.

The Berlin Telegram is a staunch Reform journal, and speaks for a large section of the Reformers of Waterloo. This is what it says of Mr. McKim, the leader of the members seeking a market for their votes and afterward the chief spy and procurer of bribes for the Mowat Administrati on:—

"In those columns we have already suggested the advisability of R. McKim, M. P. P., at once sending in his resignation as representative of West Wellington, a position he has shown himself utterly unfit to hold, as the records of the Division Court, held in Drayton last week, prove. In another part of this issue will be found the particulars of a case in which a man positively swore that he did not sign a note, and Judge Drew gave judgment in favor of the defendant, thus virtually stigmatizing the note as a forgery. It will now be in order for the plaintiffs, the Bank of Commerce, either to prosecute Hockney, the defendant, for perjury, or somebody else for forgery.

The distress caused by the failure of McKim is widespread and covers some most painful cases. One farmer has lost his farm, an orphan girl has lost a small legacy left her by her father by sending it to the bankrupt; and some of those who advanced money or back notes for McKim were amongst his nearest neighbors, and who doubtless looked on him as the soul of honor. How much he knows about honor was shown in the division court, where he did his best to have Hockney made liable for a note which defendant swore he never signed, and in whose favor the court gave judgment.

It is said that Mr. Mckim intended to pay everyone to whom he is indebted, and that he is very sorry things have turned out so unfortunately. We can imagine a burglar being sorry when he finds himself in the grip of a policeman. We are sorry for the victims of misplaced confidence; but we have no sympathy to spare for a man who, when he knows, or ought to know, that he is irretrievably bankrupt, will get his friends to back notes for him, well knowing that the poor fellows will themselves have to pay them when they fall due.

That Mr. McKim should sit in the Local Legislature after the exposure before Judge Drew, is a thing not to be tolerated.

If the executive of the Reform Association of the riding do not call a meeting of delegates and put before them the necessity of demanding the immediate retirement of Mr. McKim from the representation of West Wellington, we shall consider them as wanting in that sense of duty they have hitherto been credited with.

ALLANDALE.
From Our Own Correspondent.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. K. Mark wishes to return his sincere thanks to his friends in the Bethel and Keene neighborhoods, Otonabee, for their kindness in the past, and especially for their most agreeable surprise on the 20th inst. when Mr. Wm. Nelsoned call upon him and at the close of a pleasant interview gave tangible proof of their friendship, etc., by presenting him with a purse containing $52. He adde:—"May blessings of a temporal and spiritual nature be theirs; and may our friendships formed in the past and renewed at the present be strength ened and cemented as months and years roll by until at last they are perfect and complete in the 'Sweet Bye and Bye.'"

FENELON FALLS.
SENT FOR TRIAL.—The Gazette says that a tramp named Henry Gay, who was given a meal in the residence of the Rev. Mr. Watch, stole a silver mug out of the house. He was taken before James Dickson, J. P. and committed for trial.

BROKE THROUGH.—A team of horses belonging to Mr. A. Ellis broke through the ice near Green's wharf, while coming from Lindsay. They were rescued with difficulty, and eighteen bags of flower and ten of meal in the sleigh were domaged.

THE SPRING ASSIZES.
The Grand Jury Do Not Want the System Changed—Reports of Cases.

The Grand Jury, after examining the gaol and considering the questions proposed by Mr. Justice Cameron for their consideration, made the following presentment:—

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP.—The Grand Jury of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, beg to make the following presentment:—

We congratulate Your Lordship and the county that there is no criminal business before you this assize, and rejoice that this is becoming a characteristic of the county of Peterborough.

We have examined the gaol and precincts and bear testimony to their being kept scrupulously clean and neat. Of sixteen inmates in the gaol we found six able-bodied men committed as vagrants, who represented themselves as being unable to obtain work, and we would suggest that some permanent employment be found for such cases.

Eight inmates are old and invalid, for whom the gaol seems to be simply a house of refuge.

With reference to the continuance of the Grand Jury system, about which Your Lordship invited us to express our opinion, we are unanimously agreed that it should be retained, and while we acknowledge that in civil cases a Judge would be more likely to give substantial justice to litigants, yet in criminal matters our opinion is that the present method should remain as it is, as being well understood, having the confidence of all classes, and not to be lightly set aside.

Whether the number of Grand Jurors should be reduced or not is a subsidiary question, and one on which we are hardly prepared to venture an opinion.

We take great pleasure in congratulating your Lordship and the country on your promotion to the Bench on this occasion of your holding your first court in this county, and we trust that when you again visit the county for a similar purpose the criminal calendar will be equally light.

JOHN BERTRAM,
Foreman.

Peterborough, March 24, 1884.

REPORTS OF CASES.

POWERS VS. STRIKER.—An action for illegal seizure of plaintiffs goods under a distress warrant. The parties live in Hastings, and the plaintiff occupied the premises, on which the goods were seized, under a lease from Mrs. Daly, the owner. Mrs. Tracy, one of the defendants, subsequently received a lease of the same premises for five years and notified the plaintiff to pay the rent to her. The plaintiff had paid rent for three months in advance to Mrs. Daly, and Mrs. Tracey was warned that he held the receipt. Notwithstanding this, Mrs. Tracey instructed the defendant Striker, a bailiff, to destrain the goods for rent, which he at first refused to do, whereupon the defendent John Tracey gave him a bond to indemnify him. Fletcher then seized the goods, and caused them to be exposed for sale, but, finding that the seizure was illegal, he returned them to the paintiff, who brought this action to recover damages for such seizure. Verdict was given for plaintiff for $75.—Mr. J. O'Meara for plaintiff; Messrs. Pousette & Roger for defendants.

POWERS vs. TRACY.—This was an action for slander arising out of the former case, it being charged that the defendants had stated that the receipts which the plaintiff held from Mrs. Daly had been forged by him. On the evidence being put in, it was ascertained that what the defendant actually did say was that if they (the Powers) had a receipt, they must have forgot it. The learned judge held that there was a materel variance between the words charged and th words spoken, and that the occasion on which they were spoken was a privileged one. A non suit was entered.—Mr. J. O'Meara for plaintiff; Messrs. Poussette & Roger for defendants.

KEMP VS. GALVIN—This was an action for trespass on land. Verdict for the plaintiff for $20. The foreman of the jury stated to the Judge that the jury found that the plaintiff had occupied the land trespassed on for upwards of ten years. It is stated, however, that some of the jurymen have since said that such was not their finding, and a new trial will be asked for on this and other grounds.—Messrs. Dumble & Henry for plaintiff; Mr. J. O'Meara for defendant.

The case of Cochrane vs. Dumble occupied the Court this forenoon and was going on this afternoon.

PONTYPOOL.
From Our Own Correspondent.

SAW MILL BURNED.—Mr. Ashby's steam saw mill was totally destroyed by fire on Monday evening. The fire broke out some time after the men had ceased work and it is supposed to have originated at the furnace. There was some insurance, but not enough to cover the loss. Most of the lumber was saved by the exertions of the employees and of the neighbors. Mr. Andrew Douglas was severely burned on the hands and arms while assisting to save property.

Pocahontas Mine Disaster.
POCAHONTAS, Va., March 24.—The excitement on Friday night, when an indignation meeting was held to endeavour to compel the owners of the burning mines to reopen them and recover the bodies of the 152 miners has subsided in a measure. Yesterday the belle of the village jumped upon a barrel and offered to marry the man who recovered the body of her father. The appeal met with no response.

Should Ministers Pay Taxes?
An incident occured the other evening in Toronto which shows that if ministers are to take part in public discussions it is an immense advantage to them to pay taxes like other citizens. At a meeting held to discuss the question of separating the liquor from the grocery trade, the agent of the liquor trade insinuated that the Rev. Mr. McLeod paid no taxes and had no vote. Mr. McLeod promptly answered, "I pay sixty-seven dollars taxes a year: how much do you pay?" The agent had to admit that he paid only an income tax. It was worth $67 to get in that crusher just there. The fact is if ministers are going to mingle in the temperance fray and do good work, they must be able to answer as Mr. McLeod did. The best speech ever made is liable to be ruined if somebody can get up at the close and say "This man who speaks so much about the increase of taxation caused by the liquor traffic pays no taxes himself."

LONGSHOREMEN'S RATES.

BUFFALO, March, 25.—The longshoremen are in a high state of excitement over the actions of the various transportation lines who have decided to employ Italians and non-union men to handle their freight during the coming season at the rate of $40 a month for ten hours' labor and 15c. extra for all over time.

CREMATION.

LONDON, March 25.—The London city authorities have resolved to establish a cremotorium at Ilford, a suburb of the East End, on the recommendation of the medical officers that cremation is the least objectionable of all known methods of disposing of the dead.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S BIRTHDAY.

BERLIN, March 25.—The Emperor William on his birthday received two Sevres vases from some person whose name was not given. The Emperor was delighted with the gift, which is believed to be from President Grevy, of France. Prince Bismarck, referring to the gift, expressed the hope that the day was not far distant when he would be able to make France as happy as some one had made the Emperor.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

PARIS, March 25.—In consequence of the smallness of the majority with which the French shareholders of the Suez Canal Company approved of the convention which M. de Lesseps had arranged with the English ship-owners, he declines to carry out the proposition to admit seven additional members to the Board of Directors. As this formed the leading English stipulation it is probable the whole convention will fall through.

Curious Statistics.

The report of the Educational Department of Ontario just published, suggests some problems not easily answered. For example, the total number of children in Ontario of school age, five to sixteen, in 1874, was 511,603, while in 1882 was only 483,817, or 27,786 less! Why should there be a falling off in eight years of nearly 28,000 children? Is the population of Ontario decreasing, or, as the old country element dies out, are families becoming smaller? If the report indicated the parts of Ontario where the principal falling off has taken place, this last question might be answered. Comparing 1882 with a point further back, we find that the number of children of school age at present in Ontario is actually 5,801 less than the number in 1871. That is to say, there are nearly 6,000 fewer school children in Ontario now than there wer e twelve years ago! These figures are doubtless correct, and because correct, very puzzling. Those who take a special interest in such questions may find some interesting problems in these figures.—Canada Presbyterian.

A Solace for Wounds.

The Montreal Witness of Tuesday says:—Some time ago Mr. F. Malette was badly burned in a collision on the Canadian Pacific. He has lost the use of one arm, and succeeded in getting, through the assistance of a lawyer, $400 from the Canadian Pacific Railway. He says that his law expenses were $200, that his doctor's expenses were $84, but he took $50, and that he has now the balance left him of $150, and a promise of work as a gate-keeper for the Canadian Pacific. He says further that he is going to try, through another lawyer, to recover $100 of his legal expenses. This, however is nothing to a case just decided in New York, where a verdict of $4,000 was gained for the loss of five fingers by a little boy through the negligence of a railway company.

The Rathbun Company.

In the New York Assembly a bill was passed authorizing the Rathbun Lumber Company, a Canadian corporation, to do business in the state. In the Senate a bill was reported from the Assembly allowing the Ogdensburg & Lake Champlain Railway to own propellers on the lakes, and was referred to the Canal Committee.

MR. MOWATS PATRONAGE.

MR. MCKIM'S reluctant evidence, showing that at a critical moment Mr. Mowat hired his support by giving a registry office to his son, reminds us of a previous dealing of Mr. Mowat with a similar office. Mr. Currie, a bad lawyer and good Reformer, was kicked out of his profession for defrauding his clients, notably widows and orphans. Mr. Mowat exclaimed, "This is just the man to suit me and to deserve my patronage," and incontinently appointed him Registrar, with a chance of subjecting all the titles in the Riding to such scrutiny as his peculiar morals might suggest. We need hardly remind our readers how Mr. Mowat appointed another thief as Stipendiary Magistrate, and defended his choice on the ground that a County Treasurer who appropriated to his own use the public funds entrusted to him, was not unfitted for the bench. Who can doubt, then, that Messrs. McKim, Balfour & Co., having been employed by the Mowat Administration to solicit bribes and manufacture evidence of complicity against Conservatives, will, as soon as convenient, receive their hire in the shape of Registry offices, Stipendiary Magistracies, or some other position of trust or emolument, such as Mr. Mowat considers the appropriate reward for criminals.

DEFAMING MR. BLEZARD.

THE Globe and the Toronto Telegram bring a serious charge against Mr. Blezard, that of having voted against Mr. Mowat and his colleagues on Mr. Widdifield's bill to interfere with our law courts, and to prevent them from punishing Apjohn and the other tools of Mowat & Co. for their rascally conduct in cheating Conservatives out of their votes in Algoma. Mr. Blezard having handed himself over body and soul to Mr. Mowat—not having the manliness even to resent a deliberate insult from him—voted slavishly for him on every possible occasion. He never thought of raising hand or voice against his master. Mr. Blezard was not in the house on Monday, but we have not the slightest doubt that if he had been he would have voted for Mr. Widdifield's iniquitous measure, even though it was to legalize crimes and to insult our judiciary. We have yet to learn that there are any bounds to Mr. Blezard's subserviency, or that any outrage would make him shrink from obeying his behests.

A DICKENS OF A FELLOW.

IT is said that Charles Dickens could always find in real life counterparts of his fictitious characters. If the novelist could have been in Toronto this week when Mr. Cascaden was cross-examined by Dr. McMichael, he would have been struck with the similarity between the ideas of that gentleman, as well as others of Mr. Mowat's plotters, and those of Harold Skimpole in "Bleak House." In answer to a question from Mr. Baythorn, as to whether there was any such thing as principle, Mr. Skimpole replied:—"Upon my life, I have not the least idea. I don't know what it is you call by that name, or where it is, or who possesses it. If you possess it and find it comfortable, I am delighted and congratulate you most heartily. But I know nothing about it, I assure you, and I lay no claim to it, and I don't want it."

THEIR RECORD.

IN another column we give a sketch from a Reform pen of Mr. McKim, introducer-general of members in search of bribes, and chief spy and informer for Mowat & Co. What a precious set these procurers and informers are! nearly all of them mixed up with perjury, forgery, fraudulent bankruptcy or corrupt practices. Mr. Mowat, however, who thinks that thieves are good enough for the Bench or a registry office, may well consider these men good enough for his dirty work of enticing men into breaking the law, or of manufacturing evidence against them.

BRANDING THEMSELVES.

Bystander does not agree with these who hold that spies and informers are reputable members of society. This is what he says in The Week in regard to proposed legislation:—

"To prevent the illicit drinking of a glass of beer two men are to be tempted to play the part of a treacherous informer, and publicly to brand themselves as the most infamous of sneaks."

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

LICENSE DUTIES.

Mr. Hardy on Monday moved the third reading of the License Duties Bill.

Mr. MEREDITH said the suspension of penalties by the Dominion authorities was an additional reason why the Bill should not pass.

Mr. HARDY said they had no official notice.

The third reading was carried by by 36 to 27.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

M. HARDY moved the third reading of the Bill to amend the Crook's Act.

Mr. BRODER moved an amendment to the effect that a tavern license should not be granted without a certificate from two-thirds of the electors of the polling sub-division.

The amendment was negatived by 39 to 26 and the third reading was carried.

THE STREAMS BILL.

Mr. PARDEE moved the third reading of the Streams Bill.

Mr. CREIGHTON moved an amendment to strike out a portion of the preamble.

The amendment was negatived by 29 to 27.

Mr. ROE moved an amendment that the existing law was sufficient, enabling four or more persons to form a company to appropriate improvement at a value determined by arbitration.

The amendment was negatived by a similar majority.

Mr. MORRIS moved an amendment against interfering with private interests as determined by the Supreme Court.

The amendment was negatived by a similar majority.

Mr. MEREDITH moved an amendment against constituting the House a Court of Appeal by declaring that to have been law which the Supreme Court declared unanimously not to have been law.

The amendment was negatived by 40 to 27 and the third reading was carried.

DICTATING TO SCHOOL BOARDS.

Mr. MEREDITH moved that all orders-in-Council determining or granting the basis for distributing the Legislative grant in aid of Collegiate Institutes and High Schools, ought, before becoming operative, to be submitted to, and ratified by, the vote of this House. He alluded to the amendment that had been found necessary in the order-in-Council recently brought down.

Mr. ROSS moved an amendment against restraining the liberty which the Education Department had always exercised in dealing with this matter.

Mr. CREIGHTON taunted Reformers with opposing control of public money by the representatives of the people.

Mr. FRASER said the House could refuse to vote the money.

The amendment was carried by 39 to 29.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

A communication from the Governor-General was brought down, duly acknowledging the presentation of the address of the House to him.

WHITE-WASHING FRAUDULENT OFFICIALS.

Mr. WIDDIFIELD moved the second reading of the bill to relieve deputy-returning officers in Algoma, Muskoka and Parry Sound from the legal penalties for their frauds. He argued that these officers were ignorant that they were bringing themselves within the clutches of the law, and therefore they should be relieved. He especially mentioned the frauds for which Apjohn has been sentenced to penalties, as a reason for this interference with the law courts, but he excepted that particular case. He acknowledged that the bill was retroactive, but defended this by abusing Sir C. Tupper. He pleaded that Mr. Mowat's deputy-returning officers were an ignorant lot, who were acting on instructions and should be relieved.

Mr. CREIGHTON said there had been an organized scheme to refuse legal Conservative votes. He severely condemned the clause preventing a voter thus defrauded from appealing to the courts. The Government had shirked the responsibility by placing the bill in the hands of a private member.

Mr. BADGEROW contended granting power to deputy returning officers to refuse votes.

Mr. MEREDITH said that the bill had been purposely kept back till the end of the session. Its object seemed to be to place the power of disfranchising electors in the hands of partisan returning officers. It was a disgrace to declare that wilfully disfranchised voters should have no remedy and he called upon the Attorney General to pronounce against such an attempt to destroy the purity of elections.

Mr. MOWAT said he was bound to relieve his own officers, and would support the second reading.

Mr. MORRIS said the Attorney General was deliberately giving his returning officers power to disfranchise whole districts.

Mr. MEREDITH said he would consent to the bill if it only granted relief when the vote was a bad one.

Mr. PARDEE flatly refused.

Mr. MOWAT and his supporters voted to legalize Apjohns by 42 to 28.

AN ELECTIONEERING FUND.

Mr. CARNEGIE moved in amendment to concurrence on the item for Colonization Roads:—

That the following words be added to the resolution:—But while concurring in the resolution, this House is of opinion that appropriations made out of the vote of $20,000 for short new roads and repairs should be made under the authority of an Order in Council passed upon the report of the Commissioner of Crown Lands or one of his officers.

Mr. MERRICK moved:—

"That all the words after the word resolution in the amendment be struck out and the following substituted therefor:—And affirming its readiness to vote all reasonable sums required for the purpose of providing and maintaining necessary roads in the new settlement, and the recognizing the just rights of the settlers in the new districts to receive liberal assistance in these respects, this House would fail in its duty if it did not, as it hereby does express its disapprobation of the action of the Government in expending without the sanction of this House a sum of $17,212.16 in excess of appropriation of $17,000 for this service in a constituency in which an important election contest was pending and during such contest, and thereby unfairly to promote the election of the candidate who was receiving the support of the Government.

Mr. MOWAT and his supporters voted against this amendment and in favor of spending $17,000 in excess of the appropriation to influence a pending election.

THE ELECTION LAW.

Mr. MOWAT backed down and adopted the Opposition contention to the extent that where there are assessment rolls Indians should not be deprived of their votes. He also provided for recounts by district judges.

Mr. MEREDITH moved to permit recounts where the majority exceeds 50, but it was voted down.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE AFFAIRS OF THE PROTESTANT HOME.

Very Satisfactory Reports from the Committee and from the Treasurer—The Election of Officers for the year.

The annual meeting in connection with the business management of the Peterborough Protestant Home was held in the Home on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Gilmour, President, presiding. The attendance was quite large.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Miss ROGER, Secretary, read the following report of the Committee for the past year:—

"In once more presenting their annual report, the Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home record with great gratitude the great goodness of God during the past year in sparing so many of the friends of the poor and helpless, and for His abundant mercies poured out upon us since our last annual meeting. Then we had to report a large debt; now as will be seen by the Treasurer's statement, we are in a much better position, having a small balance in our favor and no debt.

Twenty-two persons have been admitted. Of these, three have died. One, who was far gone in consumption, died within a month of his admission; another was brought in in a dying state, as he expired the same evening. These are a few cases showing the extreme need there is for an hospital, as there was no other place these poor creatures could be taken into to be cared for but the Home. The third death was that of an infant two months old, whose mother had died soon after the birth. Thirteen persons have gone out.

There are now in the Home fifteen persons, five men, four women and six children. Mrs Lowry, the blind woman, who had been nearly nineteen years in the Home, died on the 14th of March.

Eight families have received out-door relief, three all the year and the others as they required it.

Thanks are due to those friends who so kindly visit the inmates and engage in religious exercises with them, which services are fully appreciated; to the medical men, who are ever ready when called upon; to the Curling Club who so kindly remembered the Home in their games; to the editors, who so kindly insert advertisements, lists of donations, &c., free of charge, and to the editors of the Review and Examiner in particular for copies of their papers regularly delivered.

Respectfully submitted

ISABELLA ROGER,
Secretary P.P. Home.

The report was received and adopted.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Mrs. JEFFERS read the report of the Treasurer as follows:—

To the President and Directors of the P. P. Home:

Herewith you will please find a statement of the receipts and expenditure in connection with the Home for the eleven months ending on February 29th.

Among the receipts you will notice the large amount credited to the Hall Trust Fund. This is owing to the fact that for some time the annual sum promised by the trustees had become overdue. Its receipt enabled us to pay off the large bills which had accumulated at the date of the last audit, April 1st, 1883. The generous assistance afforded us by the Trustees of the Fund, and the liberal contributions of the public generally, have enabled the Board during a very severe winter to meet all the demands made upon them, and to be able to show a balance on hand of $165.57, with no bills unpaid.

Yours respectfully,
ADELAIDE JEFFERS,
Treasurer.

Peterborough, March 25, 1884.

Purely Vegetable.

First the bud, then the blossom, then the perfect fruit. These are the several stages of several of the most important ingredients composing the painless and sure corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. The juices of plants greatly concentrated and purified, gums and balsams in harmonious union, all combined, give the grand results. Putnam's Extractor makes no sore spot, does not lay a man up for a week, but goes on quietly doing its work until a perfect cure results. Beware of acid substitutes.

McGregor's Speedy Cure.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without any advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the market, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. # DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Mr. Blake Fathers a "Globe" Slander—Inspection of Gas Meters—Coal to be Sold by Weight—Mr. Blake Praising the U. S. at the Expense of Canada.

CIVIL SERVICE SALARIES.

Sir J. MACDONALD on Monday in reply to Mr. Weldon, said it was not the intention this session to make the incomes of Dominion Civil Servants liable to municipal taxation.

BLAKE FATHERING SLANDERS.

Sir J. MACDONALD in reply to Mr. Blake, said no promise or assurance had been given by any member of the Government to J. A. Wilkinson that he would be recommended for or might have the Registrarship of Calgary. A promise was made more than a year ago that Mr. J. A. Wilkinson should be recommended for the Registrarship at Edmonton when established. The promise was first made by Sir John and repealed by his successor as Minister of the Interior, Mr. Macpherson. There was no correspondence except the letter of Mr. Macpherson to Mr. Wilkinson, which had been published. He thought it would not be proper under present circumstances to answer the question as to whether that promise was still in force. No such promise had been cancelled or withdrawn.

Mr. MCLELAN said in reply to Mr. Blake that J. A. Wilkinson had received in 1882 the sum of $200 for services and travelling expenses for investigations concerning industrial establishments for the census.

C. P. R. ACCOUNTS.

Sir CHARLES TUPPER, in answer to Mr. Blake said the sum of $7,500,000 was paid to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company on the 12th of the present month on account of their floating debt. On construction contract account the sum of $3,228,627 was paid on the 18th and 24th of March, of which $1,222,627 was on account of subsidy and $2,076,000 on account of the loan recently authorized.

GAS AND GAS METERS.

Hon. JOHN COSTIGAN moved the second reading of the bill respecting the inspection of gas and gas metres. The object of the bill was to secure purity of gas, and to establish a standard for gas. It was proposed to make the standard of gas sixteen-candle light. In England and the United States the standard was very much higher.

Mr. BLAKE said that he hoped the companies were quite satisfied.

Hon. JOHN COSTIGAN said there were two interests to consider, the interest of the producer and the interest of the consumer. He proposed to protect the latter and not to oppress the former.

COAL BY WEIGHT.

Mr. COSTIGAN moved the second reading of his bill requiring the sale of coal by weight.

CUSTOMS ACT.

Hon. Mr. BOWELL moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Customs Act. The bill gave the vice-admiralty courts power to try customs cases. It also gave magistrates authority to try such cases summarily. A further clause permitted merchants to give evidence in court to show that invoices alleged to be fraudulent were correct. By this they would be on the same footing as the Crown.

IMMIGRATION.

Mr. PATERSON (Brant) moved in amendment to going into supply condemning aid as emigrants to Canada to mechanics, artisans, clerks, or labourers other than agricultural. He argued first that the population had not increased as they ought, and secondly that people were starving from over population. He censured Lord Lorne for promoting emigration to Canada.

Sir H. LANGEVIN rebuked this disparagment of the country and of the Marquis of Lorne, who had proved himself a good friend to Canada. The expenses had diminished from $6.78 per head under the late administration to $3.15 per head at present. The number was three times greater for the last than for the proceeding five years. The population had increased in ten years over 16 per cent.

Mr. MACKENZIE objected to the Government procuring dredges from the United States as derogatory to the N. P.

Sir. H. LANGEVIN said as dredges were not made in Canada, they had, like other people to get them abroad.

Mr. RONFRET said French Canadians had been obliged to emigrate because the Government encouraged artisans to come here.

Mr. CURRAN showed from the statistics that the proportion of mechanics brought out was much reduced. The great majority were, farmers, farm labourers and domestic servants.

Mr. BLAKE made an excellent speech in his character of United States emigration agent.

Mr. Thos. WHITE (Cardwell) regretted that the leader of the Opposition so misapplied his great abilities. The Dominion did not give assisted passages to mechanics but Ontario did according to its official reports as Mr. Mackenzie had when in power.

Mr. CHARLTON supported the amendment.

Mr. Paterson's amendment was put and negatived by 101 to 51.

The House then went into Committee of supply and passed several items.

THE MOWAT PLOT.

A Knave Described by Himself—A Mowat Detective in Hiding.

The investigation into the bribery case was resumed on Monday in the Police Court. The rascality of the plot of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues to invite bribery was further developed by their own witnesses.

MANUFACTURING EVIDENCE.

Mr. BALFOUR was recalled and on cross-examination admitted that he had made an addition in pencil to his celebrated "notes" about two days after the original entry.

He admitted also that he had submitted his notes to members of the Government, and that he had made them for that purpose.

BETRAYING AN OLD FRIEND'S CONFIDENCE.

Mr. CASCADEN repeated his evidence before the Committee. He said that in January his friend of over 20 years, Mr. Meek, had talked to him in confidence of there being too much party politics, and of the advisability of forming a coalition ministry, a plan which five or six of the Government supporters would aid. In view of Mr. Cascaden's state of health Mr. Meek suggested he should resign in his favor and he would obtain the registrarship at Regina for him, and money to pay his expenses out. Mr. Bunting, on being introduced to him, also deprecated too much partyism. Mr. Cascaden accused him of sending Meek to him. Mr. Bunting immediately denied this and resented the insult in very forcible language.

LYING TO TRAP HIS OLD FRIEND.

In cross-examination Mr. Cascaden could not give the slightest information where his conversation with Mr. Meek took place; his memory was a blank.

He confessed that he had done his best to draw his old friend out and draw him on, making him believe the whole conversation was in confidence, and complaining of his treatment by his party. To lead on Mr. Meek he told him he intended to resign. Mr. Meek trusted his word but he broke it. They shook hands at parting.

JOINS THE MOWAT SPIES.

Immediately after the first interview, like his brother rogues, he took his story to a member of the Government.

PAINTS HIS OWN PORTRAIT.

Mr. CASCADEN, in cross-examination, made some startling admissions even for one of the gang of rascals employed by Mowat & Co. as spies and panderers.

He was charged with forging or uttering a forged note, brought a suit for libel—and lost it.

He was charged with forging a receipt, brought a suit for libel—and lost it.

He was charged with causing the death of his wife, brought an action for damages—and lost it.

This is the portrait of Mr. Cascaden, one of Mr. Mowat's informers, as painted by himself. What a set to rule a country!

ROGUES FALL OUT.

Mr. CASCADEN'S friendship for his employers, the rogues in office, though it would lead him to forfeit his honor (if any remained) but would not stand the test of losing money or a chance of making it. Mr. Pardee appointed a sheriff. Mr. Cascaden who wanted the patronage was enraged. He "believed" he told Mr. Meek he swore at Mr. Pardee; he "believed" he told Mr. Meek he shook his fist in Mr. Pardee's face.

HE FORCED THE GOVERNMENT.

And what was the result of swearing at the Commissioner of Crown Lands, of shaking his fist in the face of one of the Mowat Administration? His Billingsgate, his assault (and his vote) were persuasive. He believed that he told Mr. Meek that he forced the Government. What a Government! And what supporters!

ONE OF THE SPIES BOLTS.

Mr. McMaster, having done with this rogue, was anxious to examine Detective Murray, who laid the information, and whom the Government would not produce, so he asked for a subpœna.

Mr. FENTON said that all his efforts to find Murray were in vain, and he not know where he he was. The Magistrate promised the subpœna.

Probably Detective Murray, less brazen than the amateur spies, had gone into hiding and will not be found. Or, perhaps, as spring is at hand, he has gone to hunt for a robin—that round robin that would criminate some of the receivers of bribes, that would divulge which other supporters of the Government were ready to abandon them—that terrible round robin that between Detective and Electioneering Agent Ward, Mr. Pardee and Mr. Fraser has so conveniently been "lost." Destroying evidence that tells against them, as in the Algoma case, is the foible or rather the forte of these "gentlemen."

Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trobble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. ## LOCAL NEWS

The Cells.

There were nine tramps in the police cells last night, eight men and one woman.

Sporting.

Harry Gilmour the champion light-weight pugilist, is coming here to train for his coming contest.

Personal.

We have received a copy of the Quebec Chronicle containing an extended account of a public welcome given to the Rev. E. J. Stobo by his new congregation in that city. Several clergymen of the city were present, and the welcome extended to Mr. Stobo by them, as well as by members of the congregation, was very cordial.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Strong winds from south-west and north-west; cloudy weather, with rain, followed by partly clearing weather; higher temperature.

Railway Track Flooded.

When the evening train on Tuesday night passed through the swamp known as Lilly Lake, where the railway authorities had the trouble with the sink hole, the water was found to be over the track. This morning the train for Toronto started to go over the Link, but when the lake was reached it was thought to be unsafe to venture over it, and the train was run back here and went around by Millbrook.

A Fine Instrument.

It will be worth while for any one contemplating the purchase of a pianoforte to call and examine the very handsome instrument manufactured by the Dominion Organ and Piano Company, now on view at the agents' show rooms here, opposite the Market Square, George street. It is catalogued as their style K Square Piano in rosewood, with 7⅓ octaves and patent agraffe attachment. Mr. Irwin, the local agent, will be happy to give callers every information.

Pocket-Book Found.

A boy named Percy Hunter this morning found a pocket book in the snow near the Midland station. It was the one either stolen from or lost by Mr. John Lambert some time ago. Lambert said that it contained a large amount of money, but there was no cash in it when found, and neither were there any bank drafts. There was a draft, however, for 366 happy days, drawn on the year 1884 in favour of Mr. Lambert and signed by Mr. T. Menzies, and a number of private papers and memoranda. The boy handed the purse over to Constable Pidgeon.

Health Bulletin.

The official report of the health of Ontario for the week ending Saturday, March 15th, shows that the increase of temperature, accompanied as it has been with high winds and rain, have led to the continued prevalence of bronchitis; influenza, pneumonia, rheumatism and neuralgia have slightly increased. Intermittent fever is less prominent. The contagious zymotics show an unusually small prevalence. Diphtheria appears amongst the six first diseases only about Prescott, Cornwall, etc. Measles and scarlatina and whooping cough are similarly decreased in amount, but mumps retains a more prominent position. Erysipelas appears more prominently than for some weeks past. For the month of March the reports would seem to indicate a higher condition of health than is usual in Ontario. The six most prevalent diseases in the district in which Peterborough is included, in their order of prevalence, are as follows: — Bronchitis, 16; influenza, 8.9; mumps, 8.9; neuralgia, 6.5; pneumonia, 6.5; consumption, 6.2.

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

There was a very large attendance at the meeting on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Greenhow read a portion of Scriptnre and commented upon it.

The Rev. John Shaw and the Rev. T. Manning, B. A., were on the platform and took part in the services.

Four persons forsook the ways of wickedness and went forward to the penitent bench.

There will be a meeting in the Opera House again to-night.

The officers are thinking of getting another barracks for the summer, where the air would be less close. They may get the drill shed or the skating rink.

A report that the Salvation Army had secured the skating rink, and were also about to make an attack on the town, is not correct.

The Creek Giving Trouble.

The water in the creek has been steadily rising for some days, and the rain on Tuesday night swelled it considerably. Large streams of water are also running down off Smithtown hill, and this water runs into the creek. On Tuesday night the water overflowed the banks of the creek at the corner of Murray and Bethune streets, and this with the water of the hill, caused a flood from that corner north. In a number of dwellings the occupants arose this morning to find their cellars flooded, and in several cases the floors covered with water. By cutting channels to let the water off, it was lowered a little, but more damage may yet be done. The water in the creek is up to the timbers of the railway bridge on Bethune street, and men are engaged there, and also below that near Hunter street, in cutting the ice in order to prevent a jam and save the bridges.

A Well-Deserved Honour.

We are glad to learn that Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan, well-known in Peterborough, has been appointed by the Mowat Administration a member of the Senate of Toronto University. Mr. O'Sullivan is a distinguished alumnus of the University. He graduated in arts in 1872, proceeding M.A. in due course, and was a scholar in LL.B. course, taking all the scholarships presented in that faculty. As a member of the legal profession he stands high, and is favorably known as the author of several valuable text books. That the position to which he has just been appointed is one of high honor may be gathered from the names of those with whom he is associated in the Senate; they are three of our judges: Cameron, Patterson and Gwynne; the Rev. Dr. Cavan, the Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, B.D., late of Peterborough, Col. Gzowski, John Macdonald and the Hon. Wm. McMartin. We congratulated Mr. O'Sullivan and his friends.

The Aspect of the Country.

A long walk or journey through the surrounding country gives evidences to all the senses of the approach of spring. Although one cannot quite say "and the dry land appeared," yet in many of the fields, and here and there along parts of the road the snow has totally disappeared and given place to irregular patches of muddy earth. Occasionally, too, when passing such open spots, there is quite perceptible that odour of moist earth and foliage to which we have been for so many months strangers. Even the ear also is greeted with sounds of spring: the crows, an occasional blackbird, and not a few of the smaller species are already heard. Nevertheless an extensive prospect still presents to the eye vast areas of snow—the dirty brown patches of land being very scattered, and few and far between. Travelling by road is certainly very bad, not only because of the yielding nature of the melting snow—so dangerous to horses since it is still, on the whole, of some depth—and not only because in the majority of roads the pitch holes, if not as deep as formerly, still exist, but also because in the low-lying districts the accumulation of water, mud, melting snow, and even bare earth, make one doubt whether it would not have been better to have used wheels. For driving outside the limits of the town sleighs must for the present be used, but from all appearances they will soon give way to wheels. When that time arrives, however, whether the state of affairs will not be worse than the first must remain an open question.

Our New Spring Stock of Tweeds and Coatings is now complete, and we extend a cordial invitation to all intending purchasers to pay us a visit of inspection. Beautiful Goods, Nobby Patterns, and Handsome Colourings, at "Habiliment Hall."

Turnips.

Fresh Lager.

Lumberman's Convention.

On April 11th, a lumberman's convention will be held at Vicksburg, Miss. Excursion rates over the illinois Central Railroad will be furnished to all who wish to attend. For full information as to time of starting, rates, sleeping cars, etc., address J. F. Merry, passenger agent, Menchester, Iowa.

Protection of Ocean Passengers.

A bill was introduced by Representative Slocum on Monday to regulate the carriage of passengers by sea, which provides that every vessel bringing passengers to the United States shall have two hospitals, one for men, the other for women; also, that all vessels carrying other than cabin passengers, whose passengers and crew exceed fifty, and do not exceed six hundred, shall carry a licensed surgeon, and if they exceed six hundred an assistant surgeon, who shall be furnished with medicines and surgical instruments by the ship owners, and render services without fee.

Interesting People.

The Princess Louise, who has been going about a good deal in London, is looking handsomer than ever.

Oscar Wilde is reported as "halting on the threshold of a great career." It is the general opinion that he will halt there a long time.

Hon Neal Dow, the famous prohibitionist, attained his 80th birthday on March 20. He is as vigorous as he was thirty years ago.

A suit for limited divorce has been begun at New York by Mrs. Edith Allen against her husband, Vanderbilt Allen, grandson of the late Commodore Vanderbilt.

Shocking Railway Accident.

Minneapolis, March 25. — The emigrant party on the train was reported wrecked on Friday night, were for Winnipeg, and came through from Durham, Ont. Seventeen were injured, and a Red Wing correspondent telegraphs that two at least of that number were fatally hurt. Among the injured reported are Alex. Payne, his wife, two daughters, Nina and Matilda, and two sons, George and John, all seriously cut and bruised. The father had his arm broken. Wm. Ruddy, his wife and infant, Maggie, were all wounded in the head, the child having its skull crushed.

A Primeval Forest.

Not many years since the chief enterprise that engaged the thoughts and skill of pioneers in Chautauqua county consisted in efforts to remove the dense wilderness of oak, pine, hickory, hemlock, maple, chestnut, beech and other native trees of magnificent proportions and of native growth. The time was when an acre of cleared, cultivated land was far more valuable here than an acre of soil covered with dense timber. In Niagara county, less than 50 years ago, we saw immense log heaps of choicest black walnut all ablaze only to clear the land. This wood had not yet come into fashion with mahogany. In our strolls through this county and Cattaraugus we are surprised after an absence of many years, at the diminution of timber, the best having found its way into foreign and home markets. In Chautauqua county we have seen but one virgin forest of note of late years in our rambles. We refer to the well-known "Prendergast woods," said to contain over five hundred acres, solid with native trees never yet cut among. A ramble through this wilderness reminds us of the olden time. How it has escaped, or possibly could escape, the observation and grasp of the modern timber merchant, surpasses comprehension. An expert assures us that this unique forest, standing as nature planted it, consists, at a moderate estimate, of nearly nine thousand native oaks, monarchs of the woods, and about seven thousand lofty, original pines, among which are nearly eight hundred hemlocks, as this virtuoso in forestry enumerates the same. Of hickory, beech and maple he does not mention the quantity. This forest stands halfway between Jamestown, in this state, and Warren, in Pennsylvania, about seven miles from Jamestown and ten miles from Warren. It is situated within half a mile of Conewango, a stream which has floated the best timber in this region to Pittsburgh during a generation, leaving us now nearly without "clear stuff" for house building and manufactures. If some capitalist could or would induce the aged owner of this forest, who has no direct heirs, to sell, and if the native oak and pine and hemlock were cut, the second growth would be a fortune to the heirs of any purchaser. We should exceedingly dislike to see this last genuine wilderness dismantled and turned into "clearings," and then into holdings, to subserve the interests of the "almighty dollar," as I fear may be done in the not distant future. In England, for every tree slaughtered three young trees are planted, by law, to supply the waste; but in the United States we leave posterity to take care of itself, perhaps consoling ourselves by asking, What has posterity done for us? I have omitted to say that this to me sacred forest stands within a half mile of the Dunkirk, Allegheny & Pittsburgh railroad, to my view a dangerous proximity.—Chautauqua, in Lumberman's Gazette.

Is It Proof you Want.

No one can doubt the great merit of Polson's Nerviline, for it has been placed in the market in 10 cent bottles, just to give you the opportunity of testing its wonderful power over all kind of pain. This is the best evidence of its efficiency, for every person can try for himself. Polson's Nerviline is a positive (it cannot fail) cure for cramps, headache, colds, neuralgia, and the host of pains that flesh is heir to. Good to take, good to rub. Go to Ormand & Walsh's drug store and buy a bottle.

The Vatican organs declare the report that the Pope will leave Rome is not true. The rumour is believed to be a manœuvre to wrest a concession from the Italian Government in regard to the Propaganda.

Sick or Nervous Headaches are easily and certainly cured with Zopesa. It stimulates the Liver and Stomach to action, thus relieving the head; on the same principle it purifies the Blood and the Urine. A 75 cent bottle of Zopesa may save you much suffering and many dollars. Ask J. D. Tully.

The Greatest Healing Compound

is a preparation of carbolic acid, vaseline and cerate called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It will cure any sore, cut, burn or bruise when all other preparations fail. Call at John McKee's Drug Store and get a package. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of those distressing complaints? If you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Dyspepsia and Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters can't live in the same Stomach, one of them has got to go and it isn't the Stomach Bitters. The people's own favorite family medicine in large bottles at 50 cents.

If it were Possible.

to get the testimony of the multitude who have used The Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, languor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelmming mass commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that The Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medical value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking The Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public; and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as far as people will allow themselves to be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those people who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting The Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer because the people have been so often humbugged by the weak decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of The Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making. Ormond & Walsh, Druggists, Agents for Peterborough.

Morgan's Sarsaparilla is the best spring medicine. It purifies the blood and clears the system. Find Morgan's Drug Store, opposite the Giant T, George street, Peterborough.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

FIRST SESSION OF THE FIFTH LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF ONTARIO.

Legalized and Perpetuating Apjohn Frauds —Revising the Judge's Decision for Informer Dowling—Bribery by Railway Passes—Mr. Mowat's Conspiracy.

THE BRIBERY PLOT.

Mr. MOWAT moved for the creation of a Commission of Judges to try the charges of bribery.

Mr. MEREDITH hoped they would also have power to examine into the conduct of members on the other side.

Mr. MOWAT assented in a very quibbling and evasive manner.

LEGALIZING FRAUDS.

Mr. MEREDITH in amendment to the bill to legalize frauds by Returning Officers and to prevent the courts from punishing them, moved that they must prove they had acted in good faith.

This was negatived by 42 to 29.

Mr. NEELON declined to vote to legalize roguery.

SEATING A CORRUPT CANDIDATE.

Mr. HARCOURT moved the House into Committee on the bill to seat informer Dowling in spite of his corrupt practices, by enacting that the two judges must agree, which they had not done as to some details in the case.

Mr. MEREDITH condemned the infamy of this proceeding. The judges had disqualified Dr. Dowling, and this bill was to seat him for his services in the bribery plot. He asked the Attorney-General if he could justify the step.

Mr. FRASER would not let Mr. Mowat answer, but rose and uttered some abuse.

Mr. MEREDITH reproached him with the cowardice of his conduct.

Mr. FRASER became still more abusive.

Mr. MEDEDITH again appealed to the Attorney-General.

Mr. MOWAT at length driven to his feet, whiningly excused himself. He did not like ex post facto legislation, but there were some precedents for it.

Mr. BRODER reproved Mr. Mowat and his colleagues for their utter want of manhood in putting up a supporter at the eleventh hour to introduce legislation, which they dared not take charge of themselves.

Mr. CREIGHTON said that the Attorney-General had lowered himself in the estimation even of his friends. No dishonour had fallen upon members upon the Opposition side of the House.

Mr. MOWAT and his supporters after some further discussion voted to seat informer Dowling in spite of his condemnation for corrupt practices by the judges, and to reward him thus for his dirty work in the bribery plot, by a majority of 38 to 28.

Mr. NEELON again refused to identify himself with seating a candidate condemned by the courts for corruption.

FRAUDULENT RETURNING OFFICERS.

Mr. MONK on the third reading moved an amendment that the Returning officers for Algoma Muskoka and Parry Sound be the same as in other ridings.

Mr. MOWAT and his supporters voted by 39 to 28 for a repetition of the Algoma frauds, Mr. Neelon again refusing to countenance this iniquity.

DISFRANCHISING CONSERVATIVE INDIANS.

Mr. WHITE moved an amendment to present the disfranchisement of the Indian voters.

Mr. MOWAT and his supporters voted to disfranchise the Indians, it having been previously stated that the majority of them voted Conservative. The vote was the same as the last.

LEGALIZING APJOHN FRAUDS.

Mr. GRAY moved an amendment to prevent deputy returning officers from rejecting votes at will.

Mr. MOWAT and his supporters voted to continue the employments of Apjohns to disfranchise Conservatives.

Mr. MURRAY joined Mr. Neelon in declining thus to dishonour himself.

VOTING DOWN AMENDMENTS.

Mr. ROBILLARD moved an amendment to prevent the disfranchisement of non-resident land owners in the unorganized districts. Lost.

Mr. MEREDITH moved to simplify the procedure in election cases. Lost.

Mr. MEREDITH moved that there might be a recount even with a greater majority than 50. Lost.

BRIBING BY RAILWAY PASSES.

Mr. CLANCY moved to add to the list of corrupt practices the furnishing or providing railway tickets or passes free of charge for the conveyances of voters to or from the polls.

Mr. MOWAT actually assented to the prevention of this form of corruption.

This most iniquitous measure to legalize fraud and corruption was then read a third time and passed.

THE BRIBERY PLOT.

Mr. FRASER moved, seconded by Mr. Mowat an address for a commission of three judges, one at least to be a superior court judge, to investigate the charges of bribery and conspiracy, and matters relating to, or affecting, the same under R.S.O. chapt. 17.

SHIELDING BURDEN AND PATULLO.

Mr. HARDY, on Tuesday, just before prorogation, brought down a return showing in detail all claims brought before Commissioners Burded and Patullo.

PROROGATION.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor came down with the usual ceremonies and prorogued the House and assented to the bills passed.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

His HONOUR then read the speech put into his mouth by Mowat & Co.

The first clause expressed appreciation of the labours of the House.

The second congratulated the late and present Governors-General.

The third expressed gratification at the reference of the boundary question to the Privy Council, a policy stolen by Mr. Mowat from the Conservatives.

The fourth expressed their satisfaction with the Act to legalize corruption.

The fifth acceded to the enquiry into the Mowat bribery plot.

The sixth referred to sanitary legislation.

The seventh to the Factory Act, also adopted from the Conservatives.

The eight to the liquor laws, also borrowed from the Conservatives, except the direct taxation of the municipalities to provide funds for the extravagance of Mowat & Co.

The ninth congratulated the country on the formation of a Provincial debt.

The tenth referred to educational legislation.

The eleventh to weeds and diseases of fruit trees.

The twelfth to municipal and private legislation.

The thirteenth was thanks for money voted and falsehoods about pretended economy.

The fourteenth was complimentary to the House.

The House was then prorogued.

TORONTO NOTES.

THE BAY.—The water in the bay is steadily rising and bids fair to be higher than for years past. Parties owning houses in certain parts of the Island are becoming very solicitous for their safety, as there is a strong probability of their being flooded.

BOUND FOR THE WEST.—The first settlers' excursion of the season over the Credit Valley railway left the Union Station at 1.30 on Tuesday afternoon. About fifty farmers and farm hands and their families availed themselves of the cheap rates afforded. The route will be over the Credit Valley railway to St. Thomas, Canada Southern and Chicago, and thence by the Milwaukee and St. Paul and Northern Pacific road. Accompanying the excursion were Messrs. Hughes and Gallaway, of the Credit Valley, and Mr. W. W. Heafford, of the Milwaukee and St. Paul railway.

THE MAYOR IN OTTAWA.—During his stay in Ottawa the Mayor, accompanied by ex-Mayor McMurrich, waited on the Governor-General to request his presence at the semi-centennial celebration in June. It is thought, however, that his Excellency will have business in the Lower Provinces about that date which will demand his close attention. Acting on a request by Col. Otter, the Mayor also interviewed the Minister of Marine with a view to securing, if possible, the establishment of a life-boat station at the new fort, to be manned by the garrison. He states that the result of the interview was satisfactory.

RELIEF OF HUMBER SUFFERERS.—As far as can be learned nothing definite has yet come out of the negotiations going on between the city and G.T.R. authorities, as to the amount agreed to be paid over by the latter to the Hum-Relief Committee for the families of the killed. It is hoped by the committee that the Grand Trunk people will eventually agree to the terms set before them. The sum of $116.25 in subscriptions was received from Messrs. Booth Bros. to be added to the relief fund. The total fund now amounts to $13,894.45.

SUICIDE AT THE HOUSE OF PROVIDENCE.—An old Frenchman named Gautemanche, who was admitted to the House of Providence some months ago, suffering from frozen feet, committed suicide on Tuesday. One of the sisters while walking in the yard on the south side of the building was horror-struck to find the body of the old man lying in the walk. An alarm was sounded, and a number of the sisters and patients rushed to the scene. The head and upper portion of the body was lying in a pool of blood, while a terrible gash across the throat, extending almost from ear to ear, told plainly enough the cause of death. A razor with which the wound was inflicted lay close to the body.

General Grant Again.

The Tribune's Washington special says it is rumoured that Grant may re-appear as a presidential candidate. It is asserted that quiet influences are being exerted on his behalf with the understanding that his name shall not be used unless it become manifest that Logan cannot be nominated.

One way of Looking at It.

A country laird, at his death, left his property in equal shares to his two sons, who continued to live amicably together for many years. At length one said to the other, "Tam, we're getting auld now; you'll tak' a wife, and when I dee you'll get my share of the grund." "Na, John, you're the youngest and maist active; you'll tak' a wife, and when I dee you'll get my share." "Oh, Tam," said John, "that's just the way wi' you; when there's ony fash or trouble, not a thing you'll do at a' "—Harper's Magazine.

THE HUDSON BAY ROUTE.

We have more than once expressed our opinion in favor of opening the Hudson's Bay route, but it seemed to us that there were two obstacles to be faced; one was the necessity for a thorough survey of those comparatively little known waters, and the other the difficulties of finding profitable employment for the vessels on this route, out of the short navigable season. The first difficulty is being met by the action of the Macdonald Administration, who are providing for the surveys. The second difficulty, we are glad to see, is also in a fair way of being solved. A correspondent from Newfoundland to the Montreal Gazette suggests that the fleet of steam sealers from that Island, which are built expressly for navigation in icy seas, and which, having completed their sealing operations, are generally laid up for the season before the Hudson Bay opens, would be available for this route. This apparently meets the case exactly, and such a solution of the difficulty would be very satisfactory. Our great North-West will need ere long every available outlet, and its people need not think that Old Canada is grudging them any such accommodation. There will be ample patronage for all the routes, and the whole Dominion will gain from the prosperity of this important portion of it.

"BIG PUSH."

We are sometimes asked what is the meaning of the words "big push," which Mr. Mowat's friends and the modern sham Reformers are so fond of using. The expression occurred in a letter written by the great head of the Reform party, the late Hon. George Brown, and we will describe it, not in our own words, but in those used from the Bench by Mr. Justice Wilson, who tried the case. The Judge said:—

"It is an admission that the writer and those co-operating with him had expended their strength in other constituencies for the like purpose. It is a letter written for a corrupt purpose, to interfere with the freedom of elections. It is an invitation to the recipient as one with some others and the writer to concur in committing the offence of bribery and corruption at the polls."

THE MOWAT PLOT.

Spying Upon the Conservatives—A Private Detective of Mowat Government Committing Perjury.

The investigation in the bribery and conspiracy case was resumed in the Police Court on Tuesday.

THE MACPHERSON LETTER.

The Hon. ALEX. MORRIS, M.P.P., who was called evidently solely for annoyance, proved that the letter promising to recommend the appointment of Mr. Wilkinson as sheriff at Edmonton, and the envelope enclosing it were in the handwriting of the Hon. Mr. Macpherson, Minister of the Interior. The writing of the endorsement he did not recognize.

MOWAT SPIES AGAIN.

He had no conversation with defendants on the timber limit policy, but the party had discussed it in caucus. Their meetings were held as for the last two years in the library of the Mail office, as they found when they met over the assembly room that they were spied upon. No persons but members were present at the caucus.

ANOTHER PERJURER.

Detective Murray, the missing lawyer of the informations turned up. It appears that he has committed perjury, having sworn to a variety of circumstances of which he had to admit he knew nothing. He gave informer McKim as his authority for one statement, and then took refuge in refusals to answer. He swore that he was a private detective in the pay of the Mowat Government, and then at the bidding of Mr. Fenton he withdrew this piece of testimony.

We will give the last two questions and answers.

Q.—Do you know it of your own knowledge.
A.—I do not.
Q.—And yet you have sworn to it? A.—Yes.

This concluded the evidence and the arguments of counsel were reserved for a future day.

Careless Officials

The Sandwich authorities are queer kind of people, and evidently do not care whether they capture O'Callaghan, the murderer, or not. The Toronto police authorities have not yet been officially informed that a murder was committed in Sandwich jail, neither have they received any description whatever of the murderer, who may be now rambling about the city streets.

INFORMER MCKIM:

An Atmosphere of Forgery Clinging Round Mowat's Chief Spy and Procurer.

A case arising out of the failure of Robert Mckim, the notorious M.P.P. for West Wellington, came up at the Civil Assize Court at Toronto before Chief Justice Hagarty and jury on Monday. The plaintiffs were the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who brought an action to recover the amount of a note made by McKim and endorsed by the defendant, one Anthony Jordan, an illiterate farmer residing in that constituency. McKim having many years ago done a favour for him, the defendant on several orcasions endorsed notes for him. When McKim's failure took place, Jordan found that he was liable for the amount of the note under dispute. It did not contain his signature, for he could not write, but what was called his mark was attached to it. The defendant denied having placed his mark on the note. His counsel, Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., in addressing the jury, urged that a forgery had been committed, and called attention to the fact that the cross, which was put as the defendant's mark was bold and defined. Such a mark, he contended, could not have been made by a hard-working farmer, as was the defendant, who never handled a pen. His Lordship gave several questions to the jury, and on their answers judgment will be entered for the plaintiff. Mr. J. K. Kerr, Q.C., for the plaintiff, and Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., and James Muir, of Fergus, for defendant.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, March 25.—Osman's camp is twenty miles from Suakin. Graham will attack him on Thursday and afterwards endeavor to reach Sinkat. Osman tells his followers that he has a charm rendering English bullets harmless.

GRAHAM PREPARING FOR A BATTLE.

Gen. Graham has ordered the concentration of the British forces at Handouk and Otad, prior to marching out Thursday morning to give Osman Digma battle near Tamanieb. Osman has four thousand combatants. All the leading sheikhs continue their adherence to him. The report of the scouts that Osman had fled is discredited.

FRIENDLY OVERTURES REJECTED.

Gen Graham's messenger sent to ask the Sheiks to come to the British camp returned with the reply from Osman that the sword was the only medium of communication between himself and the English. A Cabinet council to-day decided to give Gen. Graham discretion to march to Berber, if necessary, to keep the route clear.

GORDON SURROUNDED AT KHARTOUM.

A report from Khartoum, dated March 16, says Gordon had repulsed an attack upon the camp at Omdurman. He was surrounded by rebels, and intended to force his way at the head of his troops along the bank of the Nile to Shendy. He proposed to begin his advance on the 18th.

BRITISH TROOPS SUFFERING FROM THE HEAT.

The English troops marched eleven miles today. The heat was intense. Twenty-five per cent. fell out of the ranks, and many were sunstruck. The rear of the column resembled a routed army. The men are marching without rifles.

EL MAHDI'S FOLLOWERS RESTLESS.

El Mahdi's people are becoming restless, and will not consider him a true prophet unless he attacks Khartoum.

A PUBLIC PARK.

To the Editor of The Review.

SIR,—Kindly allow me once more to call attention to the necessity of having a public park in our town. In a very short time we will be breathing and enjoying the summer's refreshing air, and be subject to the intensity of heat, and therefore a step in the above direction would indeed be very advisable. The matter has been considerably talked over some time since, but nothing tangible has resulted. What an enjoyment it would be to our citizens to have a resort of this kind in the evening when fatigued with the heat of the day, and there will undoubtedly be ample time from this to do what will be necessary to that end, and I trust that those of our enterprising and influential citizens will no longer let their thoughts and expressions sink into oblivion, but put them into practice by the adoption of the above.

Yours, etc.,
CIVIS.

Peterborough, March 27, 1884.

A HINT TO THE ARMY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I was much grieved while attending the meeting of the Saved Army in the Opera House to observe a great many (who certainly should have known better), making fun and keeping anything but good order while the Army were singing during the evening. This was my first visit, but it only required a very few minutes to convince me that one individual was the sole cause of these outbursts of "fun." There is a gentleman who attends these Army meetings who has anything but a pleasing voice—in fact it is not like any other musical voice I have ever heard—who sings very loudly and very slow. This is all very well, so far as said individual is concerned, but those listening do not form favorable opinions of his musical abilities or vocal talent especially. It is unnecessary to say more, as everyone who attends the meetings is thoroughly acquainted with the circumstances, and, no doubt, will endorse what I say. Now, if the Army officers want better order—and they certainly can have it—let some of them give this gentleman a gentle, but nevertheless, emphatic hint to sing (if he sings at all) a little more piano and not so much double forte, and the result will manifest itself in a decidedly short time, and prevent the "scoffers" from finding anything to laugh and jeer at.

Yours, etc.,
March 27th, 1884. CITIZEN.

An Arraignment of the Government.

At the inaugural banquet of the City Conservative Club held this week Lord Cranbrook said that since the late Government had been driven from office there had been no peace. The present Government had incurred much bloodguiltiness. The House of Lords would not shrink from rejecting the Franchise bill and appealing to the people from a discredited and decaying Commons. Lord Randolph Churchill said the House of Lords was the political sheet anchor of the nation. The House of Commons was in its last gasp. The nation was impatient to end its agony. Whatever the Government touched was spoiled. It was due to the Tories alone that Ireland was still part of the kingdom, that the highway to India was still in British hands, and that the House of Commons was undefiled by obscene Atheism. He declared the liberty of England was endangered by grinding and tyrannical demagogy.

Shooting a Sleeping Wife.

BROOKLYN, March. 25.—George Russell, an ex-letter carrier, this morning shot his wife while she was asleep in bed, and then fired two shots into his own head. Mrs. Russell kept boarders, and any little attention shown to them always aroused her husband's jealously and a quarrel followed. It is thought his mind was unsound. The woman will probably recover, but Russell will die.

Railways Through the Pyrenees.

The French and Spanish Commissioners, who have been in session at the historical castle of Henry IV., in Pau, have not been able to come to a definite arrangement as to the points through which the Pyrenees should be pierced for the constructions of the two projected international railways. The French representatives appear to be disposed to accept the line via Catfranc, instead of that via Roncal, originally proposed by them; but they insist of the other line going via Salute, to which route the Spanish military outhorities are opposed. The commission has adjoined until May, in order to allow of further discussion of this important question.—Madrid Despatch to the London Times.

Floods in the South.

NEW ORLEANS, March 25.—The Mississipp river has risen slightly the last few days, but fair weather has dissipated the panicky feeling that prevailed last week, and no anxiety is felt for the safety of the city.

Despatches were received to-day from Louisiana stating that the Mississippi had broken over most of the levees, and Government aid was necessary to prevent the people from starving.

The outlook at many points along the river is gloomy. People are preparing for an overflow equal to that of 1882. The loss will be heavy, and the suffering great.

WEST MITCHELL, Iowa, March 25.—Vanderpoel's woollen factory was swep away by the floods yesterday. Loss $90,000.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Congressman King has received a despatch from Rodney, Miss., saying that the Kempe levee gave way to-day. This makes the disaster complete, and the Mississipi valley one vast inland sea. This will make the loss beyond calculation, to say nothing of the loss of life and the suffering of the people.

Mowat's Unfairness.

Although we are not of those who say that Sheriff Iler should be dismissed in consequence of the murder of Leech and the escape of O'Callagan, we hope the sad affair will teach the Mowat Government that they should be a little more honest and manly than they showed themselves to be in the dismissal of Sheriff McEwan. Mr. McEwan was held responsible for the escape of Phipps and dismissed in consequence. The Review contended that they were doing wrong. They should not have dismissed him for any such reason. The escape would have occurred if Inspector O'Reilly himself had been sheriff. But the place was wanted for a supporter, and the Sheriff had to make way. Phipps and Greenwood had only a few pieces of steel to escape with and they murdered no one in getting away, while O'Callaghan had a revolver and murdered the jailer. The sheriff was also away from home, a circumstance which, in all fairness, ought not to weigh against him, but the Government having established a precedent, how are they going to justify themselves and excuse Mr. Iler? The unfair treatment accorded Sheriff McEwan is made more manifest than ever by the different treatment accorded Mr. Iler.—Essex Review.

The Shrinkage of Wood.

There is but very little material that keeps the same size under all circumstances, says E. H. Davies, in the Architect and Building News. Metals shrink and expand—some very much more than others—according to change of temperature. Like metals, different woods vary much in shrinkage. But all woods of the same variety will shrink in size, in proportion to the amount of water or sap contained in the wood. One variety of wood may contain four times the quantity of sap and still not shrink near as much as others. Lumber sawed from trees growing on a side hill, or near the water, or on the south side of a grove, will shrink very irregularly. Some parts will shrink very much more than others, more particularly endways. The same is true with a tree that grows very much out of perpendicular. Suppose a tall tree was growing at an angle of 45 deg., the tree itself being perfectly straight, as soon as the tree was cut down it would partially assume the shape of a rainbow. Nearly all lumber shrinks more or less endways. Some lumber will shrink on one side and expand on the other as soon as it is sawed. This is very noticeable in sawing lumber from logs. For instance, the first board sawed from a log may be longer than the log, or vice versa, according to which side the sawing was commenced. It is also very noticeable in ripping up lumber; some times, when the saw gets well into the board, it begins to pinch and has to be wedged, but after the saw gets nearly through the cut, begins to open. It is doubtful if there is any lumber known that shrinks as much endways as redwood. That wood shrinks on an average ¼ of an inch in 12 feet; but there are cases when it is four times that amount.

Purely Vegetable.

First the bud, then the blossom, then the perfect fruit. These are the several stages of several of the most important ingredients composing the painless and sure corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. The juices of plants greatly concentrated and purified, gums and balsams in harmonious union, all combined, give the grand results. Putnam's Extractor makes no sore spot, does not lay a man up for a week, but goes on quietly doing its work until a perfect cure results. Beware of acid substitutes.

McGregor's Speedy Cure.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without any advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the market, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to John McKee's drug store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar.

This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

A FAVORITE EVERYWHERE.—Wherever introduced Hagyard's Yellow Oil finds friends. It is the old reliable household remedy for external and internal use in all aches, pains, lameness and soreness of the flesh. A. L. Geen, a prominent druggist of Belleville, says: "It is a great favorite here, and has a good sale."

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.—A little son of John Spinks, Toronto, had his foot crushed by a G. T. R. Express train some time ago. Two doctors attended him without benefit, and amputation was proposed, but Hagyard's Yellow Oil was tried, which give prompt relief and effected a speedy cure, even removing all stiffness of the joint.

Moved by Councillor McWILLIAMS, seconded by Councillor COX,—That the communication of Judge Dennistoun be received and that the Village Clerk furnish the necessary expense provided that no expense be incurred. Carried.

Moved by Councillor URQUHART, seconded by Councillor COX,—That the communication of Messrs. Gemmel & McKee be received and that this Council take no further action in the matter. Carried.

Moved by Councillor URQUHART, seconded by Councillor COX,—That By-law No 79 entitled a By-law to appoint a Clerk and Treasurer passed on March the 10th 1884, be and the same is hereby repealed and that the Corporation Seal be attached to this motion to give it the effect of a By-law. Carried.

Moved by Councillor McWILLIAMS, seconded by Councillor MOORE,—That this Council do now adjourn to meet at the call of the Reeve. Carried.

BONUS AGAIN.

The bonus question was on the tapis again at the Council meeting on Monday evening last. Messrs. Gemmell & McKee sent a communication to the Council declining to comply with the motion of the Council passed at a previous meeting. The Council decided to take no further action in the matter, so the question is considered definitely disposed of and settled. The sentiments of the freeholders of Lakefield are strongly opposed to bonuses. Our Council in this bonus business have reflected their sentiments as representatives of the people regardless of their own personal inclinations The Village of Lakefield is out of debt and seems determined to keep out.

MUD AND SLUSH.

Sleighing is done and the roads are in a very bad state. The remains of the heavy drifts in places make the roads almost impossible.

THE CRUISER.

We understand that Messrs. Wright and Eden will commence overhauling and repairing the steamer cruiser on Monday next, to be in readiness for the opening of navigation. It is expected that the Cruiser and Fairy will have a busy season's work during the ensuing summer.

FORESTERS.

An entertainment will be given by Court Lakefield, No. 43, in Union Hall on Thursday evening next, April 3rd, for Foresters' children. The entertainment will consist of magic lantern scenes, readings, music, &c. It is expected that the hall will be well filled with children, as Court Lakefield is the largest Society in Lakefield in point of numbers.

MASONIC MEETING.

The regular communication of Clementi Lodge of A. F. & A. M. will be held in the Masonic Hall, on Queen street, on Tuesday evening next, 1st April, at 7.30.

SAVED ARMY MEETING.

Capt. Willis and Lieut. Munt and a couple of others held a meeting in the P.C.A. Hall, Lakefield, on Monday evening last, under the auspices of the Saved Army. It is expected that another meeting will be held in the same place to-morrow (Friday) evening.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SHINGLES.—Mr. Chalmers has been having for the last few weeks a great demand for shingles for local trade, and has also shipped a great deal to Peterborough, Port Hope, Bowmanville and elsewhere. The quality is first-class cedar timber and well made. Since Mr. Coutermarche has run the mill, the demand for shingles has increased considerably.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.—Everything is in shape for going ahead when Spring opens for the commencement of the Burleigh locks, etc., is being done. The plant for drilling is being removed from Buckhorn. The ice house is filled with ice, and a large boarding house for the men is to be erected. These are the facts, notwithstanding reports to the contrary by our township of Smith Grit assessor when going his rounds telling the people that Burleigh locks was to be the next election dodge for the riding. He forgets how many election dodges have been carried on by the Mowat (never do anything wrong) Government, about the building of the dam here for two provincial elections, and they never did anything until the Ottawa Government took the entire control out of their grasp. And look at the business way things are now being done. We are going to have a fine new dam built here and also one at Lakefield, for which promptness they deserve credit.

AN OLD SETTLER GONE.—The Township of Smith lost one of its old settlers last week, viz: old Andrew Miller, who died at the age of 81 years. He came from Roxburghshire, Scotland, about thirty years ago. He was very well known in Peterborough over a quarter of a century ago, purchasing wheat for the late Mr. McDougall, of Baltimore. Your correspondent who comes from near his birth-place had many a long chat about the old sod. He was always present at the yearly gatherings of the Saint Andrew's Society in its infancy and would always reply to the toast of the "Heroes of Scotland" with great delight. Andrew was well posted in Scottish history, and made always a capital speech. He was Scotch to the core. Of late years he has been very frail, but able to walk about a little up to the day before his death. The funeral, which took place from his son Andrew's residence, was largely attended. His remains were interred in Lakefield cemetery on Tuesday, the 18th inst., next to his wife, who died a good many years ago. He leaves two sons, James, who resides in Westminster, B. C., formerly of Peterborough, and Andrew, who has a farm about three miles from this place. The rest of his family are all dead.

THE STALLION "YOUNG CANADA."—The farmers from far and near are coming already with their mares to this well-known horse. Upwards of 12 mares are already booked for this season, the owners having tried other horses last season and failed getting foals. When a farmer gets to know that a fine horse like Mr. Chalmers' raises such fine strong colts and successfully so every season they want no asking but come themselves. It will be placed on the same route as last year, so look out for the posters in time.

THE DAM.—Mr. Geo. Chalmers has concluded a bargain with Mr. Chas. Wynn, the contractor of the new dam to be erected here this spring to supply the timber and stone for the same.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Harvey Council met at the Clerk's office on the 20th March inst. Reeve and Councillors all present. After the usual routine, a petition was read from Arch. Wilson and 37 other ratepayers requesting the Council to divide School Section No. 3, Harvey, into two sections, as some of the children are living over five miles from the school house in said section. The Council decided to meet at the Town Hall on the last day of March, to hear and determine the matter. A By-law was passed, signed and numbered, appointing pathmasters, fence viewers, pound-keepers, deputy returning officers and road commissioners for the current year. The Clerk was instructed to notify the trustees, and also to post notices to the ratepayers, of the application from School Section No. 3, to divide said section into two sections. The Reeve was authorized and instructed to sell any timber or trees growing on road allowances within this township at his discretion. The Auditors Report was received and adopted and the Clerk instructed to procure one hundred printed copies of the same, in pamphlet form. A special grant of $16.00 was made to S.S. No. 6. The Reeve and Mr. McIlmoyl were instructed to view the 14th con. line and between lots 25 and 26 to locate a road, and report to the Council at their next meeting. Accounts passed and ordered to be paid, Hart & Co., $5.00, Pratt & Tracy, $5.00, Clerk expenses McGuires Bridge, $4.79, J. H. Thompson, Blanks & Stationary, $29.24, James Ingram, provisions furnished G. Reynard, $6.00, G. Oliver, attending land sale, $6.00 also attending T. V. Canal delegation to Ottawa, $6.00. Council adjourned to meet at Town Hall 31st of March, 1884.

DUMMER.

From Our Own Correspondent.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met in Warsaw on Saturday, March 15. All the members present. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. On motion it was resolved to pay 50 cents per week to the matron of the Protestant Home, Peterborough, from 1st January, 1884, as part pay for the keep of Peter Whitick, Asphodel and Otonabee to pay similar sums, said sum to be forwarded at end of each quarter by the Reeve, on notice from the matron that Peter Whitick is still in the Home. On motion the offer of A. F. Choate, Esq., was accepted to fill in with stone level with covering of present bridge in Warsaw, and cover with gravel, to be 15 feet wide on top, with railing on each side, from south side of mill race to a point 80 feet northward, for 80 cents a foot, running measure, the work to be completed by July 1st, 1884. On motion Council granted $15 to be spent on the boundary between Dummer and Douro, opposite lots 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, under P. Fitzpatrick, Com., provided Council of Douro grant for said boundary $10, as equivalent to the $10 Dummer has already spent, and $15, as equivalent to present appropriation. Orders were granted to the Reeve, for matron of Protestant Home, for keeping of P. Whitick, $6.50; A. L. Davis & Co., Stationery account, $1.40. The following by-laws were passed:—One to appoint pathmaster, poundkeepers and fence-viewers. The by-law relating to poundkeepers was amended by changing the signature of the reeve and date, and adding a clause requiring pound-keepers to make a return by the 15th January in each year for the year then last past; of the names of the parties whose animals were impounded; number of stallions, other horses, breachy cows or oxen, bulls, boars and rams impounded, with the amount of fines collected in each case. Council adjourned to meet in Warsaw on 10th May next.

Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a speciality of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required in nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarilly be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

LOCAL NEWS

Mails Closing.

In consequence of the flood on the "Missing Link," the mails are closed for Toronto at 6.30 a.m., and 4.30 p.m; for Port Hope at 10.30 a.m., and 7.30 p.m., until the line is again open.

The Railway Time Table.

Until further notice the passenger trains for Toronto will leave Peterborough as follows:—No. 2, Express, at 7.00 a.m.; No. 38, Mixed, at 11.15 a.m.; No. 4, Mail, at 4.00 p.m.

Fine Windows.

The windows in Mr. T. Kelly's store are always handsomely dressed, and just now they are unusually attractive. They are decorated with dress goods and laces, the sight of which would delight the heart of any lady.

Police News.

The succession of "blank records" at the Court were interrupted by a case for vagrancy on Wednesday, but they were commenced again this morning. There were six tramps in the cells last night.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Long Sessions.

Mr. Justice Cameron conducts the Assize Courts on the "good old plan." The Court opened on Tuesday at half-past nine o'clock, and the judge did not leave the bench until after 8 o'clock in the evening, not taking time to adjourn for lunch, as is usually due now. On Wednesday he did the same, and he, as well as those who were compelled to be in attendance, had a rather protracted fast.

The Saved Army.

The weather was unfavourable for a large attendance on Wednesday night, yet the Opera House was well filled. The Rev. Mr. Bennett officiated as the reader of the scriptures. Six or seven names were added to the list of converts. A meeting will be held in the Opera House as usual to-night, and a business meeting of the soldiers and those who have been assisting the army will probably be held on Friday night.

For a Perfect Fitting Tweed Mackintosh, try Andrew McNeil.

The New Drug Store.

We referred, in a previous notice, to many of the chief appointments in Mr. Morgan's drug store. Not the least attractive feature of the store is the manner in which the decorative work has been executed, and the pleasing effect which it gives. Mr. H. H. Watson had charge of this work and it was well done. The painting and paper hanging, when properly finished, adds much to the appearance of a place, and in this case it was done in a most satisfactory manner.

Through the Ice.

Mr. E. J. Hare, of Otonabee, had an uncomfortable and exciting experience on Tuesday afternoon. He was driving out on the ice on the Little Lake with a team and waggon for a load of ice, when the horse broke through. Mr. Hare got out of the waggon to assist the horses, and he also went through the ice. The waggon all except one wheel, was drawn in, and Mr. Hare made use of this wheel to hold himself up. Assistance arrived, and ropes were used to rescue the horses and get them to the shore, about fifty yards. The waggon and harness were left in the water. The horses were chilled, but prompt treatment brought them around. Mr. Hare, who was in the water about twenty minutes, had a very narrow escape indeed.

THE SPRING FRESHET

THE NEW HOTEL ON HUNTER STREET DESTROYED BY ITS EFFECTS.

The Foundation Gives Way and the Walls Fall Down—The Water in the Creek Higher than for Years, Causing Damage.

The water in the creek rose very rapidly during the last day or two. All day on Wednesday men were engaged in cutting the ice and moving it down the stream, in order to prevent a jam, to save the bridges and prevent a flood. However, their efforts could not prevent the tannery of Messrs. Paterson & Son from being flooded, and the vats were washed out and considerable damage done.

The ice jammed up under the bridge on Hunter street as it came down, and also under the new hotel on that street, built last year by Mr. R. Z. Rogers, of Grafton, and occupied by Mr. John Wilson. All Wednesday night men were at work trying to keep this place clear, but they had a difficult job. The water had flooded the agricultural warerooms of Messrs. J. Whyte & Co., and water is still deep on the floor of that building. Dynamite was used in breaking up the ice, in order that it would float away.

Fears were entertained of the effect the floods and ice would have on the hotel. This hotel was erected over the creek, and portions of the foundation were in the water. This forenoon a stick of timber came down the creek and lodged against a pier under the building. This pier had stood there for years, and was used as a support for the hotel. Ice accumulated in front of it and anchor ice raising added to the danger. Finally a large block came down and struck against it. This was more than it could stand, and the pier gave way. Mr. Wilson had taken the alarm and he and his family had vacated the hotel, but they had no time to take out the furniture before the walls began to fall. About half the building, the west end, fell down, a portion of the brick sinking into the creek.

Another building which was between the Hotel and Mr. Laplante's carriage shop, and united to both, also gave way, and the upper part of it fell down. The upper story of this building was occupied by Mr. John Halpin, who had a large amount of furniture destroyed. It belonged to the hotel building.

When the building began to give way the fire alarm was sounded to call out the firemen to render assistance. The hook and ladder truck was first taken to the scene, and afterwards, as it was feared that a fire might arise from the stoves, the fire engine was brought out and held in readiness. The stoves, however, were got out of the building. The firemen responded promptly to the call and rendered valuable assistance.

The eastern part of the hotel did not fall down, although it is in a precarious condition, and men entered it and took out the furniture, &c. Some articles were also rescued from the debris of the fallen portion in a damaged condition. This part is still standing.

The building was valued at about $5,000. Mr. Wilson had about $2,000 worth of furniture in the hotel, and a large portion of it was destroyed in the building, while the portion that was taken out was greatly damaged. His loss will be heavy.

The Brock street bridge and the bridge in Mr. Paterson's yard are in danger, and strenuous efforts are being made to prevent an ice jam that would damage them.

The yards and buildings north of Brock street, on Bethune and Aylmer streets, which were flooded on Tuesday night, are still covered with water. No person has yet, so far as we have learned, been compelled to leave their premises, although the streets are under water.

At Port Hope some damage was caused by high water, and the large Midland Railway bridge at Beamish's pond was moved eighteen inches out of its position on Wednesday night.

Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

The German Anti-Social Law.

The Emperor William on his birthday received the President of the Reichstag and expressed great displeasure at the fate of the anti-social laws. He recalled the attempts which had been made on his own life, and said the object of the law was to ensure quiet, the means of securing which were defective.

THE ASSIZES.

The Business Concluded on the Third Day of the Session.

Cochrane vs. Dumble.—Irwin Cochrane, of Douro, being heavily involved, his land being offered for sale under a mortgage given to the Hamilton Provident and Loan Society, and his chattels seized under executions and chattel mortgages, resolved to abandon his farm and property. He, it was contended for the defence, instructed his solicitor, the late D. G. Hatton, to cause his chattel property to be sold by public auction, the proceeds to be applied to the payment of certain creditors. Mr. Stapleton, auctioneer, accordingly sold the chattel property, the Hamilton Loan Company selling the land. Mr. Stapleton having paid over some of the proceeds derived from the sale of the goods to be applied in the payment of a debt for which Mr. Hatton was security, and in payment of a claim of one of Mr. Dumble's clients, Cochrane, after Mr. Hatton's death, brought an action against Stapleton and Dumble for selling more than the legal process in Mr. Stapleton's hands justified. The question left to the jury was whether the sale was with Cochrane's consent. The jury, after being out several hours, failed to agree, and were discharged by the judge.—Mr. E. A. Peck for the plaintiff; Mr. C. A. Weller for the defendant.

Stewart vs. Bradburn.—This was an action for dower on the west half of lot one in the eighth concession of North Monaghan. The husband of the plaintiff, Charles Stewart, sold the land in question in 1883, his wife not joining to bar the dower and refusing to do so. Last year, after an interval of fifty years, Mr. Stewart died, and Mrs. Stewart, after having waited patiently for half a century, asked Mr. Bradburn for the dower. It was set up in defence, 1st, that her husband never owned the land; 2nd, that she was never married to Mr. Stewart; 3rd, that at the time her husband sold the land, if he ever owned it, it was in a state of nature. The plaintiff, a lively old lady of nearly 80 years of age, proved that she was married to Mr. Stewart by the Rev. Mr. Armour, father of the present judge, in Bailey's tavern, which stood where Mr. Cluxton's block now is, in Peterborough, and at the time of her marriage about 25 acres of the land was cleared and under cultivation. Her husband's title to the land was also proven. An early companion of Mrs. Stewart's childhood, now over 70 years of age, who was married a year before Mrs. Stewart and was present at her wedding, also proved the marriage, and an active old man named Patterson, also over 70 years of age, who had lived on the east half of this lot, proved the clearance and improvement at the time Mr. Stewart sold. Some technical objections were raised, which the judge took time to consider, and the services of the jury were not required. Mr. D. W. Dumble for plaintiff; Mr. C. A. Weller for defendant.

This concluded the business of the Court, the session having lasted three days.

RECEIVED HIS REWARD.

INFORMER DOWLING is the first of the rascally gang of spies and crimps employed by Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, who has received his hire for his sneaking and dishonest services. On the last night of the session his equally dishonest employers passed an act to retain him in his seat, and avowed that they were legislating for that purpose, though two of the judges have found him personally guilty of corrupt practices and incidentally of perjury, for he denied committing these acts.

It may be a question whether Mowat & Co. corruptly forced this corrupt man upon the constituency he misrepresents, to purchase his support or to pay him for his dirty work. From his own evidence it appears that he hunted and begged for bribes, with his fellow-informer McKim as introducer; that he abused his party for not contributing to his corruption fund; that he paraded "letters from home" to show his heavy pecuniary sacrifices; and according to one of his contradictory statements he actually received a bribe to desert his party. It is probable, then, that he had determined to "rat," and had to be purchased by this legislation.

On the other hand, after the affair became known, we find that he ran to the Ministry and placed himself at their disposal; that by their instructions he approached several gentlemen and vainly endeavoured to tempt them into the commission of corrupt acts or what could be interpreted as connivance with them. This corrupt legislation to seat him in defiance of the judges may therefore have been a reward for prostituting himself to this dirty work.

But whether bribe to purchase him or reward for his iniquity he is the first of the conspirators to secure the stipulated favour.

Who will be the next of the gang, McKim, Balfour, Lyon or Cascaden? We will probably soon see.

ANOTHER PLOTTER CAUGHT.

One of the Mowat Tools for the Algoma Fradulent Election.

It is satisfactory to learn that another of the "Reform" conspirators has now been brought to book. He was not a party to the bribery conspiracy, but to the first plot to disfranchise the Conservatives of Algoma, to call attention from which was the chief motive of the leading culprits in devising the second or bribery plot. This is what the independent Toronto World of March 26th, says of the incident to which we refer:—

"For some time past the petitioners in the Algoma election case have been endeavoring to find A. W. Thompson who was returning officer at the late election. That gentleman was yesterday at the Walker House on his way back from Montreal and was carefully examining the time table to see how many minutes he had to spare to catch a train for home when an officer stepped up and served the necessary papers on him. Mr. Thompson is now kicking himself for not having gone straight home, especially as he has a week to stay in the city for his examination and was only paid $1 on his subpœna."

A Law For Wife Beaters.

The Legislature of the State of Massachusetts has just adopted a law ordaining that wife beaters shall be flogged by the keeper of the House of Correction in the county where the offence is committed. The question is asked whether it would not be proper to make severe laws in Canada on this sort of crimes, which have become very frequent these last few years.—L'Evenement.

TORONTO NOTES.

NEW LODGE OF ODDFELLOWS.—A New lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows will be instituted in the Oddfellows' hall, at the corner of Queen and Berkeley streets, on Monday afternoon next. It will be known as Wilton Lodge, No. 242.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday morning the first drowning accident of the season occurred in the River Don. Until nine o'clock last night the name of the victim was unknown, but from information then received there is hardly room for doubt that Frederick Anister is the name of the unfortunate man.

ONE FOR THE NORTH-WEST.—The following telegram from Mr. J. L. Smellie, Bin Scarth, near Fort Ellice, N. W. T., was received yesterday by the Commissioners of the Scottish, Ontario, and Manitoba Land Company, Toronto: —"Five acres wheat sown here yesterday. Land in good order. Can you beat this in Ontario?

Summer Horse Races.

The racing circuit will begin at Montreal on June 15th, then comes Ottawa, Belleville and Kingston, three days and $1,500 at each place.

Captured by Indians.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 26.—Information has just been received of the capture of a Dakota prospector near Turtle Mountain by a band of Indians two weeks ago for a money ransom, and refused to let him notify anyone except his wife, who is in Dayton. A letter from her to her son in Fargo revealed the fact of the capture. A party of pursuers started from Grand Forks, but the Indians fled fifty miles into the mountains and threatened to kill the prisoner if the pursuit was not abandoned.

Criticising the Salvation Army.

The Congregationalists of the West had a meeting in London the other day. The Salvation Army came up for discussion, and Rev. Thos. Hall, of Kingston, Superintendent of Missions, is reported as saying of it that "sacred things were turned into jest, and he did not believe there was any religion about the Army. He said the whole thing was a farce and an institution of the devil, antagonistic to the Church of Christ, and the harm it did outbalanced the good."

Sportsmen in Council.

The sportsmen of Ontario held their second annual convention in the Council Chamber at the City Hall, Toronto, on Wednesday night, Mayor Boswell occuping the chair. A number of lovers of the rod and gun from various parts of the Province were present, and some important amendments to the game laws were submitted to the meeting and unanimously endorsed. King Dodds spoke in favor of the formation of county game and fish protective societies, and Dr. McCully, of Hamilton, favored a Provincial association. It was resolved that the Toronto Gun Club should try and take steps in the direction of the latter suggestion by holding a meeting during the semi-centennial celebration. The club were also requested to select a deputation to submit the proposed amendments in the law to the Government.

A Curious Coincidence.

About the first of last month a bachelor farmer up in Arizona advertised in a San Francisco paper for a wife. He received a number of replies, one of which pleased him exactly. She said she was employed in a dry goods store. Without unnecessary delay he posted off to San Francisco, going direct to the store. The lady was brought before him, but declared she never knew him. He presented her letter, and she blushingly pleaded guilty to having written it. They met at her home that evening, and ten days afterwards were married and left for their little home up in Arizona. The next week he took her down to Alameda to show her to his brother. To the utter amazement of all it was found that his brother's wife and his were sisters.

Ontario Emigration to Manitoba.

DETROIT, March 27.—Thirty-two car loads of Canadian immigrants' effects, incuding three car loads of live stock, started westward yesterday over the Michigan Central for Dakota and Manitoba. Two of the twelve destined for Dakota were picked up at St. Thomas, five at Springfield, one at Tilsonburg, and four at Kingsmill. Of eleven en route to Manitoba, one was taken on at Strathroy, two at Woodstock, one at Ingersoll, two at Tilsonburg, one at Elgra, one at Bothwell, one at Stayner, and two at St. Thomas. Thirty-five passenger went on this train, 20 for Dakota and 15 for Manitoba. Two coach loads of the same body of immigrants left last night over the Michigan Central, with four cars of immigrants' effects off the Erie and Huron railway and three from Woodslee. One for Dakota and 34 for Manitoba went over the Michigan Central yesterday.

Salvini as "Othello."

Those who witnessed Mr. Chas. Wyndham's representation of "Othello," in Peterborough some weeks ago, may be interested in the following criticism from the London Times upon Signor Salvini's attempt to pourtray that character:

"Now, as at first, Signor Salvini's embodiment of the character will be generally conceded to be the grandest known to the modern stage, full of dignity, nobility, and tenderness, and at the same time marked by fierce jealousy of the sensual stamp which Schlegel supposes to belong to burning climes, and which Coleridge strangely enough appears to have considered foreign to Othello's nature. Yet in spite of this southern fire, what appears to have been the great fault of Edmund Keen's conception, as it has been a Mr. Irving's—namely, a constant verging upon extravagance or the being too uniformly on the rack, is here absent. With the fiercest out bursts of passion there is in this performance an ever-present sense of repose, conveying an impression of power not otherwise, it would seem, attainable. The realistic scene of the strangulation of Desdemona and of Othello's death, Signor Salvini has not sensibly modified. It remains the most thrilling tragedy to be seen on the stage, without the mad struggle for life or the barbarous ferocity which Fletcher was wont to introduce."

TAMANIEB TAKEN.

LONDON, March 27—A Suakin despatch states that the British advanced to-day to Tamanieb and burned the village. The Arabs fled. Firing opened at half-past seven, and was brisk upon both sides. The rebels were in larger numbers than yesterday. The English cavalry and mounted infantry led the attack, and drove the rebels from the rocks, dispersing them among the hills. There were no British casualties. The loss of the rebels is unknown. General Graham will explore the region in the neighbourhood of Tamanieb wells, and will then return with his entire force to Suakin. The campaign is practically ended.

THE ENGLISH FRANCHISE BILL.

LONDON, March 28.—The debate on the Franchise bill was resumed in the House last evening. Mr. Chamberlain, President of the Board of Trade, declared it was the fixed and unanimous intention of the Government to include Ireland in the bill. If the Lords reject the bill, he said, let the nation decide between them and the Government. He had no fear of the result.

RUSSIAN POLICY IN POLAND.

WARSAW, March 27.—General Gourko, Governor-General, recently convened the principal Polish officials, and gave notice the Czar meant there should be no energetic Russification of Poland. Gourko gave instructions for the formation of a Russian literary society and the establishment of a National Russian theatre at Warsaw. The society is granted a subvention of 50,000 roubles yearly by the Russian Government.

PARTY LINES IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, March 27.—Political parties are preparing for a general election. The Munich Gazette declares that the electors will find themselves between these alternatives—to support either the law or the partisans of the Socialists. The Government hopes to arouse among the German people a Conservative movement analogous to that of 1878, after the attack on the Emperor's life.

DUBLIN, Match 27.— Parnell expects his party to carry 75 seats at the next general election. Candidates will be required to give a pledge that they will sit, act, and vote with the Irish party or resign.

NIHILISM IN RUSSIA.

BERLIN, March 27.—The Berlin Germania says there is much confusion and consternation among the Russian police at the discovery made since the murder of Col. Soudaikin, that besides the ordinary police cypher, Soudaikin used various cyphers for different sections of the organization of secret agents in Russia and throughout Europe. These keys have been stolen or lost, and it is impossible for the Government to know or verify the identity of the agents. It is feared the Nihilists hold the key to the cypher.

The Toronto Dog Show.

The dog show under the auspices of the Dominion Kennel Club was opened on Wednesday in the Pavillion of the Horticultural Gardens, and is the best yet held by the Association. The total number of canines on exhibition is 462, and it may be stated that 80 entries were refused, as they were not received in time. The building is crammed full of dogs, which range in size from the tiny toy terrier to the monstrous mastiff. The space in the main hall proving altogether inadequate to accommodate all the animals, the inside entrance was pressed into the service. There are ten rows of kennels in the main hall, extending from the stage to the outside doors. At the west end of the hall the toy dogs are to be seen, snugly ensconced in pretty little cages. They have been well looked after by their owners, as in many cases the sides of the boxes have been softly padded, and the small forms of the pets are covered with elegantly embroidered blankets. The stage has been reserved by the judges. The census of the inhabitants of the kennels was taken, with the following result:—Setters, 75; Collies, 40; Pointers, 25; Mastiffs, 20; Spaniels, 75; St. Bernard's 15; Hounds, 50; Newfoundlands, 15; Terriers, 115; Bulldogs and terriers, 15; Miscellaneous, 17.

LEGALIZING FRAUD AND CORRUPTION.

Mr. Mowat's colleagues and supporters in the Provincial Legislature seem to have lost all sense of shame. The proceedings on the last night of the session were more disgraceful than anything that we can remember in the history of representatives legislatures. We have excepted Mr. Mowat from the particular charge of being lost to all sense of shame, for he certainly seemed to be cowed by the weight of his shameful position; refusing to accept as a government measure the disgraceful legislation put into the hands of a private member; refusing to speak at all till repeatedly challenged and then bungling through some apologetic phrases.

At the very last hours of the session, these sham Reformers introduced and passed through the House legislation to override judicial decisions and to reward and secure the future services of fellow conspirators and convicted criminals. They did not even condescend to conceal the baseness of these acts under misleading generalities as in the Streams Bill robbery. They openly avowed that Dowling, the informer and personally corrupt candidate—that Apjohn, the perjured deputy returning officer and fraudulent withholder of Conservative votes, were especially intended to benefit by this white-washing legislation. Glorying in their iniquity they boasted of using their majority in the legislature in favour of these men, thus rewarding them for their partisan crimes.

It will be remembered that Dowling was charged with personally corrupting some of the electors of Renfrew. It was impudently pretended during this infamous session that having been tried and acquitted he should not be put on trial a second time. But the fact was that he was convicted, that both judges declared that he was guilty of corrupt practices, disqualifying a candidate from sitting in the Legislature, holding any office or even exercising the franchise. The only point of disagreement was that one of the two judges took a lenient view and was in favour of not entorcing the penalty under a clause allowing such a discretion, but the other judge refused to concur in thus mitigating the penalty of Dowling's corrupt acts. It is this man, branded with personal corruption by two of our judges, that they wish to legislate into the House without even hearing an appeal as to the extent of the punishment to be inflicted, as to which point alone the judges differ.

As to Apjohn, his case is as simple. He was appointed deputy-returning officer at Rat Portage to carry out the Mowat plot of disfranchising Conservatives. He fulfilled his part of the conspiracy by refusing perfectly good Conservative ballots, while he accepted Reform votes of the same character and under similar circumstances. For this corrupt breach of his sworn duty he was mulcted in a heavy sum by the judge who tried the case. The dishonest argument was used in the House that the deputy-returning officers should not be compelled to take bad votes, and it was insinuated that the refused votes were bad. Far from this being the case the penalty was only exacted from Apjohn in the instances where the votes were proved good, and he escaped punishment for one refusal, not because the vote was bad, but because there was room for a doubt on the subject. It is true that the case already decided against Apjohn was exempted from the operations of this new law to encourage fraud at elections, but there are other cases against him—there are similar charges against others, and the House has intervened to over-ride the judiciary in these cases.

What a disgrace that a Legislature should thus openly protect from the courts and reward men guilty of such crimes.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

An Annonymous Petition—A Railway Subsidy Wanted—A Debate on the Total Prohibition of all Intoxicating Liquors.

VIVA VOCE RESIGNATION.

Mr. Methot on Wednesday read his resignation as a member and withdrew.

Mr. H. Langevin expressed the regret of the House at the loss of Mr. Methot.

AN UNSIGNED PETITION.

Sir H. Langevin in reply to Mr. Wilson said a petition to enquire into the conduct of Judge Hughes had been received, but it was unsigned. It had been returned to the sender, and no action would be taken on an unsigned document.

APPOINTMENT AT BRANDON.

Sir. L. Tilley in reply to Mr. Sutherland said that a petition for the appointment of Mr. E. Clementi-Smith at Brandon, as examiner under the Public Lands Act had been received, but as yet there was no decision.

Sir H. Langevin gave a similar answer to the same gentleman as to a petition for public offices at Brandon.

A RAILWAY SUBSIDY.

Sir C. Tupper in reply to Mr. Blake, said the Government had no knowledge of a telegram from Mr. Temple, M.P. to Mr. Beckwith of Fredericton, N.B., and that the decision as to the subsidy was not dependent upon the withdrawal of the petition against Mr. Temple.

PROHIBITION.

Mr. Thos. White (Cardwell) resumed the discussion on Mr. Foster's resolution, in favor of the prohibition of intoxicating liquors. From the experience of the Scott Act which had been adopted in some counties and rejected in others, it was fair to assume that public opinion was not yet ripe for total prohibition, though there was a wide-spread feeling in favor of it. He thought they could not go wrong if they followed the example of one who had been a leading advocate of temperance in that House, Mr. G. W. Ross, and therefore he would move an amendment in the words by adding:—

"And this house is prepared, so soon as public sentiment will sufficiently sustain a stringent measure, to promote such legislation, so far as the same is within the competency of the Parliament of Canada."

The amendment was carried.

Mr. Beaty advocated the prohibition of strong spirits, permitting beer and light wine, which he thought was going as far as public opinion would justify. He thought this would be an important step. It would be necessary to compensate those who were now licensed.

Mr. Cameron (Victoria) was opposed to compulsory prohibition as an undue interference. He thought the Scott Act were adopted had not proved beneficial, as it discouraged the use of beer in favour of more portable spirits. He would discourage the use of spirits and encourage the use of beer in their place, in the first place because it was better and in the second place because it would benefit our farmers who grew the barley from which the malt was made, while whisky was made from Indian corn from the States.

Mr. Jamieson thought the time had come for prohibition, but would not refuse compensation. All attempt at regulating the traffic had failed.

Mr. Foster supported his resolution. In forty counties and cities where the Scott Act had been submitted, it had been adopted in thirty-three. The liquor trade gave employment to about 11,000 people while its consumption injured more or less 4,000,000, so the greatest good to the greatest number should prevail.

Mr. Kirk though the amendment that had been passed had emasculated the resolution.

Mr. Scriver expressed his dissatisfaction with the resolution as it stood.

Mr. Robertson (Shelburne) moved, seconded by Mr. Kirk,—that the following words be added:—

"And this House is of opinion that the public sentiment of the people of Canada calls for immediate legislation to that end."

This amendment was put and was negatived by 109 to 55.

Sir L. Tilley said he had never voted against the principle of prohibition, and he never would. In 1875 he had introduced and carried in the New Brunswick Legislature the most stringent prohibition measure. But though three-fourths of the people had petitioned for it, and it was carried by a two-third majority it was repealed. Some magistrates had to pay the cost owing to their decision being reversed on appeal for informalities. The Lieutenant-Governor insisted upon an appeal to the country, and at the new election there was a majority for the repeal, very many abandoning their previously expressed opinions. This convinced him that there was no use in passing such legislation until public sentiment was ready to sustain it. He believed in prohibition, and had voted for the amendment because he believed that it would injure the cause of prohibition to enact it before public opinion would sustain it. He would give up the revenue to-morrow and would undertake to provide ways and means to make up the deficiency if public opinion was ripe for the change. He had written to Mr. Ross at the time of the Montreal prohibition convention that it was useless to enact prohibition by less than three-fifths of the vote cast, otherwise there might be an injurious failure. He believed the best course was to submit the Scott Act in localities where public opinion was sufficiently favorable to ensure its enforcement, and thus to educate the people. He could not consequently maintain that public opinion in Canada was sufficiently in favor of prohibition for it to be enforced so enacting it at present would injure the cause, though he believed a better day would come. He voted as he considered he should for the true interests of temperance.

Mr. Irvine said that New Brunswick had changed its mind on other questions besides prohibition. He thought there was now a strong feeling in favour of it.

The resolution as amended was carried by 122 to 40.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

A cavalry reconnoissance ascertained that Osman Digma's force, whose number is uncertain, holds the rugged and rising ground at the end of the valley where the village of Tamanieb is situated. If Osman fights at all, it is expected a battle will not take place until Friday morning.

THE EXPEDITION TO BERBER DROPPED.

Owing to the intense heat and bad water Gen. Graham intends to limit his march to clearing the valley of Tamanieb. The proposed cavalry expedition to Berber has been dropped. Three hundred Arabs have joined the British camp, but the leading sheikhs, excepting Morghani, keep aloof.

STRONG POSITION OF THE ENEMY.

The rebels hold a strong position. Only infantry can be used against them. Their number is estimated at 3,000. They have plenty of camels. The scarcity of water has caused the death of 40 camels and rendered 80 unfit for work. During the march the officers frequently ordered laggards to double their pace, threatening that otherwise they would be court-martialled.

ANOTHER OF THE GANG.

Informer Cascaden's Record—A Nice Friend and Tool of Mr. Mowat's.

The following is an extract from a report headed "Cascaden Libel Suits," which appeared in the St. Thomas Journal of March 19th, 1880:—

"The libel case in which Mr. John Campbell, of this town, is defendant involves charges of forgery, adultery, and murder.

"Mr. Campbell freely admits that he said publicly and privately that Dr. Cascaden was a forger and adulterer, and while he denies that he was a murderer, he admits that he said, 'Dr. Cascaden murdered his wife by inches.' The truth of these charges he maintains and offers to prove in court, and he declines to make excuse, apology, or amend for having used the words or made the damaging charges public. Of course the M. P. P. for West Elgin will proceed to trial against Mr. Campbell without further delay. In this case distinguished counsel, Warren Rock, Esq., Q. C., of London, and A. Bethune, Esq., Q. C., of Toronto, are retained by the plaintiff. Mr. Glen, a talented young barrister of this town, conducts the defence for Mr. Campbell. We should have stated that the adultery count, originally part of the above case, is now struck out. After the pleadings were filed for trial at the last assizes application was made to the court in Toronto on behalf of the plaintiff for permission to Dr. Cascaden to go on trial without being obliged to enquire into the adultery charges at all. The court granted that permission on condition that the expenses incurred on both sides that far in connection with the adultery count should be paid up. Only the forgery and the murder charges will therefore be subject of trial at the coming assizes."

In connection with the same suits the London Daily Free Press of March 31st, 1880, has the following:—

"Mr. Campbell and Dr. Cascaden had married sisters, and Mr. Campbell, claiming to know something of the inside life of his brother-in-law opposed him, no doubt conscientiously, and certainly most vigorously. Dr. Cascaden alleges that this opposition was so great that Mr. Campbell called him (the plaintiff), a "whore-monger," accused him of poisoning his wife, murder, &c. The plaintiff filed his declaration, and defendant pleaded not guilty in response, but in defence specifying cases of criminal connection with married women and "sundry squaws."

The Confidential Scoundrel.

According to the evidence of the man McKim he has been in the position of confidential scoundrew to Mr. Mowat's colleagues ever since the month of January. During the many weeks that elapsed he was endeavoring to entrap various people into an infraction of the law, and was cordially aided in that debasing occupation by the so-called leaders of the "Reform" party. The very confession thus made enables the public to form a true estimate of the moral status of this unwholesome fraternity. One proper object of all honest men undoubtedly is to dissuade from and prevent the commission of crime of any kind. But in this bribery matter at Toronto an opposite course has been taken by those who have assumed the duty of guarding the general good. Such an exhibition of degrading immorality has never before been presented to the people. All the nefarious arts and inducements that could be resorted to were employed in order to tempt Kirkland and Wilkinson to do something which could be construed into an infraction of the law. McKim went frequently to Kirkland and to others offering to seduce his political friends for money. He offered his black-hearted services to entrap these brother members of the Legislature whom he thought, or his fellow conspirators suggested, might be willing to swerve from the path of rectitude. Such is a true epitome of the proceedings of McKim, backed up by Messrs. Fraser and Pardee. Be offered himself to Kirkland. He offered himself to Wilkinson. He offered himself to Bunting—all with the same object. The suggestions that he made were criminal in themselves. But were made doubly so by his receiving money, as he says, as payment for the corrupt services he volunteered to his employers. It is to such a degrading condition that the Grits have reduced the public affairs of this Province.—London Free Press.

Molly Maguires.

Port Richmond, Pa., March 26.—A number of notorious outlaws, who are supposed to be in league with the Molly Maguires that find refuge in this section, have formed an oath-bound brotherhood, and under the guidance of black listed miners formerly employed in Monoghela valley, will visit the disturbed sections of the coal fields in Western Pennsylvania to perpetrate a series of Molly Maguires outrages. Among them are several desperate men who are believed to be fugitive murderers and conspirators. They will be vigilantly shadowed by members of the detective corps employed by the coal and railroad companies.

NORWOOD.

From our own Correspondent.

EARLY START.—Mr. Alford has commenced operations on the school building. The bricklaying was begun on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Alford expects to have a good summer's work.

KINGSTON.

DR. WILSON'S DISMISSAL.—The dismissal of Dr. Wilson from his position as curate of St. George's Cathedral, because of his connection with the Salvation Army, is still excity the sympathy of many of the congregation. A meeting of members of the congregation was held in St. George's Hall on Monday evening. It was decided to call a public meeting of the congregation next week to consider the results of the late clerical difficulty. It is said that every effort will be made to have Dr. Wilson replaced.

HASTINGS.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.—On Saturday evening some boys thoughtlessly set off some fire crackers near the Coughlin House, frightening a span of horses which were standing in fron of the hotel, and they started on a galop down the street. Mrs. James Edington was the only occupant of the vehicle, to which the horses were attached at the time, and managing to get hold of the lines pluckily held on, and brought the terrified animals to a stand still before they had proceeded very far. If the thoughtless youngsters were punished it would deter them from indulging in such dangerous pastimes.

CAPTURED.—Three young men were arrested one day last week somewhere along the line of the Grand Trunk for breaking into a car. On being searched, amongst a variety of articles found, including revolvers, bunches of keys, etc., there happened to be a grocer's paper bag with Cobain Bro's., name printed thereon, and an odd glove. Naturally concluding that the rascals had passed through here, the detective visited Mr. Cobain on Thursday and the fact of the glove found on the car breakers matching the one found in Mr. Cobain's the morning after the burglary of their store proved pretty clearly that the party now in custody are the ones who made so free with Cobain's crackers, sardines, porter and brandy.—Star.

BELLEVILLE.

THE LATE MRS. MOYNES.—A body supposed to be that of the late Mrs. Moynes floated down the river at Belleville on Tuesday afternoon.

EXPECTED ARRIVAL.—One hundred and twenty boys and girls from Scotland will arrive at the Marchmont Home, Belleville, about the middle of April.

THE ICE.—The ice in the river at Belleville broke up on Tuesday and passed without doing any serious damage. A part of Bleecher's dam was torn out and some cellars were flooded. The water is slowly falling.

ATTEMPTED OUTRAGE.—On the morning of the 15th two ruffians entered the house of Charles King, in the township of Marmora, took him out of bed, choked him, and endeavoured to outrage Mrs. King. The woman managed to get away from them, and ran in her night dress to the house of Mr. McKenzie, a neighbor. The men followed her but beat a retreat on McKenzie presenting a gun threatening to shoot them. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Benjamin Hobgon, one of Mrs. King's assailants.

SALE OF FARM LANDS.—The Shell River Colonization Company sold 640 of farming lands for $4,480 an average of $7 per acres.

THE ROADS.—The roads are very bab for travel at present. When the Madoc stage reached the city it consisted of one horse, a cutter, one passenger (the driver) and a mail bag.—Daily Ontario.

THE FERRIES.—The Ontario Government has granted another license for the upper ferry route.

HOME OF THE FRIENDLESS.—The Belleville Home of the Friendless has been placed on the list of institutions receiving aid from the Provincial Government.

CHANCERY SITTINGS.—The Chancery Sittings at Belleville opened on Wednesday afternoon before Mr. Justice Ferguson. Some of the cases are likely to be interesting.

APSLEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHEESE FACTORY.—An adjourned meeting on this subject was held in the Town Hall on the 22nd March. Present—Rev. P. Harding, Dr. Grant, James Golborne and D. Anderson, Esquires, and many of the leading inhabitants, but nothing was decided upon. It appears that it would not pay to hire a manager unless 70 cows were guaranteed, and as some of the larger farmers hold back that number was not reached. Surely this is a very short-sighted policy. It is quite too late in the day to speak of the profits of these establishments, and men who have their 6 or 8 or 10 cows deprive themselves of certain and good profits, and are wanting in public spirit in not helping forward such an undertaking. But Apsley was always backward, and probably will continue so till a new generation springs up.

CHANDOS CHURCH.—Mr. James Tanner has presented two handsome sedilia to the chancel of this Church. They are made entirely by by hand out of solid blocks of white maple. It must have required much hard work, patience and skill to convert unshapely blocks of such hard wood into ornamental and useful articles of furniture suitable as they are for so sacred a place.

MEDICAL.—The newly arrived doctor has not come any too soon. He had scarcely more than hung up his hat at the parsonage, where he is a guest, when a patient called upon him, and the passing in and out of cutters is evidence that a resident medical man was much wanted. We understane Dr. Grant is a M.R.C.P. & S. We wish he may see it to his advantage to stay here.

COMMERCIAL.—Friend John Biggs, of Peterborough, informs us that he has done a good stroke of business this winter. He has found the people thriving and cheerful, and ready to invest freely in the many articles of luxury and necessity which he drives about the country with.

How U. S. Manufacturers Pay Our Duties

The following extract from the independent Montreal Star gives another instance of a practice by which the United States manufacturers often arrange to pay our customs duties:

"No doubt all will be interested to learn that Mr. R. Hehusley, the well known watchmaker of St. Joseph street, has just signed a contract for the sale of the celebrated Waltham watches, the terms of which give him a special rebate equal to the Government import duty, the advantage of which he is determined to give his customers, thereby practically giving them free trade in watches. By this arrangement the evading of duty by individuals or traders will no longer be profitable. We are sure the above fact has only to be known to insure a large sale

THE CHAIN IS BROKEN.

Lines written on the death of Florence Hall; who died March 19th, 1884, aged 9 years and 4 months.

Silent lies the little sleeper
With the lilies on her breast;
Yonder kiss, or burst of weeping
May not stir her perfect rest.

Closed these sweet blue eyes for ever
On this changeful scene below;
Never on that polished forehead
Care shall trace one line of woe.

Never more shall blast of winter
Rudely move her flaxen hair,
Never shall those waxen fingers
Close on aught that is not fair.

Gone where endless summer smileth,
Gone where all the air is love;
Mother, in the Saviour's bosom
Nestles now your snow-white dove.

To that Ark of Peace she fluttered
From the storm, and wind and rain
Surely for her feet, the fowler
Now may spread his nets in vain.

O'er the limit of sweet safety
Never can her free wing rove,
For her joy's immense horizon
Stretches far as boundless love.

Oh, the grave is but a casket
Where we place our jewels rare,
And whose key our tender Father
Keepeth in His holy care

Till the day of festal gladness,
Till the Lamb's sweet bridal morn,
When on radiant brow and bosom
Every jewel must be worn.

Then our treasures swift unlocking,
He will every gem restore,
Touching each with peerless lustre
Time may never tarnish more.

Then your pearl that dropped so lately
From its fragile setting here,
And you laid aside so sadly,
Blinded by the falling tear,

Ye shall find a light encircled,
Pure and precious, spotless gem,
Through eternal years to glisten
In your fadeless diadem.

The Spirometer.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

LOCAL NEWS

Police News.

There was the usual report this morning—a blank at the court, and a number of tramps (six) in the cells last night.

Lecture.

The Rev. T. W. Paterson, Toronto, will deliver a lecture on "A Tour in the Holy Land," illustrated by dissolving views, in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Tuesday evening next.

The Freshet.

The water in the creek is lower to-day than it was yesterday afternoon. Messrs. Whyte & Co's. ware-rooms are now free from water, but Messrs. Paterson & Son's tannery is flooded yet.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Light to Moderate winds, fine weather, stationary or higher temperature.

The Fallen Building.

At a meeting of a committee of the Town Council on Thursday afternoon it was decided to pay a portion of the expense of clearing the street and creek of the debris of the fallen hotel on Hunter street. Men commenced work at once to clear the wreck.

To prevent you appearing rough,
Just buy a Lansdowne Cuff,
At A. McNeil's.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

The Musical Event.

The musical event of the season will be the Grand Concert under the auspices of the Peterborough Cricket Club, on 17th of April, in which the fifteen year old musical wonder Miss Lenora Clench, and Mrs. Chambers, Miss Howden (Millbrook), Miss Edmison, Miss Cluxton, and Messrs. Porteous & Elliott, are to take part; and also Mr. Haggart an excellent elocutionist. Miss Clench was the first solo violinist at the Great German Liedertafel, in Cleveland last year.

A Fall Into the Creek.

On Thursday afternoon a man named John O'Donnell fell into the creek. He was standing on the platform in the rear of the fallen hotel, and fell off it into the water. A stick of timber that had floated down and was stuck across the creek checked the force of the current. O'Donnell swam down a short distance and got out. He appeared to be none the worse, except that he was not dry, but it was an unpleasant experience and a rather narrow escape. A boy also fell into the water off the bridge at Mr. Paterson's tannery, but he was got out easily.

Scotch Boys for Canada.

A party of 120 boys will leave Glasgow on the 28th of March for Canada, via Halifax, arriving at the Marchmont Home, Belleville, about the second week in April. Farmers who want a boy to help with light chores about the house and barn would find one of these active, intelligent little lads exceedingly useful, and with good training they would soon become quite a help with the stock and on the farm. The ages vary from 6 to 13 years, a good age for those who wish to adopt them as their own. All applications should be accompanied by a minister's reference and addressed to Miss Bilborough, Marchmont Home, Belleville, Ont.

For a real Handsome Tie,
That will take a pretty Girl's eye,

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.

A Son of Capt. Dion Perishes in the Waters of the Creek.

A sad drowning accident occurred on Thursday evening in the creek, when John Dion, eldest son of Mr. Leon Dion, captain of the steamer "Golden Eye," fell into the water and lost his life.

Several boys were playing about the creek at the Sherbrook street bridge, at about six o'clock among whom were Johnnie Dion, a son of Mr. Joseph McClelland, and a son of Mr. A. Gillespie. Some persons were catching wood as it floated down the creek with pike poles at the bridge on King street, and one of them dropped a pole into the water.

The boys at the bridge below saw the pole, and the unfortunate lad who was drowned tried to catch it. An old pier, partly burned, stands in the water at the head of the slide under the bridge, and the boy tried to reach the pole from this. He took hold of the boards on the pier with one hand and reached out with the other. Mr. McClelland's son thinks that he placed one foot on a piece of ice, but as he could not see plainly he is not sure of that. At any rate his foot slipped, and his hold on the end of the board on the pier giving way he fell into the water.

The current at this place was very strong. The pier is on the east side of the creek, and the water struck it and turned out into the main body going over the slide. A person falling into the water at that place might have a chance to catch hold of the pier, unless he fell in head foremost, as this unfortunate boy did, and then they would be so quickly swept into the slide that there would be no opportunity to secure a hold of anything.

The boys we have mentioned ran to help the lad, but they could give him no assistance. They were both young, Mr. McClelland's son son being 13 years old, and Mr. Gillespie's 11. Mr. McClelland's son saw the boy rise to the top of the water as he ran to help him, but he sank again and he saw him no more. Some men who saw the accident from the King street bridge ran around, but they were too late.

The water over the slide is quite deep and the current is powerful. Where the water falls off the slide and passes over rocks it is lashed into foam for yards. The creek enters Spalding's Bay two streets further down, and the water then passes into the Little Lake.

Search was at once made for the body, but all attempts to recover it have so far been without avail. The bay was nearly all covered with ice. A number of men are engaged to-day in continuing the search.

The unfortunate lad was thirteen years of age. He was a bright little fellow, and a favorite with his companions. His parents will receive sympathy from all who hear of their sad and sudden bereavement.

Turnips.

Another supply of turnips at Carton Bros.

"Good Luck."

We would draw the attention of the reader to the neat advertisement of the City Clothing Store in another column. The new sign of this store is shown, and its significence is explained by the motto, "Good luck to all who enter here." Mr. LeBrun's Spring Stock is now complete, and good bargains as well as "good luck," may be secured by entering there.

What Says Bird?

The Mail says that Dave Bennett has deposited $25 in the hands of Frank Martin, to be covered by Alberti, of Toronto, Bird, of Peterborough, or Elmsley, of Port Hope, if they want to meet him in a 5 to 25 mile race, to be run within two weeks of signing articles, for $50 or $100 a side. This offer stands good for a week, until Saturday, April 5.

A Bridge Washed Away.

A Grand Junction railway bridge over Meade's creek, about half a mile east of Ashburnham, was washed away by the swoollen waters on Thursday night or this morning. Conductor Morris' train from Peterborough met Conductor Stanton's from Belleville at this place this morning, and transhipped passengers and bag gage, each returning to the station from which he had started.

New Maple Syrup!

First of the season just to hand. Also choice Mixed Pickles and Tomato Catsup. The above is sold by the quart or gallon. Also, by the pound, evaporated Pumpkins. Raspberry, Plum, and Black Currant Jams. Fine Assorted Jellies, and other varieties too numerous to mention. Pure Apple Butter, try it. Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at Carton Bros., opposite the Market Square.

Personal.

It will be seen by our parliamentary report that the people of Brandon have petitioned for the appointment of Mr. Eugene Clementi-Smith to an office in connection with the Crown Lands.

Mr. John Costello, brother of Mr. D. Costello, of Young's Point, who is now residing at Lead City, Dakota Territory, is, we are glad to hear, succeeding very well there. He has a mill employed in crushing the gold bearing quartz that brings him in an average of $6 a day, and the yield is likely to continue.

A Sixteen Century Sawmill.

In the year 1555 the Bishop of Ely, being Ambassador from Princess Mary of England, to the Court of Rome, observed a saw mill in the neighborhood of Lyons. He describes it as being driven by an upright wheel, "and the water that makes it go is gathered whole in a narrow trough, which delivereth the same water to the wheel. This wheel hath a piece of timber put to the axletree end like the handle of a brooch and fastened to the end of the saw which, being turned with the force of water, hoisteth up and down the saw, that it continually eateth in; and the handle of the same is kept in a rigall of wood from swerving. Also the timber lieth as if it were upon a ladder, which is brought by little and little to the saw with another device." Such is the description given of a saw mill at that early date.

STRAY SHOTS

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

There was an immense attendance at the meeting on Thursday evening.

The Rev. J. W. Butcher and the Rev. W. Joliffe took part in the exercises.

The officers of the Army stated that they had been informed that some young men had indulged in card playing at a meeting. They prayed for the young men.

A meeting for those anxious about their spiritual welfare was held after the public meeting was over, and a large number remained.

Eight or nine persons went forward to the penitent bench.

The Army's list of converts now includes nearly 270 names.

There will be a meeting in the Opera House to-night.

The Herald says that the Army will open fire at Campbellford at no distant day.

Capt. Willis has received an invitation to send officers of the Army to attack Port Perry and Prince Albert. The invitation was sent by a clergyman, who states that the town hall could be secured to hold meetings in.

A meeting will be held at Ladefield this evening.

SANITARY REFORM.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—"Civis" in yesterday's Review advocates the necessity for a public park in the vicinity of the town. For my part I am much more impressed with the great need of proper and liberal drainage for our principal streets. Without this an epidemic will some day, perhaps not far distant, ravage this place in the way that many another town has suffered, through the neglect of its municipal guardians.

We are in but a rural place, and it is not at all difficult for those who desire it to find pure country air and pleasant resorts without going to a public park. There are many who would never resort there, while the whole inhabitants of Peterborough have at times to submit to the vile odors, bad water, impure atmosphere and deadly vapours that are beyond all question the result of the want of proper sewerage. The Town Council have a great responsibility resting on them in this respect, and should at once face the inevitable that must force itself upon them at no distant day. I fear that those who are agitating a park have quite overlooked what I have called attention to, or they would allow the park to remain in abeyance until a more needful improvement was supplied.

Yours, &c.,
W. H. MOORE.

Expulsion of Rats.

A writer in Chamber's Journal relates his experience in ridding his house of rats. He first tried the well-known remedy of pouring tar into the entrance of their holes, and also of placing broken glass by their holes, but neither remedy did he find effective. But bound to get rid of the rat nuisance, if such a thing was possible, he tried another well-known remedy, which proved more satisfactory. He caught a couple of large rats in a trap alive, and then besmeared them all over, except their heads, with tar, and let them loose in their favourite run. But he says:—"I could not follow these two tar-besmeared rats into their numerous runs to see what would happen; but it is reasonable to assume that they either called together all the members of their community, and by their crestfallen appearance gave their comrades silent indications of the misfortunes which had so suddenly befallen them, or that they frightened their brethren away, for they one and all forsook the place and fled. The experiment was eminently successful. From that day, in 1875, till now, 1884, my house, ancient though it is, has been entirely free from rats, and I believe there is no remedy equal to this one."

Is it Proof you Want.

No one can doubt the great merit of Polson's Nerviline, for it has been placed in the market in 10 cent bottles, just to give you the opportunity of testing its wonderful power over all kind of pain. This is the best evidence of its efficiency, for every person can try for himself. Polson's Nerviline is a positive (it cannot fail) cure for cramps, headache, colds, neuralgia, and the host of pains that flesh is heir to. Good to take, good to rub. Go to Ormand & Walsh's drug store and buy a bottle.

A new process of bleaching is alleged to have been invented in Boston, which not only effects a great saving of material compared with the old method, but reduces the time required for the process, which has hitherto occupied from a week to ten days, to a few hours.

Sick or Nervous Headaches are easily and certainly cured with Zopess. It stimulates the Liver and Stomach to action, thus relieving the head; on the same principle it purifies the Blood and the Urine. A 75 cent bottle of Zopess may save you much suffering and many dollars. Ask J. D. Tully.

Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

to get the testimony of the multitude who have used The Shaker Blood Syrup for spring debility, langnor, lassitude, and that general feeling of stupidity, weariness and exhaustion which everyone feels during this season, we should be able to present to our readers such an overwhelmming mass commendatory messages, that the few who have not tried it would do so at once. It is a positive fact, and has been so effectually demonstrated that no one to-day denies it, that The Shaker Blood Syrup contains more real medical value than any article now before the public. Hundreds, in spite of their prejudices, are taking The Shaker Blood Syrup, and now honestly declare it to be the best medicine ever offered to the public; and they are quite right, and this sentiment must and will extend just as far as people will allow themselves to be influenced by facts and by the testimony of those people who have tried it and know whereof they speak. In presenting The Shaker Blood Syrup to the public we suffer, because the people have been so often humbugged by the weak decoctions with which the country is filled. It is often difficult to make people believe what an advertisement says, because of the evil influence produced by those unreliable, worthless preparations. It is true that honest people are constantly suffering from the effects of dishonesty, and this will probably always be so, but it does not require any remarkable ability to see how the real worth of The Shaker Blood Syrup impresses itself upon people. Our reputation rests upon the value of this medicine, and we are proud of the record it is making. Ormond & Walsh, Druggists, Agents for Peterborough.

Five Good Live Agents to Sell the Genuine Singer Sewing Machines.

WE CHALLENGE ANY SEWING MACHINE before the public to equal the IMPROVED SINGER, our New High Arm and Light Running and almost noiseless Family Sewing Machine just being introduced.

For range of work, perfection of stitch, and ease of operation, it possesses the following advantages over all other Sewing Machines:—

1st. Uses the shortest needle of any Lock Stitch Machine.

2nd. Carries a finer needle with a given size thread.

3rd. Uses a greater number of sizes of thread with one size needle.

4th. Will close a seam tighter with linen thread than any other Maching will with silk.

5th. The shuttle holds the most thread.

6th. Draws the needle thread both down and up while the needle is out of the goods, therefore there is less friction on the needle and thread, consequently tighter and more elastic seam.

7th. It has a positive feed that will not choke in sewing any material.

8th. Sews faster and with less noise than any other shuttle machine.

9th. Will sew a greater number of sizes of thread without change of tension.

10. Will not change tension when sewing with a short or long stitch at varying speed.

FOR FAMILY SEWING IT IS SUPERIOR TO ALL. No one should buy a Sewing Machine without first seeing and trying a Singer.

In addition to our large variety of Family Machines, we also have a full line of Machines for both heavy and light manufacturing purposes, of any description whatever, and run up to 2,000 stitches per minute.

Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, MARCH 29, 1884.

PRINCE LEOPOLD.

PRINCE LEOPOLD, the youngest son of Her Majesty the Queen, died suddenly at Cannes, in France, on Friday morning.

Blameless in his life; studious in disposition; and keenly active in originating and furthering schemes for the progress and culture of the nation, the Duke of Albany was deservedly and universally popular.

His courteousness also, combined at the same time with a certain natural and pleasing independence of thought and action, at once endeared him to all classes.

Canada will ever remember the brief visit his Royal Highness paid to this country in the summer of 1880, when through his affability and the deep interest he evinced in Canada and Canadians gained him wide-spread respect.

The young prince had not attained his thirty-first birthday at the time of his death, and leaves behind him a widow (the Princess Helena, of Waldeck) and infant daughter.

Slight Railway Accident.

PORTLAND, March 27.—A Pullman train on the Maine Central railroad ran into a land slide near Yarmouth this morning. The engine, baggage, mail, and express cars were thrown from the track and badly wrecked. The passenger cars and sleepers remained on the track. Nobody was hurt.

A Mere Rumor.

The Great Western Division authorities know nothing of the rumor originated at Detroit regarding the proposed abandonment of the western section between London and Windsor, but regard it as improbable that a double track road, which is the favorite route with passengers, will be given up for the uncertainty of the Port Huron line.

The Financial Position of France.

At a meeting of the new Budget Committee of the Chamber of deputies in Paris M. Rouvier, chairman, said the finances were not in an alarming condition. The deficit was more apparent than real. Great vigilance, however, would be necessary, as it would be impossible to place any further taxes upon the people. The aim must be to increase the national resources by diminishing the expenses of several public offices.

Mothers, call at Turnbull's for Material to make your Boys' Suits. You will find some excellent goods at low prices.

The British Association.

The following are the President and Vice Presidents of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, which holds its 54th annual meeting in Montreal, commencing August 25:—

President, Right Hon. Lord Rayleigh, D. C. L, F. R. S, Prof. of Experimental Physics, Cambridge; Vice-Presidents, the Governor-General, Sir John Macdonald, Sir Lyon Playfair, Sir A. T. Galt, Sir Chas. Tupper, Sir Antome Dorion, Hon. Dr. Chauveau, Principal Dawson, Pr. of Ed. Frankland, Dr. W. H. Kingston, Dr. T. Sterry Hunt.

Railway Notes.

A general reduction of six to ten per cent. in the wages of Grand Trunk employees was announced yesterday at Portland, Maine. The men say they will strike if the reduction is insisted on.

It was reported at New York on Friday that the trunk line managers would meet to restore the old freight rate schedule. They desire to take advantage of the continuous decline in wheat, which promises a heavy shipping and export movement.

It is currently reported at Buffalo that official information had been received that the Grand Trunk authorities have withdrawn the Great Western division from the short line. The Wabash officials have had no notice that such is the case, but anticipate withdrawal at an early day. The Wabash people are looking forward to the extension of the Credit Valley to Detroit and to Buffalo to make a connection with it, and in connection with the West Shore form a through line independent of the Grand Trunk.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Military Tents—Inspection of Gas—Adulteration of Food—Fomenting Sedition among Reformers in the Northwest.

TENTS.

Mr. SOMERVILLE (Brant) wanted information about military tents. He said that some were ornamental not military tents, and had been lent for picnics.

Mr. CARON said they were sample tents for military purposes, ordered on the recommendation of the departmental officers, and that they were not ornamental or picnic tents. The tents were in store, and the returns requested were on the table.

GAS.

Mr. BLAKE, in committee on the Gas Inspection Act, said that a new material was being used for making gas, which choked the pipes and diminished the force.

Mr. COSTIGAN promised to make enquiries. He introduced a new clause as to posting up the certificate of the illuminating power and purity of the gas.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT said that the poorer the light the more gas the metre recorded.

AN INTERCOLONIAL BRANCH.

Sir C. TUPPER moved the second reading of the Act for the purchase from Nova Scotia of the Eastern Extension and Picton branch of the Intercolonial Railway. These branches were estimated to pay expenses.

Mr. MCLELAN moved the second reading of the bill as to enquiries into shipwrecks.

FOOD ADULTERATION.

Mr. COSTIGAN moved the second reading of the bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs.

Mr. LESAGE in French strongly supported the bill.

Mr. MILLS said it was an invasion of Provincial rights.

THE NORTH-WEST.

Mr. CAMERON on the motion to go into Committee of Supply made an incendiary speech in which he gave his support to his handful of allies who are talking sedition in the Northwest. He concluded by moving an amendment to go into Committee to consider the condition, the complaints and the demands of Manitoba and the North West Territories with a view to devising a means of remedying any well-founded grievances and complying with any unreasonable demands.

Sir C. TUPPER said Mr. Cameron showed his insincerity by proposing his motion as a resolution of want of confidence. This self constituted champion of the North West intentionally moved his resolution in such a way as to compel a negative vote. His sole object was to excite and create discontent. His criticisms applied with far greater force to the late Ministry. The Reformers had systematically opposed the efforts of the Conservative administration to develop the North West by every means, and especially by the construction of a transcontinental railway. The Conservatives had staked their position and had lost in their endeavours to carry this out. Then the Reformers came in and the result of their policy was that as Sir Richard Cartwright declared the land there was not worth twenty-five cents an acre.

INQUIRIES AS TO SHIPWRECKS.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT denied this.

Sir C. TUPPER showed that the ex-Finance Minister had refused to consider the land worth 25 cents in the Foster contract. The legitimate demands of the people of Manitoba and the North-West had been carefully considered, and much that they asked had been granted.

Sir. R. CARTWRIGHT treated the House to a lesson in Billingsgate.

Mr. WATSON and Mr. MILLS supported the resolution.

Mr. MACKENZIE objected to the criticisms of Sir C. Tupper, and promised to reply on some future occasion when the state of his health allowed him.

After some observations by Sir C. Tupper the motion was negatived—yeas, 58; nays, 116.

Destructive Storms.

NASHVILLE, March 26.—Nashville and the northern part of Davidson county were visited by a destructive storm last evening. The damage is extensive.

LONDON, Ky., March 26.—A terrific cyclone passed near here and Pittsburg yesterday, carrying death and destruction in its train. At Pittsburg the Methodist church was raised and much other property damaged. Jno. Hailman, a brakesman, was blown from a car and had his neck broken. Three freight, two oil tanks, and a caboose were blown from the track, slightly injuring others. A cabin was blown down and Mrs. Broughton and two children killed. Col. Stringer had both his legs broken and was cut in the head. Mrs. Stringer had her hip smashed. Robert Riding's spinal column was broken and he was cut in the head. Sallie Goff was cut in the head. James Warren had two ribs broken and was wounded in the head. All these will probably die. A number were slightly wounded. Over 100 familes are homeless.

NEWTON, N.C., March 26.—A cyclone yesterday afternoon here utterly destroyed thirty houses and the Methodist church, killing one woman. Trees were blown a distance of two miles.

DAYTON, March 26.—At Oak Ridge yesterday everything was laid waste by the cyclone. Chas. Cowan was carried fifty yards and killed. Samuel Buckle's house was swept away and the whole family injured. The towns of Centre View and Spring Valley were also wrecked. In Dayton a number of sheds and unfinished houses were demolished.

"Hub" Cough Cure, 25 Cents.

Prescription of a Boston physician, dispensed years by a Boston Druggist. One dose will cure any ordinary cough. It acts almost magically Ask J. D. Tully for a 25 cent bottle of Hub Cough Cure.

IN the Connecticut House lately the bill giving women the right to vote on licenses was overwhelmingly defeated. The bill giving them the right to vote in school meetings was also rejected.

Is it Proof you Want?

No one can doubt the great merit of Polson's Nerviline, for it has been placed in the market in 10 cent bottles, just to give you the opportunity of testing its wonderful power over all kind of pain. This is the best evidence of its efficiency, for every person can try for himself. Polson's Nerviline is a positive (it cannot fail) cure for cramps, headache, colds, neuralgia, and the host of pains that flesh is heir to. Good to take, good to rub. The authorities at Cario considered that Osman Digma's retreat without a decisive battle leaves the opening of the Berber route unsettled. It is reported that Osman is at Mewaneh Hill a village five miles from Tamanieb, with several hundred adherents, chiefly from the Berber district. ## THE ONTARIO SESSION.

THE session of the Ontario Legislature is over and it cannot be said that the Administration has been idle; they have indeed been busily employed in checking by every possible dishonest device an enquiry into the plot by which they disfranchised Conservatives in Algoma and procured the return of a representative of the minority. They have latterly been busy also devising and carrying out a conspiracy to induce bribery in order to divert attention from the Algoma plot.

Neither can it be truthfully denied that some of their legislation has been good—for the reason that they have been indebted to the Conservatives for very much of it. First in this category is the Boundary Question and its reference to the Privy Council, for which Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have now legislated, owing to a little salutary pressure from Manitoba, though Mr. Meredith and his supporters have been vilified and termed traitors and robbers for advocating it, and it was refused with contempt to Sir John Macdonald who offered it many years ago. Then there is the liquor traffic, for which the Crook's Act was declared to be a perfect measure, though Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have now amended it almost out of recognition by adoptions from the Conservative Macarthy Act, so much abused by Reformers when it was passed. Then there is the Factory Act, imitated with some changes for the worse from the bill introduced by the Conservatives of Ottawa, following in the footsteps of the Conservatives of the mother land, who, in spite of "Liberal" opposition, long ago legislated for the protection of employees in factories and especially for women and children.

Among minor enactments due to Conservative initiation is the Act to allow second locations of free grant lands, borrowed from a provision of the much abused land policy of the Macdonald Administration for the North West. The Act to prevent railway companies from unfairly appropriating mining lands, was directly due to a Conservative member, for Mr. Mowat had refused to introduce such legislation, until Mr. Wood did so, when his measure, altered for the worse, was adopted. Even the iniquitous Act of the Promotion of corruption at elections, has one redeeming feature in the amendment accepted (after a previous refusal) from another Conservative member, Mr. Clancy, by which the supplying of free railway to convey voters to the polls is prohibited, thus putting a stop to a corrupt practice which reduced the Conservative majority in Peterborough, and wiped it out in Victoria and Northumberland.

On the other hand the past session has been signalized by some of the worst measures that ever disgraced a legislature. Ahead of them all in bad pre-eminence stands the measure to facilitate corruption at elections, with its clauses to give creatures of the administration power to disfranchise political opponents, to enable Mr. Mowat to select partisan tools, like the Algoma returning officer, to deprive intelligent Indians of the ballot because they voted for Conservatives, and above all to override judicial decisions. This it does by avowedly legislating informer Dowling into his seat in spite of the decision of the judges that he was guilty of corrupt practices, and by as impudently interfering with the Bench by shielding from the consequences of their frauds Apjohn and other culprits of the same kind, in suits already commenced against them. Then in the Streams Bill to enable Mr. Caldwell, their supporter, to rob Mr. McLaren, their opponent, there is another attack upon the judiciary, for that which they declare has never been the law is asserted by the bill to be and to have been the law. Another unworthy measure is that passed expressly to show contempt and animosity for the chosen leaders of the people of Canada by discriminating against those who may accept licenses from the Canadian authorities, a mere childish exhibition of impotent spite, for if the Dominion has no jurisdiction it will have no valid licenses to discriminate against, and if it has jurisdiction no such invidious distinction could become legal. As another monument of brass is the measure legalizing the commencement of a Provincial debt to find funds to satisfy the extravagant and corrupt expenditure of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, and to hide from careless eyes their dissipation of the surplus inherited from Mr. J. S. Macdonald, and their squandering of the real estate, which was a most important part of our public assets.

This is the legislative record of Mr. Mowat and his corruptly gained majority. We need only give a few words to recall their bullying tyranny when they could venture to show it, their cowardice when, as in the Parliamentary buildings matter, they dared not move without the help of their political opponents, and their gross dishonesty in the House and in the Committees in putting every obstacle in the way of an investigation of their disgraceful frauds by which they disfranchised the Conservatives of Algoma.

It is a black page in the history of Ontario, and it is to be hoped that we will not see another like it.

A FORGERY.

THE Brockville Recorder has the following remarks about the Minister of the Interior:—

"We don't mean to say Senator Macpherson would tell a lie. Oh, no! he may be a veritable George Washington for all we know, but we wish to place a sentence of his denial in the bribery business and a letter he wrote, side by side. Here they are:—

MACPHERSON'S STATEMENT.

The registry office at Regina is not vacant and yet two of Mr. Mowat's supporters were said to have been promised the office.

HIS LETTER.

OTTAWA, 1st Feb., 1884.

DEAR SIR,—I have made up my mind to recommend your appointment as Registrar at Regina, N.W.T. Yours, very truly,

(Sgd) D. L. MACPHERSON.

J. A. Wilkinson, Toronto.

This would have some force, but for the trifling inaccuracy of stating that Mr. Macpherson wrote this letter. It is a forgery, for he did not promise the Registrarship of Regina. The insinuation that a promise to Mr. Wilkinson to recommend his (your) appointment was placing Government patronage at his disposal for others is equally unjustifiable. It is being made in defiance of grammar and also of the truth, for the purpose of endeavouring to cast odium upon the Conservative Administration at Ottawa.

THE MOWAT PLOT.

Prying into Private Affairs—Hiding Correspondence of Public Officers.

The proceedings in the Toronto Police Court as to the bribery plot were resumed on Thursday.

ATTEMPTED SPYING.

Mr. DWIGHT, the General Manager of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, attended on a subpœna to produce telegrams sent by Mr. Bunting and Mr. Wilkinson to Ottawa since January 22nd or received by them. He, however, refused to produce these numerous telegrams in the interest of his company, which was bound to protect the privacy of its customers. He was forbidden to do so both by the Board and by the law. He said that many of them related to important business of a private character, and having nothing to do with the case.

Mr. IRVING, for the prosecution, intimated that these were the very telegrams that he would like to see.

Mr. DWIGHT flatly refused to let him do so.

The HON. WM. MACDOUGAL a director and legal adviser of the Telegraph Company, sustained Mr. Dwight in the position he took, and there was a long contest among the legal gentlemen without result.

HIDING THE ALGOMA FRAUDS.

Mr. MACDOUGALL in the course of this discussion asked the magistrate to note the fact that in the case of Plummer vs. Burden, in the Algoma election case, Chancellor Boyd refused to compel the Telegraph Company to produce the telegrams.

The Globe, after its fashion, omits this important point, because it shows that though it is now desired by the prosecucion to pay into Mr. Bunting's private business without restriction, the plotters used every means to hide official messages between public officers for fear that their criminal frauds should be divulged.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT.

Mr. FENTON, for the prosecution, after a time procured a Bueen's Bench subpœna tecum duces, which was served upon Mr. Dwight.

There was then an agreement to adjourn till next morning for Mr. Dwight to produce the telegrams.

NOT REWARDED YET.

Informer MCKIM was further cross-examined, bnt nothing of importance was elicited. He testified that he had not yet received an appointment or the offer of one.

INFORMER MCKIM AGAIN.

One of Mr. Mowat's Spies and Decoys a Common Swindler.

The Globe and Mr. Fraser should be made aware that Mr. McKim became a bankrupt last fall for upwards of $60,000, and that his victims were chiefly poor men and women unable to bear surh sacrifices. Mr. McKim went round borrowing from the widow and the orphan; the humble workingman and the frugal farmer—in fact from all who had a dollar to lend or a beast to sell on credit! Names if necessary. Thus the savings of a life time to meet the winter of old age were easily obtained from confiding dupes, and either lost or went into the pocket of this reckless borrower. Whatever may have happened, or bowever the money of the lenders disappeared, the result was all the same—creditors never saw their cash again. Mr. McKim bought up cattle on credit, boasting all the while of the large profits he was making by his speculations; and not only that, but our "patriot," in order that there should be no delay in the borrowing business, always had a bundle of notes ready signed by himself, which he is reported to have commissioned his son, the reputed Registrar of Dufferin, to carry to fools for the purpose of endorsation when required.

Audacity and human fatuity went much further; two men mortgaged their farms, one for $3,400, which along with $400 worth of cattle, he handed over to Mr. McKim; the other man did the same and is in Montana Territory endeavouring to earn sufficient to take his family from a home that has been desolated, and which would yet be comfortable and happy had he not, like Wilkinson and Kirkland, listened to the voice of the serpent. In a few days the crash came, and these two men found themselves and families stripped of everything by the Wellington "Patriot," who says he has saved the Ontario Government from ruin, and earned the everlasting gratitude of Mr. Mowat and the Globe!—Arthur Enterprise.

Sanitary Reform.

In re sanitary reform the following letter by an M.R.C.S. to the London Standard gives a description of how these things are sometimes managed in England:—

"SIR,—I have had fifteen years' experience of parochial and sanitary work. In this district we have a parish docter and a Medical Officer of Health, both engaged in private practice.

"The parish doctor is frequently in the midst of disease among the lower classes, but he has no sanitary authority. The medical officer of health seems intent upon his private practice, and avoids the slums as much as possible. The two officers are not on speaking terms. Brumbledom could hardly bring about a worse state of things.

"It is a huge blunder to leave the parish Doctor without sanitary authority. Still worse is it to have him thwarted by a useless pen and ink official who shirks infection, and pockets a good salary for work which he does not perform."

The Storms in the States.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 27.—In Poland township, Tuesday night, a cyclone demolished the Heasly mansion and several barns. Twenty sheep were killed by being blown over the ground with frightful velocity.

CHARLOTTE, N. C. March 27.—The cyclone at Newton on Tuesday night caused $25,000 damage. One person was killed and four injured, not seriously. The town of Lenoir was badly wrecked. Six women were killed. A large number of residences near Charlotte were blown down. Immense damage was done to forests.

BROCKVILLE, Ind., March 27.—The village of Scipio was wiped out by Tuesday's tornado. Only two houses remain. Rev. Joseph Winston was killed.

AGUSTA, Ga., March 27.—The female College of Gainesville was blown down by the cyclone of Tuesday night. The pupils escaped. Two persons were killed by an overturning house.

DENVER, March 27.—The most disastrous windstorm for many years struck the city this morning. At nine this evening it continues with unabated fury. Many of the finest buildings of the city, including the City hall, were unroofed. The wind maintained a velocity of 60 miles per hour. Several persons were injured. It is impossible to estimate the loss at present.

The Spirometer.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

THE BATTLE OF TEB.

How it was Fought—Graphic Account by the Correspondent of the "Standard."

TRINKITAT, Feb. 29.—A consultation is held between Generals Graham and Buller, and the order is given for a move. The men spring to their feet cheering, the bag-pipes strike up again, and we march straight at the enemy's position. It is not a charge, but a steady, solid movement in the formation which has all along been observed. It looks, however, all the more formidable, for enthusiam and discipline are equally marked, as the whole of the troops are cheering while the square sweeps down towards the enemy.

The Arabs cease firing as we approach. They put aside their rifles and grasp their spears. Still they lie quiet until we are within a few yards of their wall, then they rush out and fling themselves straight at our bayonets. They deter the charge almost simultaneously on both sides of the square, and as from the change of direction the flank of the square is now its front, the brunt of the onset falls on the Black Watch, the 65th, and the Naval Brigade. The enemy do not come on in masses, but in groups of thirties and twenties, sometimes of twos and threes and sometimes alone. They dash forward against our ranks with poised spear, but not a man reaches the line of bayonets, for one and all are swept away before the terrible fire of musketry which breaks out as they rush forward. For a moment, on the other side of the square the matter seems to be in doubt. So hotly do the Arabs press forward that the troops pause in their steady advance. It becomes a hand-to-hand fight, the soldiers meeting the Arab spear with cold steel, their favourite weapon, and beating them at that. There is not much shouting, and only a short, sharp exclamation, a brief shout, or an oth, as the soldiers engage with their foes. At this critical moment, for the enemy are rushing up thickly, the Gardner guns open fire, and their leaden hail soon decides matters.

At this instant Admiral Hewett, who, with Mr. Levison, his private secretary, is present as a spectator, joins the Naval Brigade and leads them on over the dead bodies of the Arabs, lying thickly strewn in their front, into the work, which proves to be but a bank of sand. Col. Burnaby here has his horse shot under him, and a bullet passes through his arm. Still with the double-barrelled fowling-piece he carries he knocks over the Arabs who assail him. But they press on, and he is only saved from being speared by one of the Gordon Highlanders bayonetting an Arab who attacks him when both barrels of his gun are empty.

Several fierce personal encounters take place as the troops rush into the encrenchments. The first feeling of nervousness has passed away, their blood is up now, and the enthusiasm of battle is on them. More and more shrill the the pipes shirl out, and the men are eager to close with the foe. As single Arabs rush down the brave soldiers step singly forward from the ranks and meet, the bayonet to spear, in almost every instance vanquishing them by the byonet alone, without firing. A soldier, who had single-handed engaged two of the enemy, would have got the worst of it had not Captain Wilson, of the Hecla, come to his aid and run one of his assailants through the body, breaking his own sword and receiving a wound across the face as he did so. Sharp as the fight is, it lasts but a minute or two after the troops have passed over the sand bank. The work contains one Krupp gun, which of course, falls into our hands."

LINDSAY.

SALVATION ARMY BARRACKS.—On Monday the first load of brick for the salvation army barracks was delivered. The contract to put up the building is being looked after and will be settled this week. The barracks will be 30x 90 feet, and 15 feet high inside the walls, the whole built on a stone foundation. The stone will probably be brought from Bobcaygeon as soon as navigation opens up.

ELECTING A WARDEN. A special meeting of the county council was held on Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of electing a warden. All the members were present excepting a couple of Muskoka reeves. Mr. Smithson was nominated for the wardenship by Mr. Bailey, seconded by Dr. Norris. Col. Deacon raised a question as to the propriety of obtaining advice as to whether Mr. Smithson had been properly elected, as the nomination had been held on Wednesday and polling on the Monday following, the proper time did not elapse. In view of the doubt, and to save the county expenses, he thought it would be well to take the advice. An animated discussion arose but finally a committee was appointed and the council adjoined for a couple of hours. The committee called in Mr. J. B. Smith and Mr. H. O'Leary, and submitted the matter to them. From their report it seems there was ground for the doubt, but another clause covered any slight irregularities, and the election was considered good. On Thursday morning the council resumed and, after the opinion of Messrs. Smith and O'Leary had been read, Mr. Smithson was at once and unanimously elected warden.

BELLEVILLE.

TROTTING.—At the meeting of turfmen held in Belleville on Wednesday arrangements were completed for the spring trotting circuit to commence at Montreal on June 15th, and be continued at Ottawa, Belleville, and Kingston in the order named. Montreal will give $3,000 in purses, and the other cities $1,500 each. Toronto will be asked to join the circuit which will probably join the National Trotting Association of the United States.

AMBITIOUS.—Two deaf and dumb boys named Sours and McKay, each aged 14 years, ran away from the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Belleville, on Tuesday, and no tidings have been heard of since by the authorities. It is supposed they are looking for work as farm laborers, as they were desirous of earning some money for themselves.

COBOURG.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT.—On Thursday night Mrs. Wm. Van Ingen met with a peculiar accident. She placed upon the stove a large jug filled with water, to get warm for the purpose of putting at her feet during the night, and left the cork in. About ten o'clock she lifted this off the stove. The water had boiled, and considerable steam had generated. When the jug was moved the cork flew out with a loud noise, followed by a quantity of steam and hot water, some of which struck Mrs. Van Ingen in the face, scalding her considerably.—Sentinel-Star.

How to Keep Flour.

Flour is peculiarly sensitive to atmospheric influences; hence it should never be stored in a room with sour liquids, nor where onions or fish are kept, nor any article that taints the air of the room in which it is stored. Any smell perceptible to the sense will be absorbed by the flour. Avoid damp cellars or lofts where a free circulation of air cannot be obtained. Keep in a cool, dry, airy room, and not expose to a freezing temperature, nor to intense summer or to artificial heat for any length of time above seventy to seventy-six degrees Fahrenheit. It should not come in contract with grain or other substances which are liable to heat. Flour should be sifted and the particles thoroughly disintegrated and then warmed before baking. This treatment improves the colour and baking properties of the dough. The sponge should be prepared for the oven as soon as the yeast has performed its mission, otherwise fermentation sets in and acidity results.

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required in nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

A MATTER OF TASTE!

Quite so. It is a matter of taste. The phrase is a familiar one. But what does the familiar phrase mean? Taste is an outward sign of both character and condition. Its influence is perhaps shown more strongly in the matter of dress than in anything else. Neatness is better than richness, and plainness than too marked display.

LOCAL NEWS

Police News.

Three bankrupt pedestrians found lodgings in the cells last night, and there was a clean sheet at the Court this morning.

Open Air Concert.

We are pleased to learn that the Fire Brigade intend to give the first open air rehearsal of the season on George street this evening.

License Commissioners.

A correspondent would like to know if the license commissioners for West Peterborough have been appointed under the Crooks Act or whether the Inspector is doing (illegally) the work of the Board along with his own, as there have been no legal commissioners since 31st Dec. 1883.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

Northern Lights.

There was another remarkable shroral display last night, consisting of a perfect and brilliant arc or bow, extending from the Eastern to the Western horizon. It was as symmetrical as the most perfect rainbow, but apparently of greater width.

There was, at the same time an ordinary appearance of the same phenomenon in the Northern sky, but quite unconnected with the arc.

A heavy stock of Coarse Towellings to choose from at Turnbull's, made by the Russian Farmers in the Winter Months

The Queen's Birthday.

Mr. E. W. Johnston, the athlete, is making preparations for holding a celebration here on the 24th of May. The programme will include sports and athletic contests. Mr. Johnston had charge of the celebration in Lindsay last year, and it was said that the pogramme arranged by him attracted 7,000 to the town. The Warder gave him great credit for the manner in which he conducted the management of the celebration.

Successful.

Lieut. R. Maxwell Dennistoun, of No. One Company, 57th Batallion, Peterborough Rangers, has passed very successfully the examination for a second class certificate before the Volunteer Board at Belleville, obtaining 188 marks out of a possible 204. The written examination consisted of 68 questions, and there was a practical test in drilling a company. Lieutenant Dennistoun intends to take the further course for a first-class certificate at the Military School at Kingston, including a course in engineering at the Royal Military College.

The Freshet.

The water overflowed the banks of the creek at Sherbrooke street on Friday afternoon and caused a washout on the street. It was promptly attended to.

The greater part of the dam at the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's foundry was carried away sometime during Friday night.

The water has subsided from the submerged district north of Brock street.

Paterson's tannery is still flooded. Portions of the fallen hotel sinking into the channel of the creek backs up the water until it forces its way through, and then it lowers again. It is feared that the channel at this place may be entirely blocked and a serious flood caused.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

A Meeting of the Commissioners to Consider Applications.

The Commissioners appointed under the Dominion License Act held a meeting in the Court House on Friday to consider and decide on the applications for licenses. The three commissioners were present, namely, His Honor Judge Dennistoun, Mr. J. Lang, Warden, and Mr. J. Stevenson; the License Inspectors and several interested persons were also present.

The applications from the County were first taken up, and the following were granted hotel licenses:—

VILLAGE OF LAKEFIELD

VILLAGE OF NORWOOD.

Three or four other applications were left over for further consideration, and the Commissioners will meet again on Saturday, April 5th, to consider these and also the applications from the Town of Peterborough and the Village of Ashburnham.

STRAY SHOTS

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

The attendance at the meeting was as usual, very large.

Four or five converts were secured. The ranks of the Army are being steadily augumented.

To-night's meeting will be in the Opera House again.

The officers think that the drill shed would suit splendid for their meetings during the summer.

Lieut. Nellie Willis and Lieut. Annie White, went to Lakefield on Friday and held a meeting in that village in the evening.

If a station is established at Lakefield, Lieut. White will probably have charge. She is an earnest officer, and conducts a meeting with good judgment.

The Trumpet states that Peterborough takes the lead in the sales made of that paper, closely followed by Cobourg and Port Hope.

Turnips.

Another supply of turnips at CARTON BROS.

The Probabilities.

There was an abrupt change in the weather to-day. The wind rose and the temperature lowered several degrees. The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong north east to north west winds, partly cloudy, slightly cooler weather; fair weather Sunday.

Military.

From the annual report of Lieut.-Col. Villiers, Deputy Adjutant General, District No. 3, we take the following extracts in reference to our local corps at the Cobourg Camp. Referring to the cavalry he says:—

"The 3rd Regiment of Cavalry under command of Lieut.-Col. D'Arcy Boulton, were weak in numbers, but were well mounted, especially the Peterborough Troop, under Lieut.-Col. Rogers."

In reference to the Battalions the report says:—

"The five battalions, viz., 30th, 40th, 47th, 49th and 57th, were all very good as far as they mustered—the 49th showing much improved since last year. The 57th again this year carried off the palm, being the best equipped and all round corps on the field."

Major-General Luard, in his notes on the report, says that he also observed the creditable appearance of the Peterborough Troop of Cavalry, and that he concurs in what Lieut.-Col. Villiers reports regarding the 57th Battalion.

Lieut.-Col. Montizambert, Assistant Inspector of Artillery, says of the Durham Field Battery:—

"Inspected with the Kingston Field Battery in Camp at Cobourg on the 21st September. Officers present:—Capt. W. McLean (G. S. 1st), Lieut. Thos. Benson (G. S. 2nd), Lieut. E. Sanderson (G. S. 1st), and Surgeon T. H. Brent, M.D. This battery turned out very well this year; they are well up in field manœuvres and drill; they had a particularly fine lot of horses, and the guns and horses were in fine order. They were reviewed by the Major-General commanding."

Major-General Luard, in a note, also expresses his approval of the appearance of the Battery. We are pleased to see by these official reports of the commanding officers that the Peterborough corps held their own at the camp last September. Much of the credit for the good appearance of the Battery is due to Lieut., now Capt., Sanderson.

Bass & Co., Burton-on-Trent, India Pale Ale now on draught, at Chamberlain's Restaurant—direct importation.

The Market.

There was not a large attendance on the market this morning, and there was little or no change in prices.

The Search Continued.

The search for the body of John Dion, who was drowned in the creek on Thursday evening, was continued last night and to-day. A net has been stretched across the mouth of the creek and other steps taken to intercept the body should it float down. Up to 4 o'clock this afternoon the search had been unsuccessful.

Seizure of Smuggled Goods.

The Customs officials in the Eastern townships have made a seizure of one thousand dollars worth of goods smuggled from the United States by Montreal traders, and which the smugglers were disposing of in Richmond and the country around.

The Salvation Army.

Among the various modes of warfare carried on by the Salvation Army at Kingston is that of scouring the city after dark in search of drunken men. This duty falls to the share of the ex-Sergeants. What they do with the drunken men when they find them we have not heard.

A Dastardly Outrage.

A serious case of attempted rape is reported from London township, the parties concerned living a short distance east of London East. A little girl named Saunders, aged nine years, was brought to town yester-day by her grandmother suffering from the brutal treatment she had received from a man whose name she dose not know. The child was taken to a physician and a warrant issued for the arrest of her assailant, Robert baker, a young man, was arrested and brought to the city. He is in the employ of Mr. Elliott in the gore of London.

Libel Case.

The libel case of the Canada Shipping Company against the Ottawa Free Press was continued on Thursday in the Superior Court, Montreal. After the depositions taken in this country and in England from the officers and crew of the steamship Lake Nepigon, denying the allegations of the passengers contained in the papers were read to the jury, the medical officer at Quebec testified that the passengers on landing looked healthy and well fed. Some witnesses, who travelled frequently by the line as cabin passengers, spoke approvingly of the arrangements on board and the efficiency of the officers.

THE North Tipperary Grand Jury have decided in favour of the proposed line of tramway from Nenagh to Thurles.

A STRIKE has taken place amongst the boilermakers in the employment of Harland & Wolff shipbuilders, Belfast. A proposal was made to reduce their wages 12 per cent.

THE London Truth says:—"The Irish, both here in America and at home, ought to protest against these dynamite outrages, which are as foolish as they are wicked, for, if continued, enormous numbers of Irishmen now obtaining good wages in England, and who are as shocked at the outrages as we are, will be turned out of employment.

THE Registrar-General for Ireland reports that the number of emigrants who left Irish ports in 1883 was 108,916, an increase of 19,350, as compared with 1882; the number of males being 55,398, or 8,147 more than in the previous year; and of females, 53,523 an increase of 11,203. The province of Munster has for the last thirty years supplied the most emigrants, being followed at a considerable interval by Ulster, Connaught and Leinster. Only 12 per cent. of the emigrants in 1883 were over 35 years of age.

THERE were 96,710 lbs. of gunpowder, valued at £1,550, and 200,000 ammunition donaters, valued at £200, exported from the Clyde for for foreign and colonial ports during the past month.

NEW mission premises, erected in High street, Edinburgh, were opened on the 5th inst. by Mr. D. L. Moody, the American evangelist. The buildings have cost £11,000, the most of which has been raised by Mr. Moody.

ARCHIBALD SHEARER, aged 80 years, was found dead on the floor of his house in Deanston on 5th inst. The affair has caused quite a commotion in the village, and the old man's daughter, whose habits are irregular, is deeply censured.

Thousands Say So.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your electric bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundred's of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

PRESIDENT BARNARD, of Columbia College, says:—"The young men of the present time are just as full of animal spirits as were their brothers or fathers." He probably meant "ardent" instead of "animal." It is true, however, whether he meant it or not.

DANGER TRAPS.—Neglecting colds are the fatal traps that ensnare many a victim beyond possibility of rescue. Take a cold or cough in time and it is easily conquered by that safe and pleasant vegetable remedy, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Asthma, Bronchitis and pulmonary complaints generally soon yield to its healing influence.

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.—A little son of John Spinks, Toronto, had his foot crushed by a G. T. R. Express train some time ago. Two doctors attended him without benefit, and amputation was proposed, but Hagyard's Yellow Oil was tried, which give prompt relief and effected a speedy cure, even removing all stiffness of the joint.

ENGLAND.

RECRUITING for the regular forces is now going on at an unexampled pace, the number joining the service being over 3,500 a month.

THE annual report of the Inspector-General of Recruiting shows that there were over 6,000 recruits more last year than in 1882, and 7,000 more than in 1881.

THE output of coal in the United Kingdom is stated to have reached last year the high total of 153,750,000 tons, or an increase of more than 4½ per cent. on the previous year's total.

THE rent of agricultural land in the United Kingdom is put at £60,000,000. The rent derived otherwise from land, including ground built on, is less than £100,000,000. The annual income of all classes, including landlords, is estimated at 1300 millions.

MR. J. G. BAKER read a paper at the recent meeting of the Linnean Society, in which it was stated that the average annual consumption of potatoes in Great Britain is 4,000,000 tons, representing, at 5s. per cwt., £20,000,000 sterling. Of this quantity about 200,000 tons, or a twentieth, is imported. In 1882 the British potato covered about 541,000 acres in Great Britain.

A REMARKABLE occurrence took place recently on the Dee at Connah's Quay, near Chester. The tide flowed at 6.40 a.m., and after two hours' ebb it began to flow again, and rose to a height of 3ft., when at 9.30 it ebbed again. The pilots, depending upon the tide to come up the river were exceedingly puzzled by the remarkable event.

THE report of the Board of Trade as to the loss of life at sea from British ships during the year 1871 to 1882 inclusive, shows that as many as 38,722 persons lost their lives on British ships during that period. Of these, 35,660 were seamen, and 3,062 passengers. The worst year of this period is 1873, when 4,278 persons were drowned, and the best, 1878, when the number was 2,302.

CHANGES have been observed in the spectrum of Sirius, which indicate that the star is moving away from the earth much less rapidly than formerly, and that it must therefore be travelling in a closed and comparatively small orbit. Five Good Live Agents to Sell the Genuine Singer Sewing Machines.

WE CHALLENGE ANY SEWING MACHINE before the public to equal the IMPROVED SINGER, our New High Arm and Light Running and almost noiseless Family Sewing Machine Just being introduced

For range of work, perfection of stitch, and ease of operation, it possesses the following advantages over all other Sewing Machines:—

1st. Uses the shortest needle of any Lock Stitch Machine.
2nd. Carries a finer needle with a given size thread.
3rd. Uses a greater number of sizes of thread with one size needle.
4th. Will close a seam tighter with linen thread than any other Machine will with silk.
5th. The shuttle holds the most thread.
6th. Draws the needle thread both down and up while the needle is out of the goods, therefore there is less friction on the needle and thread, consequently tighter and more elastic seam.
7th. It has a positive feed that will not choke in sewing any material.
8th. Sews faster and with less noise than any other shuttle machine.
9th. Will sew a greater number of sizes of thread without change of tension.
10. Will not change tension when sewing with a short or long stitch at varying speed.

FOR FAMILY SEWING IT IS SUPERIOR TO ALL. No one should buy a Sewing Machine without first seeing and trying a Singer.

In addition to our large variety of Family Machines, we also have a full line of Machines for both heavy and light manufacturing purposes, of any description whatever, and run up to 2,000 stitches per minute.

BELLEVILLE.

GRAND BANQUET.—On Friday evening the law students of Belleville, assembled in the dining hall of St. George's restaurant to do honor to Mr. J. A. Forin, one of their senior members, who is about to depart to Toronto to pursue the study and practice of his profession.

BURGLARY.—At an early hour on Saturday morning, the residence of Mr. Philip Hart, on Everette street, was visited by burglars, who took his books and papers into the back yard and after inspecting them, threw them away. They secured a silver watch, but passed over a check for $27.

ANOTHER BURGLARY.—Mrs. Chas. W. Bell, whose husband is away from home, was astonished on Saturday morning upon going down stairs, to find that the house had been entered during the night by burglars, but as far as she can judge they were unsuccessful in securing any plunder. Mr. Bell's desk, which was locked, was found broken open, the side board drawers were open, and there was every indication of a thorough search having been made.

EXPLOSION.—An explosion occurred at Mr. Henry Corby's distillery on Saturday morning. When the spirit started to boil, instead of passing through the column and to the goose condenser in the usual way, it escaped through the defect in the valve. The fireman detected the smell of spirits and sent for the foreman. The latter entered one door of the kettle room and the foreman entered at another. The opening of the doors created a draft, and the spirit was drawn towards the boiler and became ignited by coming in contact with the red hot door of the end of the boiler. An explosion followed, and the foreman, Mr. W. R. Taylor, was thrown about ten feet through the door into the fermenting room, with his clothing on fire. The fireman, Alex. Bradshaw passed through the flame in the kettle room and seized Mr. Taylor and carried him to a vat. There was not sufficient "beer" in the vat to cover him, and Mr. Taylor lay down in it to quench the fire. It was found that Mr. Taylor was badly burned about the face, neck and hands, and the doctors cannot at present say if he is injured internally. Bradshaw is burned about the face, but not as badly as Mr. Taylor. Mr. Moore, the caretaker of the kettle, attached the fire hose and put out the fire. The damage has not been ascertained.—Intelligencer.

HARVEY.

DEATH OF MR. OLIVER.—On Sunday morning the startling news was spread throughout the settlement that George Oliver was dead. His intimate friends went with all haste to his residence, and found to their sorrow that the news was too true. Mr. Oliver sat up on Saturday night, reading his weekly papers, and went to bed in rather better spirits than usual, and apparently in full health. At six o'clock on Sunday morning, Mrs. Oliver awoke, and noticing that it was rather later than the customary hour for arising, endeavored to wake Mr. Oliver, who appeared to be asleep. She called and moved him, but to no purpose, for with a few faint flutters the spirit fled. For some years the family have been aware that the deceased gentleman was afflicted with heart disease, his medical adviser having warned him that he might drop off at any moment. The family, therefore, being prepared, the shock will be in a measure mitigated. To the public, who were not acquainted with his condition the announcement of his death was most startling. The deceased gentleman was buried in the Verulam cemetery on Tuesday, and was laid to rest by a large concourse of friends. He first settled in Harvey some twenty years ago. After a short stay he went to the States, and then returned to his farm, having been on it now for the past sixteen years. In that time by steady industry he had earned a comfortable homestead. He had cleared nearly the whole of his lot of 140 acres, and had it fully stocked with horses, cattle and sheep. Last summer he crossed the Atlantic, went to England and Scotland, and paid his farewell visit to his native heather. For some years he had taken an active part in Municipal and Political affairs. Since 1881 he has occupied the position of Reeve of his township, with marked benefit to the municipality. In politics he took Liberal views, but always sustained his opinions without making real enemies of his opponents. In religion he maintained a steadfast faith in the Presbyterian Church, and was an exemplary member of that denomination. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss.

NORTHWEST NOTES.

FAMILIES FOR THE NORTHWEST.—Lady Gordon Cathcart, in conjuncton with the Canadian North-West Land Company, has just sent forty-four families, numbering 220 souls, to the North-West.

AN EARLY SEASON.—Mr VanHorne, general manager Canadian Pacific railway, reports that the farmers have commenced ploughing and seeding in Moosomin, White Wood, Qu'Appelle and points west of Brandon. The season is three weeks ahead of that of Northern Illinois.

WINNIPEG STREETS.—Men are engaged cleaning the car track on Main street. The cars will be running in a few days.—Times, March 24.

ARRIVAL OF CONTRACTORS.—Messrs. S. P. Myer and J. R. Sewell, of Louisville, Ky., arrived in Winnipeg, March 23rd, and are staying at the Queen's. They are extensive contractors, and are here for the purpose of undertaking some heavy construction on the C. P. R. through the mountains.

THE TARIFF.—The committee appointed by the Local Legislature to enquire into the working of the tariff on agricultural implements, lumber and canned goods, met recently for organization, and appointed Mr. LaRiviere, Chairman. It was decided to summon a number of persons to give evidence, and another meeting is to be held soon.

PLOUGHING COMMENCED.— The season's farming operations have been commenced in the west. Assistant Traffic Manager Harder, of the C. P. R., received a telegram from Moosomin on March 23rd, stating that farmers in that vicinity intended to start ploughing today, what little snow there had been in that section having disappeared under the hot rays of the sun during the past few days. Another despatch was received from Whitewood stating that farmers in that district, and also along the Pipestone Creek, some distance south, had commenced ploughing.

WHEAT SALES.—Over one hundred and ten thousand bushels of wheat have been marketed at Morris during the past winter, and nearly ten thousand bushels were sold in the third week of this month. The average price realized was between seventy and seventy five cents a bushel. A larger acreage than ever will be sown in this district this summer. A considerable number of new settlers have gone in already. The county council at its meeting on Saturday discussed the question of erecting county building at Morris and although no decision was arrived at it is probable that the work will be commenced shortly.

EMIGRATION.—A St. Paul despatch of March 23rd says:—Emigrant travel over the Manitoba road yesterday was particularly large. The three eastern roads brought in during the day 45 car loads of emigrant moveables, and four coaches of passengers. These were transferred at Manitoba Transfer, and run through by special. In addition to this the regular passenger last night took over 100 Canadian Pacific laborers. A special of 25 cars destined for Manitoba was due last night over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, but was delayed at Red Wing by the accident. A Canadian Pacific circular received here yesterday says that commencing March 26 the Canadian Pacific will run special emigrant excursion trains, with passenger cars attached, from Ottawa, via Morrison, for the accommodation of emigrants and their effects going to Manitoba and the Western States.

PORT HOPE.

A FRAUD CAPTURED.—About two weeks ago we called the attention of our readers to a fraud who was scouring the country with a different tale of woe in each locality he visited, about loosing his wife and several children with dyptheria, also a span of horses, &c., &c. Some days since this worthy visited Port Hope; the eye of our vigilant Chief Constable caught sight of him, and rembering the free notice we had given the scamp, ran the gentleman into the cooler. He had $113.00 on his person when arrested. He was brought before the Police Magistrate and remanded to jail at Cobourg until the parties he represented as signing his certificate were communicated with. It was found that he had been in this business for about four years, and had considerable property, and money in the Bank. The information was such that the Police Magistrate who tried the case on Saturday fined the prisoner $10.00 and $10.50 costs, and six months in the Central prison, Toronto. If all the frauds were denounced in the same way as we have done this one, the country would soon be rid of such pests.—Guide.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The House on Labour to-day unanimously decided to report favourably the bill making it unlawful for any person in the employ of the United States or of any State to contract with anyone to hire out the labour of prisoners confined in any prison or gaol for violation of any of the United States. A violation of the Act is made a misdemeanour, punishable by fine from five hundred to one thousand dollars, or imprisonment from one to three years.

THE GREELY EXPEDITION.

The bill providing that a reward of $25,000 shall be paid to any ship or person not in the military or naval service of the United States who shall discover or rescue, or satisfactorily ascertain the fate of, the Greeley expedition, has passed.

COPYRIGHT IN NEWSPAPERS.

Hy. Watterson before the House Judiciary Committee to-day in advocating his proposed News Copyright bill cited a number of English law cases showing the existence of the right of copyright in newspapers. In one court it was said. "The idea of there being no copyright at all in newspaper articles was repugnant to common sense and common honesty."

MORGAN'S SARSAPARILLA is the best spring medicine. It purifies the blood and clears the system. Find MORGAN'S Drug Store.

Is It Proof you Want?
No one can doubt the great merit of Polson's Nerviline, for it has been placed in the market in 10 cent bottles, just to give you the opportunity of testing its wonderful power over all kind of pain. This is the best evidence of its efficiency, for every person can try for himself. Polson's Nerviline is a positive (it cannot fail) cure for cramps, headache, colds, neuralgia, and the host of pains that flesh is heir to. Good to take, good to rub. Go to Ormand & Walsh's drug store and buy a bottle.

A Craving for Returns.

A good many other members also complained of the difficulty they experienced in getting returns. The fault does not by any means rest exclusively upon the shoulders of members of the Government, but rather on those members, who persist in moving for return after return, of no mortal use either to themselves or anybody else. It requires a little army of additional clerks every session to at all keep up with the demand for written returns, and this session has been worse than most preceding ones in this respect. A good many of the returns are doubtless of great use, but as a general thing, the number asked for could be greatly reduced without the country being deprived of any valuable information. Among the members who complained of the incompleteness of the furnished returns was Hon. Peter Mitchell, who said that the full correspondence relative to the attitude assumed some years ago by Mr. Potter, the President of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, in connection with the credit of Canada in the London money markets, was not given. The missing papers, he thought, could be supplied by Mr. Mackenzie, who was premier at the time of the trouble and who conducted the correspondence. Mr. Mackenzie said that he had written some letters as premier, which were not departmental in their character, and which consequently remained in his possession. He would deliver them if requested to do so by the Minister of Railways.—Montreal Star.

An English Scandal.

LONDON, March 27,—The Earl of Euston, the future Duke of Grafton, is about to begin the much talked of suit for divorce from his wife on the plea that the lady's first husband was living at the time of her second marriage. The Countess will submit in defence that when she married her first husband she supposed him a widower, but he proved to have another wife, and when she learned this she abandoned him. The case promises to be exceedingly interesting. Thirteen years ago Henry Fitzroy, eldest son of Lord Augustus Fitzroy, fell in love with a dubious woman known as "Kate Cook." She was handsome and stylish in person, and her matured charms were quite sufficient to captivate the youth of twenty-three. Unknown to his father, who was Equerry to the Queen, he married her. Most chronicles of the peerage ignored the marriage. Others described the bride as the daughter of John Walsh and widow of "Mr. Smith." In 1882 the bridegoom's social position changed. Lord Agustus Fitzroy succeeded his brother as seventh Duke of Grafton. But troubles had already come between her and her husband. They separated by mutual agreement. No fault being proved against the countess since her marriage, the Earl in vain sought an excuse for divorce. The mysterious "Mr. Smith" has has now appeared and the excuse is found.

The French and the Hovas.

In the French Chamber of Deputies on Thursday M. Ferry, in explaining and defending the Government's policy in Madagascar said:—The delegates of the Hovas with whom negotiations were being conducted left Paris suddenly, without paying their hotel bills, just when an agreement seemed imminent. It is hoped negotiations, which have been resumed, will result in a treaty which shall guarantee the protection of the inhabitants of the north-western district of Madagascar and resident Frenchmen. As the acquisition of land by foreigners, except Frenchmen, is inadmissable, to raise the question of sovereignty would involve war to the death with the Hovas and would necessitate a policy of conquest. It is incumbent upon us to be modest and wise to obtain practical results. If, however, pending negotiations fail we shall spare no efforts to reduce the Hovas to submission. The Chamber of Deputies adopted by 430 to 22 the order to maintain France's rights in Madagascar.

Interesting to Stockholders.

A judgment of interest to shareholders in stock companies was rendered lately by the Court of Appeals in the case of Coote vs. Whitfield. At a meeting of shareholders of the St. John Pottery Company it was decided that new stock should be raised. The directors, among whom was Whitfield, agreed to subscribe. The latter, however, did not do so, and upon the company going into liquidation shortly after, was sued by Coote, the assignee, for the amout agreed to. He, however, pleaded that the resolution in itself was not a subscription, but was simply a step preliminary to securing power to receive new subscriptions. The Government was subsequently applied to and granted the power, but the defendant proved that he had not actually subscribed, that there had been no other subscriptions to the new steck, and no calls had been made on it. The court below gave judgment against Coote, and the Court of Appeals confirmed it.

The Pope's Residence.

The Paris correspondent of the Times telegraphs that the Pope has notified the Emperor Francis Joseph in an autograph letter that there are reasons which may induce him to leave Rome at a more or less early date. The Pope says he is well aware that his decision will have serious consequences to Christendom, but he is bound to carry out his intentions.

Gunning Accident.

HAMILTON, March 28.—Edward Shaw accidentally shot himself yesterday at Burlington Beach. His gun exploded as he was climbing over a fence. He was taken to his father's house badly injured.

Now for the Dog Days
And all their attendant evils. The hot weather brings with it many discomforts. Sudden attacks of illness should at this season be provided against. Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure is a never-failing remedy for all internal or external pains. Cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery, and spasms are cured as if by magic. Always sure for neuralgia, rheumatism, &c. A 10 cent sample bottle will prove its efficacy. Buy a 10 or 25 cent bottle at Ormand & Walsh's drug store. Use Polson's Nerviline.

LEGALIZING CORRUPTION.

THE Globe has an article upon the disgraceful Act to legalize corrupt practices at elections and to override the law courts, in which it says in reference to Informer Dowling :—

"The Legislature says that the law never contemplated such an act of injustice as the trial of a man a second time for an offence for which he had once been tried and acquitted. This is not favor ; it is justice, and we are confident that the public will so regard it."

This is a deliberate misrepresentation of the facts, to conceal the truth as to a transaction so outrageous that even the Globe cannot defend it to its readers. Informer Dowling was not tried and acquitted, but he was found by two judges to have been personally guilty of corrupt practices of a nature to disqualify a candidate ; the two judges perfectly agreed as to his criminality, and the only difference between them was that one was in favor of relieving him from the penalty of disqualification, which the other refused to do. Even if the judges had disagreed as to his guilt, it would have been no acquittal, but to use the Globe's comparison, would have been simply a disagreement of the jury, not a valid reason against a new trial. There was no acquittal, however, but a conviction by both judges for personal corruption, and the point in the pending legal proceedings was to try if the disqualification to which he was considered liable by both judges was not effectual, and the release from the penalties by one judge inoperative for want of the agreement of the other. This was the only common sense view, and it would almost certainly have been the decision of the courts. So Mr. Mowat, his colleagues and supporters, have by an act of the Legislature taken the matter out of the hands of our law courts on purpose to prevent the punishment of a crime.

The reason for this iniquitous proceeding only makes it worse. Dowling was thus relieved from the consequence of his former offence of personal corruption to reward him for his later offences as informer, decoy and perjurer. This is severe language, but it is the truth, as is plainly evident. Two judges have pronounced him guilty of corrupt practices and incidentally of perjury, for they disbelieved his oath to the contrary. His own evidence in the recent plot is the authority for considering him as an informer, a decoy and also again a perjurer, for he has given two utterly discordant accounts of the alleged attempts to bribe him.

And this is the man whom Mr. Mowat (ashamed to act himself) put up a private member on the very last night of the session to snatch from the hands of the judges and to release from the consequences of his corruption.

It is not strange that the Globe endeavours to represent his conviction, thus forcibly overriden, as having been an acquittal, without the least regard to truth.

SHUNNING OR SEEKING LIGHT.

WHATEVER the result may be of the steps that are being taken to compel the Telegraph Company to produce telegrams as evidence in the Mowat conspiracy case, it will not effect the comparison to which we wish to call attention.

In this case of the second Mowat plot, that to invite bribery or manufacture evidence of it, the defendants express their readiness to have their telegraph messages inspected even by the prosecution. They have apparently nothing that they are very anxious to conceal.

In the first Mowat plot, that to purchase the electorate of Algoma and fraudulently to disfranchise the Conservative voters, the conspirators who have been put upon their defence. Mr. Mowat's colleagues and their official tools, have fought with all the energy and obstinacy of despair to prevent their telegraphic messages from seeing the light of day. Neither in the law courts nor in the legislative committees did they show any readiness to submit to scrutiny. They have confessedly destroyed a great number of these messages, probably the most disreputable, but even the remainder they shrank from exposing to public criticism. Not only did they oppose the production of the telegrams, but in the Public Accounts Committee these conspirators actually refused to produce the vouchers for the expenditure on telegrams lest the Opposition should know the names of the Algoma members of the conspiracy who were in correspondence with the head quarters of the plot. It is true that one object for this concealment might be to hide their dishonest trick of making the Province pay for their telegraphic electioneering expenses by falsifying the public accounts and charging these telegrams to some department or other, but they have grown so callous as to such knavish practices, that their anxiety for concealment cannot be accounted for in this manner. It evidently sprang from their dread of their fraudulent practices in Algoma being exposed.

Who are likely to be guilty and who innocent, those who thus shun, or those who thus seek the light? The people of Ontario are shrewd enough to judge between them.

THE MOWAT PLOT.

Further Attempt to Pry into Private Affairs of Political Opponents.

The conspiracy case was resumed in the Toronto Police Court on Friday.

THE TELEGRAPH CO. STILL DECLINE.

Mr. DWIGHT, after some discussion between the legal gentlemen, was again called upon the Queen's Bench subpœna. He again declined to produce the telegrams. He read the following statement :—

I find on looking over the subpœna that it contains the same sweeping order for messages as the previous one and calls for all messages sent by the parties named, no matter what they relate to, from January 22nd down to the present time.

I have looked over the messages again and find as I stated yesterday that nearly all, if not in fact every one of them, relate to other important private matters, having no apparent connection whatever with these proceedings, and I respectfully submit that I am not compelled to produce such messages as these.

His worship stated yesterday in reply to a suggestion that Mr. Fenton should privately examine these messages that there were no doubt such messages, and it would be very unfair for even Mr. Fenton to see them in this way, and his worship also said, if I remember right, that he was quite willing to leave to my own judgment what messages should be produced, if any. They are in my possession simply as a servant of the company, and in failing to bring them here no contempt or want of respect is intended as to the authority of this court. I am simply acting from a sense of duty in the matter, taking into consideration the penalty to which I should be subjected by the law in divulging messages and also the express order of the company forbidding me to produce them. I submit that this court has no authority to commit me, and should I obey the command and produce these messages this court would have no power to protect me from the penalty to which I would be subjected.

If I knew that any of these messages related to any bribery or conspiracy and that we were legally authorized or entitled to do so I would certainly produce them at once.

I also object that this court has no power to issue a subpœna duces tecum, and no such subpœna was issued from a superior court.

There was some further discussion as to the next steps to be taken, the prosecution expressing an intention of proceeding for contempt of court.

NOTHING TO HIDE.

Mr. BOWERS on behalf of Mr. Bunting said as far as his client was concerned he was perfectly indifferent as to the telegrams being produced.

Mr. MURPHY said the same for his client, Mr. Wilkinson.

The case was then adjourned till Wednesday.

MOVING FOR CONTEMPT.

Mr. IRVING later in the day moved for the prosecution before Justice Galt for an order calling upon Mr. Dwight to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt for not producing certain telegrams required to be produced by the subpœna. His lordship thought the application should be made to the full court, whereupon Mr. Irving deferred further action.

VERY UNPLEASANT.

Dr. Cascaden and Mr. Meek were friends of twenty-three years' standing. We may be wronging Mr. Meek in saying this ; but such is Dr. Cascaden's statement on oath. This man went to his friend of twenty-three years' standing and made a proposition to him. He says, "While leading him on to think that he could secure my riding, I told him I had intended to resign." The conversation was absolutely confidential. "I must admit," says Dr. Cascaden, "that he could only infer that the whole conversation was in confidence." He made no protest against the offer of a bribe. He shook hands with his briber. He met him again the next day and shook hands with him. While secret sorrow and Titanic indignation were gnawing at his heart because an attempt had been made upon his honor, he carefully concealed the fact from the prying eyes of an inquisitive world. He was terribly angry, but he let concealment, like a worm i' the bud, feed on his damaged cheek. In fact, he had not yet discovered the fact himself. "I reflected afterwards," he says, "that it was very unpleasant to have such an offer made to me."

Let us discover, if we can, when it dawned upon Dr. Cascaden that the offer was "unpleasant." He wanted a shrievalty, this patriot did. "I had been promised no office," he said, but I had no doubt, from what I heard, that I could have it if I wanted it." But it seems that the Government had decided to give the office to some other man. Then the iron entered Dr. Cascaden's soul. He positively swears that he did not demand a written guaranty of the office, but he swore at Mr. Pardee. "I did, I believe," he says, in a burst of candor. "I told him I swore at Mr. Pardee." He did more ; he shook his fist in the statesman's honorable face. "Did you tell him you shook your fist in his face?" asked Mr. McMichael. "I believe I did," said the witness. "Did you tell Mr. Meek you had forced the Government?" A.—I believe so." It never entered his mind that there was anything wrong in being offered a registrarship until he had "forced the Government" to promise him the shrievalty, and then he "reflected that it was very unpleasant."—Hamilton Spectator.

Phipps to be Extradited.

Suicide of A Young Girl.

KINGSTON, March 28.—A few days ago Jessie Peebles, aged 14, residing with her parents in the rear of this country, took paris green and died. Her mother discovered what she had done when illness set in, and being questioned Jessie replied that she was tired of life, but that she took it for fun. It was quite evident that the girl took the fatal draught with a lot in her right mind.

BOBCAYGEON.

TEAMS.—A string of thirty-five shanty teams drove into the village on Wednesday night, on their way home after their winter's work. They all looked in good condition and shewed their hay and oats. Greater care appears to be taken of the horses than there used to be, and there is a perceptible improvement in their management. In the old days brute force and bad language were the ruling principles, and the result was a great number of baulky and vicious horses.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Civil Service Examinations—The Franchise Bill Postponed—Reform Praise of the Washington Treaty—The Value of Our Fisheries—A Move for Reciprocity.

CIVIL SERVICE BILL.

Mr. CHAPLEAU moved an amendment to the Civil Service Bill providing that in the promotion examinations the subject should only be those in which efficiency was required for the proper fulfilment of the duties. Professional men, such as barristers, civil engineers, &c., were exempt from these examinations.

PUBLIC BUSINESS.

Sir J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Blake, said there was said to be a very general desire that the intention of proroguing before Easter should be adhered to. The Government would therefore withdraw the Franchise Bill for this session.

THE B. C. ARRANGEMENT.

Sir C. TUPPER moved the third reading of the bill to carry out the arrangements with British Columbia.

Mr. GORDON objected that mineral lands would be too much monopolized, and moved an amendment that the matter should be referred to the direct vote of the people of the Province. The amendment was lost.

Mr. SHAKESPEARE and Mr. Baker supported the bill, and Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Homer criticised it, after which the third reading was carried.

THE WASHINGTON TREATY.

Mr. DAVIES moved an amendment to the motion to go into supply "that in any negotiations that should take place between Great Britain and the United States in reference to the fisheries question Canada should be represented by a nominee of her own, and that steps be taken at once to bring about negotiations for a renewal of reciprocal trade relations with the United States. He pointed out that the Treaty of Washington might be abrogated before the Parliament of Canada had another opportunity of considering the subject. He showed the great benefit, irrespective of the large sum received from the United States that the agreement at Washington as to our fisheries did not do justice to the magnitude of the industry. In fact he completely contradicted the old Reform contention that Sir John Macdonald had given away our interests in the Washington treaty. He urged that our fisheries should be used as a lever for obtaining reciprocity from the United States. Again he refuted the old Reform slanders by insisting that our representative in the negotiations should be appointed by the Dominion and not by the Imperial authorities—or in other words that the advice of Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues, not of Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues should determine the choice.

Mr. HACKETT showed the inconsistency of the Reformers who had denounced the Washington Treaty, and Sir John for his share in it, and were now admitting its value and his services by urging its renewal.

Mr. CHARLTON tried to defend his allies from this charge of inconsistency by falsely stating that they did not complain of the fishery clauses, but only of other parts of the Washington Treaty. Then he "turned his back upon himself" by saying we had received nothing in return for privieges we had surrendered, of course being anxious to renew the fishery clauses because they are of no value.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD said such a motion would be very inopportune. The United States knew that we were not adverse to the renewal of such reciprocity as we had in 1854, but that country showed no disposition to make such advances to renew what they had abrogated. It would, therefore, not only be humiliating, but also very injudicious for us to go down upon our knees to them. They might only expose themselves to a repetition of former rebuffs. The Government had not lost sight of the importance of the matter of the fisheries, but they must consult with the Imperial authorities before taking action. They should not be hampered by such a resolution, as it could only place obstacles in their way. It would be an instruction from the House to the Government and would fetter their freedom, besides being introduced in the form of a vote of want of confidence.

Mr. MILLS pointed out that an agreement as to reciprocal trade in coal was desirable, as Nova Scotia exported it to, and Ontario imported from, the United States.

Mr. GILMOUR as representing a county adjoing the States, and largely interested in the fisheries, was strongly in favor of a renewal of the treaty.

Messrs. Kirk, Fisher and Cameron (Inverness) continued the debate.

The amendment was negatived by 105 to 60.

SUPPLY.

The House then went into Committe of Supply and a number of items were passed.

The Secret of General Gordon's Influence.

"It cannot be questioned that General Gordon—or "Chinese Gordon," as he is called—is the man for the task of putting matters right, if that be still possible, in the Soudan; nor can anyone one fail to perceive that the influence which has so far protected this remarkable man in the presence of special perils and enabled him, in a considerable measure at least, to succeed, is personal. We think it important to note that the special qualification for this class of work which General Gordon appears to possess, it is a remarkable combination of sympathy and firmness. Many persons have plenty of sympathy, and many are very firm, but as a matter of experience and observation these two qualities seldom go together in the same nature. It requires a specially well-balanced mind to be both sympathetic and firm at the same instant and in relation to the same subject, or in the performance of a single act. It is quite possible to be sympathetic one moment and firm the next; but General Gordon can combine the two states of mind in one mental posture, and herein lies his strength. He is, besides, a man of quick and clear perception, and ever zealous—that is, reasonably and restrainedly zealous—in what he undertakes, and he is not one who is ever bent on making a coup d'etat, or who has any great love or leaning to what is called 'brilliancy' in exploit. With such qualities what man may do in such a conjecture General Gordon will achieve."—London Lancet.

The Wheel.

Mr. J. Lacy Hiller, English amateur bicycle and tricycle champion of 1881, has an article on "The Development of Cycling" in Longman's Magazine.

The Springfield, Mass., Bicycle Club have engaged Hampden Park for either the last week in August or the first week in September, and a bicycle tournament will be held there within the specified two weeks, which is expected to excel that of last year.

The 'Cyclists' Union in England has the support of between 200 and 300 clubs, with headquarters in the metropolis, and these can show on their rolls some 7,000 or 8,000 members, while it is estimated that there are from two to three times as many clubs in the country. The 'Cyclists' Touring Club, with its 800 consuls to guard the interest of members, and its 1,000 hotel headquarters and recommended inns, can display a still longer list, and reckons over 11,000 members on its books.

A PARODY.

DEDICATED TO MCKIM, BALFOUR, DOWLING & CO.

He who takes a bribe, would strip the dead;
Would from the orphan take his crust of bread,
And lost to honour, equity and right
Would from her pocket pick the "Widow's Mite."

Would rob the palace of the "King of Kings,"
Or clip the gilding from an "Angel's wings,"
And dead to all but deeds foul and unfair,
Should with vile criminals a dungeon share.

OTONABEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A PIONEER'S DEATH.—Mr. John Fife, one of the pioneers of Otonabee, passed away on the 26th of March at the ripe age of 86 years. He was born near Kincardine, Perthshire, Scotland, and came to this country 63 years ago. At that time roads in Otonabee were unknown, the settlers having to follow the "blazed trees" from place to place. Cobourg was their market town, from which place they brought their flour, etc., by waggon to the shores of Rice Lake, then by canoe to where Keene is now situated, and from this place they carried it on backs. Their beds consisted of the softest branches of hemlock, etc., the houses were noted for free circulation of air, with an occasional shower from the roof during a heavy rain storm. All honor to these veterans of early days! We enjoy the result of their labors and hardships. "We were strong healthy and happy" says the departed. He brought the first cow into this township and paid for it by chopping, having cut down trees where the market place at Cobourg is now situated. He had been connected with the Methodist Church nearly 60 years, during the greater part of which time he had been a class leader. The first Methodist service in Otonabee was held in his house, about fifty years ago, he and Mrs. Fife carrying the little child on their backs "to fetch the minister." His children and grandchildren were unremitting in their attentions day and night, and although he was greatly afflicted with shortness of breath, retained consciousness to the last, giving expressions of joy and praise that he was "near the end of the journey," and that he was "safe! safe!" He has gone, but his works remain, and his memory will be cherished by the whole community for whom he labored and prayed. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. Zoreland, Keene. A large assembly escorted the remains to the Fife Cemetery. Truly he has left a monument which time cannot crumble nor deface, and eternity will but strengthen and preserve.

TORONTO.

VISITING THE PRISONERS.—His Grace Archbishop Lynch, accompanied by several of his priests, visited the Central Prison on Friday afternoon. The Catholic prisoners received instructions in the doctrines of their religion, and many attended to the duties prescribed by the Church.

CLOSE OF THE DOG SHOW.—The total receipts at the door of the dog show from Wednesday morning up to six o'clock on Friday afternoon were $1,264. The treasurer said that this, with the entry fees from exhibitors and the proceeds from sales of catalogues, would about clear expenses, and what was taken in between six and ten o'clock on Friday would be clear surplus.

SALVATION ARMY TROUBLES.—Considerable dissatisfaction is expressed at the course adopted by the Salvationists in restricting parties from leaving their meeting house on Little Richmond street except at stated intervals. Parties are invited into the barracks, and then if they attempt to leave, are told that they must remain until singing begins. On Thursday night some young men who were in the building attempted to leave during the proscribed period, and were roughly told to "keep back" by the door-keeper. A row ensued, in which one of the soldiers was severely handled. The police were called in, and the names of the parties taken for the purpose of being summoned to the Police Court.

IT is rumored that negotiations are in progress between the United States and England with the view of securing the extradition in future of persons concerned in dynamite outrages and conspiracies.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand respect—but the grey hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Thousands of men and women lose their beauty with their hair, and very large numbers restore it by using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold J. D. Tully.

THE Secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association states that the total production of iron and steel rails in America in 1883 amounted to 1,300,000 net tons, or 20 per cent, less than in 1882.

THE most prolific source of disease of the kidneys is traced by scientists to the impurities of the water we drink. To guard against this evil, Sir Garnet Wolseley is said to have ordered 10,000 cases of Dr. van. Buren's Kidney Cure for the use of the army. It is the only known remedy that will cure permanently all forms of kidney disease, and every family should keep it.

IT is said that a number of sympathizers with the dynamite gang are about to present a petition to the President of the United States, praying him to intercede on behalf of Dr. Gallagher, who was convicted as a dynamiter in London.

"I HAD BEEN for eight months unable to work, and felt as though I would as lief die as live, through Dyspepsia and Indigestion. I weighed at the time of getting a bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure 130 lbs; used three bottles and now weigh 165, and never was better in my life. It was McGregor's Speedy Cure that brought me around." So says William Pelt, Hamilton. Go to John McKee's drug Store and get a free trial bottle or the regular size for fifty cents and one dollar.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

IT is rumoured that El Mahdi has been urging General Gordon to give up Khartoum and the control of the Soudan to him, on condition that he shall guarantee to hereafter protect the Christian missionaries and merchants and all traders throughout the country.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D. Tully.

McGregor's Speedy Cure.

From the many remarkable cures wrought by using McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and affection of the Liver, and from the immense sale of it without any advertising, we have concluded to place it extensively on the market, so that those who suffer may have a perfect cure. Go to John McKee's drug store and get a trial bottle free, or the regular size at fifty cents and one dollar.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold. A few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1 00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster Sold by J D. Tully.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling above the parts affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for tetter, itch, salt rheum, scald head, erysipelas, barber's itch, blotches, all scaly, crusty skin diseases. Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps) Adpress DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind, colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

The Spirometer.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

Gen. Lindsay was present at the opening of the meeting.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. Geo. E. Williams officiated as the reader of the Scriptures.

Once in a while incidents occur to interrupt the steady progress of the Army. On Saturday evening a man searched through the hall for his daughter, and he declared that if he found her there he would "wring her neck." He became so demonstrative at last that he was conducted down the stairs.

On Sunday afternoon a young lady went forward to the penitent bench. She had only been kneeling there a few minutes when she was led away by a woman who was most probably her mother.

What it Means.

Christianity means to the merchant that he should be honest; to the judge it means that he should be just; to the servant that he should be faithful; to the schoolboy that he should be diligent; to the street sweeper, that he should sweep clean; to every worker that his work should be well done.

Born, not Made.

Newspaper men, like poets, are born, not made. If nature has intended a man for a journalist he will drift in into journalism in spite of all obstacles. He may have been educated as a lawyer, a clergyman, or a backwoodsman, but he will be certain to nibble at journalism till he gets caught.

VAGRANCY.

MONDAY, March 31.—Thomas Morgan, of Galway, was charged with being a vagrant. He appeared to be not right in his mind, and he was committed to gaol for one month, until enquiries could be made concerning him.

REVIEWS.

THE MANHATTAN.—A striking photograph of Edwin Booth, from a photograph by Sarony, forms at once the frontispiece to the April number of Manhattan and the chief illustration of an appreciative account of the great actor by H. C. Pedden, several of his leading characters being also depicted. Matthew Arnold in "Literature and Science" fights vigorously for the "humanities" as the foundation of education. E. V. Smalley in "Recent Tendencies in American Journalism" is severely, but we can hardly say unjustly critical; some of his remarks may also be applied in Canada, and a smaller portion are even applicable to England. A considerable space is devoted to the life, dwelling and works of J. F. Cropsey, N. A., the architect. One of the many engravings is from a drawing in his collection by the Princess Royal of England and Crown Princess of Germany, which is very spirited and well designed, especially considering the youth of the royal artist at the time. Kate Sanburn makes pleasant if rather exaggerated fun of the "Chaucerian Mania." E. E. Evans gives an interesting account of "Rothenburg in Bavaria," the quaint old town, its surroundings and history being described in a lively manner, and profusely illustrated. The continued story "Tinkling Cymbals," developes some striking situations. Julian Hawthorne in "An Autographical Romance" reminds one of his father. "An Easter Egg," a short story by Mrs. Bradley, is timely and pleasing. The poetry is above the average and certainly is not hackneyed. Recent Literature is critically reviewed, and Town Talk pleasantly reported.

HARPER'S MONTHLY.—The April number of Harper has for a frontispiece a beautiful engraving from the original of W. B. Closson of the group of child angels forming the lower portion of Murillo's celebrated painting, "The Immaculate Conception." E. D. R. Bianciardi in "A Lover's Pilgrimage" takes us to Verona, so full of reminiscenses of Shakespeare's (and the world's) Juliet, with profuse illustrations. C. E. Norton invites our company on "A Visit to Sardis," and E. Ingersoll shows us "From the Fraser to the Columbia," the graver ably aiding the pen in both instances. H. Tuttle makes us acquainted with much of the family history of "The Hohenzollerns," assisted by portraits of the celebrated electors, kings and emperors. Col. Higginson gives another chapter in the early history of the United States, under the title of "The Second War for Independence," the times of Madison and the war of 1812. The biography of Edward Bulwer, Lord Lytton, by his son, forms the text for an interesting sketch by C. Kegan Paul. "Modern Sanitary Engineering," by Professor Trowbridge, and "Workingmen's Homes," by R. R. Bowker, are both valuable papers, with many practical suggestions for the formation of healthy homes. The serial tales "Judith Shakespeare" by William Black, and "Nature's Serial Story" by E. P. Roe, are both continued with unabated interest. Charles Reade concludes his striking story "The Picture," and there are several poems of high merit. The editorial records, "Easy Chair" and "Drawer" complete a very interesting number.

THE SPRING DUST.

To the Editor of the Review;

SIR,—"Beautiful Spring" is now upon us, and with it its concomitant, dust. What have our City Fathers done to ameliorate the nuisance? Before taking action in past years they have waited until the dust has permeated everywhere, destroying goods in the shops, making people eyes and throats sore, and causing insidious diseases from breathing the effluvia collected through the long winter months, then they have acted. Would it not be just as cheap to act promptly and prevent the evils complained of. The dust is flying to-day but I see no water cart. I would also call their attention to the necessity for an extension of the water limits. There is only about one-fourth of the ground covered. George street should be watered the whole way to the new Ontario and Quebec railwaw station, to which point there will be considerable travel. The ratepayers are willing to pay for the watering and therefore demand it. Besides other places the Midland railway depot, the steamboat landing and the Ashburnham bridge should also be reached. "Speak now."

Yours, etc.,
March 31st, 1884. VOX POPULI.

A FAIR CLIMATE.

To the Editor of The Review.

SIR,—Seeding commenced up here yesterday. How will that compare with Ontario?

Truly yours,
GEO. T. HILLIARD.
West of Brandon, March 25, 1884.

Pale, Poor, Puny and Pallid

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow; and their skin is drawn tightly over their foreheads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debility that leads to marasmus. Poor things.

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand its mother a bottle of the Shaker Blood Syrup. Here is life even for the most delicate, the most debilitated; for the child almost is given up for dead. Pure blood is what the child needs to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your druggist will tell you what wonders the Shaker Blood Syrup has done for very sick children.

WANTED.

Five Good Live Agents to Sell the Genuine Singer Sewing Machines.

WE CHALLENGE ANY SEWING MACHINE before the public to equal the IMPROVED SINGER, our New High Arm and Light Running and almost noiseless Family Sewing Machine just being introduced

For range of work, perfection of stitch, and ease of operation, it possesses the following advantages over all other Sewing Machines:—

1st. Uses the shortest needle of any Lock Stitch Machine.

2nd. Carries a finer needle with a given size thread.

3rd. Uses a greater number of sizes of thread with one size needle.

4th. Will close a seam tighter with linen thread than any other Machine will with silk.

5th. The shuttle holds the most thread.

6th. Draws the needle thread both down and up while the needle is out of the goods, therefore there is less friction on the needle and thread, consequently tighter and more elastic seam.

7th. It has a positive feed that will not choke in sewing any material.

8th. Sews faster and with less noise than any other shuttle machine.

9th. Will sew a greater number of sizes of thread without change of tension.

10. Will not change tension when sewing with a short or long stitch at varying speed.

FOR FAMILY SEWING IT IS SUPERIOR TO ALL. No one should buy a Sewing Machine without first seeing and trying a Singer.

In addition to our large variety of Family Machines, we also have a full line of Machines for both heavy and light manufacturing purposes, of any description whatever, and run up to 2,000 stitches per minute.

ROYAL COMMISSIONS.

SOME years ago the Reformers having hired some confidential clerks to pillage their masters' desks, having purchased some members of the House of Commons, and having leagued themselves with a blackmailer, brought a false charge in the House and in the press against the Conservative leaders of having sold a charter to foreigners for money to corrupt the electors. A royal commission was issued to three judges to investigate the matter. The Reformers maintained that a royal commission was unjustifiable, and refused to recognize it, saying that the Government should not appoint their own judges. The thieves, blackmailers, fraudulent mine proprietors and slanderers ran away and hid themselves for fear they should be put on oath. It was proved that no charter had been sold, that foreigners had been carefully excluded, and that by far the greater amount of corruption had been on the Reform side, but all the same the thieves, blackmailers, &c., got their reward from the Reform leaders.

Quite recently a charge of attempting to bribe Reform members of the Ontario Legislature having been carefully concocted, was suddenly sprung upon the House in a very theatrical manner, in order to hinder further disclosures of Reform corruption and fraud. From the evidence of the members implicated it appeared that they had sedulously invited bribery, that they had conspired with members of the Administration to become not only spies and informers, but also decoys to tempt political opponents to do something that could be represented as illegal and corrupt, and that the witnesses themselves were of such disreputable character as to make their own account of their misdeeds very probable. The Mowat Administration now thought a royal commission the very proper method to investigate, and saw no objection to a Government choosing the judges in a case where it is accused on the clearest evidence of conspiring to commit illegal and corrupt acts, and to seduce others to commit them. The Conservatives in the Legislature raised no opposition to this proposal, did not deride the suggested court, and certainly will not run away if asked to appear before it, for they are only anxious to investigate the fraudulent proceedings so carefully hidden by the Government and their tools, even to the extent of destroying evidence.

The Conservatives are anxious to bring the truth to light—the Reformers now, as previously, to conceal it. Which, then, is probably the guilty party?

TELEGRAMS AS EVIDENCE.

THE question as to whether telegraph companies can be compelled to produce the messages of their customers without restriction is one of more than immediate importance, and has excited much interest, especially among business men, quite apart from the present occasion.

Now we see no reason why telegrams between public officials should be shielded from publicity any more than similar correspondence by mail or special messenger. Neither do we see why telegrams that might throw light upon the guilt or innocense of an accused man should be withheld from a court investigating the matter.

But it is very certain that some means should be adopted to prevent any wholesale and unnecessary disclosure of private business unconnected with the enquiry. If it is law that a court can compel the indiscriminate production of all the telegrams that have been received or sent by a defendant in any case, the law must be changed. Otherwise, not only a political opponent but even a business competitor would have it in his power to obtain access to the legitimate secrets of his rival by bringing against him some trivial and unfounded charge, and then calling for all his telegraphic correspondence. It would be just as reasonable to ask to examine the whole contents of his letter copying book. If such wholesale production can be compelled it should be left to the court to sift out the documents that are irrelevant, and not expose them to the unchecked scrutiny of a hostile party.

There is another point to be considered. If such an inquisitorial proceeding is legal, telegraph companies, which now retain copies for their own convenience as facilitating their bookkeeping and the verification of their work, would undoubtedly adopt the practice of destroying them as speedily as possible, and thus all evident important and unimportant would be alike lost.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. S. DAVIDSON, Chairman.

Councillor DAVIDSON called the attention of the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee to sections of the agreement with the Gas Company which he said were not carried out.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that if any Councillor had seen that any portion of the agreement was not being carried out, it was his duty to notify him of it.

Councillor DAVIDSON further said that the Chairman of the Charity Committee had furnished him with a detailed statement of the expenditure of that committee. For three months of this year it amounts to $200.

The report was adopted after some discussion.

CHARITY COMMITTEE.

Councillor GREEN read the report of the Charity Committee, which was as follows:—

CHARITY.

To the Mayor and Town Council.

GENTLEMEN,—The Charity Committee begs leave to report as follows regarding the Town Baby:—

On the 18th of March a bond was signed in duplicate by the Mayor, Henry and Nancy Tyler, the latter agreeing for the sum of $60 to adopt and properly bring up and educate the child. The sum of $10 was paid at the time and an agreement was made to pay the balance in two instalments, viz., $20 on April 1st and $30 on October 1st, providing that the agreement made was ratified by the Council, and if such was not done the $10 already paid was to cover a period of five weeks at the usual rate of $2 a week.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. H. GREEN, Chairman.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That the report be referred to the Finance Committee to report.

The amendment was lost, and the report was adopted on the following division:—

YEAS—Councillors Allen, Green, Millar, Yelland, Douglas, Menzies, Hartley and the Mayor.

NAYS—Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Rutherford and Kendry.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Councillor RUTHERFORD submitted the following report of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee:—

Your Committee begs leave to report and recommend that the tender of T. Smith ($699) be accepted, and that the clerk at once have the proper papers made out, to include not only the duties of the tenderer, but also two good and sufficient sureties, contract to commence from the 1st of April, 1884, and continue until March 31st, 1885.

We also recommend that your committee have the power to procure two single watering carts.

Also that ratepayers requiring streets watered outside of the hydrant limits will have to petition this Council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. RUTHERFORD, Chairman.

Mr. W. CLUXTON was heard and said that last year he had on behalf of the Waterworks Company, asked the Council to put in a telephone at the fire hall to connect it with the wheel house, but the matter was left in abeyance. Afterwards the Company had an instrument put in the fire hall, and he asked the Council to pay for it from the 1st of January. He also asked them to appoint a committee to meet the Directors of the Peterborough Water Company to arrange for the water being taken from the hydrants for watering the streets. He also referred to the fact that water was taken from the hydrants to extinguish fires outside of the limits covered by the agreement, and asked the Council to consider whether the Company was not entitled to remuneration for this. This was the first time that the Company had asked the Council for anything, although they had extinguished fires outside of the limits, filled tanks, &c. The Insurance Companies classified the towns A. B. C. D. and E., according to their means of extinguishing fires. Last year Peterborough was classed as E., but he had met the representatives of the companies and showed them the advantages of the new waterworks, and it had been raised to D. This made a difference of 10 or 20 per cent. He also brought before them the question of a fire alarm gong.

Councillor MENZIES asked how it was that the insurance rate had been raised.

Mr. CLUXTON said that the rates had been raised all over the country, but that they would have been much higher in Peterborough if they had not had waterworks.

The MAYOR corroborated what Mr. Cluxton had said in reference to the insurance rates.

Mr. CLUXTON, in reply to Councillor Davidson, said that the town had not taken any hydrants, but that some of the ratepayers had. Last year water was taken from the hydrants to water streets outside of the limits covered by the agreement, and if this was done the company would like to meet a committee of the Council to make arrangements for it.

Councillor HARTLEY said that in voting for the report without knowing what tenders had been received was voting for something they knew nothing about.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that they had received three tenders, one from Mr. Smith for $699, from Mr. McClellan for $700, and from Mr. Toomey for $695.

Councillor YELLAND said that the tenders before the Committee were those from Messrs. McClellan and Toomey, and one from Mr. Smith for $1,100, to furnish two carts, or $800 without carts. Mr. Smith appeared to have found out somehow what the other tenders were and tendered $1 lower than McClellan, to whom the Committee appeared to be favorable.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that he did not know how Mr. Smith got the information, but he had said that he would take it for $700. This made two tenders alike, and the Committee to-night had decided that if Mr. Smith would take it for less they would give it to him, as he was accustomed to the work.

Councillor DOUGLAS said that Mr. Toomey's tender was the lowest, but they did not know him, Mr. Smith was accustomed to the work and had lost a horse in the service, and they thought it should be given to him.

Mr. Toomy and Mr. McClelland were heard by the Council.

Councillor MENZIES moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the report be referred back to the Committee, and that Mr. Smith be requested to do the work until the next meeting of the Council.

Councillor YELLAND moved in amendment to the amendment, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the name of Mr. McClelland be inserted instead of Mr. Smith's, and the report be adopted.

Councillor CAHILL said that Mr. Toomey's tender was the lowest. He had referred them to responsible men in the town, and if a change were made he thought it should be in favour of the lowest tenderer. It would have been better if the tendering had been different, but he thought that, considering all the circumstances, the best way out of the difficulty was to give the work to Mr. Smith, who was now in the employment of the town.

Councillor Menzies withdrew his amendment. Councillor Yelland's amendment was put and lost, and the report was adopted.

LICENSE COMMITTEE.

Councillor RUTHERFORD read the report of the License Committee, recommending that the fees for transient traders be raised to $3 per day.

The report was received.

STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

Councillor CAHILL read the report of the Street and Bridge Committee, which was as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the parties furnishing lumber to the corporation be required to send an invoice with each and every load of lumber delivered, which invoice shall be delivered to the Street and Bridge Inspector, the production of which shall be necessary to entitle the contractor to payment for such lumber.

Your committee also recommend that the parties to whom the contract for lumber is awarded be required to furnish sufficient sureties at once for the due and satisfactory fulfilment of the contract.

For the information of the Council your committee beg to report also that the contract supplying pine plank has been awarded to Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, and the contract for supplying cedar scantling to Mr. Alfred McDonald, the price of the former being $9 per M. and the latter $10 per M.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOMAS CAHILL, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

TRANSIENT TRADERS.

The By-law to amend the By-law regarding transient traders, &c., and raising the amount of the fee to be paid for license to $30 per diem, was passed through the remaining steps and signed.

THE MARKET.

A By-law to amend the market By-law by substituting 11 o'clock in the forenoon for 12 o'clock noon as the hour at which grocers could buy on the market, and to grant licenses for the sale of fresh pork, was passed through the remaining stages and signed.

APPOINTMENTS.

A By-lay confirming the appointment of officers as recommended by the Committee on Appointments, was introduced, passed through its several stages, and signed.

On the motion for the third reading Councillor CAHILL said that the amount of security given by the Clerk was small compared with that of the Collector, especially when their respective salaries were considered. He also noticed that some salaries had been raised, apparently with the concurrence of Councillor Rutherford, who had boasted of saving $2.25 on the wages of men laboring on the street.

CLOSING A PORTION OF A STREET.

The By-law granting 46 feet of Murray street from Reid to Downie streets, to the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company was read a second and third time and passed.

OFFICIAL BONDS.

Councillor MENZIES moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—That all bonds given to this corporation for any purpose, by any official, be subject to the approval of the Mayor and the Chairman of the Finance Committee.—Carried.

A NUISANCE.

Mr. J. STEVENSON was heard and referred to the house on Aylmer street inhabited by Italians. He said that it was in a very filthy condition, and was a nuisance to the neighborhood.

After some discussion, the matter dropped, it being understood that the health officers would look after the house.

THE CORPORATION BUILDING.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That the Mayor and Councillors Millar, Cahill and Menzies be appointed as a committee to find a proper place for a lock-up, also to take steps towards the fitting up of a new Council Chamber in the old bank building.—Carried.

AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor ALLEN,—That the thanks of this Council be tendered to the corporation of the City of Kingston for copies of the consolidated by-laws of that city.—Carried.

A FIRE ALARM.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor GREEN,—That the request of Mr. Cluxton in reference to a fire alarm be referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee.—Carried.

STREET SCRAPING.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor YELLAND,—That the Street and Bridge Committee have the power to have the following streets scraped, viz., George street from Smith to Dalhousie streets, Water street, from London to King streets, and Aylmer street from London to King streets, also all cross streets between Water and Aylmer streets as far north as London and south as far as King streets, the same to be let by contract.

Councillor Cahill asked whether Councillor Rutherford had considered the cost of this work. It would cost a great deal.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that he did not think that this exceeded the area scraped last year.

Councillor DOUGLAS thought that the better way was to leave it in the hands of the Street Inspector.

The motion was adopted.

THE FALLEN HOTEL.

The MAYOR said that when Mr. Roger's building fell the other day, he called a meeting of the Street and Bridge Committee, and they had decided to pay half the cost of removing the debris, so as to prevent the stopping up of the creek. It was in order now for the Council to say whether that arrangement should be continued.

After some discussion, it was decided that the Street Inspector should notify the owner of the building that the Council would be at no further expense regarding it.

MR. SMITH'S HORSE.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That T. Smith be granted $70 in consequence of his horse having been killed while drawing the engine to a fire

Councillor MENZIES moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That $40 be allowed Mr. Smith.

The motion was withdrawn and the amendment carried on the following division:—

YEAS—Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Kelly, Green, Millar, Douglas, Rutherford, Menzies, and Kendry, NAYS—Councillors Allen, YELLAND, and Hartley.

Some discussion took place in regard to a case where charity might be needed, and, at a few minutes to 12 o'clock, the Council adjourned for four weeks.

How Would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly and with certainty. Don't buy dangerous flesh-eating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

RIOTS AT CINICNNATI.

A vast Mob Attempt to Lynch a Murderer—The Militia Called Out—Firing on both Sides—Immense Loss of Life.

CINCINNATI, March 28.—A serious riot broke out here to-night and was continued on Saturday, the result being a collision between the military and the mob, in which numbers of persons were killed and a vast amount of property destroyed. The trouble originated out of the failure of a jury to return a verdict of wilful murder against William Berner, who had been accused of killing Wm. H. Kirk. The verdict returned, which was one of manslaughter caused intense excitement, and a number of hot-headed citizens called a mass meeting to protest against it. Inflammatory speeches were delivered, and the audience were worked up to such a pitch of frenzy that they rushed from the place of meeting and attacked the gaol with the object of getting possession of Berner and hanging him.

BERNER REMOVED.

Vast crowds of people gathered in the vicinity of the gaol. Berner was removed after sentence this afternoon and is now on the way to Columbus. The police upon arriving commanded the crowd to move and not being obeyed they fired, but no one was hurt. The militia was ordered out, but large numbers failed to appear from a disposition not to interfere with the mob. It became known that Berner was at Lovel. The crowd gathered when the train with Moses aboard came in, and when Berner with the officers went to board it, the crowd made a rush for Berner. He ran through the car and escaped, and is still at large. At 12.45 the gaol was fired by the mob, and the crowd on the streets say they will cut the hose to prevent the fire department from extinguishing it.

At 3 a.m. firing of cannon by the mob was heard, the police, however, retained complete control of the gaol.

MARCH, 29th.—The military kept guard while a large crowd, collected by curosity, surrounded the building.

AFFAIRS AT COLUMBUS.

COLUMBUS, March 29.—The riot alarm has been calling the military together for half an hour. Special trains have been sent out for companies at the surrounding towns. A large force starts for Cincinnati this afternoon.

BERNER RECAPTURED

CINCINNATI, March 29.—Berner was caught at Foster's crossing this afternoon. He is in charge of officers, and will be taken to the penitentiary at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—Berner was safely deposited in the penitentiary this evening.

CINCINNATI, March 29.—A Gatling gun belonging to the police force is on duty, and more troops are coming. No organized mob is known. The mob spirit which grew by degrees was not the result of a settled plan. Circulars have been distributed to-day, calling for the organization of a Vigilance Committee, three hundred each ward. Towards night, however, an immense crowd fired the treasurer's office in the court-house and the mob became larger than on the previous (Friday) night.

THE COURT-HOUSE BURNED.

At midnight the riot became furious and the whole court house (which cost a quarter of a million) was burned to the ground. The firing upon the mob has been merciless, whether by the Gatling gun or by the soldiers. No one can estimate the loss or life or the injury by wounds.

ON SUNDAY.

On Sunday the gravity of the situation impressed every one. Everywhere solemnity prevails. The frightful loss of life brings people to realize the awful calamity. There was a noticeable absence of curiosity seekers at the scene of trouble. The place seemed regarded with dread and aversion. There was not near as much travel on the streets in that vicinity as on an ordinary Sunday. Some feeling against the militia was manifested during the forenoon. Stones were thrown at them when opportunity offered.

LARGE FIRE IN TORONTO.

Winan's Factory Gutted—Ninety-Five Thousand Dollars' Loss of Property.

A destructive fire broke out in Winan & Co.'s warehouse, No. 13 Church Street, about half-past four o'clock on Sunday morning.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It probably started in the centre of the building and worked its way rapidly upwards towards the skylight and upper flats. The building contained a large quantity of Canadian and foreign wools, cotton warps, and dressing and fine combs. As the building was completely gutted the contents or rendered valueless. The total loss is estimated at about $90,000. The insurance is $45,000, distributed among several companies. The amounts of each risk could not be definitely obtained as the papers are in the safe, which, being covered with the debris could not be opened.

ARE ALMOST ENTIRELY DESTROYED

Explosion in a Dynamite Factory.

THOMPSON'S POINT, N.J., March 29.—The nitro-glycerine house of the Repauno Chemical Works exploded this morning. Among the killed are supposed to be Lamot Dupont, vice-president of the company: W. N. Hill, superintendent; Norcross, compounder of dynamite and others. A tug has gone to Chester, Pa., for surgeons. The latest report is that seven men were blown up, most of whom were killed. The works are among the largest dynamite manufacturing house of the country, and were operated largely by the Duponts, of Delaware.

The explosion is supposed to have been caused by too much heat being generated by nitric acid. Nothing remains of the building, which was a two-story frame structure. An excavation sufficient to bury a good-sized house has been made in the ground where the building stood, and the houses for a half a mile around are badly shattered.

Execution of Jesse Williams.

CALGARY, March 31.—Jesse Williams was hanged at eight o'clock Saturday morning for the murder of James Adams on Feb. 8th. He passed the night in company with a priest, to whom he made a full confession of his crime. As he stood upon the scaffold just before the fatal signal was given he said this was the third time he had faced death. He had been a soldier and he did not fear it. He had made his peace with God, and he hoped to meet his victim in Heaven. Williams died without a struggle and the body was cut down half an hour later.

Reduction of Miners' Wages.

The proposed reduction of wages for all kinds of labour in the Pennsylvania mines causes great excitement among the miners. A spirited and prolonged strike is threatened unless there is a modification of the new schedule. Fully fifteen thousand discontented miners are ready to throw down their tools and quit the mines as soon as the signal is raised.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Bible Study.

The Young Men's Christian Association have secured the services of the Rev. A. H. Munro to conduct a class for Bible study for young men. Mr. Munro's qualifications as a Bible teacher are of a very high order, and as a proof that he makes the study of Scripture interesting we may state that he has a class of about 70 persons in his own church. We believe he intends to take up a short course on the history of the Bible first, and after that other subjects will be studied. We commend the class to our young men, and hope that the rooms of the Association will soon be too small to hold those wishing to attend. All young men, whether members of the Association or not, will we welcomed and made at home. The class will be held on Monday evenings in the Y.M.C.A. rooms, commencing on the 6th inst. A song service will be held each evening at 7.30 p.m., the class proper at 8 o'clock. To those young in the Christian life this class will be specially valuable. The Association is to be congratulated on having prevailed on Mr. Munro to put his time and valuable acquirements at their disposal.

We announce, promulgate and solemnly declare that Habiliment Hall takes the lead for Gent's Furnishings.

THE SAVED ARMY.

The Officers Elected and their Duties—Lieut. Willis to Leave Peterborough.

The Army meeting on Monday night was a departure from the ordinary routine. A short devotional meeting was held first, during which a number of enquirers went forward to the penitent bench. At the close of this preliminary meeting, all who were not professing christians were asked to leave the hall. When this request was complied with an audience of 400 or 500 was left, composed of church members and converts of the Army.

Lieut. MUNT then stated that the business of the evening was the appointment of officers, and asked the audience to nominate persons whom they thought qualified to fill the positions.

The elections were proceeded with, with the following result:—

SERGEANT-MAJOR.—A. C. Gall.

ASSISTANT SERGEANT-MAJOR.—William. G. Phillips.

REPORTER.—J. H. Wyatt.

SERGEANTS.—Geo. Billings, Chas. Sanderson, Wm. Johnson, Wm. Rogers, Wm. Marshall, Jas. Craig and Jas. Byrne.

CORPORALS.—Miss Annie Jinks, Miss Ada Lasher, Miss Love Dredge, Miss Annie Preston, Miss Sarah Jamieson, Miss Lizzie Boiler and Miss McNeil.

The duty of the Sergeants is to keep order in the hall, take the names of any creating a disturbance and hand them in to the police authorities; and generally to have an oversight of the soldiers.

The Corporals will have in their charge the collections and sale of the Army Trumpet.

The Reporter's work will be to send an account of each meeting for publication in the Trumpet.

Lieut. MUNT made some practical remarks, especially his disapproval of some proceedings on the part of officers and soldiers of the Army. He also asked the young converts to remain in their seats during the enquiry meeting and not go about talking to those present. He would like the more experienced Christians to help in this part of the work, but when those recently converted did so they were usually thought impertinent.

On asking Mrs. Willis to speak, the Lieutenant stated that she would probably be leaving this week for Port Hope, and that he, Lieut. Munt, would be left in charge of this station.

Mrs. WILLIS gave a very practical address to the soldiers, especially commending the study of God's word and prayer as a means of growth in grace. She also spoke to the young ladies on personal appearance, saying that as the servants of Christ there should be something about them to show there was a difference between them and the world. She added naively "you know what I mean." We understand she referred to the mode of dressing the hair.

After several gentlemen had exhorted the soldiers briefly, the meeting closed.

POLICE COURT.

THE LICENSE BY-LAW.

TUESDAY, April 1.—Edward Brown was charged with keeping two billiard tables adapted for the game of fifteen ball pool, without having the necessary license, as required by by-law of the town.

Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared on behalf of the town, and Messrs. C. A. Weller and Geo. Edmison for the defence.

The by-law fixed the fees for "pool tables" at $100, and for billiard tables at $50 and $20. Afterwards a by-law was passed explaining that by "pool table" was meant any table on which fifteen-ball pool might be played. Mr. Brown had three tables, two with pockets and one carom billiard table, without pockets, and between the passing of the two by-laws he took out three billiard table licenses.

For the defence it was contended that the tables were all billiard tables, that pool was not played on them, and that the licenses taken out were sufficient.

The questions to be decided were: Had the Council power to pass a by-law making a difference in the fees to be paid for licenses according to the character of the tables and the games played on them? and, Did the by-law, in the way it was worded, carry that into effect?

The MAGISTRATE reserved judgment.

An Incipient Fire.

At noon to-day the fire alarm was sounded, but by the time the firemen had got the hose reels out of the hall, word was received that their services were not required. The roof of Mr. M. McNeil's house, opposite the Court House green, was ignited from the chimney, but the fire was easily and quickly extinguished.

Fresh and Salt.

Fresh Herring, Fresh Pickerel, Fresh Pike, Smoked Haddie, and Smoked Fish of all kinds on hand. We intend keeping constantly on hand a supply of Fresh Fish, and our customers can depend on getting them at all times, nice and fresh, and at reasonable prices. Fresh Herrings 20 cents per dozen. CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

Pugilistic.

Considerable excitement was caused at the corner of George and Edinburgh streets, at about half past seven o'clock on Monday evening by a pugilistic encounter between some boys. The language made use of was both vigorous and threatening. The approach of a gentleman frightened away two of them, but as they departed the third one received a severe blow on the head. Blood flowed freely as he passed down the sidewalk, and he carries a sore head now.

—The police constables are now required to be on duty on Sundays as well as through the week.

—Judging from the case in the Police Court this morning one would think that our Town Councillors would not know the difference between a pool table and the Goose Pond.

—During the month of March 129 tramps were accommodated with lodgings in the cells, and during the first three months of this year the number that lodged in the cells was 343.

WANTED.

Five Good Live Agents to Sell the Genuine Singer Sewing Machines.

WE CHALLENGE ANY SEWING MACHINE before the public to equal the IMPROVED SINGER, our New High Arm and Light Running and almost noiseless Family Sewing Machine just being introduced

For range of work, perfection of stitch, and ease of operation, it possesses the following advantages over all other Sewing Machines:—

1st. Uses the shortest needle of any Lock Stitch Machine.

2nd. Carries a finer needle with a given size thread.

3rd. Uses a greater number of sizes of thread with one size needle.

4th. Will close a seam tighter with linen thread than any other Machine will with silk.

5th. The shuttle holds the most thread.

6th. Draws the needle thread both down and up while the needle is out of the goods, therefore there is less friction on the needle and thread, consequently tighter and more elastic seam.

7th. It has a positive feed that will not choke in sewing any material.

8th. Sews faster and with less noise than any other shuttle machine.

9th. Will sew a greater number of sizes of thread without change of tension.

10. Will not change tension when sewing with a short or long stitch at varying speed.

FOR FAMILY SEWING IT IS SUPERIOR TO ALL. No one should buy a Sewing Machine without first seeing and trying a Singer.

In addition to our large variety of Family Machines, we also have a full line of Machines for both heavy and light manufacturing purposes, of any description whatever, and run up to 2,000 stitches per minute.

The Student's Appointments.

The Home Mission Committee have appointed the following students of Queen's College to the mission fields in the Peterborough Presbytery:—Messrs. D. C. Cameron, Orr Bennett and A. S. Grant.

Funeral.

The body of Johnnie Dion, son of Capt. Leon Dion, having been recovered from the watery grave in the bay, was this afternoon interred in the Roman Catholic Cemetery. The funeral was largely attended by friends and acquaintances of the parents of the unfortunate boy.

Fine Cattle.

Mr. C. D. Moore has just sold two thoroughbred Durham steers to Mr. Geo. Webber for shipment to Montreal for the Easter market. They were raised by the well known breeder, Mr. Robt. Grandy, of Manvers, and have been fed by Mr. Moore, their appearance doing great credit to his skill as a feeder. Their weight on the market scales was 1,820 lbs. and 1,810 lbs. respectively, and the price paid was 8½ cents a pound. Mr. Moore's best steer is just 300 lbs. lighter than the 1st prize grade steer of the same age at the Toronto fat stock show.

The Holy Land.

The lecture on Tuesday night by the Rev. T. W. Paterson, of Toronto, on "A Tour in the Holy Land," illustrated by dissolving views, was, as may be supposed, interesting in the extreme, both to those who have made the Bible and the Holy Land their special study, and to others. The rev. gentleman is a talented lecturer, and explained the scenes depicted very clearly, giving his hearers a thorough insight into all the places of interest which are mentioned in the Bible. The audience was comparatively large, and the lecture was listened to with interest and enjoyed by all present. In the midst of the proceedings a stone was thrown through a window in the upper end of the hall and created much excitement for a time.

Pencil Points.

—Stormy this morning.

—The moon reaches her first quarter at 9.17 o'clock to-night.

—There were eight tramps in the cells last night.

—Boys, remember that "pool table" is an unlawful term.

—There was a very small attendance on the market this morning. It couldn't have been much smaller.

—A man was arrested and ran in by constable Pidgeon this afternoon. He will be interviewed by the Magistrate in the morning.

—There are some who think that the summer solstice has slipped the memory of old Sol, and that we are now in next winter.

—Very few persons were "April fooled" yesterday, if you take their word for it. The agent of the telephone company threatens to prosecute the persons who prostituted their lines for fooling purposes. The defence will be that they are tele-fun lines.

—A Belleville paper says that "Constable Newton took in a drunkard this morning." That is nothing to boast of. If he had "taken in" a cute, sober Yankee, or a hay-fork agent, it might have been something to brag about.

"Hub" Cough Cure, 25 Cents.

Prescription of a Boston physician, dispensed years by a Boston Druggist. One dose will cure any ordinary cough. It acts almost magically. Ask J. D. Tully for a 25 cent bottle of Hub Cough Cure.

POLICE COURT.

THE LICENSE BY-LAW.

WEDNESDAY, April 2.—The MAGISTRATE gave judgment in the case of Beavis vs. Brown, regarding the billiard tables. He said:—It appears that what is here called a pool table is simply a billiard table on which a game called pool was played. There are several games of pool. One kind can be paid on billiard tables without pockets, and another kind requires pockets in the tables. It appears that Brown has two tables with pockets on which a game of billiards called pool is played. The town by-law licenses billiard tables at $50 and pool tables at $100. No such table as a pool table is known. It is simply the ordinary billiard table generally used in England and this country, until the recent introduction of the American "carom" billiard table—that is, a table without pockets. I think a license for a billiard table is a license for a billiard table with pockets or without them. Brown got his licenses for his billiard tables in February, and in March the Council passed a by-law declaring that by the word pool table in their first by-law they meant a billiard table with pockets, and they now require Brown to pay $100 each for his so-called pool tables. If a pool table is anything else than a billiard table the Council have no power under the municipal law to pass a by-law prohibiting its use. If it is a billiard table, as it certainly is, then Brown has paid his license for them, and it is too late after he has his license for the present year to impose a greater tax on him because his tables have pockets. I do not say that the Council may not charge different rates for different kinds of billiard tables, but I think that the original by-law does not sufficiently distinguish between the different kinds of tables, and the last by-law is passed too late to affect his rights under the license he had obtained before it was passed. The complaint will be dismissed without costs.

Fisheries Exhibition.

OTTAWA, March 31.—A certificate of award of a diploma of honor for special services rendered in connection with the late International Fisheries Exhibition in London has been forwarded to the following gentlemen in Canada:—Sir Charles Tupper, K.C.M.G., Sir Alexander Galt, G. C. M. G., Hon. A. W. McLelan, Hon. Hugh Nelson, Prof. Honeyman, D. C. L., F.R. S.C., Mr. Samuel Wilmot, Mr. W. R. Dimock, B.A., Mr. L. H. Joncas. The certificates were sent through the High Comissioner for Canada, and each was accompanied by a circular letter from the secretary of the exhibition which states that owing to the elaborate nature of the design which prevented the artist from delivering the diploma at the time originally agreed upon, and the laborious process of reproduction which necessitates some months of execution, it cannot be delivered until summer.

Congress on Mr. Sargent.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—A motion will probably be made in the House, when it considers the Consular and Diplomatic Bill, to strike out the appropriation for the pay of the Minister to Germany, and it is thought the motion will be adopted. Members of the House Committee on Appropriations pronounce the story absurd that the Committee will not make provision for the continuation of the legation at Berlin.

In the House, Finerty introduced a resolution declaring that the thanks of Congress are due and are hereby accorded to Minister Sargent for the able, faithful and dignified manner in which he has discharged the duties of his office while representing the interests of this Republic at the Court of the German Empire.

It is said that one reason why Mr. Sargent declined the Russian mission was because he could not maintain the legation on the salary.

Sandwich Gaol Again.

WINDSOR, March 31,—The gaol at Sandwich, which has lately obtained such notoriety from the facility with which prisoners confined there make their escape, apparently without any difficulty, and the insecure state of which, as proved by recent occurrences, seems to be regarded by the Mowat regime as a matter of course, requiring no special exertion on their part to put an end to, was nearly the scene of a general escape of prisoners on Sunday. Owing to the reticence of the officials it is difficult to obtain any particulars, but enough has been learned to show that a plot was in existence among those confined therein to effect the release of every prisoner, and that a complete outfit of tools necessary to accomplish their purpose had been secreted in one of the cells. The discovery was made and the tools secured only just in time to frustrate the conspiracy and prevent the escape of all the prisoners.

Satisfactory Phase of Recent Journalism.

One feature of the present phase of Journalism is especially satisfactory. The newspapers are more free from the influence of the politicians than ever before. Even the strong party papers display a robust independence. They criticise freely the measures and leaders of their own party. Indeed, they are themselves the leaders of the organizations they report. The political chief in Congress is much more influenced by the opinions and wishes of the editors in New York, Boston and Chicago than the editors are by his. Except in the case of a few obscure sheets that live upon municipal patronage, the daily papers do not care for the views of this or that party "boss" or leading statesman, save as a matter of news. Their opinions on politices are their own. This independence of the dictation and influence of professional politicians extends to the weekly press, which has largely outgrown its old subserviences to the dispensers of the county patronage and become manly and self-reliant.—E. V. Smalley, in The Manhattan.

TELEGRAPHIC EVIDENCE.

THE independent Toronto Telegram makes a suggestion as to telegraphic evidence, and advocates what seems to be fair play, of course apart from the question of the right of the company and of business men to maintain secrecy as to private business. The Telegram says:—

"Perhaps an arrangement could be come to by which the Dominion Government would consent to the production by the telegraph companies of all the messages received by wire from, and forwarded to, persons accused of conspiracy to buy members, on condition that the Ontario Government consented to the production of all messages received from, and forwarded to, its agents in Algoma during the recent election campaign. What is sauce for the Tory goose is sauce for the Grit gander."

This is, however, the very last thing to which the Mowat conspirators would willingly assent, as the main object in their plot to induce bribery (after they had bought back those of their supporters who were deserting them on the timber question), was to raise a cloud that would at least for a time check the thorough investigation of their Algoma frauds. They are not likely to assent to the production of evidence as to their disgraceful plot to disfranchise the Conservatives of Algoma, for their chief anxiety is to hide their illegalities there.

HUDSON BAY SURVEY.

THAT the Imperial authorities decline to assist in the survey of the Hudson Bay and straits, and excuse themselves by condemning the navigation without full information, is a matter that will probably be set right after a little gentle pressure upon them. They have a number of officers who are experienced in such duties, and have vessels also to spare. When the route is opened many vessels flying the Union Jack will undoubtedly be found there, and if some of them are lost owing to defective Admiralty charts, the British public may have something to say. The Gladstone Administration has a knack of "economising" and hesitating, till in the end there is a heavy expenditure of life and money. The Conservative Administration of Sir John Macdonald shows a more laudable readiness to assist in developing the resources of the Dominion.

A FORGERY.

A FORGED letter bearing the alleged signature of the Hon. D. L. Macpherson is paraded by Reform papers in juxtaposition with a statement made by that gentleman, with the design of misrepresenting him as having contradicted himself.

Because we censured this iniquitous conduct the Port Hope Guide attacks us, and endeavors to make out that we are contradicting the sworn testimony of the Hon. Mr. Morris. The truth is that Mr. Morris testified to another and genuine letter being in the hand writing of Mr. Macpherson. This letter contains no contradiction of Mr. Macpherson's statement, and therefore the organs of the conspirators have forged an alteration in it, on purpose to parade this manufactured discrepancy, and also to bear out the false statement of Mr. Mowat in the Legislative Assembly.

TRAP-SETTING "PATRIOTS."

IN an article on the bribery plot, the evils of which it of course attributes greatly to its bugbear "the party system," the Independent Montreal Star says:—

"In the light of the evidence thus far taken in the bribery cases there is ground for the opinion that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues were just a little too anxious to entrap their enemies into corrupt acts. There was a little too much of downright lying on the part of the incorruptible patriots to make a very pleasant story of the whole business. There was a little too much self-glorification on their part afterwards, but not more, unfortunately, than we have learned to expect from politicians of the school to which they belong."

Cricketers for Canada and the States.

The well-known English professional cricketer, Alfred Shaw, writes as follows from Nottingham, Eng.:—"We are sending several professionals to America and Canada this season. One of them, Isaac Chambers, one of the Nottingham colts of 1883, sails on the City of Berlin. He goes to the Longwood Club, of Boston, to whom he was highly recommended by George Lane, the Staten Island club's professional. As yet it is not decided whether our team to visit Australia will go via America or not. The eleven we have selected to go will be composed of the very best professional talent in England."

THE CINCINNATI RIOTS.

A PARALLEL TO THE GREAT NEW YORK DRAFT RIOTS

Three Nights of Terror—Over Fifty Men Killed—A Hand to Hand Fight between the Police and Mob—Clearing the Streets with Gatlings.

HOW THE TROUBLE BEGAN.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 29.—The excitement over the Berner case has terminated in serious riot. Yesterday afternoon it was reported that an organization was formed by the Germans, not only to hang Berner, but the other prisoners in the gaol charged with murder. Berner, in spite of the clearest evidence, was brought in guilty of manslaughter in the first degree. Several of the jurors have been mobbed since the trial, and fearing that a mob might carry out the threats publicly made, the authorities determined to take every precaution to protect the prisoner. Berner was quietly brought before Judge Matthews at two o'clock in the afternoon and sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years—the full limit of the law—and was immediately taken to Columbus. Ten thousand persons gathered at the Music Hall in response to a call by reputable citizens to take action on the verdict, most of whom could not get inside the building. When the meeting adjourned the people by a common impulse moved down Twelfth street, where shouts began to be uttered, "To the gaol!" and the crowd moved bodily in that direction, and began an attack on the front door. At 9.40 p.m. the riot alarm was sounded. The police upon arriving in the vicinity of the gaol, commanded the crowd to move on, and, not being obeyed fired, but as no one was hurt it is persumed that they fired in the air. A shot or two was fired from the gaol, but the crowd refused to move. At 11 p.m. the report came from the gaol that the crowd had got inside. They had previously broken into a blacksmith shop and had taken all the tools they could find. There was apparently no resistance to the mob, and, on the other hand, no violence was offered to persons by the mob. The militia were called out, and the First Regiment, Ohio National Guard, entered the gaol at half past eleven p.m., having been marched through the front entrance of the Court House, and thence through a tunnel into the gaol where the mob was thronging. The police inside the gaol arrested some of the first members of the mob that entered, but this soon became impracticable. It now appears that Berner after he was sentenced, was disguised placed in a buggy, and driven to Linwood, where they got aboard the Morrow accommodation and went to Loveland to await the arrival of the necessary papers for his committal to the penitentiary. When it became known that Berner was at Loveland, a crowd gathered and made a rush for Berner. He ran through the car and escaped, but was recaptured and is now lodged in the penitentiary at Columbus. When the mob discovered Berner was not in the gaol they attempted to take Johnson, one of the murderers of the Taylor family out of his cell. Battering rams could not be used in the narrow corridor, and the police drove back the assailants before the door was forced.

SATURDAY'S RIOTING.

10 a.m.—Some heavy saw beams used last night to batter open the doors of the gaol were carried within, serving for props to secure all the other doors. The gaol officers and gaolers' residence had scarcely an unbroken article about them; even the large heating stoves are wrecked. Turnkey McHugh's wife and children passed a night of terror, the mob crying out "Take out the women and children, we are going to set fire!" Late this evening the police and soldiers are busy under Sheriff Hawkin's directions, barricading the streets in every direction at a distance of a hundred yards from the gaol. Large transfer waggons are upturned and building material, wood, stone and iron from the neighborhood are appropriated. A Gatling gun belonging to the police is on duty. There is no organized mob, but it is known the mob spirit has grown by degress. It was not the result of a settled plan. Circulars have been distributed to-day calling for the organization of a vigilance committee of three hundred for each ward.

A TERRIBLE NIGHT.

9 p.m.—Sheriff Hawkins had protected every approach except the Court House front. An immense crowd gathered there. The large plate glass windows were crushed in by boulders. This will give an entrance to the goal yard and the goal through the tunnel, but only to a small number at a time.

Midnight—Such a night of blood as this has not before darkened the history of Cincinnati. It is impossible to ascertain the true situation. Men have been killed several squares from the scene of the riot. One man was shot at Fountain Square, six squares from the Court House. The fire started by rolling in barrels of coal oil and setting it on fire, and keeping everybody out. Captain Desmond entered to subdue the firmes and was instantly killed. The flames went their own way. The mob would not let the firemen use the engines. The structure, which cost a quarter of a million slowly burned. The loss is irreparable in the valuable records.

THE DEATH LIST.

March 30.—At one o'clock this morning the mob seemed, to observers not tainted with its spirit, to be of the Parisian order. Men, apparently courting death, stood within range of the guns. A volley was fired, wounding several and killing Frank Gallagher. When the treasurers office was fired there was a hand-to-hand fight between the police and the mob. A number of rioters arrested and taken into the gaol refused to give their names. Many of them were well dressed, good looking men.

THE MOB ARMED WITH CANNON.

At 2.30 a.m. it was discovered that the mob had three cannon, obtained from the music hall. At 3 a.m. the Fourth Regiment had been placed in front of the Court House with unloaded guns, and were keeping the crowd back, but were pelted with brickbats and occasionally a pistol was fired. Lieut. Liggett is wounded. The mob in possession of the cannon were moving up Fourth Street when a squad of thirty police charged upon them, capturing the guns and dispersing the crowd. At 3.45 comparative quiet had been restored and the mob dispersed. The dead are still lying in the streets in the vicinity of the conflict. A safe estimate of the killed makes the number 50 to 75. Only a small portion are identified or the names preserved. The scene of the trouble at daybreak this morning was very peaceful. Two hours before a small crowd gathered round a drug store to see the patrol waggon take away the dead men. The militia, mistaking the movement, fired, killing one and wounding one. All along the street are blood stains, where the men killed or wounded fell.

INCOMPETENT AUTHORITIES.

The burning of the Court House was purely malicious and aimless. There was no excuse for the failure to protect it. Fifty soldiers properly placed could have defended it. The crowd were permitted to go to the very windows and break them without resistance. Some one suggested to cast some light on the subject, and the building was fired. Another said "this will be the Paris of America, sure enough," and the crowd cried "burn the d—d militia out." The bad management of Sheriff Hawkins is severely commented on. The Fourteenth Regiment was expected at nine o'clock and did not arrive until dnight, but it cleared the streets and gave the authorities control of the entire space about the Court House and gaol. The Fourth Regiment was a total failure. It marched to within three squares of the Court House and then marched back to the depot. The colonel said the troops scattered and he could not get them together. There is good evidence that two or three hundred men composed the bulk of the violent active rioters and these were not fully armed. When the attack was made on Powell's gun store at midnight, the first man who entered was shot dead; the second fared the same; the third fell severely wounded. Efforts were made to fire the building, but the proprietor from the upper story window, fired some well directed shots and the crowd went away. To-day the gravity of the situation impresses every one. Everywhere solemnity prevails. The frightful loss of life brings people to realize the awful calamity. There was a notably absence of curiosity seekers at the scene of the trouble to-day. The place seemed regarded with dread and aversion. The feeling against the militia was manifested during the forenoon. Stones were thrown at them when the opportunity offered. This was so annoying that the police were placed next to the people. Threats were then shouted. "Wait till to-night!" "Wait till we get good and drunk and we'll hoist you blue coated men from behind your barrels," were among the things said. The Mayor has the assistance of a committee of one hundred of the most prominent citizens, with General J. D. Cox as leading adviser.

THE RIOTING RENEWED.

9.45 a. m.—The treasurer's office in the court house has been fired. All the large glass windows in front of the court house are broken. The mob have fired revolvers and thrown boulders at the militia, and it is supposed used blank cartridges. The mob is greater than last night and there are more drunken men in it. There are rumours that the mob has a quantity of dynamite, and that three thousand men are coming up from Kentucky to reinforce them. When the inflammable substance was thrown into the Treasurer's office the troops fired. The balls drove the mob back, many being wounded and possibly many killed. The treasurer's office is already doomed and the court house seems likely to burn down.

3 p. m.—Fred. Smaltz, bar-keeper, has just been shot by a militiaman and instantly killed. He advanced beyond the limit, was turned back by a militia man, refused to return, and was instantly shot. There was great excitement when the body was borne off by the patrol. Mayor Stephens, who has been dangerously ill, left his bed to give directions. The control of the civil and military authority is in his hands.

MONDAY MORNING.

March 31, 12. 15 a.m.—The mob has taken possession of the roofs of the houses and is firing down upon the milita in line in front of the Court House. The crowd has almost entirely fallen back from Court street. It is very evident the backbone of the mob is broken.

There are as many as twenty-five hundred to three thousand soldiers now here

THE CITY QUIET ONCE MORE.

2 a.m.—Undoubtedly the presence of the large force brought the riot to an end. The police are resuming control of the streets and breaking up whatever found the little bands of marauding thieves. The police reported everybody going home and the city perfectly quiet.

Immigration.

In the House of Commons on Monday, Mr. Patterson, of Brant, "on motion to go into supply, moved that no public money may be spent in assisting Canada mechanics, artisans, clerks and laborers, contending that the Canadian Pacific had not accomplished the amount of imigration promised when the contract was awarded."

The Reform party occupies a peculiar position as regards immigration. The Reform papers in the East systematically misrepresent the C. P. R., falsify its rates, declare that the settlers are persecuted, and, generally speaking, do their best to keep emigrants away. The Reform leaders here go a step further and, in the name of the farmers, pass a resolution setting forth that farming does not pay in the Northwest and warning settlers against coming in. Then Mr. Patterson coolly rises in the House and condemns the C. P. R. immigration department for not inducing more people to settle here! Knocking a man and then kicking him for falling is not fair play:—Winnipeg Times.

Turkey and Egypt.

Musurus Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador, has informed Earl Granville that the Porte has prepared a circular to the powers asking that the Conference at Constantinople on the Egyptian question be resumed. The Porte offers to withhold the circular if England consents to negotiate with the Porte alone for a settlement of the Soudan question.

How Would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly and with certainty. Don't buy dangerous flesh-eating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

A CALL for ten million three per cents will probably be issued in the States.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Rival Railways in Hastings County—Newfoundland Hitting at Canada—Ontario and Dominion Finances—The Provincial Subsidies—Judge Hughes Again.

CENTRAL ONTARIO RAILWAY.

Mr. PLATT on Monday moved the House into Committee on the bill to enable the Central Ontario Railway to extend its line northward to connect with the C. P. R.

Mr. WHITE (Hastings) moved an amendment in Committee to the effect of giving reciprocal running powers to the Central Ontario and Midland Railways from their junction at Eldorado. This would obviate the necessity for two parallel rival lines.

Mr. PLATT said the Central Ontario would agree to such an arrangement but not to its insertion in the bill, as it would interfere with their raising money.

Mr. CAMERON (Victoria) objected to such restrictions upon foreign capitalists who were developing the country without public aid. He held that the Midland charter for a road farther north had expired.

Mr. BOWELL showed that Belleville, Madoc and Hastings county were interested in this question as they had contributed $260,000 to this division of the Midland Railway and they should not be shut off from connection with the C.P.R.

After some further discussion the amendment was negatived and the bill was read a third time.

WAREHOUSING TOBACCO.

Mr. COSTIGAN in reply to Mr. Weldon, said special licenses could be obtained for warehousing tobacco.

NEWFOUNDLAND EXCITED.

Mr. DESJARDINS asked whether the Government had received information relating to the recent resolution enacted by the Legislature of Newfoundland to the following effect:—"There shall be a duty of one hundred per cent. imposed upon all packages containing merchandise imported into this colony, provided that this duty shall not be levied until a proclamation by the Governor in Council shall first issue and shall then be made to apply to importations from countries to be mentioned therein, which shall levy a tax on packages from this colony, or in which the inspection of merchandise from this colony is made compulsory," and whether it is the intention of the Government to take any action in the matter so far as Canadian trade might be affected by it.

SIR L. TILLEY replied that communications had been received from the Board of Trade and Corn Exchange, Montreal, and the Government were giving the matter their best attention.

ONTARIO LAND FUND.

Mr. HESSON asked as to the balance due to Ontario on the Land Improvement Fund, and the interest allowed. Also if Ontario had demanded payment in full, and if the supplementary estimates would provide for such payment.

Sir L. TILLEY said the arbitrators had awarded the Upper Canada Improvement Fund to Ontario, and that $124,685 being a quarter of the receipts of the Common School Fund between 1861 and 1867. A correspondence was taking place as to that and other funds, and it was hoped that a settlement of all accounts between the Dominion and Ontario would be arrived at during the recess.

DOMINION EXHIBITION.

Sir L. TILLEY, in reply to Mr. Gault, said that the location of the Dominion Exhibition for this year had not been decided.

PROVINCIAL SUBSIDIES.

Sir LEONARD TILLEY gave notice that he would move the House into committee to-morrow on his resolution with reference to provincial subsidies. In doing so he stated that he would make the following addition to the resolution:—And, further, that as respects the Provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba, and Prince Edward Island, the amount hitherto included and allowed as the debts of these provinces respectively shall be increased by such amounts as shall make the total amounts thereof respectively bear the same proportion to the respective populations of the said provinces, as ascertained by the census of 1881, as the total amounts calculated and allowed as the respective debts of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia, as provided hereby, shall bear to the respective populations of the last named provinces, as ascertained by the said census of 1881, and the amount of such increases to the said provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island shall be deemed capital owing to the said provinces respectively, and shall bear interest at the rate of five per cent. as part of their respective subsidies. The object of this amendment was to make the arrangement fair. For instance now if the amounts to be placed to the credit of Ontario and Quebec, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, averaged $1.50 per head, the same average would be placed to the credit of Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, and British Columbia.

JUDGE HUGHES.

Mr. WILSON, on the motion to go into Committee of Supply, complained of no action having been taken on the petitions against Judge Hughes. It was incorrect that there was no petition, for one was presented in 1862 and another in 1883. The Department of Justice said that the latter contained no specific charges. Then another petition with detailed charges was presented. This was returned as being unsigned, when signatures were procured and it was again sent to Ottawa. This was now before the Government. He disclaimed any personal feeling in the matter.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD said he thought they need not reconsider the old petition of more than twenty years ago. When he recently answered a question on this subject he had learned from the Department of Justice that the second petition had been returned for signatures, dates, and more specific charges, and had not been received again. Since then he had received a letter from a gentleman stating that the petition had been returned signed, whereupon he had enquired of the department and was expecting their answer, when he would inform the House.

SUPPLY.

The House then went into committee of supply and passed several items.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES.

Sir L. TILLEY brought down the supplementary estimates for the current year.

Trickett again Beaten

The regatta at Sydney N. S. W., on Anniversary day (January 26) was very successful. The only event of interest for Canadian readers was the race for the sculling championship, in which E. Trickett and W. Beach met to fight their battle over again. Beach, who continues to improve, once more showed his superiority over the ex-champion, whom he defeated easily but as there was a foul, and both men were considered in fault, the umpire ordered them to row again the following Saturday.

Toys and National Traits.

"Show me a nation's toys," said Mr. Crandall, the "children's friend," to a Brooklyn reporter the other day, as the pair sat in his upstairs toy ware-room, and I will tell you what kind of people they are. Now, the Germans, you know, are a great toy nation—they go in for quantity rather than quality. They manufacture cheap toys, and every child in the country has them. Every German child has plenty of toys—what is the result? Why we find them the most sociable, kindly, honest people in the world, possessed of all the household virtues, kind to their wives and children. Then the French, they go in for quality, rather than quantity; everything they make is a work of art. Their children have few toys, and those they have are very expensive, and must be played with in a quiet, genteel way. How do we find the French? Why, very polite, refined, suave. Take the Chinese. They are a great toy nation; they ascend to the sky and descend into the sea for ideas in regard to toys, and spare no pains in making them. Dragons, and giants, and dwarfs, and strange fish, and sea serpents, and curious nondescript beings and animals, all serve, and they give the children plenty of them; result is that the Chinese are like the Germans—among themselves sociable, great for feast days and celebrations, and very industrious. Japanese are much the same. The English now run more on outdoor toys and games which exercise—projectiles, tennis, football, cricket, shinny, hoops, marbles, The boys play tag, pullaway and all such running games, and the girls play ring games. How do we find the English? Jovial, athletic, rough and boisterous. Again look at the Spaniards: very few toys they use. What is the result? Why, they are treacherous, harsh, implacable. Then the Indians—our own Indians—the only toy they have is the bow. Well, now, this cultivated the killing instincts only. What was the result? Why, we have had to kill them all off; they were entirely untameable. The Exquimaux, he has no toys at all, and he is the meanest specimen of mankind in the world."

Matthew Arnold.

"Is Mr. Matthew Arnold lecturing here to night?" asked a stranger of the ticket seller.

"Yes, sir. Do you want a seat?"

"Yes if you please."

He was handed the ticket, and as he started to go the gentleman at the box office remarked.

"Please go up stairs as quietly as you can, sir; the audience is asleep."—Philadelphia Call.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required in nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

Methodist Union Celebration.

The Methodist Union Bill has now passed both the Commons and the Senate, says the Mail, and only awaits the royal assent for it to become law. A similar measure was introduced into the Local Legislature and passed without opposition. The only change of importance made in both bills was to alter the date on which the union should take place from July 1st to June 1st. This was done in order to render legal the meetings of the first annual conference of the united body, which, according to the constitution, will meet in June. It is proposed to celebrate the consummation of Methodist Union by appropriate religious services in all the churches of Canada, and already steps have been taken by Rev. Dr. Rice towards that end.

An Appreciated Vocalist.

The Winnipeg Times of March 26, contains the following letter which will be of interest to the many friends and acquaintances of the writer in Peterborough:—

"SIR,—In reading the report of Mr. Little's concert in this morning's Free Press I notice my name handled pretty roughly. It states that it was not fair to the ladies and gentleman taking part to be in such company, and that the only ones I pleased were the youngsters of the audience. Now, sir, I want to Victoria Hall on a moment's notice, as it was a benefit. I did my best and made a hit, I had four encores in my character songs. I think my character will compare favourable with the rest of the company. I may not have pleased the musical critic of the morning paper, but I don't think he knows a song from a drama.

Yours respectfully,

SID B. HENTHORNE,

March 26. Motto and character vocalist.

SCHOOL SUPERVISION.

Mr. Millar submitted the following report of the Committee on School Supervision:—

To the Board of Education:—

GENTLEMEN,—You Committee on school supervision beg to report:

That they have had under consideration the communication of Mr. Coleman, referred to them by the Board at the last regular meeting, and with a view of removing the difficulty and affording Mr. Coleman an opportunity of more efficiently supervising the different departments of the Public Schools. They would recommend,

That a teacher be employed, capable of teaching Mr. Coleman's room for half a day, and instructing in writing and drawing during the other half of the day.

Also, that the old system of visiting committees, by which it was provided that two members of the Board in each month be appointed to visit the schools.

They would further recommend that the chemicals and apparatus required by the Principal for use in the Collegiate Institute be obtained, provided they do not cost over fifty dollars.

Your Committee would also report that they have received tenders for stationery, &c., required by the schools for the current year, and would recommend that the lowest tender, that of A. L. Davis & Co., be accepted.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

MELVILLE MILLAR, Chairman.

Peterborough, March 4, 1844.

Mr. ERRETT opposed the appointment of an additional teacher.

Mr. DUMBLE argued that the additional teacher was necessary in order to allow the Head Master time to oversee the other rooms and the Ward Schools, for which the Board held him responsible.

Mr. KENDRY agreed with Mr. Erret that it would not be advisable to have two teachers in one room, as they might teach on different principles.

Mr. ERRETT moved, seconded by Mr. DENNE, That the part of the report recommending the engagement of an additional teacher be struck out, and that the Inspector be required to do the work of supervision of the schools now expected to be done by Mr. Coleman, his salary to be increased $100 to compensate him for the extra work.

Mr. SPROULE said that the law required a teacher for every certain number of pupils, and the number of pupils in the schools required another teacher. It would take the Inspector about half a year to do the work required, and the salary offered was inadequate.

Mr. RUTHERFORD asked whether the Inspector was competent to do the work. At any rate the Inspector could not devote sufficient time to the work. He suggested that either Mr. Coleman should give his whole time to the supervision of the schools, and a teacher be placed in his room, or that a competent inspector be employed, who would devote all his time to the schools.

Mr. COLEMAN was heard and said that the two teachers in the room would not clash, as they would teach different subjects, and that giving the head master time to supervise the different rooms would improve the schools.

After further discussion the portion of the report referring to the engagement of an extra teacher was referred to the special committee on schools, and the remainder of the report was adopted.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

On motion of Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Wrighton, Mr. Errett's name was added to the Finance Committee.

THE SCHOOL WELLS.

Mr. SPROULE said that complaints were made as to the water in the school wells, and he suggested that samples be analysed by a competent person.

Mr. WRIGHTON said that the water at the Central School was good, and the janitor of the West Ward School said the water was good there.

It was decided that the Chairman should get samples of the water to be inspected by members of the Board.

NON-RESIDENT PUPILS.

Mr. ERRETT moved, seconded by Mr. DENNE,—That the fees to be paid by non-resident pupils attending the public schools be 50 cents per month.—Carried.

THE VISITING MEMBERS.

Mr. MILLAR moved, seconded by Mr. SPROULE,—That the following members of the Board be the Visiting Committees for the year, and that they report monthly:—April,—Messrs. Sawers and Kendry; May,—Messrs. Dumble and Millar; June,—Dr. Burnham and Mr. Sproule; September,—Messrs. Errett and Stratton; October,—Messrs. Wrighton and Weir; November,—Messrs. Rutherford and Denne; December, Messrs. Cox and Stratton; January,—Messrs. Stevenson and Dumble; February,—Messrs. Sawers and Kendry.—Carried.

SLANG PHRASES TO BE CHECKED.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. MILLAR,—That it is desirable that all the teachers in the service of this Board should use every effort, by precept and example, to check the use of vulgar and slang expressions. This Board is of opinion that the teachers cannot be too careful in avoiding the use of the common vulgar and slang expressions which, without any countenance from the teachers, pupils are unfortunately prone to use. And that a copy of the resolution be sent to every teacher in the schools.—Carried.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

Mr. WRIGHTON read the report of the Property Committee, as follows:—

To the Board of Education:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your Property Committee, to whom was referred the petition of John Lachine for an increase of salary, also that of Cole Barrett with reference to the cutting of wood for the West Ward School, beg leave to report that John Lachine has agreed to continue as janitor without any increase of salary and that Cole Barrett has also consented to cut the wood as required,

The communication from Mr. Gibson, asking to furnish iron ladders for the schools, has been considered. Your Committee cannot recommending them.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. H. WRIGHTON, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

FIRE DRILL.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. SPROULE.—That the Principal of the Common Schools be requested to instruct the pupils of the Public Schools in what is known as fire drill, so that in case of fire or other contingency the pupils may be got out of the schools with safety.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

Pale, Poor, Puny and Pallid

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow; and their skin is drawn tightly over their foreheads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debility that leads to marasmus. Poor things.

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand its mother a bottle of the Shaker Blood Syrup. Here is life even for the most delicate, the most debilitated; for the child almost is given up for dead. Pure blood is what the child needs to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your druggist will tell you what wonders the Shaker Blood Syrup has done for very sick children.

WANTED.

Five Good Live Agents to Sell the Genuine Singer Sewing Machines.

WE CHALLENGE ANY SEWING MACHINE before the public to equal the IMPROVED SINGER, our New High Arm and Light Running and almost noiseless Family Sewing Machine just being introduced

For range of work, perfection of stitch, and ease of operation, it possesses the following advantages over all other Sewing Machines:—

1st. Uses the shortest needle of any Lock Stitch Machine.

2nd. Carries a finer needle with a given size thread.

3rd. Uses a greater number of sizes of thread with one size needle.

4th. Will close a seam tighter with linen thread than any other Machine will with silk.

5th. The shuttle holds the most thread.

6th. Draws the needle thread both down and up while the needle is out of the goods, therefore there is less friction on the needle and thread, consequently tighter and more elastic seam.

7th. It has a positive feed that will not choke in sewing any material.

8th. Sews faster and with less noise than any other shuttle machine.

9th. Will sew a greater number of sizes of thread without change of tension.

10. Will not change tension when sewing with a short or long stitch at varying speed.

FOR FAMILY SEWING IT IS SUPERIOR TO ALL. No one should buy a Sewing Machine without first seeing and trying a Singer.

In addition to our large variety of Family Machines, we also have a full line of Machines for both heavy and light manufacturing purposes, of any description whatever, and run up to 2,000 stitches per minute.

LAKEFIELD.

From our own Correspondent.

COUNCIL MEETING.

A special meeting of the Lakefield village council was held in the council room, Lakefield, on Monday evening last, March 31st.

All the members of the council were present, the Reeve in the chair.

Communications were read and handed in by the Reeve from Mr. A. J. Wright, asking appointment as clerk of Lakefield at a salary of $50 per annum, and from Walter Strickland applying for the same office at $60 per annum, and from Mr. F. A. August at $40 for the current year.

Moved by Councillor COX, seconded by Councillor MCWILLIAMS,—That a By-law to appoint a Clerk and Treasurer be now read a first time.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor URQUHART, seconded by Councillor MOORE,—That a By-law to appoint a clerk and Treasurer be now read a second time in Committee of the Whole.—Carried.

The council went into committee of the whole with Councillor McWilliams in the chair.

The clauses were filled in appointing Mr. Samuel Shein Treasurer at a salary of $25 per annum, without extras, and Dr. Bell Clerk, at a salary of $60 per annum without extras.

Committee rose and reported By-law. Council resumed.

Moved by Councillor MCWILLIAMS, seconded by Councillor COX,—That a By-law to appoint a Clerk and Treasurer be now read a third time and passed, endorsed, sealed and signed by the Reeve and Clerk.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor MCWILLIAMS, seconded by Councillor COX,—That this Council do now adjourn to meet at 12 o'clock on April 1st, 1884.—Carried.

The Presbyterian Salaries.

It is learned from the Rev. R. H. Warden, who spent last week in Toronto in attendance upon the meeting of the Home Mission Committee, that the scheme for securing to every ministers in the Presbyterian Church a salary of at least $750 and manse promises to be most successful. The sum of $60,000 was asked from the church this year in order to attain the end desired. The year ends on 30th April, and already about $50,000 have been received, leaving only $10,000 to come in during this month. In the Montreal Presbytery a considerable number of congregations have not yet forwarded their contributions. As all are expected to do something it is believed that a large part of that amount still required will be obtained.

Mr. Bright on the United States.

A letter has been received from Mr. John Bright in relation to placing a marble bust of him in the Friends' boarding school, Providence, R.I. He refers to what he did during the war, and says he lamented the conflict, but wished that England should offer her sympathy on the side of freedom of the slave, and in favor of the perpetual union of a great Republic. He trusts the moral sense of the English people will more and more condemn the war, and adds, "England and your United States are two nations, but I always like to regard them as one people. On them the growth of all that is good in the world greatly depends."

Pedestrianism—Beer vs. Water.

A pedestrian named Spencer is walking 50 miles, a day at the Compton Skating Rink, Islington, London, Eng., his intention being to complete 5,000 miles in 100 days. The object of the effort is avowedly to show physical endurance with alcoholic beverages, as against Mr. E. P. Weston's theory of temperance. Up to the present time Mr. Spencer, who is nearly sixty years of age, has walked his fifty miles per day with apparent ease, his refreshments consisting of ale and brandy, one stipulation being an entire abstention from water in its normal state.—Pall Mall Gazette.

ENGLAND AND THE SOUDAN.

RUMOURED CAPITULATION OF ANOTHER GARRISON.

It is rumoured in Khartoum that Slatin Bey has capitulated to the rebels in Darfour.

ABYSSINIAN HELP OEFERED.

King John of Abyssinia offers the services of eight to ten thousand Abyssinians, on condition that the English guarantee an allowance of two shillings daily each man and the cession of two ports to Abyssinia. If England agrees to these terms, the Abyssinians will attack El Mahdi and relieve Kassala.

Sandwich Goal.

DETROIT, April 1.—Kennedy, who is now confined in Sandwich gaol, says the police need not look for O'Callaghan in Canada, as he crossed the river shortly after committing the murder, and that he had two flesh wounds, though not very serious one. Theodore Cicotte went over to Windsor three days ago and had trouble with a man named Geary, whose nose he tried to bite off. He was arrested and gaoled at Sandwich. Friday last the prisoner having settled with Geary was released. When Kennedy knew Cicotte was in gaol he was very anxious to be taken from the ward he was in, as he did not like the companionship of negroes, and wished to be placed in the ward with Cicotte. The request was refused. The reason of Kennedy's anxiety was discovered on Sunday. Search having been made in the ward occupied by Cicotte there were found concealed in the hot-air register a file and a number of fine saws of the kind used by watchmakers.

Luke Phipps, who shot his wife on the ferry between Detroit and Windsor, must go back to Canada for trial. His counsel made a strong fight to show that the shooting was done on the American side of the river, and succeeded in convincing the United States commissioner at Chicago that this was the case. The findings of the commissioner were forwarded to the Department of State at Washington. Secretary Frelinghuysen has issued a warrant for the surrender of Phipps to the Canadian authorities.

A Parallel to "The Cenci."

LONDON (ONT.), April 1.—A case which has caused Squire Jarvis some reflection was a charge brought by a girl named Melissa Squire, of London East, against her father, charging him with threatening to take her life on more than one occasion. The daughter is employed as a domestic at Councillor Showler's house, and her father went there on the 16th of last month and threatened to shoot her if he caught her in company with any young man. The girl alleges that her father at different times manifested his passion for her by making indecent proposals to her, and that he wanted her to elope with him. Squires is a married man employed at the Globe works. The girl claims to have letters from her father containing the proposals alluded to. Before the magistrate the girl seemed unwilling to testify very strongly against her father, and he was remanded to gaol to see if an understanding can be arrived at.

Telephone Dividends.

The Union Telegraph and Telephone company pays its fifth quarterly dividend at $1,500 to 115 stockholders, 35 of whom are in Lowell and hold 514 shares of the 1,000 shares issued.

It is now a tolerably well ascertained fact that there is money in the telephone business. If any doubt exists on that score the subjoined information from the Lowell Citizen of recent date, may quell it.

The Erie Telegraph and Telephone Company paid its second quarterly dividend amounting to $48,000. This amount is distributed among 1,150 stockholders, 380 of whom are in Lowell and own 24,535 shares issued. Of this number of shares it is reported that the syndicate hold 10,000.

Unnatural Parents.

MONTREAL, March 31.—A heartless case has been brought to public notice here of parents ignoring the responsibility of nurturing and caring for their own offspring. The secretary of the Society for Protecting Women and Children is about to prosecute a husband and wife for palming off through a midwife three of their infants directly after they were born on the Grey nuns by stating that they were illegitimate waifs which had been deserted. This is the most unnatural action that has ever been developed here. The parents are said to be not actually in poverty.

Accident to Telegraph Line Men.

BUFFALO, April 1.—A party of twelve telegraph line men, on a hand car on the West Shore road, met with a bad accident yesterday afternoon. The hand-car was going at a high rate of speed on a steep down grade, when one of the men stepped on the brake, suddenly checking the speed of the car. One man was thrown off ten feet ahead of the car, which passed over him, crushing him fatally. Another man had a leg broken in three places, necessitating amputation. A third is internally injured and will probably die. Eight others were severely hurt but not fatally.

Submarine Cables.

The International convention for the protection of submarine cables, the terms of which were settled at several meetings held in Paris recently, was signed at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Paris, on the 14th ult. All the Plenipotentiaries assembled at the Quai d'Orsay M. Jules Ferry, as Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Mr Cochery, Minister of the Postal and Telegraphic Department, being present to receive them and attach their signatures to the convention. Twenty-eight nationalities were represented.—Daily Telegraph.

Defence of the Salvation Army.

KINGSTON, March 31.—Rev. R. McKay, Congregational evangelist here, has defended the Salvation Army against an attack made upon it by Rev. Mr. Hall at the meeting of the Congregational Union at London. He said it would be cowardly did he not defend the Army against such an attack.

PREPARING TO FIGHT AGAIN.

CAIRO, April 1.—It is reported that Osman Digma has encamped in the vicinity of Tamanieb, having 1,000 followers and many sheikhs, and that he is preparing to fight the tribes friendly to the English. Yesterday evening the rebels approached within a mile of Suakin and stole cattle. The inhabitants are angry at being left to take care of themselves.

SENTENCED FOR LIBEL.

LONDON, April 2.—Edmund Yates, editor of the World, has been condemned to four months imprisonment for libelling Earl Lonsdale. Judgment is suspended pending an appeal.

THE SOUDAN.

LONDON, April 2.—Despatches from Gordon say there are no signs that El Mahdi is about to advance upon Khartoum. The Kabbabish tribe is in open rebellion against the Mahdi. Osman is actively resuming the offensive at Suakin and is attempting to cut off the friendly tribes from water. Sheikh Mahmoud Ali is opposing him. A battle is probable. The news says the Government considers it unnecessary to despatch British troops to Khartoum.

IRISH INVINCIBLES ARRESTED.

DUBLIN, April 2.—A number of tradesmen and farmers charged with belonging to a body of Invincibles founded at Tubbercurry by P. J. Sheridan have been arrested. An Invincible at Tubbercurry has turned informer, and given the name of several landlords whom the society has decided to murder.

DAVITT CENSURED BY THE LEAGUE.

DUBLIN, April 2.—The Parnell branch of the Irish League has passed a resolution condemning Michael Davitt's action in inviting Henry George to lecture in Dublin.

PRINCE LEOPOLD'S REMAINS.

PARIS, April 2.—The remains of the Duke of Albany arrived at Cherbourg this evening, and were placed on board the English Royal yacht Osborne.

THE STEAMSHIP LIBEL SUIT.

MONTREAL, April 2.—The libel case brought against the Canada Shipping Company for $25,000 damages against the Ottawa Free Press was concluded to-day after an eloquent and forcible address to the jury by Mr. C. P. Davidson, Q. C., who represented the company.

Mr. Justice Papineau charged the jury, pointing out in a fair and impartial manner the important duty they were called on to perform. In referring to the press, the judge said that it was a very important institution of modern times, and very good for the protection of the rights of the people, but when it went out of its proper bounds it might become very dangerous. The press no more than any other portion of the community was allowed to speak an untruth. The law required that when the press published certain statements pretending them to be for the public interest it should afford proof of them. Defendant had to prove here that his statements were true, and that they were published in the interests of the public. As to the question of damages, if any existed they should be based upon the amount of injury. The judge concluded his charge by saying that the verdict to be rendered was a most important one. On the one side was a powerful company, on the other the fate of an enterprising man trying to do good and help his fellow men.

After a deliberation of one hour and a half the jury, by nine to three, brought in a verdict answering all the questions put to them in favour of the defendant, with the exception that the answer to question No. 5 contains the following remarks:—"The article is substantially true apart from the deaths. With regard to the living on one biscuit per day, this fact is not proven. The steerage passengers were allowed to come on deck. The ship was cleaned out repeatedly. The other two immigrants did not have typhoid fever. With regard to the Girling family having typhoid fever, we do not know if they got it on ship board."

The Last of the Riots.

CINCINNATI, April 2.—The barricades around the Court-house were removed to-day. Only a few soldiers are on duty.

The executive committee of fifteen at a meeting to-day adopted a resolution advising against the holding of a public meeting to discuss the riot and its incidents. While all the signs are hopeful and the belief is general that no further violence is probable, some apprehension exists among those charged with the preservation of order.

One of the wounded died to-day.

This makes 49 deaths from the riot.

To-night the barricades are all gone. The militia are simply patrolling the sidewalks. The conduct of the 4th Regiment is severely commented upon, and it appears in a worse light the more it is known. Colonel Hunt, of the 1st Regiment stoutly denies that his men fired recklessly and without orders. They fired every time by order of the sheriff and shot high.

THE TABLES TURNED.

NEVER was the inconsistency of the pretence of our modern Reformers to be the friends of local self-government more clearly shown than in the efforts of Messrs. Mills and Blake to maintain that the bill to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs was an invasion of Provincial rights. Their unpatriotic attempt to stir up sectional feeling by an appeal to the Quebec members to oppose the bill on this ground, brought upon them a well-deserved rebuff, for the only two Quebec members who took part in the discussion showed that the Administration of these critics had introduced and carried the Act that was being amended, having by it usurped from the municipalities the inspection of food, which was now being restored to them. So completely were the tables turned that Mr. Mills not only had to confess the wrong that he had helped to commit, but he was even driven to fall back upon the criticism that the Government was to blame for amending the Act of himself and his colleagues because they should repeal it. And this is the Reform policy. When in power they assume legislative rights for the Dominion which, when in opposition they assail the Conservatives for exercising. In Provinces that are cursed with their rule, they fight the Dominion government (if Conservative), on the one hand, and on the other they usurp all possible power from the municipal and local authorities. To centralize power in their own hands is the only policy in which they can claim to be consistent. They have no fondness for the Dominion of Canada, because having flourished under Conservative rule it is naturally Conservative; as to the people, they have a well-grounded dread of them, and would leave them no power, rights or self-government.

LEGALIZING FRAUD.

THE latest iniquity of the sham "Reformers" of Ontario is already bearing its poisonous fruit. One of the scoundrels who was employed by the Mowat Administration to do their dirty and illegal work of disfranchising the Conservative electors of Algoma has escaped the penalty meeted out to his fellow culprit Apjohn. Similar proceedings for similar outrages had been instituted against one Macdonald, but he has been saved from punishment, not because he was any [less guilty, but because the Reform majority of the Legislature on the very last evening of its session, legislated to take the case out of court, and thus to reward this conspirator to defraud Conservatives of their votes, by granting him immunity for his misconduct. The plaintiff by this "Act to Legalize Fraud and Corruption" was forced to submit to the application to the Master to dismiss the action. The Master showed his appreciation of the merits of the case by refusing to allow the white-washed applicant his costs. As, however, through this iniquitous and unconstitutional law the plaintiff has to pay the costs of the previous proceedings, rendered nugatory by it, he has been robbed by Mowat & Co. as truly as if they had picked his pocket, but in an even more cowardly manner.

The Stool Pigeons.

It is comforting to reflect that the Grit stool pigeons, who induced Wilkinson and Kirkland to offer them bribes—who induced men that way inclined to commit an offence and then coolly informed upon them—are estimated at their true value by some at least of the Reform newspapers. For instance, the Hamburg Ihdependent says:—

"With reference to the bribed we can scarcely think them as innocent as the Globe would wish to make out. Some of them evidently played with the fire too readily, and only by being cornered up exposed the plot."

The Montreal Witness is equally emphatic in condemning the "informers." It says:—

"The evidence goes to show that one or two, at least, of the Liberal supporters of the Government were not from the very first influenced in their negotiations with the bribers with the sole desire to secure evidence against and expose the criminals."

In time to come the conspirators will be correctly judged by the public. The above extracts from journals supporting their own party afford a fair indication of what the popular verdict will be.—Belleville Intelligencer.

A Plethora of Money.

MONTREAL, April 1.—It is stated that a leading bank sent to a customer notice a few days ago that his deposit receipt bearing 4 per cent. interest would be paid up and requesting him to call for the amount, as nothing more than 2 per cent. would be paid for it in future. This is taken as a straw to indicate a plethora of money.—Post.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

A Hudson Bay Railway—Danger of Joking—Mr. Blake Afraid of Overweight Adulteration of Food.

HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

Mr. CAMERON (Victoria) on Tuesday introduced a bill to amend the Winnipeg and Hudson Bay Railway and Steamship Co. Act.

DANGER OF JOKING.

Mr. WHITE explained that a remark intended to be jocular as to his connection with the Grand Trunk had been taken as serious, and he showed that he had no such connection with the company.

FACTORY BILL.

Mr. BLAKE asked as to the intention concerning the Factory Act, as to which he had over a score of amendments to propose.

SIR J. MACDONALD said he could not answer them as the Finance Minister was absent through illness.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Mr. HALL, in Committee on the Weights and Measures bill, introduced an amendment that canned goods should be stamped with their weight under penalty of fine and forfeiture.

Mr. COSTIGAN accepted this as to hermetically sealed goods, as there were complaints of frauds.

Mr. BLAKE thought this would interfere with our export trade, and that we might leave other countries to protect themselves from imposition. He also objected to the "exact" weight, as there might be a risk of overweight.

SIR J. MACDONALD thought it would aid our export trade by giving security to purchasers.

The amendment was adopted.

ADULTERATION OF FOOD.

Mr. COSTIGAN moved the House into Committee on the Food Adulteration Bill.

Mr. BLAKE raised the point of order that some money clauses to be initiated in Committee were not printed in the right type.

The SPEAKER ruled that the objection was not well taken.

Mr. MILLS urged that the bill was an attack upon Provincial rights, and called upon the Quebec members to resist it. It affected civil rights and police regulations.

Mr. BERGIN said that it was no invasion of Provincial rights as it was to prevent a crime, which came within Dominion jurisdiction.

Mr. BLAKE also said it was a matter for the Local Legislature to deal with. Skim milk was prohibited, and that was not poisonous.

Mr. DESJARDIN said that as the Quebec members were appealed to he would remind these pretended upholders of Provincial rights that when in power they had themselves legislated on this very matter by appointing an Inspector of Food without any compunction as to invading Provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. MILLS after recess again urged the cry of an invasion of municipal rights which were within Provincial jurisdiction.

Mr. COSTIGAN asked why Mr. Mills and his friends introduced a similar bill in 1874. They had taken away from the municipalities the inspection of food, and the present Government was restoring it.

Mr. MILLS owned that he and his colleagues had been wrong in this, and therefore the present administration was wrong in amending the Act instead of repealing it.

A number of clauses were passed with further discussion and the committee rose.

SUPPLY.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of resolutions.

LICENSE INSPECTORS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—May I ask a question or two, for information, trusting to your good nature and readiness at all times to enlighten the ignorant thro' the columns of the REVIEW.

Is the office of License Inspector under the Crook's Act a sinecure, given as a reward for fidelity to party? Unless I have been misinformed a salary of $800 is given—for what? anything more than granting a few licenses once a year?

I wonder how much influence partyism had in giving us two extra taverns the night before last election? notwithstanding a numerously signed petition to the contrary. We have now only three such places in Keene with its 200 inhabitants.

If liquor is sold during all hours on Saturday p.m., also on Sunday in one or two such licensed houses, whose business is it? The Inspector (?) of course is expected to know nothing about it, (unless, perhaps, the delinquent belongs to the opposite party), when it may be advisable to take action. To whom is Inspector responsible? Or is he selected with such care (irrespective of party) to be found so perfect to be beyond responsibility?

Surely the time has come that amidst the din and hubbub of License Laws the Government has a right to appoint a fit and proper person in each district to see that its laws are respected and enforced, otherwise all the amendments under the sun are a political humbug and a fraud on all law abiding citizens.

Keene, April 2, 1884. X.

CRICKET v. LACROSSE.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Regarding the relative standing of the Cricket and Lacrosse Clubs, I should like merely to say by way of reply to the taunting remarks of some of the champions of Lacrosse playing in Peterborough that the Lacrosse Club, whilst certainly doing well what they have done, must not get it into their heads that annihilation of small fry like the Orillias, Earls, &c., constitutes them a first class club. When they met the Young Shamrocks, a good second class team, where were they? and even the Maitlands, mere striplings, fooled with them. On the other hand, Peterborough has beaten several times first class clubs at Cricket, Toronto succumbing more than once. A little fair play, if you please.

Yours, &c.,
NONCOMBATANT.

Peterborough, April 3, 1884.

The "Free-Press" Libel Suit.

CONTRARY to expectation, the libel suit of the Canada Shipping Company against the Ottawa Free Press was not concluded. The wife of a previous witness gave evidence corroborating that already given as to the filthy condition of the vessel and that badness of the food, describing the latter as not fit for human beings to eat. She also testified to the incivility and foul language of the chief steward.

DISTRICT INTELLIGENCE

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DEATH.—Mr. John Fife died last week. He was one of the oldest settlers in Otonabee, having reached the ripe age 87. His family settled in this Township when he was a mere boy. He was highly respected by all.

V. B. B.—Our band serenaded Mine Host Frost at the American Hotel, and spent a very enjoyable evening.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—Special services are being held nightly in the Methodist church. There has been a very large attendance.

A FINE RIG.—Mr. Frost of the American Hotel, has a fine rig which meets all trains and there is no need walking from the station now.

BELLEVILLE.

SAD DEATH.—The little son of Mr. George White, of Trenton, who was injured a month ago by being run over with a wood sleigh, died on Monday.

LIBERAL CONSERVATIVES.—A meeting of the Young Men's Liberal Conservative Association was held yesterday evening.

COUNTY COURT.—The County Court without a jury opened on Tuesday. There were five case for trial.

MARRIAGE.—Mr. John Bell, Q.C., solicitor to the Grand Trunk Railway Company, was married on Tuesday morning in St. Thomas' Church, Belleville, to Miss Stewart, daughter of Dr. R. Stewart, M.D., of that city.

FENELON FALLS.

THE CANAL.—Last week about half a dozen men commenced work in and around the canal, and have since been busy rigging and shifting derricks, and otherwise getting things in order for the large force that will be put on as soon as the season is far enough advanced. About a dozen Greek and Italian labourers have remained in the village all winter, living, in their economical fashion, on their past earnings, and are no doubt happy at the prospect of being again employed.

BURGLARY.—When Mr. W. H. Welch, proprietor of the carding mill in this village, went to business on Saturday morning, he discovered that the building had been entered during the previous night, and seven bales of cloth, worth about $90, stolen, and another bale was found between some wood and the window by which the thief or thieves had entered. A warrant was obtained and the premises of a suspected party searched, but there was no trace of the missing property.—Gazette.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE ROADS.—Wheeling is all the fashion now. Where the roads were entirely blocked up with snow they were very bad, but they had to be tackled sooner or later. Thanks are due to all the pathmakers around this section, and also on the Douro side of the river to Lakefield. James Jorey was the first on the list to tackle the worst part of the road beyond Mr. Sheldrake's residence. In about 10 days the wheeling will be A. 1.

THE RIVER.—The river appears to be rising gradually this spring, although the creeks are considerably overflowed. The marshes and swamps being very full of water last fall; the previous year they were dry.

THE SHANTIES.—Mr. Chalmers broke up shanty for the season last week. Arthur Dugan, the foreman, has had a fine gang of men all winter and has taken out a great quantity of stuff. F. Bertrand has been engaged by Mr. Chalmers this season to take charge of his drive, which will be a large one when all collected into Stony Lake. Arthur's staff and all the jobbers will come down Eels creek. Bertrand started last Monday with a small gang of men to make the necessary preparations with the boom timber, &c.

NEW STORE.—Mr. Kearney has leased the building opposite the Lakeview House to P. Phelan, Jr., and is adding an addition to the rear of the building to be occupied as a general store. We wish Mr. Phelan success in his new undertaking.

BEES.—Mr. P. Young, Sr., has been overhauling his hives of bees. He found them all well and wishing to get out from their winter quarters to the open air.

The Game of Whitewash.

The first direct evil result from the obnoxious amendments made to the election law by the Mowat Government last session was disclosed on Tuesday at Osgoode Hall in a case of Walton vs. Macdonald. In that case a Grit deputy returning officer was sued for penalties for corrupt practices in illegally refusing votes at the Algoma election. The action was similar to that of Walton vs. Apjohn, and no doubt would have terminated in the same way but for the interference of the local Government, who by their legislation have so absolved the returning officers from the consequences of their illegal acts that further prosecution of the suit would have been futile. The defendant moved yesterday to dismiss the action, and the plaintiff, in the face of the Act, was forced to submit, an order was made accordingly, but the learned master refused to award costs to the applicant. The plaintiff, however, must pay his own costs of the proceedings so far as they have gone.—Mail.

Reduction of Wages.

MONTREAL, April 1.—A meeting of the brakemen and firemen on the G. T. R. was held here and the question of a reduction of wages discussed. The feeling seemed to be strongly in favor of holding out against any lowering of wages—rather, in fact, to have a strike than accept the reduction. The locomotive engineers have intimated to the general manager, it is said, that all further negotiations with them must be through the Grand Chief of the brotherhood, Mr. Arthur.

How Would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly and with certainty. Don't buy dangerous flesh-eating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

A FAVORITE EVERYWHERE.—Wherever introduced Hagyard's Yellow Oil finds friends. It is the old reliable household remedy for external and internal use in all aches, pains, lameness and soreness of the flesh. A. L. Geen, a prominent druggist of Belleville, says: "It is a great favorite here, and has a good sale."

FACT STRANGER THAN FICTION.—It is a fact that Alonzo Howe, of Tweed, had a fever sore than afflicted him for thirty-five years. Six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him, which he considers almost a miracle. It was but the natural result of the remedy restoring pure blood and perfect secretion.

Beecher and Mrs. Langtry.

Mr. Henry Ward Beecher was very angry because it was said that he had been to see Mrs. Langtry in "Peril." "Is some one who 'looks like Beecher' passing himself off for me? I suspect so. Can't some one catch him, examine him in theology, make him preach, and so detect the rascal?" He says:—"I have been to theatres four times—to see Joe Jefferson in 'Rip van Winkle,' Salvini in 'Othello,' Irving in 'Louis XI.,' and my sister's 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'"—Pall Mall Gazette.

No Flood Anticipated at Montreal.

The water since the cold snap set in has gradually receded, and the great alarm in the low-lying districts of the city has received a check. There appears no danger at present of a flood, still the present weather cannot last very long, and with that end in view residents along the river front have taken every precaution and are prepared for the worst. The river roads are of course in a most dangerous condition. Several accidents of a more or less serious nature have recently occurred.—Post.

Mr. Oscar Wilde.

The world has not heard much of Mr. Oscar Wilde and his doings of late, although, according to a correspondent he was seen at the court lately, the centre of a small group of "mashers," distinguished, as usual, from ordinary mortals by the ambrosial locks, grown long again, the bunch of fal-lals at his fob, and other peculiarities of the once famous æsthete. As some one remarked, "Isn't Oscar putting on flesh?" The bridal dress, now on view, is attracting, so they say, all lovers of the beautiful, and is reported to show poetic fancy in its every fold.—Pall Mall Gazette.

FARM AND GARDEN.

EXERCISE HORSES DAILY.—Horses that are to do heavy work at the plough in spring, should not be permitted to stand idle in the stable for weeks, or perhaps months, before the soil is ready for cultivation, but should have a shorter or longer period of exercise every day. There is considerable danger, especially at the breaking up of the sleighing, of leaving the horses idle in the stable without the usual care and attention which they ordinarily receive when at work. This ought not to be done as the horse is thus rendered less able to endure heavy work when the warm days come.

GRAFTING WAX.—Last spring, after considerable trouble, this receipe was obtained for grafting wax, and as it has proved satisfactory, it is given for the benefit of others: Take 1 lb. of rosin, ½ lb. beeswax, and a little less than ½ lb. of tallow. Melt together in a small iron kettle, and stir thoroughly that the ingredients may be well mixed. Pour into a dish of cold water, and when cool, break into three or four pieces, and pull like molasses candy until white and fine-grained. When the whole is properly worked, divide into eight pieces, form into rolls six inches long, and wrap in oiled paper. To clean the kettle, rub it while yet hot with a teaspoouful of lard or tallow, and wash out with soap and warm water; repeat this, and rinse, and it will be as clean as ever.—O.A.O.

HEAVY LAMBS.—"Ever ready to encourage early maturity, the Smithfield Club some years ago introduced classes for wether lambs, or animals produced in the year of the show. The wisdom of that step has been amply justified. The lamb classes, more especially of the Down breeds, have improved year by year, and now one almost fails to recognize any trace of lamb or youth about them. The great feature of the display of the fleecy tribe this week is the muster of this year's produce. It is wonderful; and for the first time in the annals of the club the champion cup goes to animals under twelve months—to so-called lambs of Mr. Parson's, of the Hampshire breed, which are magnificent specimens of mutton-yielding sheep—not lamb. They, like Mr. Sheringham's Oxford-Down cross lambs, have in less than a year developed into monsters of mutton. Nor is size—from 25 to 30 pounds per quarter—the only recommendation. Quality, wealth of flesh and maturity are as noticeable as size and weight."

ECONOMICAL PAINT.—A paint for floors, which economizes the use of oil colors and varnish, is described at much length by the Builder as a recent German invention. For flooring, two and one-eighth ounces of good, clear, joiners' glue is soaked over night in cold water, and when dissolved is added, while being stirred, to thickish milk of lime, heated to the boiling point, and prepared from one pound of quick lime. Into boiling lime is poured—the stirring being continued—as much linseed oil as becomes united, by means of saponification, with the lime, and when the oil no longer mixes there is no more poured in. If there happens to be too much oil added, it must be combined by the addition of some fresh lime paste—about half a pound of oil for the quantity of lime just named. After this white, thickish, foundation paint has cooled, a color is added which is not affected by lime, and, in case of need, the paint is diluted with water, or by the addition of a mixture of lime water with some linseed oil. The substance penetrates into the wood and renders it water-resisting.

DISAGREEABLE WORK.—A great deal of the work men have to do is disagreeable, and efforts are made to avoid it, and yet it is the very work which is most necessary, and if grasped earnestly yields the richest results. Almost all good things in the world are the result of disagreeable work, and it seemed as if God's blessings were met clearly on the most unpleasant work of all, as if what men hated most God most loved. The young should realize this fact at once, as disagreeable work must be done by them under the penalty of making life a failure and a wreck. The young human being would rather seek after amusement than stand closely to work. All work is disagreeable in the beginning, and the first attempts are more or less blundering and therefore difficult. The awkwardness at first should not be minded, but the young should go on, "heart within and God o'erhead," as that was the way God had of making men of them. Even his own son was trained in the same manner and if such a training were not too humble and hard for Him could it be too hard for the young men of today?

When You Catch Cold.

Dr. J. Mortimer Granville, writing to the London Daily News, says:—

There are two lessons to be learnt and laid to heart by those who would treat a chill successfully and spare themselves the consequences of a cold. Secure a full reaction quickly, but avoid over-stimulation. Nature's remedies for a chill are sneezing and shivering. By these commotions, which are essentially mechanical, she rouses panic stricken centres. A good fit of sneezing keeps off many a cold, and the man who carries a snuff-box and uses it at once may generally feel safe—that is, if he sneezes violently immediately after the chill. Brisk exercise, short of fatigue which exhausts, will also prevent a "cold" supervening upon a chill. The recourse to stimulants is bad. Attention should be directed to the nervous system, not to the circulation of the blood. The heart will take care of itself if we will only see that the nerves are quickly roused to action. When the hunting man feels chilled he should mount a fresh horse, and take a short but brisk trot to rouse his nerves. When the home-stayer thinks he has "sat in a draught and caught cold," he should quickly put on his hat and take a rapid walk or run. The aim must be, not to warm, but to revive energy. A very little consideration will show that these two aims are different, and common-sense will generally suggest the best mode of treatment within reach at the moment. This effort of self-cure by exertion will have the additional advantage of setting the brain in action. The brain is the great head-centre of the nervous system, and when the will acts powerfully at the instant of any impression which has a tendency to depress the lower-nerve centres the activity of the higher, the supreme cerebral, the intellectual centres, generally wards off the attack. The man whose brain or mind is powerfully excited at the moment of exposure to a chill seldom takes cold. I make no apology for placing these technical details before your readers, because they ought to be known to every one. The prevention of a cold is a matter of self-held.

Effects of Rum on Pigs.

Mr. W. Mattieu Williams once witnessed a display of drunkenness among three hundred pigs, which had been given a barrel of spoiled elderberry wine all at once with their swill. "Their behavior," he says, "was intensely human, exhibiting all the usual manifestations of jolly good-fellowship, including the advanced stage where a group were rolling over each other and grunting affectionately in tones that were very distinctly impressive of swearing good-fellowship all around. Their reeling and staggering, and the expression of their features, all indicated that alcohol had the same effect on pigs as on men, that under its influence both stood precisely on the same zoological level."—Exchange.

THE DAILY EVENING REVIEW is delivered to subscribers at ten cents a week.

The Secessionists.

Last week the Siftings gave a few facts about the individuals who have recently done so much to hurt this country. Below are a few more facts.

The Rev. Nelson Brown lives in the vicinity of High Bluff. He is now farming, having left the Methodist ministry because he could not agree with the other ministers. After leaving the active ministry he prepared a pamphlet in answer to the ministers who found fault with him at the conference, and he took this pamphlet to the Times office in this city, to be printed, but it was so libellous that they would have nothing to do with it in that office. Mr. Brown still preaches in an amateur kind of a way. He is a thorough-going, dyed-in-the-wool Grit, and there is not a sharper man in the Dominion in a horse-trade. A few weeks ago he procured a pint of whiskey from a store-keeper under pretence of sickness. The next day he had the store-keeper fined, and he took half the fine like a little man. Mr. Brown is a natural born agitator, and just the sort of a man to agitate in heaven, if he ever gets there. A few months ago he was loud in his praises of this country, and advising his friends to come here. To-day he supports the anti-immigration, and moved it at the Convention.

There is a loud mouthed agitator in this country named Bailey. This agitator has been in the city recently, and, in order to show the people of Manitoba the kind of a hair-pin he is, we repeat an actual conversation that took place between him and one of the officials of the Winnipeg Board of Trade recently. The agitator was blowing about what he could do, and he said: "The Farmers' Union can make this country a desert and a howling wilderness, and C.P.R. stock not worth one cent on the dollar, if it wishes, and it will do so if their demands are not acceded to." Agitator, traitor, secessionist, loud mouthed Bailey is a recognized authority in the Union, and now we know what we have to expect.—Winnipeg Siftings.

The Grand Trunk and the Canada Pacific.

The following appears in the Railway Age:—"A settlement of certain rival interests of the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific is announced. The latter company, it is reported, abandons its scheme for extending the credit Valley railway westward to the St. Clair river while the former will cease all efforts to obtain representation in the control of the projected Callendar and Gravenhurst branch of the Northern and North-Western. This leaves the territory west of St. Thomas to the Grand Trunk." The statements contained in the above are entirely without foundation. The Credit Valley will during the coming season continue the building of its line into and through the territory indicated. The officials at Toronto state that no attempt has been made to arrange matters with the Grand Trunk.

Lighting Detroit by Electricity.

DETROIT, April 1,—The Brush Electric Light Company will submit proposals for lighting the business portion of the city of Detroit by electricity by erecting seventy-two iron towers from 120 to 160 feet in height, and placing from two to six lights in each one of the towers, the lamps to be 2,000 candle power, or as much light as is given by 125 gas jets. The company will bear all expense and light the sections named for about the same sum now paid for gas.

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required. In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must necessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind, colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

The Spirometer.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

LOCAL NEWS

Bird Accepts.

M. Bird has written to Dave Bennett agreeing to accept his terms for a five mile race, provided Bennett is willing to run in the drill shed, where the track measures sixteen laps to the mile. The terms are $50 a side, the winner to take the gate money.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club will be held at the Oriental on Thursday next, the 3rd inst., at 8 p. m. It is very desirable that there be a large attendance and all old members and those interested in cricket are particularly requested to be present.

The Weather To-Morrow.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—North-westerly to westerly winds; fine, milder weather; continued fine and warmer to-morrow.

The Grand Concert.

The Evening Telegram says:—

"The greatest hit of the evening, however, was the playing of Miss Lenora Clench. The audience, in fact, went fairly into ecstasies over this young lady's playing."

This young violinist will be at the Cricket Club concert on April 17th.

The Sporting Clubs.

The sporting clubs are taking time by the forelock and preparing for an active season. The annual meeting of the Cricket Club will be held in the Oriental Hotel this evening, and the annual meeting of the Lacrosse Club will be held in the Little Windsor Hotel on Monday evening.

Counterfeiters Caught.

Two men, named John Nailor and John McEvelle, were, we learn from the Guide, arrested in Port Hope on Saturday while attempting to pass counterfeit coin on the store-keepers of that town. They had a number of counterfeit 25 and 50 cent pieces in their possession when arrested. They were taken before Police Magistrate Holland and Mr. J. G. Williams, J.P., and committed to gaol at Cobourg to await their trial at the assizes. Counterfeit money has been circulated here and it is satisfactory to know that these arrests have been made.

For a Nobby Spring Suit, got up in the latest style, call and see McNEIL.

An Error.

The Police Magistrate in giving his decision in the pool table case fell into a slight error The licenses for billiard tables did not expire until the first day of March, and therefore the license referred to in the decision could not have been taken out in February. In fact it was taken out during the first week in March, between the dates of the passage of the by-laws regulating such tables and imposing certain fees, and the second defining what a pool table is and imposing a largely increased fee on all tables on which pool is, may or can be played. This makes no difference in the grounds for the decision.

Still Inventing.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Mail has the following paragraph which will be read with interest in Peterborough:—

"Mr. Robert Romaine appeared before the Immigration and Colonization Committee and explained his scheme for the construction of tramways to run parallel at short intervals in the North-West. Mr. Romaine estimates that a light iron railroad could be laid through the prairie country at a cost of about $2,500 per mile, the motive power to be steam or horses, as may be found most practicable. With this tramway system feeding the trunk railway lines established at convenient intervals, he would introduce the farm village scheme, by which the dwellings and stock-feeding houses of the farmers would be located in groups, and the farming lands would extend to the rear."

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

The attendance on Wednesday evening was as usual—the Opera House filled to overflowing.

Lieut. Munt asked those who attended to contribute more liberally when the collection baskets were passed around. This was, he said, the first time he had to refer to this matter, and he hoped there would be no necessity to do it again.

Lieut. Willis bade farewell to the people, as she was going away, for a time at least. She gave some good advice to the soldiers, exhorted the unconverted and wished the Saved Army in Peterborough success. Mrs. Willis has become a favorite, and she will be missed from the meetings.

Sergeant Hewson also went to Port Hope to-day. Mrs. Willis intends to go home—Kingston—to rest for a time.

An improvement is noticeable in the order maintained at the meetings since the sergeants were appointed.

Nine or ten persons gave evidence of having abandoned the ranks of the enemy by going forwarded to the penitent bench.

An Army meeting was held at Lakefield on Tuesday night. It was conducted by Lieut. Annie White, assisted by Sergeant Gall and Hewson and others. The attendance was large and five converts were made.

Another meeting will probably be held at Lakefield to-morrow night.

There will be a meeting in the Opera House as usual to-night.

POLICE COURT.

PROFANE LANGUAGE.

THURSDAY, April 3.—Thomas McGee was charged with having made use of profane and blasphemous language. He didn't remember anything about it, but Constable Adams' memory was clear on the matter, and he was fined $2 or ten days in gaol.

TWO CHARGES.

Daniel McEvoy was charged with having made use of profane language. He didn't think that he had said anything much, but it appeared from Constable Pidgeon's evidence that his language was considerable. He was fined $2 or ten days in gaol.

McEvoy was also charged with resisting the Constable while in the discharge of his duty, and for that offence was fined $2 more. He paid the fines.

VAGRANCY.

Patrick Handrahan had to answer to a charge of being a vagrant. This was his fourteenth appearance in the Court. He said that he had lived thirty-three years in Peterborough, and that he had assisted in building most of the buildings in the town. The Magistrate appeared to think that the town was indebted to him for his services, and should board him for a time, for he committed him to gaol for two months.

—A report which spread rapidly to-day to the effect that a certain man had been shot at, shot at and wounded, and shot and killed (the rumor took all these forms), was without any foundation.

Sudden Death.

Mr. Francis Sanderson died very suddenly this morning at his home in the township of Smith. He had been in town a day or two before his death. On the Wednesday evening he appeared to be as well as usual, and sat up until about eleven o'clock reading the papers. This morning, at about six o'clock, as he was rising from bed, he fell back and instantly expired. The cause of death is believed to have been heart disease. Mr. Sanderson was 75 years of age, and was one of the oldest settlers in the township of Smith. His father, Michael Sanderson, came to Canada from Berwick, Scotland, in 1828, and settled on lot 7, communication line, and his family consisted of five sons and two daughters. Mr. Francis Sanderson was the oldest of this family, of whom only two are now living, namely, Mr. Michael Sanderson, Reeve of Smith, and Mrs. James Hope, of Peterborough. The deceased gentleman leaves a widow and five sons and four married daughters to mourn his sudden departure from this world. He was a kind neighbour and was greatly respected by all who were acquainted with him. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock on Saturday from his late residence to the Little Lake Cemetery.

Thousands Say So.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend four married daughters to mourn his sudden departure from this world. He was a kind neighbour and was greatly respected by all who were acquainted with him. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock on Saturday from his late residence to the Little Lake Cemetery.

The Duty on Pipes.

Contract with the Pullman Co.

The Dominion Government has entered into a contract with the Pullman Car Company to run its cars on the Government railways for two years.

Enterprising Railway Men.

It is reported that when the Canadian Pacific Railway commences business in telegraph lines they will include the express and money order business also.

U.S. Post Office Receipts.

The decrease of gross receipts at all the United States post-offices for the quarter ended December 31st was $288,000 as compared with the same period in the preceeding year.

Money. Misappropriated.

The Hamilton Spectator thinks that "If the money expended in feasting Informer McKim the other day, had been sent to his Hamilton creditors instead, it would have materially reduced the amount of his honest indebtedness.

Claim to be Pressed.

NEW YORK, April 1.—At a meeting of the directors of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minn., & Omah railroad yesterday, it was decided to press the claim regarding the alleged overissue of stock against directors Dows and Flower and ex-President Porter in the courts.

Murdered by a Maniac.

TORONTO, April 2.—The testimony elicited at Coroner Duncan's inquest yesterday afternoon, showed that Rachel Stephens had been cruelly beaten to death by another crazy female named Valeria McKinley, confined in the same room. The details of the murderous affair, as brought out at the enquiry, are as follows: Mrs. Stephens, who is 72 years of age, was removed from her own room in No. 5 ward, into the refractory, or hot-air room, where Miss McKinley was also domiciled. At half-past five o'clock yesterday morning, when Maggie Parsons, the night nurse, returned from duty, Mrs. Stephens was peacefully sleeping, while her more restless companion was pacing up and down the floor. Not many minutes afterwards screams for help were heard issuing from the room, and several of the nurses rushed to the spot, but found the door barred against the entrance. Strong pressure was brought to bear against it, however, and it was forced open.

A HORRIBLE SIGHT

confronted them. Mrs. Stephens was lying in a corner of the room, her face bruised and discoloured almost beyond recognition, and covered with blood. The girl murderess stood over her victim, whom she had beaten over the head with a slop pail until life was extinct. The evidence of several nurses was heard, also the medical testimony of Dr. Buchan regarding the cause of death, when the jury, after a few minutes deliberation, returned the following verdict:—"That Rachel Stephens, on the 1st of April, 1884, in her room, No. 7 ward, Toronto Asylum for the Insane, came to her death by blows struck on the head by one Valeria McKinley, with a bucket which was in said room. The said Valeria McKinley, not being of sound mind, did, by the means aforesaid, cause the death of Rachel Stephens, but not feloniously or with malice aforethought."

CRUSHED BY THE CARS.—A little son of John Spinks, Toronto, had his foot crushed by a G. T. R. Express train some time ago. Two doctors attended him without benefit, and amputation was proposed, but Hagyard's Yellow Oil was tried, which give prompt relief and effected a speedy cure, even removing all stiffness of the joint.

A DOUBLE BENEFIT.—James Moore, a prominent resident of Leamington, writes that he cured himself of Dyspepsia of a year's duration by one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and two bottles cured his wife who had been for years a sufferer from the disease. He conscientiously recommends it to all suffering from similar troubles.

WANTED.

Five Good Live Agents to Sell the Genuine Singer Sewing Machines.

WE CHALLENGE ANY SEWING MACHINE before the public to equal the IMPROVED SINGER, our New High Arm and Light Running and almost noiseless Family Sewing Machine just being introduced

For range of work, perfection of stitch, and ease of operation, it possesses the following advantages over all other Sewing Machines:—

1st. Uses the shortest needle of any Lock Stitch Machine.

2nd. Carries a finer needle with a given size thread.

3rd. Uses a greater number of sizes of thread with one size needle.

4th. Will close a seam tighter with linen thread than any other Machine will with silk.

5th. The shuttle holds the most thread.

6th. Draws the needle thread both down and up while the needle is out of the goods, therefore there is less friction on the needle and thread, consequently tighter and more elastic seam.

7th. It has a positive feed that will not choke in sewing any material.

8th. Sews faster and with less noise than any other shuttle machine.

9th. Will sew a greater number of sizes of thread without change of tension.

10. Will not change tension when sewing with a short or long stitch at varying speed.

FOR FAMILY SEWING IT IS SUPERIOR TO ALL. No one should buy a Sewing Machine without first seeing and trying a Singer.

In addition to our large variety of Family Machines, we also have a full line of Machines for both heavy and light manufacturing purposes, of any description whatever, and run up to 2,000 stitches per minute.

STREET WATERING TENDERS.

To the Editor of The Review.

SIR,—The town council advertised for tenders for watering streets, &c. Three tenders were received and on Saturday last laid before the Committee on Fire, Water and Gas. On being opened it was found that Toomey's tender was was for $695, McClelland's for $700, and Smith's for $800. Toomey being a stranger it was decided to give the contract to McClelland at his offer of $700. But, presto! When the council met on Monday Councillor Rutherford chairman of the committee, made a report recommending Smith at $699. Now, the electors would like to know how Smith's tender of $800 was made $699. Will Councillor Rutherford explain how this was accomplished and oblige a seeker for

THE MOWAT PLOT.

The Abstracted Round Robins—Only Lawful Means for a Lawful Object.

The investigation into the alleged bribery case was resumed in the Toronto Police Court on Wednesday.

THE ABSTRACTED ROUND ROBIN.

Inspector WARD of No. 2, Police Station, the ardent politician to whom Messrs. Kirkland and Wilkinson were taken for search, though the nearest station was then passed by, gave some evidence as to the document taken from them, materially contradicting his former evidence.

He admitted that he had given an unknown reporter leave to make a copy of the Round Robin and of Mr. Macpherson's letter, justifying himself by the detective's statement that the matter need not be kept secret.

Mr. FENTON had examined the papers without taking any memorandum of them, and witness could not remember how many there were. He handed the papers to Mr. Fraser in the Committee room, and the members of the Committee only read those papers that were handed to them by Mr. Fraser.

Dr. MCMICHAEL, Q. C., addressed the Court on behalf of his clients, Mr. Kirkland and Mr. Meek. He complained of the treatment of Mr. Kirkland, a foreigner. He was informed against and arrested by Government detectives. He was searched and his papers were given to the public to secure a popular verdict against him in advance. He had been abused, ridiculed, and grossly caricatured in the press for the same object. Even his counsel was attacked, misrepresented and slandered, his very religion being assailed, so as if possible to intimidate him or other counsel who might undertake the defence. All this showed malice and an unfair attempt to make political capital. He commented with justifiable severity upon the character of the evidence, and pointed out the danger of trusting to the unsupported evidence of detectives, informers and accomplices. On behalf of both his clients Mr. Meek and Mr. Kirkland he was authorised to say that they were not guilty and that they totally denied the charges, Mr. Kirkland undoubtedly asked McKim to interest himself in a charge of the timber policy and he expressed himself favourable. It was McKim who asked to be paid $2,000. There was nothing wrong in advocating a charge in the law or policy of the country, and there was not the slightest evidence of any conspiracy or agreement to carry out this lawful object by unlawful means. Kirkland had no political object or political leanings even, but was only looking after his business. Balfour also represented Kirkland as interested wholly in these timber matters. Balfour never suggested to Kirkland that he was doing wrong but positively lured him on. It would be remembered too how Balfour had made up his pretended notes afterwards showing the charactor of this man. McKim not only begged for the money but owned that subsequently he was leading the parties on to catch them. Dowling, too, a man who had been unseated for corrupt practices, was working in the same crooked way, and he too, was introduced by McKim, who seemed to be the prime mover, and middleman throughout. As to Mr. Meek the evidence of Cascaden showed no conspiracy and nothing improper, while his testimony was very contradictory. As to Mr. McKim his evidence against Mr. Meek should be received with all doubt natural in the case of a spy and a decoy. He commented on the fact that it was again McKim who had approached and solicited Mr. Meek, and afterwards Mr. Bunting. Attempts had been made to induce his clients to bribe, but there was not the slightest evidence that they had done so.

The proceedings were then adjourned till next day.

DEATH IN THE ASYLUM.—A sequel to the tragic end of Rachel Stephens at the Lunatic Asylum occurred on Wednesday morning in the death of her murderess, Valeria McKinlay, who expired at four o'clock. For some months back McKinlay had been suffering from a phase of lung disease which, together with an indisposition to take any food, brought on a spirit of melancholy which was broken at intervals by paroxysms of excitement. She had been sleeping with Stephens for over a month. During and immediately after the terrible affair of Tuesday morning she was in a fever heat of hysterical excitement, and when the fit passed off she lost all her strength and fainted away.

JEALOUSY INCITS TO ATTEMPT MURDER.—The real or suspected faithlessness of one H. F. Allkins's wife caused her enraged husband to attempt to murder both his wife and her amico. This last mentioned individual, named Hackett in company with Mrs. Allkins, were spending Wednesday afternoon at the house of a Mrs. Rowell, when discovered by Allkins. Protestations of affection from the faithless wife were unavailing, and angry words soon arose among the trio. Allkins drew a revolver; Hackett seized a stove-lifter. Four shots were fired; one bullet pierced Mrs. Allkins' calf, another wounded Hacket in the groin dangerously; Allkins suffered about the head from blows dealt by Hackett. Hackett is twenty-nine years of age, and Mrs. Allkins is twenty-one years, Hackett is a stout, sandy-looking man, and Mrs. Allkins is described as a good-looking young woman. Hackett and Mrs. Allkins are in the hospital; Allkins is under arrest.

A Curious Calculation.

A recent calculation shows that a man weighing 140 pounds and running a mile in six minutes performs work about equal to that of a half-horse engine; while a walker sustaining five miles an hour for a long day does work equal to that of a quarter-horse engine, and consumes only one twentieth of the weight of food or fuel.

Eighty immigrants ex steamer Dominion, via Halifax, arrived at the Bonaventure Depot early on Tuesday morning. Fifty immigrants, via Portland, by the same steamer Dominion, arrived at the Bonaventure Depot on Sunday morning. Only seven of the whole number stayed in Montreal. The balance went to Ontario.

He has been there Before

This is not the first time that James Carey Balfour has been offered a bribe. He was offered $100 on a previous occasion to vote for the purchase of a fire engine, a fact which, on its being made known by Mr. Balfour for the purpose of making capital out of it, caused a political friend to make the remark publicly that the men who made the offer understood the man's character pretty well. A man must have a poor opinion of his own virtue when he feels it necessary to enter into negotiation with some one to bribe him in order that he may have an opportunity of advertising his virtue. Such a man is rotten at the Beart. An honest man needs no assistance to keep his reputation clear. —Essex Review.

Mary Anderson.

Those who have charge of Miss Mary Anderson's starring tour in England lose no opportunity of advertising the fair actress. When an opportunity does not exist they make one. They have already set agoing several extraordinary stories concerning her, the first one being that she had declined an introduction to the Prince of Wales—which had never been solicited—and the last one being that her hand had been asked in marriage by Lord Coleridge. It was only the other day that she was reported as being about to marry another noble lord, and there was also a 'report that she contemplated entering a convent. As a matter of fact, Miss Anderson and Barnum's white elephant are just now enjoying a monopoly of free advertising.—Telegram.

Electric Warfare.

Under this heading the Daily Telegraph thus reminds itf readers of the way in which news from the battle-field reaches them:—

"Very few, probably, who received at their breakfast tables the news that our gallant troops were actually at that very moment engaged with the Arabs at Tamanieb, failed to be struck with the wonderful results worked in modern times by the electric telegraph and other developments of modern journalism. Before the blood shed upon the thirsty sand had time to dry, while the smoke of the guns was still hanging about the shrubs from which our soldiers had driven the enemy, and the wounded were still lying in the captured rifle-pits, Englishmen and African together, people here at home had read the welcome news that Osman Digma was beaten and that his entrenchments were occupied by the regiments. As the fight proceeded, and telegram after telegram arrived describing each phase of the memorable day, it seemed as if the scenes which the special correspondent had under his eyes were actually at the reader's door, and in the imagination space and time were practically effaced.

THE CRITICS DUMB.

THE proceedings in the Committee on Privilege and Elections, when the matter of the High Commissionership and its effect upon Sir Charles Tupper's parliamentary position came before it, were an amusing proof of the hollowness of the Opposition cry of the illegality and corruption of his acceptance of the office. It was very well to harangue on the platform or in the House with outpourings of feigned indignation, but in this Committee it was a question of evidence, of argument on the law, and the spouters collapsed. There was Sir Charles Tupper ready to be examined, but not a question had they to ask him. There was his commission, his accounts, sheaves of papers that had been asked for—there were their stacks of legal, historical and parliamentary authorities, but not a citation from them, not an argument, nothing but silence from the elsewhere voluble critics. Mr. Mills, Mr. Blake and several lesser constitutional lights on the Opposition benches were there, but not a break in the dreary pause. At length the motion of Mr. Hector Cameron that Sir Charles Tupper had not vacated his seat, and was now the member for Cumberland, drew tardily from Mr. Mills an amendment that Sir Charles had vacated his seat on account of having accepted certain advantages and allowances as our resident representative in Great Britain. Still no examination, no argument. The amendment was negatived, the motion was carried, but still there reigned this silence by which the Reform constitutionalists tacitly admitted that they had no case, and that all their previous abuse and bluster had only been "talking to Buncombe."

IS IT MERELY A COINCIDENCE?

AMONG the appropriations made for the improvement of our back waters during the recent sitting of the Ontario Legislature, was one of $2,750 "to meet one half the cost of reconstructing a dam across the Burnt River at Kinmount." As many of our readers are familiar with the location of the dam at the point named, and are as well aware as we are that this dam is not only private property, but is only required for private uses, we need not do more than call attention to the appropriation to secure its condemnation—a condemnation which will not be lessened when it becomes known that those financially interested in the maintenance of this dam happen to be active supporters of the Commissioner of Public Work for this Province, who is in a special manner responsible for an appropriation, to benefit private individuals at the public expense.

A "Strong" Government.

The Government of Mr. Mowat is too strong in the confidence of the people to make the resort to any unjust or improper legislation a necessity."—Globe.

If this be the case, why did this "strong" Government delay until the last hours of the session, when there was no time for discussion and when the public voice could not be heard, those iniquitous measures under which their tools in Algoma were relieved of the consequences of their crimes, and three of their supporters seated in the House, in the face of legal proceedings taken under a law of their own framing, to oust them. Under these scandalous measures not only are the suitors legislated out of court, but—most infamous of all—they have to pay the costs which they had incurred its penalties. Oh yes! it is a "strong" Government which will do such dark deeds—so "strong" that its offences are rank and smell to heaven.—Belleville Intelligencer.

The "Free-Press" Libel Suit.

The end of the long-debated libel suit brought by the owners of the steamship Lake Nepigon against the Ottawa Free Press, resulting as it did in a verdict for the defendants, gives entire satisfaction to the public, the same as in that against the Witness some time ago, the two cases being very much alike and both fought out fairly in the public interests.

It may be stated that the Free Press offered its columns to the managers of the company after the charges appeared for the publication of any evidence the directors might wish to produce in rebuttal of the immigrants' statements, but the offer was not accepted. As the action has been in progress for nearly two years, and a great deal of evidence taken under legal commissions here and in England, the aggregate law costs of the company must be very heavy.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Shall the Debate be Reported—P. E. I. Fisheries—A Hudson Bay Railway—Checking the Influx of Chinese.

HANSARD.

Mr. WHITE (Cardwell) on Wednesday moved the adoption of the Debates Committee report recommending additional translators and an increase of their salaries.

Mr. COURSOL thought the salaries of the French translators should be increased to $2,000 instead of $1,000.

Mr. ANGER moved an amendment in favour of discontinuing the official reports of the debates.

Wr. BERNER seconded the amendment, which was negatived by 102 to 61.

Some other amendments were voted down and the report was adopted.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

Sir C. TUPPER in reply to Mr. Desjardin said that by an amendment to the Railway Act Railway Companies would have to submit a plan of local crossings to the Railway Committee which might order a bridge or subway as they thought fit.

THE C. P. R.

Sir C. TUPPER in reply to Mr. Blake said he knew of no communication from the C. P. R. to the Government that the recent pecuniary arrangement was not adequate.

P. E. I. FISHERIES.

Mr. DAVIS maintained the right of Prince Edward Island to a share of the $5,500,000 obtained by the Fishery Award. Newfoundland had obtained $1,000,000 out of this sum, and Prince Edward Island was equally entitled to its share, having ratified the treaty before it entered the Confederation. It was therefore a debt due to the Island at that time, which she had not relinquished. He moved a resolution to give a proportionate share to the Island.

Mr. BRECKEN said he was in favour of this view, but Mr. Davis had wilfully prejudiced the claim of the Island. When Premier of the Island Mr. Davis had accepted a brief to represent the Dominion Government before the Commission, and he had advanced no such claim. When he was premier of the Island and Mr. Mackenzie of the Dominion, Mr. Davis advanced no such claim, and now he only did it as a political move.

Mr. TUPPER thought the Island had no more claim than the other Maritime Provinces and had shared equally in the benefit of the fishery boundaries.

Mr. HACKETT advocated the claim and censured Mr. Davis for neglect of his duties as Premier of the Island for not having it presented before the Fishery Commission.

The hour of recess put an end to the discussion.

HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

Mr. CAMERON (Victoria) moved the second reading of the Winnipeg and Hudson Bay Railway and Steamships Co.

PUBLIC BUSINESS.

Sir J. MACDONALD in reply to Mr. Blake said he feared Sir L. Thiev's illness would prevent progress with the Factory Bill. The proposals as to Railway grants would be brought down almost immediately, and he would not ask the House to sit on Saturday.

THE CHINESE INFLUX.

Mr. BAKER resumed the debate on the motion of Mr. Shakespeare to prohibit the Chinese immigration. He pointed to the example of Australian colonies which restricted the Chinese immigration, and to the State of California, which did likewise, and advocated adopting this course. He objected to them on moral and economical grounds.

Mr. ALLEN objected to an influx of Mongolians for the same reason, but the resolution went farther than Australia or California. He moved an amendment to insert "restriction" instead of "prohibition."

Messrs. Gordon, Barnard, Fairbank, Foster, Wood and Hesson, spoke on the subject, almost wholly in favor of restriction.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD referred to the evils of an unrestricted Chinese immigration. There were, however, several points which required full consideration before action was taken. There were the existing treaties, the proposed establishment of a line of steamers to open up trade between Canada and China, and the difficulty of obtaining sufficient white labour for railway construction until the completion of our transcontinental road induced European immigration. He announced that a commission would be appointed which during the summer would thoroughly investigate the whole question, and next session they would be in a better position to legislate. After some further remarks by other members he suggested that as they could not legislate for British Columbia alone, the resolution should be further amended so as to apply to the whole Dominion.

The resolution thus amended was carried.

To Serve Party Interests.

Messrs. Kirkland and Wilkinson were arrested on a criminal charge, and their private papers were seized. The warrant was issued at the instance of the Crown attorney, Mr. Fenton, a rabid politician; but the papers were not taken to him, placed in his keeping, or confided to the custody of the court. They were carried to a wholly irresponsible person, the Hon. Mr. Fraser, who selected some, which he kept, and the public has no knowledge whether he still has them or whether he has destroyed them. Some were given to the press, and some, which appear material to the case, cannot be found. It is evident that this transaction is a gross outrage upon public rights. The intent was, not to serve the ends of justice, but political interests. We do not say the papers should not have been seized; but if seized they should have been sealed up unread and placed in the hands of a judge or other persons removed from political strife, who should have selected those bearing upon the matter in issue and returned the rest to their owners. Mr. Fraser had no more right to appropriate Mr. Kirkland's papers than to appropriate his watch or his money. In either case the act was theft. The law may not hold it theft; morally, that is what it was. No doubt a conscientious crown attorney would not have permitted the act of confiscation; but the conduct of the creature Fenton proves that we cannot always count on having conscientious crown attorneys.—Hamilton Spectator.

Conviction Quashed.

HALIFAX, April 3.—Decision has been given in the Supreme Court in the case of the Queen v. Lyons, a motion to quash a conviction under the Scott Act in Kentsville, King's county. The conviction was quashed in this case as well as some 34 others, and the Supreme Court has decided that the Scott act was not and could not be in force in any county in Nova Scotia where licenses were not in existence at the time of the proclamation. The practical effect of this decision is to render illegal all proceedings taken under the Scott Act in every county in the province where it has been adopted.

President Arthur's Administration.

President Arthur's administration has illustrated the doctrine that the best way to Govern is to govern as little as possible. He is called a negative president. His lack of the positive temperament is doubtless why he makes so successful a ruler. A rearing and plunging executive unsettles politics and polity. The American people simply want protection enough to enable them to go about their own business. A president who has more interest in party or his pet policy than he has in the welfare of the people is a disturber instead of a governor. A president should have no ambition beyond the reputation of serving his country well. More than that makes him in a danger to the nation. In times of war or great crises this position might be truthfully modified. These are epochs when a Jackson or a Lincoln is needed. But in times of peace, when the main thing is industrial security and progress, an Arthur is good enough presidental timber.—Northwestern Lumberman.

IT is estimated that the reduction in the public debt of the States for March will be fifteen millions.

How Would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly and with certainty. Don't buy dangerous flesh-eating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

FIVE criminals, convicted of murder, were hanged on Friday in different States.

Pale, Poor, Puny and Pallid

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow; and their skin is drawn tightly over their foreheads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debility that leads to marasmus. Poor things.

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand its mother a bottle of the Shaker Blood Syrup. Here is life even for the most delicate, the most debilitated; for the child almost is given up for dead. Pure blood is what the child needs to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your druggist will tell you what wonders the Shaker Blood Syrup has done for very sick children.

CHAPTER I.

"Did you tell her that Dr. Hargrove is absent?"

"I did, ma'am, but she says she will wait."

"But, Hannah, it is very uncertain when he will return, and the night is so stormy he may remain in town until to-morrow. Advise her to call again in the morning."

"I said as much at the door, but she gave me to understand she came a long way, and should not leave here without seeing the doctor. She told the driver of the carriage to call for her in about two hours, as she did not wish to miss the railroad train."

"Where did you leave her? Not in that cold dark parlor, I hope?"

"She sat down on one of the hall chairs, and I left her there."

"A hospitable parsonage reception! Do you wish her to freeze? Go and ask her into the library, to the fire."

As Hannah left the room, Mrs. Lindsay rose and added two sticks of oak wood to the mass of coals that glowed between the shining brass andirons; then carefully removed further from the flame on the hearth a silver teapot and covered dish which contained the pastor's supper.

"Walk in, madam. I promise you nobody shall interfere with you. Miss Elise, she says she wishes to see no one but the doctor."

Hannah ushered the visitor in, and stood at the door beckoning to her mistress, who paused irresolute, gazing curiously at the muffled form and veiled face of the stranger.

"Do not allow me to cause you any inconvenience, madam. My business is solely with Dr. Hargrove and I do not fear the cold."

The voice of the visitor was very sweet, though tremulous, and she would have retreated, but Mrs. Lindsay put her hand on the bolt of the door, partly closing it.

"Pray be seated. This room is at your disposal. Hannah, bring the tea things into the dining-room, and then you need not wait longer; I will lock the doors after my brother comes in."

With an ugly furrow of discontent between her heavy brows, Hannah obeyed, and as she renewed the fire smouldering in the dining-room, she slowly shook her grizzled head: "Many a time I have heard my father say 'Mystery breeds misery,' and take my word for it there is always something wrong when a woman shuns women-folks and hunts sympathy and advice from men."

"Hush, Hannah! Charity—charity. Don't forget that you live in a parsonage, where 'sounding brass and tinkling cymbals' are not tolerated. All kinds of sorrow come here to be cured, and I fear that lady is in distress. Did you notice how her voice trembled?"

"Well, I only hope no silver will be missing to-morrow. I must make up my buckwheat, and set it to rise. Good night, Miss Elise."

It was a tempestuous night in the latter part of January, and although the rain, which had fallen steadily all day, ceased at dark, the keen wind from the north shook the branches of the ancient trees encircling the "Parsonage," and dashed the drops in showers against the windows. Not a star was visible, and as the night wore on the wind increased in violence, roaring through leafless elm limbs, and whistling drearily around the corners of the old brick house, whose ivy-mantled chimneys had battled with the storms of seventy years.

The hands of the china clock on the dining-room mantel-piece pointed to nine, and Mrs. Lindsay expected to hear the clear sweet strokes of the pendulum when other sounds startled her; the sharp, shrill bark of a dog, and impatient scratching of paws on the hall door. As she hurried forward and withdrew the inside bolt a middle-aged man entered, followed by a bluish-grey Skye terrier.

"Peyton, what kept you so late?"

"I was called to Beech grove to baptize Susan Moffat's only daughter. The girl died at eight o'clock, and I sat awhile with the stricken mother, trying to comfort her. Poor Susan! it is a heavy blow, for she idolized the child. Be quiet, Biorn.

Mr. Hargrove was leisurely divesting himself of his heavy overcoat, and the terrier ran up and down the hall, holding his nose high in the air, and barking furiously.

"Biorn's instincts rarely deceive him. A stranger is waiting in the library to see you Before you go in, let me give you your supper, for you must be tired and hungry."

"Thank you, Elsie, but first I must see this visitor, whose errand may be urgent."

He opened the door of the library, and entered so quietly that the occupant seemed unaware of his presence.

A figure draped in black sat by the table, which was drawn close to the hearth, and the arms were crossed wearily, and the head bowed upon them. The dog barked and bounded toward her, and then she quickly rose, throwing back her veil, and eagerly advancing.

"You are the Rev. Peyton Hargrove?"

"I am. What can I do for you, madam? Pray take this rocking chair."

She motioned it away, and exclaimed:

"Can you, too, have forgotten me?"

A puzzled expression crossed his countenance as he gazed searchingly at her; then he shook his head.

The glare of the fire, and the mellow glow of the student's lamp, fell full on the pale features, whose exceeding delicacy is rarely found outside of the carved gems of the Stosch or Albani cabinets. On Cameï and marble dwell the dainty moulding of the oval cheek, the airy arched tracery of the brows, the straight slender nose, and clearly defined cleft of the rounded chin, and nature only now and then paints them, as a whole, in flesh. It was the lovely face of a young girl, fair as one of the Frate's heavenly visions, but blanched by some flood of sorrow that had robbed the full tender lips of bloom, and bereft the large soft brown eyes of the gliding glory of hope.

"If I ever knew, I certainly have forgotten you."

"Oh, do not say so! You must recollect me;—you are the only person who can identify me. Four years ago I stood here,—in this room. Try to recall me."

She came close to him, and he heard the quick and laboured breathing, and saw the convulsive quivering of her compressed lips.

"What peculiar circumstances marked my former acquaintance with you? Your voice is quite familiar, but——"

He paused, passed his hand across his eyes, and before he could complete his sentence, she exclaimed:

"Am I, then, so entirely changed? Did you not one May morning marry, in this room, Minnie Merle to Cuthbert Laurance?"

"I remember that occasion very vividly, for in opposition to my judgment, I performed the ceremony; but Minnie Merle was a low-statured dark-haired child——" Again he paused, and keenly scanned the tall, slender, elegant figure, and the crimped waves of shining hair that lay like a tangled mass of gold set on the low, full white brow.

"I was Minnie Merle. Your words of benediction made me Minnie Laurance. God and the angels know it is my name, my lawful name,—but man denies it."

Something like a sob impeded her utterance, and the minister took her hand

"Where is your husband? Are you widowed so early?"

"Husband—my husband? One to cherish and protect, to watch over, and love, and defend me;—if such be the duties and the tests of a husband,—oh! then indeed I have never had one! Widowed, did you say?—That means something holy,—sanctified by the shadow of death, and the yearning sympathy and pity of the world;—a widow has a right to hug a coffin and a grave all the weary days of her lonely life, and people look tenderly on her sacred weeds. To me widowhood would be indeed a blessing. Sir,—I thought I had learned composure, self-control; but the sight of this room,—of your countenance,—even the strong breath of the violets and heliotrope there on the mantle in the same blood coloured Bohemian vase where they bloomed that day—that May day—all these bring back so overpoweringly the time that is forever dead to me that I feel as if I should suffocate."

She walked to the nearest window, threw up the sash, and while she stood with the damp chill wind blowing full upon her, the pastor heard a moan, such as comes from meek dumb creatures, wrung by the throes of dissolution.

When she turned once more to the light, he saw an unnatural sparkle in the dry, lustrous brown eyes.

"Dr. Hargrove, give me the license that was handed to you by Cuthbert Lawrance."

"What value can it possess now?"

"Just now it is worth more to me than anything else in life—more to me than my hopes of heaven."

"Mrs. Laurence, you must remember that I refused to perform the marriage ceremony, because I believed you were both entirely too young. Your grandmother, who came with you, assured me that she was your sole guardian, and desired the marriage, and your husband, who seemed to me a mere boy, quieted my objections by producing the license, which he said exonerated me from censure, and relieved me of all responsibility. With that morning's work I never felt fully satisfied, and though I know that any magistrate would probably have performed the ceremony, I have sometimes thought that I acted rashly, and have carefully kept that license as my defence and apology."

"Thank God, that it has been preserved. Give it to me."

"Pardon me if I say frankly, I prefer to retain it. All licenses are recorded by the officer who issued them, and by applying to him you can easily procure a copy."

"Treachery baffles me there. A most inopportune fire broke out just eighteen months ago, in the room where those records were kept, and although the court-house was saved, the book containing my marriage license was of course destroyed."

"But the clerk should be able to furnish a certificate of the facts."

"Not when he was bribed to forget them. Please give me the paper in your possession."

She wrung her slender fingers, and her whole frame trembled like a weed on some bleak hillside, where wintry winds sweep unimpeded.

A troubled look crossed the grave, placid countenance of the pastor, and he clasped his hands firmly behind him, as if girding himself to deny the eloquent pleading of the lovely dark eyes.

"Sit down, madam, and listen to——"

"I cannot! A restless fever is consuming me, and nothing but the possession of that license can quiet me. You have no right to withhold it, you cannot be so cruel, so wicked, unless you also have been corrupted, bought off!"

"Be patient enough to hear me. I have always feared there was something wrong about that strange wedding, and your manner confirms my suspicions. Now I must be made acquainted with all the facts—must know your reason for claiming the paper in my possession, before I surrender it. As a minister of the gospel, it is incumbent upon me to act cautiously, lest I innocently become auxiliary to deception,—possibly to crime."

A vivid scarlet flamed up in the girl's marble cheeks.

"Of what do you suspect, or accuse me?"

"I accuse you of nothing. I demand your reasons for the request you have made."

"I want that paper because it is the only proof of my marriage. There were two witnesses—my grandmother, who died three years ago on a steamship bound for California, where her only son is living; and Gerbert Aude, a collede student, who is supposed to have been lost last summer in a fishing smack, off the coast of Labrador or Greenland."

"I am a witness accessible at any time, should my testimony be required."

"Will you live forever? Nay,—just when I need your evidence, my ill-luck will seal your lips, and drive the screw down in your coffin-lid."

"What use do you intend to make of the license? Deal candidly with me."

"I want to hold it as the most precious thing in life; to keep it concealed securely, until the time comes when it will save me, avenge me."

"Why is it necessary to prove your marriage? Who disputes it?"

"Cuthbert Laurance and his father."

"Is it possible? Upon what plea?"

"That he was a minor, was only twenty, irresponsible, and that the license was fraudulent."

"Where is your husband?"

"I tell you I have no husband! It were sacrilege to couple that sacred title with the name of the man who has wronged, deserted, repudiated me; and who intends, if possible, to add to the robery of my peace and happiness, that of my fair, stainless name. Less than one month after the day when right here, where I now stand, you pronounced me his wife in the sight of God and man, he was summoned home by a telegram from his father. I have never seen him since. Gen. Laurance took his son immediately to Europe, and, sir, you will find it difficult to believe men when I tell you that infamous father has actually forced the son, by threats of disinheritance, to marry again,—to——"

The words seemed to strangle her, and she nervously broke away the ribbons which held her bonnet and were tied beneath her chin.

Mr. Hargrove poured some water into a goblet, and as he held it to her lips, murmured compassionately:

"Poor child! God help you."

Perhaps the genuine pity in the tone brought back sweet memories of the by-gone, and for a moment softened the girl's heart, for tears gathered in the large eyes, giving them a strange quivering radiance. As if ashamed of the weakness, she threw her head back defiantly, and continued:

"I was the poor little orphan, whose grandmother did washing and mending for the college boys—only unknown little Minnie Merle, with none to aid in asserting her rights;—and she—the new wife—was a banker's daughter, an heiress, a fashionable belle,—and so Minnie Merle must be trampled out,—and the new Mrs. Cuthbert Laurance dashes in her splendid equipage through the Bois de Boulogne. Sir, give me my license!"

Our Canadian Industry

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

The Spirometer.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, an ex-aide surgeon of the French army, one of the most eminent Throat and Lung specialists of the present time, has opened a large Institute in Boston, at 212 Columbus avenue, where he intends to be permanently located. Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

The Boating Club.

The annual meeting of the Boating Club will be held on Monday evening next. There should be a good rally at the meeting, to give the club a good start early in the season, so that its reputation will be not only sustained, but new lustre be added to its name during the coming season.

Grand Concert.

The Cricket Club Concert.

The Toronto Mail says of Miss Lenora Clench:—

"The pure full intonation, excellent executive resources, variety of expression and elegance of phrasing shown by one so young, indicate a genius that only requires to be properly directed to become truly great.

This violiniste at the Cricket Club Concert April 17th.

Concert at Port Hope.

STRAY SHOTS:

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

On Thursday evening the Rev. John Shaw read a portion of Scripture and gave a short address.

The Rev. W. Joliffe and the Rev. T. Manning were also present.

Lieut. Willis, who had intended leaving in the afternoon, missed the train and was present at the first part of the meeting. She again bade the people farewell in a neat speech. As she was leaving the platform she waved her hand to the audience to bid them good-bye.

The officers appeared to regret her departure very much, and Lieut. Annie White was affected even to tears.

Miss Mary Brokenshire, a lieutenant of the Army, was also present and was introduced by Lieut. Willis.

Sergeant Hewson's orders to leave here were countermanded, and he was instructed to remain until Saturday.

During the experience meeting a speaker referred to the good work done by Lieut. Willis, and when he sat down Lieut. Munt led in singing, "For she is saved to wear a crown."

A man who was under the influence of liquor was escorted out of the hall by Sergeant Rogers. It was done very quietly.

Several new names were added to the list of converts.

The Army will not hold a meeting in Lakefield to-night, but will do so on Tuesday evening next.

POLICE COURT.

VAGRANCY.

FRIDAY, April 4.—John Sullivan was charged with being a vagrant. He had figured in the Court on ten previous occasions. He was committed to gaol for two weeks.

A DISCORDANT NOISE.

Jos. Langford was charged by Constable Pidgeon with having made a discordant noise in a public place. Some one had found a policeman's whistle, and Langford blew it. He said that he did not know what it was. He was discharged.

TWO CASES DISMISSED.

Thomas Beavis was charged by Jennie Gordinier with having used grossly insulting language towards here in a public place. Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared for the defendant. The evidence of the complainant and the defendant was directly contradictory. Other witnesses were called, and the Magistrate said that he was not sufficiently satisfied that insulting language had been used. He dismissed the charge without costs.

Mr. Beavis was also charged by Miss Gordinier with unlawfully entering her house. Mr. Beavis, who is Market Inspector, suspected the complainant of forestalling, and entered her house to investigate. Mr. Edwards demurred to the information.

The MAGISTRATE said it might be a trespass for which a civil action would lie, but he could take no cognisance of it. It was therefore dismissed.

For a Nobby Spring Suit, got up in the latest style, call and see McNEIL.

THE CRICKET CLUB.

The Annual Meeting Largely Attended—The Election of Officers, &c.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cricket Club was held in the Oriental Hotel on Thursday evening.

There was a very large attendance. The Rev. V. Clementi, B.A., presided.

The following officers were elected for the present year:—

PRESIDENT.—C. A. Weller.

1ST VICE-PRESIDENT.—Rev. V. Clementi.

2ND VICE-PRESIDENT.—Hon. R. Hamilton.

SECRETARY-TREASURER.—E. A. Peck.

COMMITTEE.—W. A. Stratton, T. Rutherford, G. W. Hatton, P. Cooper and J. H. Burnham.

The attendance at this meeting was larger than it has been at any annual meeting of the club for years, and the prospects for a good season are bright.

The club hope that all who feel an interest in the game will unite with them. The subscription for junior members is half the amount of the regular subscription, and the boys are provided with cricket material. It is desirable that the juniors should see the advantage of uniting with the club, instead of forming independent junior clubs.

New Maple Syrup!

First of the season just to hand. Also choice Mixed Pickles and Tomato Catsup. The above is sold by the quart or gallon. Also, by the pound, evaporated Pumpkins. Raspberry, Plum, and Black Currant Jams. Fine Assorted Jellies, and other varieties too numerous to mention. Pure Apple Butter, try it. Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance, at CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

Easter Beef.

Mr. H. C. Winch, sudying as usual the interests of his customers, has purchased cattle suitable for supplying their tables with suet joints as they will be glad to see at the festive season of Easter after the Lenten fasting. A part of his Easter stock will be on exhibition in the market to-morrow, the remainder not having yet come in from their feeders.

JAMES BRAYLEY, Hamilton, says:—"I read the testimonial for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living Witnesses of its value, we had plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away, I was as bad with Bilious Fever and Indigestion as I think any one could be, I have taken three bottles and am nearly well and can eat any kind of food without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than ever I expected to be." Free trial bottles at John McKee's drug store.

Bass & Co., Burton-on-Trent, India Pale Ale now on draught, at Chamberlain's Restaurant—direct importation.

Improved Store and New Goods.

Miss E. Delaney has made ample preparations for an active spring and summer trade. Not only has she got in a first class stock of goods, but extensive improvements have been made in the store, causing an enlargement of the premises. The whole of the second flat is now used for mantle and dressmaking, while the millinery work room on the ground floor is divided from the store and show room by a beautiful screen, painted white with ornamented glass in the doors and panels. There are ample evidences of the brush of the painter having been used, and the walls have been newly papered with gold colored paper. The ceiling is covered with cream colored paper, with handsome border and panels. The work of painting and decorating was well done, by Mr. Thos. McGrath. On each side of the store there are glass cases, those on the right being filled with ribbons, flowers, laces, &c., and those on the left with hats, trimmed and untrimmed. Trimmed hats are also displayed on tables in the centre of the floor. The principal novelties in hats this season are:—The Oscar Wilde, a remarkable innovation, in Tuscan color, with feathers to match placed diagonally across the crown; the Fascination, in pure white, trimmed with feathers and lace; the Brigande, in fawn and condour brown; the Ellen Terry, a very pretty hat; the Grenadier, a stylish and graceful hat, trimmed with black, and the Marchioness of Lansdowne bonnet, trimmed in cream color and pink. Of mantles the Marie Antoinette and Mary Stuart, dolmans are displayed, in brocade and Ottoman cord silk, with laces and ornaments to match. These mantles and dressess are made on the premises, the whole of the upper flat being devoted to that work. In a large glass case are displayed $200 worth of flowers nearly all silk, comprising French Montres, weaths, rosebuds and unmounted flowers, not forgetting the latest novelty, wheat-ears. In another case pon-pons and feathers in every color and shade are displayed. On the lines to the left fancy lace ties, gloves, ribbons, etc., are exhibited, and on the opposite lines ladies' underwear and fancy goods. The show cases on the counters are filled with ribbons, buttons and ornaments. Miss Delaney's spring opening was on Thursday, but on account of the cold weather the windows were not dressed as they otherwise would have been, and she will have a re-opening on Tuesday. The windows are, however, tastily dressed with hats, bonnets, flowers, sash ribbons and dresses, in colors innumerable. Miss Delaney is now in every way prepared for a brisk season's trade.

OMEMEE.

CARRIED AWAY.—Early on Friday morning of last week one pier and a portion of the bridge which crosses the river in front of the mills was washed away, caused no doubt by the great pressure of water and being struck by ice or a log. The great rush of water being the result of the dam giving away a few days before. Mr. Stephenson the owner of the dam and mills will be at considerable expense in getting the dam repaired. A couple of dollars spent on the dam last fall would have saved it and the bridge from destruction. It will be remembered the dam was washed out last spring.—Herald.

A DAMAGED HAND.—Mr. James Daley is now suffering from an injury of this description, which occured while he was attending to his duties, coupling two cars of a train at the station on Friday. We hope Jim may retain his fingers and that he may have good use of them again in his capacity as an obliging employee of the road.

P. B. C.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I learn that the prospects are good for the coming season, and that it is probable that a large addition will be made to the membership. It is becoming a recognized fact that the exercise of rowing is the best of all for keeping a young man in sound and vigorous health, whilst the pleasure derived from a good swinging stroke in a four oared boat keeps the mind in tune with the body. One special advantage of rowing is that the oarsman rows in a different suit of clothes from his ordinary apparel, and the refreshing shower bath following the pull, and the entire change of clothing, not only send him back from the boat house feeling a new man, but also tend to prevent the chills and other evil effects which often result where, after violent exercise, there is not the same chance for a change. It is not surprising, therefore, to hear that a number of the young men of the town, who are not already members, are thinking of taking to rowing for exercise and pleasure. For canoeing, nothing need be said in a town where the pastime is so popular.

With such prospects it is important that the Club should this year have a vigorous Executive Committee. For the last year or two things have to too great an extent been left to take care of themselves. Fresh life and energy are wanted in the management. To accomplish this the members must in the first place make it a point to attend the annual meeting on Monday night, and to elect to the various offices men who will attend to the duties laid upon them. There have of late been too few members at the meetings. There is not the same spirit shown that used to be displayed.

Then the officers and members of the Comittee when elected should hold frequent meetings and see that the finances and property of the club are carefully looked after. Boats and oars should always be in apple pie order. The club house should be made as attractive as possible, and the gymnasium kept properly supplied with all necessaries. The finances ought to be sharply looked after, and the fees promptly collected. In this connection it is high time to consider whether the annual fee should not be increased. When it is considered that members of the curling club pay $5 each for a much shorter season, and that they have to provide their own curling stones, it does seem strange that any club can afford to give its members not only the use of boat house, gymnasium, baths, &c., but also boats and oars for the paltry sum of $2 a year. I believe that the rowing men at any rate would be satisfied to increase the fee to a reasonable figure and to keep everything as befitting a first class club. It is for them to say what shall be done. Will the members turn out on Monday evening?

Yours, &c.
AN OLD MEMBER.

LEONORA CLENCH.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Having heard this talented young lady play at the University conversazione, held last February, I would strongly advise the music loving people of Peterborough not to miss the opportunity of hearing her afforded by the Cricket Club Concert. It was truly astonishing to observe the enthusiasm which a young girl, barely fifteen, could provoke in a city like Toronto where good music is not rarely heard. Although it was contrary to the rule to allow "encores," yet the immense audience that filled Convocation Hall applauded so vigorously and with such determination that the programme could not be preceded with until after she had made a second appearance.

Yours, &c.,

TORONTO.

AN INTERESTING DECISION.—A decision on the effect of marriage with a deceased wife's sister on the rights of property was delivered on Wednesday, as Osgoode Hall, by Chancellor Boyd. Briefly, the decision was that, after the death of the wife, the husband is entitled to a life interest in the property as a tenant by courtesy; and further, that to entitle a husband to tenancy by courtesy a legal marriage only is necessary. It need not be canonical.

FOUND DEAD.—The body of a woman floating in the Bay, a short distance out from the Yonge street dock, attracted the attention of wharf labourers about two o'clock on Wednesday Esplanade Constaple Williams, aided by P. C. Peckham, raised the corpse from the water and conveyed it to the Morgue. A close search failed to reveal anything that would identify the dead woman, who is apparently about 25 years of age and attired in a black skirt, brown waist, with red buttons, black cloth jacket and button boots, very much the worse for wear. The body is in an advance stage of decomposition and has apparently been in the water since the close of navigation last year. The body is supposed by some to be that of a Miss McDougall, who has been missing from her home on Mutual street, since last fall.

OUTRAGEOUS ASSAULT.—A couple of young blackguards committed a brutal outrage on an elderly woman named Mary Gibson on Lombard st., at an early hour on Wednesday morning, and owing to her screams being heard by P. C. John Cuddy, one of the villains, Michael Ryan by name, is in custody, and the other scamp may be in the hands of the law before long Mrs. Gibson's story of the affair is that Ryan and his companion smashed in the back windows of the house, and upon entering her room immediately blew out a lighted lamp standing on a table at the side of her bed. They then attempted to assault her, but she escaped from the room and leaped through the window. They pursued her into the street and caught her, afterwards bearing her down to the ground.

Execution of the Stevenson Brothers.

WINNIPEG, April 3.—John and George Stevenson were hanged at Regina this morning for the atrocious murder of John McCarthy at Troy junction. McCarthy formerly lived at Perth county, Ontario. The half-breeds made a full confession of their guilt, and admitted the justice of their sentence. They met death with cheerful, expectant faces. Father Laroche Hugenant attended to their spiritual welfare. The scaffold and appliances were complete and worked admirably. The drop was ten feet. Both died instantaneously. The execution was private, and no demonstration was made by the half-breed population. The execution will have a salutary effect.

A common brick, if very dry, will absorb a quart of water. The "perfect brick" of the human variety, however, although he is always dry, wouldn't absorb a quart of water in a year's drinking. Herein is the superiority of mind over matter.

ONLY TOO STRONG.

THE re-election of the Hon. Mr. Flynn, for Gaspe, by an enormous majority, on his acceptance of a portfolio in the Quebec Provincial Government, shows that the only difficulty of the Administration is where the exuberant strength of the Conservatives induces internal divisions and a superabundance of Conservative candidates, as in some of the other elections that have recently taken place in the Province.

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER CASES.

THE Globe urges that the production of telegrams may be demanded when there is reason to believe that they may furnish important evidence in a criminal prosecution. In the case of telegrams sent to Mr. Pardee by Burden and his other tools to corrupt and defraud the electorate of Algoma, it is not only believed, but it is known that they contain important evidence, for specimens of this criminal correspondence has been made public and are admitted to be genuine. Yet the Globe and its friends resist the production of these telegrams.

VALUABLE TESTIMONY.

THE Irish Protestant Benevolent Society of Toronto is entirely non-political, and contains many Reform members. They have shown what they think of the attempts of the conspirators, informers and business rivals of Mr. Bunting to injure his character by electing him unanimously as their President. And they gave him this testimony of their esteem and admiration in spite of his generously requesting the withdrawal of his nomination, lest his enemies might try to injure the Society also. It was felt that the attacks of informers of ill repute could not stain the character of an honorable man.

A DISTINCT AND DIRECT BRIBE.

IN an article on the proposed increase of the Provincial subsidies the Kingston Whig says:—

"In the case of Quebec the vote takes the shape of a bribe, distinct and direct, and it admits of no defence."

We fail to see how a financial re-adjustment between the Dominion and all the provinces without conditions attached, but because it is considered just and expedient, can be considered a bribe. When, however, the Globe in Mr. Blake's name, offered the same benefit, among others, to Quebec, on the express condition that its members should vote to place Mr. Blake power, it undoubtedly was a "distinct and direct" and disgraceful offer of a bribe, yet the Whig had no condemnation of this wholesale attempt at corruption. When Mr. Blake allowed this corrupt offer to stand in his name until after the critical vote it was intended to effect, and then only disclaimed the offer of a bribe in a quibbling manner, without even to this day daring to reprove the Globe for such an unauthorized use of his name, for he had made himself an accomplice by tacitly assenting to it in the hope of deriving benefit from it, he was undoubtedly an accessory after the fact, at the very least, to the corrupt offer of a bribe, yet again the Whig had no rebuke for such conduct.

An Active Editor.

It is said that Mr. Chenery, the late editor of the London Times, delegated very little of his work to sub-editors. He read through the proofs of every leader, letter, large type article and telegram that appeard in the Times, and the leaders were almost always written on lines which he suggested in a few pithy sentences. He seldom left a writer to work out his article all alone, but generally went the round of the rooms at the office two or three times in an evening to carry scraps of fresh news, or to furnish any new arguments which had occurred to his ever active mind.

Montreal Customs Receipts

For the first three months of this year there has been a decrease of $566,000 in the Customs revenue at the port of Montreal when compared with the same quarter last year. The value of imports landed at Montreal, in January and February was $4,398,999, a falling off in comparison with 1883 of $1,900,729.

Applying for a Subsidy.

Dr. Laroque is applying to the Dominion Government for a subsidy of $4,000 for the proposed Journal of Health, to be published in French. The sanitary journal published at Ottawa, in English, is in receipt of a certain amount of Government patronage.

The Defences of Canada.

The British government has placed Colonel Butler at the disposal of the Canadian authorities to inspect the defences of the Dominion.

THE MOWAT PLOT.

The Informers and Spies Shown in a True Light Boasting of Their Rascality.

The addresses of counsel for the defendant charged with bribery were resumed on Thursday.

THE BASE DECOYS FAIL.

Mr. MCMASTER Q. C., on behalf of Mr. Bunting said the charges were by employees and supporters of the Government, aided by the Government itself. A charge of conspiracy had been brought so as to close the mouths of all the defendants. Still the unanswered evidence of the prosecution did not make good their story. He commented severely upon the abuse that had been circulated especially in the case of Dr. McMichael. He pointed out that there was no evidence of an illegal act against Mr. Bunting. Even if a promise of an office was made to induce members to change their views it was not illegal and had often been done. He discussed this question at length. If there was any conspiracy he argued that it was that of the informers and of the members of the Government who confessedly employed them to entrap the defendants, and especially his client. McKim had not only offered to sell himself, but had acted as the general go-between. McKim and Dowling had gone to Mr. Bunting to entrap him, but without success. Cascaden had gone to him, and had been indignantly repulsed. Mr. Goldie and Mr. Bunting advised him to have nothing to do with the matter. The prosecutors and those aiding and abetting them had prostituted their honor for base purposes, and they were the real criminals.

A PARALLEL CASE.

Mr. FOSTER also addressed the Court on behalf of Mr. Bunting, dwelling principally upon the legal aspect of the case. He quoted a legal authority as follows:—

Where an officer first suggests his willingness to a person to accept a bribe to release a prisoner, and thereby originates the criminal intent, and apparently joins the defendant in the criminal act, first suggested by the officer merely to entrap, the defendant cannot be convicted of offering a bribe to such officer.

This, he said, was exactly their case. The witnesses, as accomplices, could not be held to corroborate each other's evidence.

THE REAL CRIMINALS.

Mr. MURPHY spoke on behalf of Mr. Wilkinson. He said the only real evidence that had been given was given at the opening of the case by a man who said very little, by Mr. Fenton when he looked over the Court and said he could not see the real criminals. That was the truth. Mr. Wilkinson avowed boldly and freely that he, single-handed and alone, had tried to overturn the Mowat administration, and all that he was sorry for was that he had not succeded. No offence known to the law had been proved. The real conspirators were those base informers who sought to entrap honest men and the members of the Government who employed them. McKim is the prime mover and the evidence, showed that it was he who had introduced all the others to his client. Even when Mr. Wilkinson was away for a time Mr. McKim was still working. These informers, these liars or perjurers had in fact endeavoured to entrap the defendants. The oath of these men who had shown themselves dead to all sense of honour should have no weight. If there was any crime or any conspiracy it was committed by these informers and their employers. He quoted among others the case of Regina vs. Taylor, where several persons conspired to procure others to commit a robbery in order to convict the robber and obtain the reward then given by the statute in such cases. The party who actually committed the robbery was convicted and executed, but these persons were subsequently indicted for the conspiracy and convicted. Even if his client could be convicted, he would still be looked upon as a more honorable man than the base informers who had from the witness box published their own dishonour.

Mr. NEVILLE also addressed the court for the defence as to the legal aspect of the alleged offence.

BOASTING OF RASCALITY.

Mr. IRVING addressed the Court for the informers, whom he lauded for their knavery, actually boasting of "their skilful angling." He endeavored to make the best of the contradictory and uncorroborated evidence of his disreputable clients, twisting their language so unfairly that Mr. McMichael had repeatedly to take him to task for these perversions. He argued at great length in reply to the counsel for the defence, as to the aspect of the crime charged and the nature of conspiracy.

DEIFYING INFORMERS.

Mr. FENTON proceeded almost to deify spies and informers, not remembering perhaps how he has seen some of his pets running from charges of perjury which they could not deny. He expressed, as so many others have done, that these men should give up money, overlooking the obvious explanation that they have been, or are to be, rewarded by their employers for doing so. His praise of these creatures of ill-repute culminated in the assertion, to take the Globe's report, that:—

"They had led on bribers to deposit their bribes so as to stamp out political bribery forever."

This would seem a triumph of misapplied genius, if it were not so evidently plagiarised from the old invitation from another shining light among Reformers to come and put down bribery with the aid of lots of money.

The arguments of counsel being concluded, the case was adjourned till Tuesday for the Magistrate to give his decision.

MORE LIGHT.

To the Editor of The Review.

SIR,—In answer to "More Light's" communication asking for information in regard to the letting of street watering to F. Smith, I will in the first place try to set your correspondent right in regard to his figures. Smith's tender was only $775 in place of $800, and in the next place the committee gave me instructions to interview McClelland in regard to the duties that will be required by any one undertaking to do, not only street watering, but more especially drawing the fire engine, and other duties required to fill up his time. To all the questions asked of Mr. McClelland the answers were quite satisfactory. I gave the information to the members of the Committee on Monday night, but in the interval Smith, whose tender was the same as last year's, had found out that his was the highest, and wanted me to accept another, which I positively refused, but promised to lay the matter before the Committee, which I did in both cases. The Committee, three out of four, with some reluctance, agreed to accept Smith's proposition, which was endorsed by the Council.

I may state in conclusion that I most fully explained the whole matter to the Council on Monday night last, but was not fully reported.

A. RUTHERFORD,
Chairman, Fire, Water and Gas Com.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Sir C. Tupper's Seat—Condolence with th Queen—The British Association Visit—A New Falsehood as to the C. P. R.

SIR C. TUPPER'S SEAT.

Mr. GIRONARD on Thursday moved the adoption of the report of the Committee on Privilege and Elections that Sir C. Tupper had not vacated his seat.

Mr. BLAKE said he had heard no arguments to make him change his opinion that the seat was vacated. Without making further remarks he would ask for a division.

The report was adopted by 107 to 55.

THE FACTORY BILL.

Sir L. TILLEY, in reply to Mr. Blake, said it was not intended to proceed with the Factory Bill this session.

THE LATE PRINCE LEOPOLD.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD moved in an eloquent speech a vote of condolence to Her Majesty on the death of Prince Leopold.

Mr. BLAKE seconded the motion in appropriate terms.

The motion was carried, and it was ordered that a copy of the address should be forwarded to the Governor-General for transmission to Her Majesty.

THIRD READINGS.

Several bills were read a third time and passed.

SUPPLY.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, and passed a number of items.

THE MOUNTED POLICE.

Mr. MILLS on the item for Mounted Police complained that the expenditure was greater for nearly double the number of men than when the prairies were a desert under his reign.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT and Mr. Charlton advocated artillery on account of its great moral effect upon the Indians, of course reserving the right of attacking the Government for spending money if it follows their advice.

THE BOUNDARY AWARD.

Mr. MILLS asked if the repared by the Hon. John O'Connor on the Boundary question would be printed.

Sir J. MACDONALD did not consent to give to the counsel on the other side his brief in this case.

Sir H. LANGEVIN, Mr. Chapleau and Sir C. Tupper testified to the value of the services rendered by Mr. Fabre.

THE C. P. R. LOAN.

Sir H. LANGEVIN in the absence of the premier said there was no foundation for the statement the C. P. R. or any member or director of it had appplied to the Government for a further loan of $5,000,000, or any other sum.

THE QUEBEC RAILWAY.

Sir H. LANGEVIN in reply to Sir R. Cartwright said the Quebec Railway resolutions would probably be brought down on Monday.

Storms in the States.

Eastern and Western Indiana were visited on Tuesday by a cyclone which carried death and devastation in its track. Many persons were killed and a large number injured. Houses and barns were demolished by scores, one village being instantly wiped out of existence. Pittsburg also suffered serious damage from a violent windstorm.

One From a Thousand.

MORTON, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Yetro, one of my neighbors, was taken with violent cramps and pain in the stomach. My wife was called in to see her. The woman was in great distress. We had a bottle of your Nerviline in the house, which we got from your agent, Mr. Slitter. My wife gave a dose and bathed her freely, and the woman became relieved immediately.—CALVIN STRUTHERS, J.P. You can test Polson's Nerviline for the small amount of 10 cents by buying a sample bottle at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Large bottles 25 cents.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

These symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching, very distressing, particularly at night, seems as if pin-worms were crawling above the parts affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also for tetter, itch, salt rheum, scald head, erysipelas, barber's itch, blotches, all scaly, crusty skin diseases. Sent by mail for 50 cents; 3 boxes, $1.25 (in stamps) Adpress DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists.

THE great horse Leolatus broke down at Louisville and cannot appear on the track again.

A VALUABLE HINT.—Artizans, actors, sportsmen, mechanics and laboring men, in fact all who unduly exert muscular strength, are subject to painful contractions of the cords, stiff joints and lameness; to all such Hagyard's Yellow Oil is a prompt relief and perfect cure.

NAMES, FACTS AND FIGURES—Will be cheerfully given by the proprietors of Burdock Blood Bitters, regarding the many certificates of wonderful cures made by that medicine in chronic diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, revealing proof that it is beyond the possibility of dispute by the most incredulous.

TO RESIST Malaria, Ague, Fevers, Headache, Cold, Kidney Disease, Pain in the Side or Back, Constipation or costiveness, keep Zopesa handy, and take a dose twice a week. It acts upon the Liver and Stomach like magic. Ask J. D. Tully.

Ladies, do not forget Turnbull's Millinery and Mantle Show Rooms will be opened on Wednesday and Thursday, April the Ninth and Tenth.

Polson's Nerviline.

Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, never fails to give prompt relief in the following complaints:—Sprains, bruises, cuts, tic douloureux, rheumatism, spinal pains, neuralgia, toothache, lumbago, sciatica. Buy to-day at Ormond & Walsh's drug store a 10 cent sample bottle and test it in any of the above complaints. It never fails, for Nerviline is composed of the most powerful pain subduing remedies in the world. Get a bottle at Ormond & Walsh's. You will be made happy. Ten and 25 cents a bottle.

Invitations have been recieved by the commanding officers of all the corps in Montreal to attend the review during the bi-centennial in Toronto next June.

How Would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly and with certainty. Don't buy dangerous flesh-eating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

A QUESTION TO THE POINT.—Reader, have you a languid, weak and tired feeling, with nervous exhaustion, especially in the early spring? Then your liver is inactive and circulation poor. Arouse the torpid liver, clense the sluggish blood and regulate the secretions with that purifying tonic Burdock Blood Bitters.

Miss Irons and her staff of hands are now very busy trimming the new Cadet, Jerome, Review and Gorandel, etc., shapes, her well known good taste is sure to make Turnbull's Showrooms the attraction of the season.

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

Mr. Hargrove opened a secret drawer in the tall writing-desk that stood in one corner of the room, and unlocking a square tin box took from it a folded slip of paper. After some deliberation he seated himself and began to write.

Impatiently his visitor paced the floor, followed by Biorn, who now and then growled suspiciously.

At length when the pastor laid down his pen, his guest came to his side and held out her hand.

"Madam, the statements you have made are so extraordinary that you must pardon me if I am unusually cautious in my course. While I have no right to doubt your assertions they seem almost incredible, and the use you might make of the license—"

"What! you find it so difficult to credit the villany of a man—and yet so easy to suspect, to believe all possible deceit and wickedness in a poor helpless woman? Oh, man of God! is your mantle of charity cut to cover only your own sex? Can the wail of down-trodden orphanage wake no pity in your heart—or is it locked against me by the cowardly dread of incurring the hate of the house of Laurance?"

For an instant a dark flush bathed the tranquil brow of the minister, but his kind tone was unchanged when he answered slowly:

"Four years ago I was in doubt concerning my duty, but just now there is clearly but one course for me to pursue. Unless you wish to make an improper use of it, this paper, which I very willingly hand to you, will serve your purpose. It is an exact copy of the license, and to it I have appended my certificate as the officiating clergyman who performed the marriage ceremony. Examine it carefully, and you will find the date, and indeed every syllable, rigidly accurate. From the original I shall never part, unless to see it replaced in the court house records."

Bending down close to the lamp she eagerly read and re-read the paper, which shook like an aspen in her nervous grasp; then she looked searchingly into the grave face beside her, and a sudden light broke over her own.

"Oh, thank you!" After all, the original is safer in your hands than in mine. I might be murdered, but they would never dare to molest you,—and if I should die you would not allow them to rob my baby of her name?"

"Your baby?"

He looked at the young girlish figure and face and it seemed impossible that the creature before him could be a mother. A melancholy smile curved her lips.

"Oh! that is the sting that sometimes goads me almost to desperation. My own wrongs are sufficiently hard to bear, but when I think of my innocent baby denied the sight of her father's face, and robbed of the protection of her father's name, then I forget that I am only a woman; I forget that God reigns in Heaven to right the wrongs on earth, and—"

There was a moment's silence.

"How old is your child?"

"Three years."

"And you? A mere child now."

"I am only nineteen."

"Poor thing! I pity you from the depths of my soul."

The clock struck ten, and the woman started from the table against which she leaned.

"I must not miss the train; I promised to return promptly."

She put on the gray cloak she had thrown aside, buttoned it about her throat, and tied her bonnet strings.

"Before you go, explain one thing. Was not your hair very dark when you were married?"

"Yes, a dark chestnut brown, but when my child was born I was ill a long time, and my head was shaved and blistered. When the hair grew out, it was just as you see it now. Ah! if we had only died then, baby and I,—we might have had a quiet sleep under the violets and daises. I see, sir—you doubt whether I am really little Minnie Merle. Do you not recollect that when you asked for the wedding ring, none had been provided, and Cuthbert took one from his own hand, which was placed on my finger? Ah! there was a grim fitness in the selection? A death's head peeping out of a cinerary urn. You will readily recognise the dainty bridal token."

She drew from her bosom a slender gold chain on which was suspended a quaint antique cameo ring of black agate, with a grinning white skull in the centre, and around the oval border of heavily chased gold, glittered a row of large and very brilliant diamonds.

"I distinctly remember the circumstance."

As the minister restored the ring to its owner, she returned it and the chain to its hiding place.

"I do not wear it, I am biding my time. When Gen. Laurance sent his agent first to attempt to buy me off, and finding that impossible, to browbeat me and terrify me into silence, one of his insolent demands was the restoration of this ring, which he said was an heirloom of untold value in his family, and must belong to none but a Laurance. He offered five hundred dollars for the delivery of it into his possession. I would sooner part with my right arm! Were it iron or lead, its value to me would be the same, for it is the only symbol of my lawful marriage,—it is my child's title deed to a legitimate name she turned towards the door, and Dr. Hargrove asked:

"Where is your home?"

"I have none. I am a waif drifting from city to city, on the uncertain waves of chance."

"Have you no relatives?"

"Only an uncle somewhere in the gold mines of California."

Does Gen. Laurance provide for your maintenance?"

"Three years ago his agent offered me a passage to San Francisco, and five thousand dollars, on condition that I withdrew all claim to my husband, and to his name and pledged myself to 'give the Laurances no further trouble.' Had I been a man, I would have strangled him. Since then no communication of any kind has passed between us, except that all my letters to Cuthbert pleading for his child, have been returned without comment."

"How, then, are you and the babe supported?"

"That, sir, is my secret."

She drew herself haughtily to her full height, and would have passed him, but he placed himself between her and the door.

"Mrs. Laurance, do not be offended by my friendly frankness. You are so young and so beautiful, and the circumstances of your life render you so peculiarly liable to dangerous associations and influences, that I fear you may—"

"Fear nothing for me. Can I forget my helpless baby, whose sole dower just now promises to be her mother's spotless name? Blushing for her father's perfidy, she shall never need a purer, whiter shield than her mother's stainless record—so help me God!"

"Will you do me the favor to put aside for future contingencies this small tribute to your child? The amount is not so large that you should hesitate to receive it; and feeling a deep interest in your poor little babe, it will give me sincere pleasure to know that you accept it for her sake, as a memento of one who will always be glad to hear from you, and to aid you if possible."

With evident embarrassment he tendered an old-fashioned purse of knitted silk, through whose meshes gleamed the sheen of gold pieces. To his astonishment, she covered her face with with her hands, and burst into a fit of passionate weeping. For some seconds she sobbed aloud, leaving him in painful uncertainty concerning the nature of her emotion.

"Oh, sir, it has been so long since words of sympathy and real kindness were spoken to me, that now they unnerve me. I am strong against calumny and injustice,—but kindness breaks me down, I thank you in my baby's name, but we cannot take your money. Ministers are never oppressed with riches, and baby and I can live without charity. But since you are so good, I should like to say something in strict confidence to you. I am suspicious now of everybody, but it seems to me I might surely trust you. I do not yet see my way clearly, and if anything should happen to me, the child would be thrown helpless upon the world. you have neither wife nor children, and if the time ever come when I shall be obliged to leave my little girl for any long period, may I send her here for safety, until I can claim her? she shall cost you nothing but care and watchfulness. I could work so much better, if my mind were easy about her; if I knew she was safely housed in this sanctury of peace."

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarily be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs. Kerry, Path & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

Boston is to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man; besides, no better field than the metropolis of the New England States could be chosen in which to display his skill, owing to the prevalence of throat and lung diseases, due in a great measure to our changeable climate. The doctor makes a specialty of such diseases as Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, treating them upon an entirely new method and using his invention the Spirometer, which has so revolutionized the treatment of these diseases in Europe.—Boston Herald.

The Ontario and Quebec Railway Company have purchased a steam excavator, to be used in filling the construction trains on the line, in order to expedite the work of ballasting as much as possible. The shovel will be used in a gravel pit near Pontypool, where it has been taken.

MISS LEONORA CLENCH,

the Violiniste, is but fifteen years old and will play the "Legende" and a "Capriccio" by Wieniawski, and the "Last Rose of Summer," at the Cricket Club Concert on Thursday, April 17th. Tickets at Hartley's, Hunter street.

Here and There.

The Cobourg World of this week says:—"Our townsman, Mr. W. Kerr, Q. C., took charge of the Crown business at the Peterborough assizes last week; and is now absent on similar duties in Lindsay. There was not much criminal business in Peterborough; but in that wicked county, Victoria, where the Lindsay Post is published he had his hands full."

A heavy stock of Coarse Towellings to choose from at Turnbull's, made by the Russian Farmers in the Winter Months

P. B. C.

The letter on the subject of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Club should receive attention, not only from present members, but those also who think of joining the club. The advice coming, as it does, from one of the most active and energetic of the members is sure to be valuable. There should certainly be a full attendance at the annual meeting on Monday night.

Y. M. C. A.

The meetings in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms will be held as follows:—Young men's meeting to-night at 8 o'clock; prayer meeting on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock; evangelistic meeting on Sunday evening, at 8.30 o'clock, open to all; young men's class for Bible study, conducted by Rev. A. H. Munro, Monday evening at 8 o'clock; song service at 7.30 p.m., on Monday; noon prayer meetings, each day from 12 to 12.45 p.m., open to all.

Easter Concert.

A concert will be held in the Opera House on the evening of Easter Monday, April 14th, in connection with the bazaar to be held in aid of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral. A glance at the names of those who are to take part is sufficient to show that the concert will be one that should be largely patronized. Among those announced to be present are Mrs. O'Hara, of Toronto, Mrs. Chambers, Miss Annie Delaney, Messrs. Porteous, Elliott, Rush, Ball, Lech, Best, Sanderson, and Dunn, and the favorite Irish Commedian, Mr. Dan Donohue. Mr. J. Haggart will give a selection of readings.

Our Boys' Jersey Suits will wear longer, look better, and cost less than the cheapest tweed. Call and see them at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

THE EASTER MARKET.

Some Fine Cattle on the Market Square this Morning.

There was a small cattle exhibition on the Market Square this morning, the butchers having brought in the cattle they had purchased for the easter market to be weighed. They were inspected by many, each person viewing them appointing himself a judge.

HARRY WINCH.

Easter comes but once a year, but Harry Winch is always prepared to meet it, and for months ahead he makes preparations to secure the best and nothing but the best for his patrons. To say that he is fully prepared is but repeating an old story. He is always prepared, and this time he has eclipsed all former efforts, and offers to the public a bill of fare replete with the best he could secure for love or money. A number of his animals were shown on the Market square this morning, and attracted universal attention. They were surrounded for hours by critics and were pronounced "hard to beat."

Among the animals prepared for the slaughter may be mentioned a heifer purchased from Mr. R. Dundas, Cavan, only two years and eight months old, yet weighing 1,500 lbs. She is a thoroughbred Durham, of the celebrated "Cruickshank" family, and is without doubt one of the handsomest and best animals ever seen in this section of the Province.

From the herd of James Wallis, Esq., Merino, he has secured three head of exceedingly fine cattle, which were fed expressly for the Easter market, and do great credit to the feeder.

Mr. Wm. Miller, of Otonabee, the well-known importer and breeder of Durham cattle, has supplied four head. These animals, although not loaded with fat, are just the kind to furnish beef for those who are judges of what beef should be.

Two heifers of prime quality from the herd of Mr. Andrew Nelson, Otonabee, were much admired and tell in plain terms that the breeder and feeder thoroughly understand the wants of the people.

Mr. Winch has also calves of the finest quality from Messrs. Mark Curtis, Douro, Henry Garbutt, Smith, and Edward Sutton, Cavan. The reputation of these gentlemen is too well known to need any further notice. Suffice it to say that on this occasion they have excelled themselves.

Spring lambs are furnished by Messrs. R. Davidson, Smith, E. Sultan, Cavan, and others, and are fully up to the mark.

Sheep from the folds of Messrs. John Moloney, Warden, Douro, and A. Nelson, Otonabee, will grace the shambles, and tickle the palates of all who may be fortunate enough to secure a chop or roast.

Roasters, sausages, and fancy meats will be shown in profusion. Mr. Winch's display this Easter will eclipse all former efforts, and his customers can rely on getting "the best, the very best, and nothing but the best." Remember and call on him on Saturday. You will be sure to be pleased.

JAMES HOWDEN.

The fourteen head of cattle belonging to Mr. James Howden, which were driven into the square this morning, were all fine-looking animals. Mr. Howden always makes a good display of beef at this season of the year, but this year he has excelled himself. The cattle were all of a nice size, and gave evidence of good breeding, good care, good feeding and little wear—they were all young. They were purchased from such well-known importers and breeders as Mr. C. Williams, of Haldimond, Mr. R. Muney, of Alnwick, Mr. Stevens, of Haldimond, Dr. Kincaid, Mr. Wm. Isaacs, of Haldimond, Mr. Fowler, of Emily, Mr. G. Fitzgerald, of Smith, Mr. Willan, of South Monaghan, and Mr. Howden himself.

From the appearance of these cattle it would seem that the patrons of Mr. Howden's shop were to have an extra treat this year in being furnished with excellent meat.

Whitehead, Port Hope's favorite soprano; Mr. H. B. Hall, Port Hope's favorite baritone. A chorus of forty voices and the Operatta "High Life" in 3 acts, with costumes and scenery. A special train will leave Peterborough station on the evening of the Concert and return immediately after. Tickets for railway fare and Concert only $1. E. Shepherd, conductor; Mrs. E. Physicans are often startled by remarkable discoveries. ## STRAY SHOTS:

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

There has not been as much of a crush as usual at the last two meetings of the Army, but the reason most probably is that the Sergeants now act as ushers, and no one is allowed to stand while there is a seat left in the hall.

After all the seats were filled on Friday evening there were still a number standing.

Lieut. Munt said that seventy-five persons in Peterborough had told the officers that they once were Christians.

The lieutenant referred to the charge made by some that the Army was making money, and said that on the previous evening, after the hall rent was paid out of the collection there was twenty-five cents left to support four officers. That's the way they were making money.

If the people wanted the Army to stay here, the lieutenant said, they should support them. Still, the motto of the Army was "No Surrender," when once the colors had been raised in a place.

Lieut. Brokenshire stated her experience. She had been converted nine years ago, in the Bible Christian Church at Cobourg, when the Rev. W. Joliffe was pastor there.

Lieut. Brokenshire has been ordered to Cobourg and Sergeant Hewson to Port Hope. Mr. F. Brown, a gentleman who has been with the Army here for some time, also stated that Friday evening was his last evening here.

Other officers are expected to come here to assist in directing the attack on the enemy in Peterborough.

Just received at Habiliment Hall, a very pretty line of Worsted Coatings, in Plum, Green, Wine and Brown.

Infuriated Railway Labourers.

OTTAWA, April 3.—Some two hundred laborers, engaged to work on the Canada line, assembled last night to go off by train, but finding that Mr. Lefebvre, the contractor's agent, was not at the depot with the tickets, became excited and attempted to commit personal violence upon a subordinate of Lefebvre named Carette. A posse of thirty police had to be summoned to rescue the unfortunate object of the men's wrath.

These are Solid Facts.

The best blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity, truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the Liver, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Weak Kidneys, or other disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulation, will always find Electric Bitters the best and only certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guranteed to give entire satisfaction or money refunded. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

THERE was a decrease of $14,238,000 in the debt of the United States for the month just ended.

A Cure for Cuts, Sores Etc.

The finest healing compound under the sun is McGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerate. There is no sore but will succumb to its wonderful healing properties. It is an invaluable dressing for scalds, festers etc. Price twenty-five cents at John McKee's drug store.

Everyone speaks highly of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters as a Stomach, Liver and Kidney medicine. "The best family medicine we ever used," say they all. Try a bottle this Spring as a blood purifier.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—Foretelling the weather is uncertain at the best, but it is certain that if you catch cold in this changeable climate you can best break its ill effects by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, the most reliable and pleasant remedy for coughs, colds, bronchial, and lung complaints. It is so agreeable that even a child may take it.

In justice to Mr. Richard Dundas, of Springville we must state that though the two fine thoroughbred Durham steers, which we described as having been sold by Mr. C. D. Moore, were bred by Mr. Robt. Grundy, they were raised by Mr. Dundas, who purchased them when they were calves, and cared for them till he sold them to Mr. Moore more than a year ago. As we stated there was only 10 pounds difference in weight between them, and on being measured round the heart their girth was about the same for both, being 8 feet 1 inch.

THE GRAND TRUNK ACCIDENT

Details of the Disaster as far as Obtainable —Many Wounded

MONTREAL, April 4.—Another terrible tragedy happened on the Grand Trunk to the express leaving Toronto last night. No definite information could be got at first except that the train had jumped the track near Wales, Ont., and that some of the people were killed and passengers badly wounded. Shortly before one o'clock a special train arrived with the uninjured and wounded passengers. The facts are follows:—The train which was going at its usual speed, all at once came to a sudden stop, jolting passengers all through the cars. The locomotive and tender turned a complete sumersault right over into a ditch. Some of the passenger cars were thrown on the sides on the track and were badly smashed, the inmates having a great deal difficulty in getting out. The passengers ran to the front, where they beheld the engineer, Thomas Donahue, who had stuck manfully to his post till he was killed and partially buried in the earth under his heavy engine.

Close to the deceased was Charles King, the fireman. The sufferer only lived a short time.

The cause of the accident is not explained. One theory is that it was through a break in the machinery, as it was found that for some distance from the scene of the accident the sleeper and roadway had been out midway between the rails as if some heavy piece of iron had been dragged along under the engine. Another and more likely one given by Mr. Wainwright, the assistant general manager, is that it arose from the track spreading by reason of the ballasting slipping away when the frost leaves the gravel, a danger which is prevalent at this season of year. There is no doubt that the passengers had a narrow escape for their lives, and those injured may be congratulated on getting off with such slight injuries. Two medical men were promptly on the scene and attended to all who required their services.

ANOTHER GREAT DISASTER.

The Daniel Steinman Sinks off Halifax—Out of 140 Passengers Only Nine Reach the Shore.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 4.—The steamer Daniel Steinman, from Antwerp for this port, is reported sunk at Sambro, about twenty miles from this port. She struck during last night. Nine men are only so far reported to have reached land out of 140 on board.

Intelligence so far from the wreck of the steamer Daniel Steinman is very meagre. It is said that the captain and five of the crew were the only persons saved. She had ninety passengers, and thirty-four of a crew. Twenty passengers were to land here, all Germans, and and seventy were for New York. She is supposed to have struck on the Sisters shoal off Sambro last night, and shortly after sank. Her mast is now visable from the shore. Intelligence did ont reach here until 2 p. m. to-day. Considerable cargo was for here, the balance was for New York. The owners have gone to the scene of the wreck.

Three passengers from the steamer Daniel Steinman were saved, with the captain and five of the crew. Their names have not yet been ascertained. They are all on Sambro light Island, the only communication with which is by signals in rough weather. To-night the weather is thick and rainy, and it is uncertain if any further particulars can be had. Reporters have left for Sambro by land. The roads are bad, and even when there their chances of securing any information to-night are small.

BARRIE, April 4.— Mrs. Youmans lectured to a crowded house here last night on temperance. The celebrated lady made a very favourable impression on the audience. On the platform were Rev. Cannon Morgan and leading ministers of the town. The chair was filled by Judge Ardagh. The temperance societies throughout the whole country are agitating for the Scott Act.

Anarchists in America.

NEW YORK, April 4.—There seems to be good reason for the belief that the Central Council for the Anarchists is located here. Within three years small groups in this city and suburbs have been practising the manufacture of explosives and the use of small arms. There are said to be twenty persons who make gun cotton and nitro-glycerine for revolutionary purposes when they have the means. Most is the actual head of the organization, but takes care not to jeopardize himself.

LONDON, April 4.—A battalion of Egyptian troops started for Suakin a day or two ago to form a garrison at that place. Before the battalion left Cairo fifteen men deserted, and many more decamped at Suez. Osman Digma is near Tamaneib, and has a thousand men and boys who were willing to fight.

AFFAIRS IN EGYPT.

CAIRO, April 5.—Nubar Pasha has resigned the presidency of the Council of Ministers on account of discord with the English officials and the absence of a distinct declaration on the part of the Engiish Government of its future policy in regard to Egypt. The officials and the heads of every department in Egypt threaten to resign. The discontent with European residents in Cairo and Alexandria is intense. The uncertainty in financial affairs and the Soudan question is paralyzing commerce. The official bureaus are in a state of anarchy, the English and Egyptian officers quarreling the English referring every dispute to London for settlement. It is doubtful whether a successor to Nubar Pasha can be found. It is believed his treatment will hasten an English protectorate.

THE LATE PRINCE LEOPOLD.

LONDON, April 5.—The funeral services over the remains of Prince Leopold were held this morning in St, George's chapel. The boy will be taken care of by the police until his father's release.

Imperial Parliament.

LONDON, April 4.—In the House of Lords to-day Earl Granville said the Government was not prepared to send a military expedition to the relief of Gordon. The latest advices from him were reassuring.

In the House of Commons Lord Hartington said it was not advisable to state the measures contemplated by the Government for the defence of the Nile provinces.

In the House of Commons this evening Mr. Justin McCarthy moved, "That the condition of the Irish magistracy, constituted as it is almost entirely of one religious denomination and one class, is offensive and injurious to the majority of the people and calculated to destroy confidence in the administration of justice." In supporting the motion several speakers urged that the magistrates be elected by popular suffrage. Lord Hamilton (Conservative) said the experience of America, and especially the recent riots in Cincinnati, were sufficient warning against the system of popular election. Mr. Trevelyan declared the system of popular election could never be adopted. The Irish Chancellor would impartially exercise his power in regard to the appointment of magistrates. Mr. McCarthy's motion was rejected by a vote of 106 to 59.

THE ONTARIO AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE AND FARM.

WHILE we have never joined in the attacks which have been made from time to time on either the efficiency or management of the above institution, and do not now desire to be considered as doing so, yet there are certain points connected with its management to which we think it is well that public attention should be directed, with the view of still further improving its usefulness, and decreasing the burden now thrown upon the Provincial purse for its maintenance. Properly speaking, the work being done at the Ontario Agricultural College is divisible into three distinct departments, viz., the college proper, the experimental department, and the farm. So far as the college proper is concerned, our objection to the present management thereof is one purely of finance. According to the report of Prof. Mills for the year 1883, the expenditure for the year was $33,760, and the revenue $7,242, leaving the net cost of this department of the college to the country $26,518. Of this expenditure $17,635 was for "Food" and "Household Expenses," or in other words for the direct maintenance of the boarding-house for the pupils, the balance going for the payment of the professors, the bursar, farm foreman, gardener, matron, engineer, watchmen, messengers, advertising, chemicals, library, museum, &c. Besides the $17,635 already mentioned, the farm and garden is credited with and the boarding-house chargeable with $1,678 therefrom, bringing the total expenditure for "board" for 1883 up to $19,313, against which the Province received from board accounts $4,109, and labor done by pupils on farm $4,000, making a total of $8,109, and leaving a deficiency on board account of over $11,000. Now it does seem to us that the young men who go to this institution should at least pay for the food they consume, the cost of cooking it, the fuel that warms them, &c., but this they are not now doing by $8,000 per annum even when we give them credit for the $3,000 charged them as fees. In other words in 1883, the Province supplied them with free teaching, allowed them for the work done on the farm at liberal rates (in 1881, Prof. Brown estimated the amount allowed as double what it was worth) and only charged them one half of the actual outlay for their personal maintenance,

The next point to which we wish to refer is the experimental and model farm. In the report before us, Prof. Brown (who is at the head of this department) gives us no debtor and credit account of his operations for the year—nor has he done so since 1881.

Turning, however, to the Public Accounts of the Province for the same year, we learn there that the total expenditure of this institution for 1883 was $58,056 (besides a sum of $12,400 charged to Public Buildings) with a gross revenue of $14,654. Deducting from these two items the portions thereof accounted for in Principal Mill's statement we have the expenditure of the farm $24,296, less a revenue of $7,412. This, of course does not include either the produce of the farm and garden supplied to the Boarding House or the labour received from pupils. Were these added, the expenditure would be increased to $28,296, and the revenue to $9,090—leaving the net cost of the farm and garden to the country for 1883 $19,206.

With the data before us, it is well nigh impossible to arrive at anything like a certain explanation as to the why and wherefor of this result. For instance neither the Public Accounts nor the College reports gives us the slightest information as to the sources from whence the farm portion of the revenue was derived. True Prof. Brown gives us the result of the clearing out sale of stock last September, amounting to $11,748, but we have no information as to how much of this was paid at the time and how much remains to be collected. Again, on page 10 of his report we have particulars as to the cropping in 1883 of the 417 acres under cultivation, and the product of the same, but no information as to what portion of it was sold, and what portion of it was consumed or is still on hand. Neither have we the slightest information as to the disposition of, and the prices realized for, the animals fattened during the year. But notwithstanding this lack of information, which the bursar rather than Prof. Brown should supply, there are certain facts that can be gathered from the reports and accounts published which are certainly calculated to provide food for reflection.

In the first place the "Cropping Report for 1883" informs us that there were produced that year on the "farm" (exclusive of the garden)

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Fall wheat | 270 | bush. |
| Spring wheat | 400 | " |
| Oats | 1,830 | " |
| Barley | 560 | " |
| Peas | 556 | " |
| Hay | 263 | tons |
| Corn fodder | 200 | " |
| Late oats | 33 | " |
| Potatoes | 800 | bush. |
| Mangolds | 5,200 | " |
| Carrots | 500 | " |
| Turnips | 5,850 | " |

with 95 acres in pasture, 19 in summer fallow, and 24 acres in experimental plots. Of course the larger portion, if not practically the whole of the foregoing, was on hand at the close of the year, but on reference to the previous year's report we find that the crop of 1882 was larger than that of 1883, so that it will not be unfair to assume that the amount of produce named was either sold or consumed in 1883. But not only has that amount of produce disappeared in one form or another, but the public accounts reveal that in 1883 there was paid out for

|---|---|
| Oats, barley and corn | $2,645 11 |
| Hay, straw and peas | 1,582 23 |
| Cattle food | 131 25 |
| Beans | 524 23 |
| Oil cake | 341 00 |
| Total | $5,223 82 |

Then we have charged for wages of farm hands alone the sum of $4,468, (beside the student labour already mentioned), which, with the cattle food purchased during the year, exceeds the gross revenue by over $2,000.

It may be alleged that this is not a fair way of putting it because this is an experimental farm, but it must be borne in mind that only one field of 24 acres is occupied in conducting experiments, and that after deducting this field, the garden, orchard and grounds about the college, there still remains a farm of nearly 400 acres, which, even as a "model" farm, should pay for the labour expended and outside feeding stuffs consumed upon it—especially when the labour charged to it contains nothing for draining, fencing and similar permanent improvements, and yet unless the 24 acres of experimental plots with the experiments in feeding stock cost nearly $20,000 in 1883, it is obvious that the farm property is worked at a considerable loss, independent altogether of the capital invested and the superintendance charged to the college.

Then besides the farm there is an extensive garden, &c. under the charge of a gardener, which ought to produce more than the $587 credited to it in the college accounts, especially when the stock and implements connected therewith are valued at $1,380.00 in the inventory and valuation of Live Stock and implements on hand, Dec. 31, 1883.

Evidently it is in the interest of all, that more information should be laid before the public as to the financial working of the Ontario Experimental Farm. The system of book-keeping in vogue not only in this but in nearly all the Public Institutions is decidedly faulty, inasmuch as it does not pass in review before the Legislature, the gross expenditure and revenue connected with the same. What would be thought of the Dominion authorities if instead of asking Parliament to vote the gross sum required for the Post Office service of the year they simply asked for a vote sufficient to cover the difference between the revenue and expenditure, and yet that is what the Mowat Government is doing in many of the departments, now under its control.

AN IMPARTIAL OPINION.

The independent and liberal Newmarket Era thus characterises the frauds of Mowat & Co. in connection with the Algoma and Muskoka elections:—

"At the late elections in Algoma and Muskoka, a number of deputy-returning officers, willfully and designedly violate the election law and cheat the electorate out of their franchise rights; then in order to save these men from the penalties of their misdoings and override the enactments of an outraged election law, a bill is introduced condoning their offence, and also to save certain members returned to the legislature from the penalties attached to corrupt practices of a personal nature—this, too, after the Bench of Judges which tried them had declared the offence (in the one case) of sufficient magnitude to disqualify from a seat in the Assembly or from holding any office in the gift of the crown for a period of eight years.

* * * * *

If these Algoma and Muskoka deputy-returning officers, by overt acts, rendered themselves, like Adjohn, amenable to the law—especially where said acts were committed with the apparent object of disfranchising the electors and cheating the constituency of its rights, we see no good reason why they should not be punished for their misdeeds. Robbing the people of their rights is just what the Old Compact party did before the Rebellion; and to correct such abuses as these, and at the same time secure honesty and fredom at the polls the Lounts, the Brammars, the Lundays, the Doans, the Crahams, the Lepards, the Moores, and others in this Riding took their lives in their hands, and braved even the indignity of prison bars,—and now we have professed reformers condoning similar offences which that rebellion sought to remove. So far as we are concerned we are down on all this white-washing business. Such acts as the Algoma returning officers perpetrated were nothing short of deliberate fraud upon the independance of the people and a robbery of popular rights.

Outlived a Death Policy.

Charles Barrett, of Ashburnham, Mass., now ninety-six years old, had his life insured for $1,000 in 1846. Having reached the extreme limit of life, according to the table of mortality on which the insurance company does business, the president sent him the other day a check for the amount of his policy. It is believed to be the only case on record where a man has beaten an insurance company by outliving a death policy.

Where were They.

The Arthur Entirprise alluding to attempt of the riff-raff of the Reform party to white wash Informer McKim, says:—What was wrong we ask, with all the leading Reformers of this riding? It is quite enough to say, that not even one was present. That class of men have too long been deceived and betrayed by McKim, and even though he had not consigned himself to everlasting oblivion and disgrace by his infamous conduct as a common spy and informer, his rascality in this county is too well established for any respectable person of any shade of politics to look upon otherwise then with loathing and contempt. Where! oh, where, we ask again, were his old companions in arms, that they were not present to do honour to the "patriot"?

CHAPTER I.—Continued.

Ah! how irresistible was the pathetic pleading of the tearful eyes;—but Mr. Hargrove did not immediately respond to the appeal.

"I understand your silence,—you think me presumptuous in my request, and I dare say I am; but——"

"No, madam, not at all presumptuous. I hesitate habitually before assuming grave responsibility, and I only regret that I did not hesitate longer,—four years ago. A man's first instincts of propriety, of right and wrong, should never be smothered by persuasion, nor wrestled down and overcome by subtle and selfish reasoning. I blame myself for much that has occurred, and I am willing to do all that I can toward repairing my error. If your child should never really need a guardian, bring or send her to me, and I will shield her to the full extent of my ability."

Ere he was aware of her intention, she caught his hand, and as she carried it to her lips, he felt her tears falling fast.

"God bless you for your goodness! I have one thing more to ask;—promise me that you will divulge to no one what I have told you. Let it rest between God, and you, and me."

"I promise."

"In the great city where I labour, I bear an assumed name, and none must know, at least for the present, who I am. Realizing fully the unscrupulous character of the men with whom I have to deal, my only hope of redress is in preserving the secret for some years, and not even my baby can know her real parentage until I see fit to tell her. You will not betray me, even to my child?"

"You may trust me."

"Thank you, more than mere words could ever express."

"May God help you, Mrs. Laurance, to walk circumspectly—to lead a blameless life."

He took his hat from the stand in the hall, and silently they walked down to the parsonage gate. The driver dismounted and opened the carriage door, but the draped figure lingered, with her hand upon the latch.

"If I should die before we meet again, you will not allow them to trample upon my child?"

"I will do my duty faithfully."

"Remember none must know I am Minnie Laurance, until I give you permission; for snares have been set all along my path, and calumny is ambushed at every turn. Good-bye, sir. The God of orphans will one day requite you."

The light from the carriage lamp shone down on her as she turned toward it, and in subsequent years the pastor was haunted by the marvellous beauty of the spirituelle features, the mournful splendour of the large misty eyes, and the golden glint of the rippling hair that had fallen low upon her temples.

"If it were not so late, I would accompany you to the railway station. You will have a lonely ride. Good-bye, Mrs. Laurance."

"Lonely, sir? Aye—lonely for ever."

She laughed bitterly, and entered the carriage.

"Laughed, and the echoes huddling in affright,
Like Odin's hounds fled baying down the night."

CHAPTER II.

With the night passed the storm which had rendered it so gloomy, and the fair cold day shone upon a world shrowded in icy cerements; a hushed windless world, as full of glittering rime-runes as the frozen field of Jotunheim. Each tree and shrub seemed a springing fountain, suddenly crystallized in mid-air, and not all the mediæval marvels of Murano equalled the fairy fragile tracery of fine-spun glassy web, and film and fringe that stretched along fences, hung from eaves, and belaced the ivy leaves that lay helpless on the walls. A blanched waning moon, a mere silver crescent shivered upon the edge of the western horizon, fleeing before the scarlet and orange lances that already bristled along the Eastern sky-line, the advance guard of the conqueror, who would, ere many moments, smite all that weird icy realm with consuming flames. The very air seemed frozen and refused to vibrate in trills and roulades through the throaty organs of matutinal birds, that hopped and blinked, plumed their diamonded breasts, and scattered brilliants enough to set a tiara; and profound silence brooded over the scene, until rudely broken by a cry of dismay which rang out startlingly from the parsonage. The alarm might very readily have been ascribed to diligent Hannah, who, contemptuous of barometric vicissitudes, invariably adhered to the aphorism of Solomon, and arising "while it is yet night—looketh well to the ways of her household."

With a broom in one hand, and a feather dusting brush in the other, she ran down the front steps, her white cap strings flying like distress signals,—bent down to the ground as a blood hound might in scenting a trail,—he dashed back into the quiet old house, and uttered a wolfish cry:

"Robbers! Burglars! Thieves!"

Oppressed with compassionate reflections concerning the fate of his visitor, the minister had found himself unable to sleep as soundly as usual, and from the troubled slumber into which he sank after daylight, he was aroused by the unwonted excitement that reigned in the hall, upon which his apartment opened. While hastily dressing, his toilette labours were expedited by an impatient rap which only Hannah's heavy hand could have delivered. Wrapped in his dressing gown he opened the door, saying benignly:

"Is there an earthquake or a cyclone? You thunder as if my room were Mount Celion. Is any one dead?"

"Some one ought to be! The house was broken open last night, and the silver urn is missing. Shameless wretch! This comes of mysteries and veiled women, who are too too modest to look an honest female in the face, but——"

"Oh, Hannah! that tongue of thine is more murderous than Cyrus' scythed chariots! Here is your urn! I put it away last night, because I saw from the newspapers that a quantity of plate had recently been stolen. Poor Hannah! don't scowl so ferociously because I have spoiled your little tragedy. I believe you are really sorry to see the dear old thing safe in defiance of your prophecy."

Mrs. Lindsay came down stairs laughing heartily, and menacing irate Hannah with the old-fashioned urn, which had supplied three generations with tea.

"Is that the sole cause of the disturbance?" asked the minister.

They were more valuable, Elsie, than many sermons, and some cannot be replaced."

"But how could the burglars have overlooked the money and jewellery?"

Again the minister sighed heavily, and closing the drawer, said:

"Perhaps we may discover some trace in the garden."

"Aye, sir; I searched before I raised an uproar, and here is a handkerchief that I found under the window, on the violet bed. It was frozen fast to the leaves."

Hannah held it up between the tips of her fingers, as if fearful of contamination, and eyed it with an expression of loathing. Mr. Hargrove took it to the light and examined it, while an unwonted frown wrinkled his usually placid brow. It was a dainty square of finest cambric, bordered with a wreath of embroidered lillies, and in one corner excellently embellished "O O" stared, like wide wondering eyes, at the strange hands that profaned it.

"Do you notice what a curious outlandish smell it has? It struck my nostrils sharper than hartshorn when I picked it up. No rum-drinking, tobacco-smoking burglar in breeches dropped that lace rag."

Hannah set her stout arms akimbo, and looked "unutterable things" at the delicate fabric, that, as if to deprecate its captors, was all the while breathing out deliciously sweet but vague hints—now of eglantine, and now of that subtle spiciness that dwells in daphnes, and anon plays hide-and-seek in nutmeg geranium blooms.

is prosperous. The great difficulty to be contended with is the low grade of goods required In nothing is this more apparent than in the comparatively small article of sewing silks. The great demand in Canada seems to be for a cheap quality, buyers forgetting that a cheap thread must nessarilly be a fine and consequently a weak one. Messrs Belding, Paul & Co. make three grades of spool silk; of these different qualities the poorest one has by far the largest sale, at the same time they constantly hear of complaints of poor sewing silk. If ladies will take the trouble to ask for Belding, Paul & Co's own brand, and see that their name is on the end of each spool, they will be sure of getting the best made.

LOCAL NEWS

Police News.

There was a "blank record" at the court this morning. There were five tramps in the cells on Saturday night and three last night.

P. B. C.

There should be a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Boating Club this evening.

Lacrosse Club.

Those who feel interested in our national game—lacrosse—should remember that the annual meeting of the Peterborough Club will be held at the Little Windsor Hotel at 8.30 o'clock this evening.

High Water.

The Otonabee River is up to last year's height, and as it will continue to rise till the 1st of May we may expect to have a flood perhaps equal to 1870. People living on the banks of the river had better prepare for it, by removing anything liable to float away.

The New Felt Hat for Gentlemen.

Every season introduces some changes in the fashion of gentlemen's hats. The spring shapes are high round crown with brims set partly flat and worn in black and brown. These new styles can be seen at Fairweather's hat store.

Vennor's Predictions.

The probabilities in Mr. H. G. Vennor's almanac for this week are as follows:—

"Showers about 6th and 7th. Generally natural April weather. Warm and showery. Possibly a cold change in western sections about the 10th and 11th with local snow falls, particularly in the Lower Provinces and Gulf."

"Each strives your sadness to amuse; I warrant you hear all the news." That we have the Choicest Stock of Spring Overcoatings in town. Call and see them at Andrew McNeil's.

The Favourite Tailor.

H. LeBrun is offering tempting bargains in spring clothing, the line of goods to select from is almost exhaustive, and the reputation of the cutter employed by the firm will guarantee the utmost satisfaction. A reference to the firm's advertisement, which appears in another column, will furnish further particulars of the bargains offered by the house.

The Royal Dead.

At St. John's Church on Sunday evening, at the conclusion of the service, the organist, Mr. Chas. W. Ewing, paid a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Prince Leopold by playing with his matchless taste and ability the solemn strains of "The Dead March in Saul." Many of the congregation remained until the last note died away on the organ. Miss Clara Clurton sang a solo in the anthem hymn with much feeling and effect, and the choir rendered some really fine music during the service. In several other churches in town prayers were offered on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen, that she might be sustained by Divine grace at this time of her affliction.

DR. M. SOUVIELLE & CO.

At the Caisse House to-day and to-morrow. Spirometer given away—an unparalleled offer. To-day and to-morrow only. Consultation free.

Rebuilding.

Mr. R. Z. Rogers has been in town for the past week making arrangements for the re-erection of his hotel and other buildings on Hunter street which were destroyed by the ice jam in the creek. He has just closed a contract with Mr. Arthur Rutherford to erect, under the superintendence of Mr. J. E. Belcher, the architect, a somewhat improved building on the same site, but not extending over the creek, and covering the ground at present occupied by the old Royal Oak Hotel, which will be removed. Mr. John Wilson, the former lessee, will continue in occupation. Mr. Rogers' loss has been heavy by this unfortunate destruction of his property, and he is showing much energy in so promptly re-erecting the building.

STRAY SHOTS:

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

The children's meeting on Saturday afternoon was very successful. It was conducted by Lieut. Munt, Lieut. Annie White and Miss Lasher.

There was a very large attendance at the Sunday afternoon meeting.

Lieut. Munt and Lieut. White had charge of the meeting. The Rev. John Shaw occupied a seat on the platform.

On Sunday evening there was a great crush. Large numbers went away, unable to gain admittance.

The Rev. E. F. Torrance, M. A., was present. He read a portion of the Scripture and commented upon it.

Four persons went forward to the penitent bench.

The total number of converts made since the Army came to Peterborough, up to Sunday evening, was 320.

The Rev. John Shaw commended the Army and their work from the pulpit on Sunday evening.

A meeting will be held in Lakefield this evening. Lieut. White will have command, and will be assisted by soldiers of the Peterborough regiment.

Personal.

We learn that Mr. H. Grundy, the Deputy-Registrar, has returned to Peterborough with his health improved.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate winds, fair weather, stationary or slightly higher temperature.

MISS LENORA CLENCH.

The Toronto Globe:—

"We have seldom listened to anything so thoroughly imbued with the sentiment and sympathy of high art as the playing of Miss Lenora Clench."

Plays at Cricket Club Concert on Thursday, April 17th. Tickets at Hartley's, Hunter street.

The Watering Cart.

It is rare for so truly inartistic an object as a watering cart to create a large amount of emotional excitement. Such, however, was the case this afternoon. For, at three o'clock, the above mentioned unsightly object, to which was attached a pair of steeds, apparently proudly conscious of the degree of sensation they were evoking, might have been seen stationed near a hydrant in George Street. The word was given, and the water was turned on, and, in two minutes, by some person's chronometer, the unsightly object was filled, which done, the first watering of the season was commenced.

"Reform" Principles.

A resolution adopted by the Reformers of West Wellington, and assented to by the Reform journals of the country, asserts that Mr. McKim is "true to the principles of the Reform party." By finding out what Mr. Mckim has done, then, we shall discover what the principles of the Reform party are. Well, McKim accepted a bribe. McKim carried a bribe to another Reformer. McKim swore that he was a liar. McKim was a spy and an informer. McKim tried to tempt an innocent man to commit crime. These are "the principles of the Reform party." Noble party! Enlightened principles!—Hamilton Spectator

Shall we Let the Child Die?

A hard-hearted political economist, looking at a pale and puny child feebly gasping as it lies upon a pillow says the child might as well die. It is so weak and poor that its life will never be worth much anyhow. There are already a good many people in the world who are of not much account anyhow. And what's the use of adding to their number another weakling, who has but slender chance of ever amounting to anything?

Now ask that child's mother what she think's about letting the child die. About this time the hard political economist had better get out of the way. "Let my child die? No! No! As long as there is a remedy to be found that will save that child, the child shall not die! I'll spend my last dollar to save the child! Well, try a bottle of Shaker Blood Syrup on that child. See the poor little fellow pick up strength. He revives. He will live. Hosts of other children have been brought almost from death to healthy life by the Shaker Blood Syrup. Your druggist sells it.

A ROME despatch says Signor Mancini, Minister of Foreign Affairs, says no foreign government has remonstrated with the Italian Government against the conversion of the property of the propaganda into Italian rentes. The question, he says, is purely an internal one.

A Startling Discovery.

Physicans are often startled by remarkable discoveries. The fact that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and all Throat and Lung diseases is daily curing patients that they have given up to die, is startling to realize their duty, and examine into the merits of this wonderful discovery resulting in hundreds of our best Physicians using it in their practice. Trial bottles free at Taylor & McDonald's Drug Store. Large size $1.00.

How Would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly and with certainty. Don't buy dangerous flesh-eating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

BEEF FOR EASTER

JAS. HOWDEN

Has much pleasure in informing his customers and the public in general, that he has made an extra "Big Push" this year for the best cattle which Ontario could produce for the Easter Holiday's of 1884, and has secured the following prime animals at considerable expense, and which he can safely state cannot be excelled for quality:—

Four steers, two years old, fed by Mr. C. Williams, one of the noted breeders and feeders of Haldimand, whose feeding is a sufficient recommendation.

Two Thoroughbred Steers two years old fed by Mr. R. Muncey, of Alnwick, who is the best breeder and feeder in that district, and deserves great praise for feeding and care.

Two Steers three years old fed by Mr. Stevens, of Haldimand, who never spares the feed and makes beef to perfection.

Four Steers three years old fed by Dr Kincaid, which are the best steers ever shown in Peterborough, and for which he has received great praise.

One Steer three years old fed by Mr. William Isaacs, of Haldimand, who is also one of the noted breeders and feeders, and whose stock is always a credit to him.

Two Heifers fed by myself, which are in splendid condition and will make excellent beef.

One fine Calf fed by Mr. Fowler, of Emily. One extra fine calf fed by Mr. G. Fitzgerald, of Smith, and one fed by myself, all of which will make savory veal.

One fine Lamb fed by Mr. G. Fitzgerald. Two Lambs from the fold of Mr. Willan, of South Monaghan.

A number of Sheep fed by myself, which are extra good.

Also an abundant supply of Fancy Meats, Roasters, Pork, Spiced Meats, Hams, Bologna Sausage, Tripe.

TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1884.

STRAY SHOTS:

Notes of The Saved Army, Their Meetings and Sayings.

There was, as usual, a large attendance at the meeting on Monday evening. Lieut. Munt conducted the meeting alone.

The piano was used, and nicely played, adding much to the effect of the singing.

One person forsook the ranks of the enemy.

A meeting was held in Lakefield on Monday night, Lieut. Annie White being in command. A station has been regularly established in that village, and an officer will remain there. Lieut. White will have charge, for a time at least.

An officer was expected here to-may to assist Lieut. Munt.

There will be no meeting in the Opera House to-night.

Kensington Painting.

Miss Palmer, teacher of Kensington painting, is in town. Ladies wishing to take lessons from her, will please call at rooms 40 and 41, Grand Central Hotel (late Caisse House) where samples of work may be seen and terms made known.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows: Moderate winds, fair to cloudy weather, with light rain or sleet in a few localities. Not much change in temperature.

Physical Development.

We think no one will deny that it is only within the last few years that Canada—or at all events Ontario—has really taken a lively interest in athletic sports. A glance at the reports of annual games held many years ago in various localities shows a lamentable want of enthusiasm, and—with here and there a few notable exceptions—a very low standard of "records." Latterly, however, a steadily increasing love of both out-door and indoor sports has everywhere been evinced; foot-ball, cricket, lacrosse, annual games and indeed gymnastics are in full swing. It is these very varieties of exercise, too, which we have enumerated, that play the most important part in physical development: "We maintain," says an authority on the subject (C. H. Ralfe, M.A., M.D., F.R.C.P.), "that the national games played by the English schoolboy are infinitely superior to any system of artificial exercise ever devised." One of the chief reasons for this assertion is not far to seek. Dr. Parkes, an [illegible] has shown that excessive exercise of one set of muscles alone will cause them to waste. We have ourselves seen this to be the case in so important a muscle as the biceps. When, however, the whole body is exercised this cannot take place, and a general system of sports and gymnastics is the best preventative against its occurrence. On these grounds we are very pleased to see that there is to be formed in Peterborough under the management of Mr. E. W. Johnston, a class for the special purpose of physical training. Mr. Johnston, we doubt not, is peculiarly fitted for carrying out in practice what we have advocated in theory. His records clipped from various newspapers fill a large sized folio volume; he has distinguished himself in events too numerous to mention, from the long list of Caledonian games, down to fast heel-and-toe walking. Mr. Johnston has also, we are told, had a large experience as manager, having had control, at various times, of the gymnasiums at Baltimore, Belleville, Brooklyn, and Toronto. To his own successes the display of medals exhibited in Mr. LeBrun's window amply testify.

POSITIVELY THE CHEAPEST YET OFFERED.

20 yards of Heavy Factory Cotton, 1 yard wide, for $1.00. Just opened out, 2,000 yards of a special line in Dress Goods, all shades, worth 30c., to be cleared out at 15c. per yard, at FAIR, VanEVERY & CO'S, Sign of the Golden Lion.

THE MOWAT CONSPIRACY.

The Defendants Committed for Trial by the Police Magistrate.

By Telephone to the Review.

TORONTO, April 8.—The four defendants, Messrs. Kirkland, Bunting, Meek and Wilkinson, who have been charged with conspiracy to bribe members of the Ontario Legislature, have been committed for trial by Col. Dennison, the Police Magistrate.

REVIEWS.

PICTURESQUE CANADA.—The 27th and 28th parts of Picturesque Canada, which have just been delivered to the subscribers, have an especial interest for readers in this neighbourhood. The chapter on Central Ontario is concluded, the descriptions of the districts being interwoven with its history in that pleasing manner which renders this work at once so readable and so instructive. There is a full account of the circumstances connected with the early discoveries and settlement of the front portion of this region by the French colonial officials, and by the Sulpician missionaries with their Indian converts and the hostile tribes. How these were succeeded in some places by United Empire Loyalists is also described. Later settlements, for instance of our neighbourhood are briefly recounted, the story of the privations and energy of these old settlers being calculated to put to shame some modern settlers of Canadian territory for their impatience under far more favourable circumstances. In speaking of early days in the history of Canada, approving mention is made of the works of Col. Strickland and his sisters Mrs. Moodie and Mrs. Trail, the literary abilities of this family being, as we know, not yet exhausted. In the descriptive portions our fine chain of lakes and rivers are not forgotten; reference is made to its utilization for the Trent Vally Canal, and it is interesting to read, in this instance as in so many others, of the modern route being identical with the old Indian trail and the pathway of the first European explorers. Some space is devoted to the mineral wealth of the district, the iron and gold of Madoc and Marmora, and in general the metaliferous strata that to averse the country from the Thousand Islands to the north of Lakes Huron and Superior. The next chapter deals with "Eastern Ontario" from the Thousand Islands along the St. Lawrence to the confines of our Province. There is also the commencement of a description of the Eastern Townships of Quebec and of the majestic scenery of the lakes that lie partly in the Dominion and partly in the States. The illustrations of this romantic and picturesque district are very beautiful as are also those along the St. Lawrence for the proceeding chapters. We may give especial praise to the view down the Bay of Quinte forming the frontispiece to the 27th part.

A Fine Picture.

A life sized portrait of His Lordship Bishop Jamot is on exhibition in the window of Mr. J. Hackett's store. It is a good likeness of the Bishop, and the frame in which it is set is a large and handsome gilt one. The picture is a credit to the artist, Mr. Geo. B. Sproule. It is one of the articles which will be disposed of at the bazaar to be held in aid of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral.

New Maple Syrup!

First of the season just to hand. Also choice Mixed Pickles and Tomato Catsup. The above is sold by the quart or gallon. Also, by the pound, evaporated Pumpkins. Raspberry, Plum, and Black Currant Jams. Fine Assorted Jellies, and other varieties too numerous to mention. Pure Apple Butter, try it. Lemons and large sweet Valentia Oranges in abundance at CARTON BROS., opposite the Market Square.

Turnips.

Another supply of turnips at CARTON BROS.

Floods in Louisanna.

OPELOUSA, La., April 6.—Heavy rains, continuing thirty-six hours, have again overflowed the bayous with backwater. The general overflow will make the inundation more disastrous. There is a general abandonment of the overflowed districts.

Roasting a Man.

RISING SUN, Ind., April 5.—Two masked men went to the house of John Smith last night, beat him into insensability, and ransacked his house for a large sum Smith was reported to have secreted. Failing to find the the money, they lit a fire and swung Smith, who had recovered conciousness, back and forth over it in hopes of making him disclose the hiding place of the treasure. This was continued until Smith was again insensible, when the robbers departed, thinking him dead. The neighbours found Smith horribly beaten and burned this morning. A posse is after the villains, and will lynch them if caught.

The Woman's Physician.

Gives causes and symptoms of all diseases of the sex, with positive cure for each in plain language, written by ladies who have made these diseases a life study. Sent postpaid for $1.00. Address the ROCHESTER PUBLISHING CO., 32, 33 & 33½ Osburn Block, Rochester, N.Y.

THE CRISIS IN EGYPT.

CAIRO, April 7.—Nubar Pasha has consented to suspend his resignation until the English Government gives a decision in regard to the relative powers of the Egyptian Ministers and English officials. The Khedive is supporting Nubar Pasha's right to the supreme control. The Administration has urged the dismissal of Mr. Clifford Lloyd. Several Pashas have declined to join the new Ministry unless the English element be excluded. M. Barriere, the French consul-general, is promoting Nubar and other pashas to resist English interference. The opinion of European officials here is that the continuance of a mixed Administration is impossible. The English must either assume the sole direction of the Governmennt, or leave the control to Egyptians.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, April 7.—In the House of Commons this afternoon the Under Foreign Secretary said the Government had no precise information regarding American schools in Armenia, but it was aware that American missionaries had been attacked near Bitlis and prevented from opening the school at Injeh Soo. The schools at Van had been closed. The British ambassador has impressed upon the Porte the necessity of ameliorating the condition of affairs in Kurdistan and East Anatolia. Mr. Gladstone made a powerful speech in support of the Franchise Bill. He said it was a good thing for the State that the largest number of capable citizens should possess the franchise. He defended the extension of the franchise in Ireland as an act of right and justice. The bill passed the second reading by a vote of 390 to 210. Mr. George J. Dodson said the number of cattle in the United Kingdom affected with foot-and-mouth disease was less than 500. Lord Fitzmaurice announced that the British naval commanders had been ordered to oppose any attempt of the Portugese to extend their occupation of the Congo beyond Ambriez.

A Chinese Deadlock.

OTTAWA, April 5.—The Premier of British Columbia, Hon. William Smith, has telegraphed his provincial secretary not to permit the 500 Chinese, hourly expected, to land in the province. He claims for his province the right to forbid Chinese immigration, while Sir Joun Macdonald thinks the whole case should be submitted to the Privy Council. Mr. Smith considers it not improbable that trouble may follow the refusal to allow these Chinamen to land, as undoubtedly those at present residing in the province will endeavor to effect a landing for their countrymen in some way.

TURNCOATS.

THE Ottawa Free Press has the following editorial note:—

"Turcotte should have his name altered to Turncoat. He betrayed the Tories and now he betrays the Liberals. As Byron said of Southey:—

"He turned his coat and would have turned his skin."

Now, we have not the slightest inclination to take up the cudgels for Mr. Turcotte, or to defend him from any attacks he has brought upon himself by his tergiversation. If he has been led again to change, through the same base inducements as before, he has only added another crime to his former one. If on the other hand, he has only returned to the support of the Conservative Administration of Quebec because he has always been Conservative, this would but darken the stain upon his character, as showing that he deserted his party, not through a charge of conviction, but against his conscience for mere self interest. In neither case are we disposed to utter one word in defence of his conduct.

Neither is it worth while to give more than a passing allusion to the fact that the Ottawa Free Press is well qualified to be a judge in such matters on account of its experience, as it first fawned upon Conservative statesmen and then suddenly took to slandering them, turning its coat in the most shameless manner for venal considerations. Now, at all events, the Free Press is the organ of the Reform party at the capital of the Dominion, and may fairly be supposed to express their general views.

So it seems that a man is deserving of censure and abuse if he turns from the Conservative to the Reform party, through he is to be received with open arms and lauded to the skies if he leaves the Reformers for the Conservatives. It will be remembered that this Mr. Turcotte, at the time of the unconstitutional coup d'etat in Quebec, when a Reform Lieutenant-Governor dismissed a Conservative Administration with a large majority, to replace them with his own friends, sold himself to these conspirators. On his shoulders in fact rested the burden of supporting them, since they were only kept in power by the casting vote which he gave them from the chair that he disgraced.

In every Administration that has been formed by the Reformers since Confederation in the Dominion and its two foremost Provinces, Ontario and Quebec, it is worthy of notice that among their devices was in every instance the purchase of a Speaker. Scott, Anglin and Turcotte were all corrupted and rewarded by money or place. Not a Reform Ministry has been formed for Canada, Ontario or Quebec, since the Dominion has been in existence without the aid of turncoats. The Reform Administration of Ontario, not to speak of other trickery, was the creation of turncoats—a turncoat from the Cabinet, a turncoat in the Speaker's chair, both bought by the Reform leader, Mr. Blake. The Mackenzie-Blake Administration for the Dominion literally swarmed with turncoats, purchased in the most barefaced manner. The Joly Administration in Quebec had a turncoat for its sole majority, the Reform Lieutenant-Governor actively aiding in the purchase. Venal turncoats and dishonest trickery have in fact been the corner stones upon which Reform Administrations have been constructed.

The Steinmann Catastrophe.

Further details of the awful catastrophe to the steamship Daniel Steinmann give the number of souls on board as one hundred and twenty-nine, of whom only nine, the captian, five of the crew, and three passengers, escaped a watery grave. The ill-fated vessel struck twice, sinking immediately after the second shock, those on board who had not previously been swept away by the furious seas that broke over her decks being engulfed in the sinking vessel. Eleven bodies had been recovered from the sea at last accounts, and were placed in a temporary dead-house on the island.

The Great Jewish Festival.

The Jewish feast of the Passover commences on Wednesday night next, the 8th inst, It will continue until the eighteenth, and celebrates the redemption of the people of Israel from Egypt. During this space of time no leavened bread is eaten. The two first days are as strictly kept as the Sabbath, as are also the last two. Special services are held in each family before supper, and prayers are offered up after it. The youngest child opens the prayers with asking why this night is distinguished from all other nights, and is answered by the prayer which is led off by the head of the house. On the eve of the feast four cups of wine are drank, over each of which a special prayer is offered.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The Reform Financiers Not Satisfied—Railway Legislation—Our Trade Relations—The Hudson Bay Route—The Session Closing.

RAILWAY LEGISLATION.

Sir C. TUPPER on Friday introduced a Bill to amend the Consolidated Railway Act. Among the provisions were to allow the division of streets to avoid level crossings, to prohibit companies from purchasing their own securities, to enable the appointment of Commissioners to enquire into accidents, to regulate the speed of trains in populous districts, and the use of whistles. Trains are to be allowed to block streets for no more than five minutes.

OUR FINANCES.

Mr. CHARLTON on the motion to go into committee of supply moved an amendment condemning an increase of expenditure and of taxation. He gave a cloud of figures to show that expenditures had been increased by the present administration, and defended Mr. Mackenzie's expenditures by stating that he heartily condemned them, but was bound by his predecessors. After the manner of his party he declared that Canada was ruined, and glorified the United States.

Sir L. TILLEY declined to deal at great length with these old figures. He pointed out the unfairness of the comparison between Canada and the United States, where the different States had heavy direct taxation. If an increased debt was so objectionable, he asked why Mr. Mackenzie increased it when he was adding no new provinces and opening no new territories. Our debt was for public works, which would repay the expenditure.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT defended his regime of deficits, and exaggerated the taxation of Canada, which he pretended to compare with that of other countries.

Mr. THOS. WHITE (Cardwell), showed the unfairness of comparing a rapidly extending country like Canada with small, long-established states like Belgium and Sweden. A fairer comparison was with the Australian colonies, whose far heavier debt he gave in detail.

The amendment was defeated by 111 to 57.

SUPPLY.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and passed several items.

OUR TRADE RELATIONS.

Mr. VAIL on motion to go into Committee of Supply on Saturday called attenion to a new treaty between Spain and the United States, by which the latter country was put on a better footing for the West Indian trade.

Sir L. TILLEY said the Government was attending to the matter, but as yet had not full particulars. Formerly these arrangements were more favorable for Canada, but now it appeared that the States would have equal advantages.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT called attention to the threatened retaliation of Newfoundland for the change in our custom duties.

Sir L. TILLEY said a communication had been sent that morning to Newfoundland on the subject.

SUPPLY.

The House then went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

A SAVING.

Sir. C. TUPPER in a discussion on the item for the purchase of a house for the High Commissioner in London, said that since the creation of the office a sum equal to its whole cost had been saved by the more favorable rates secured for carriage.

OUR TIMBER.

Dr. DAWSON on the item for the International Fishery Exhibition, said that Canada should also be represented at the Forestry Exhibition at Edinburgh this autumn.

Mr. SPROULE also advocated this, and especially referred to our bird's-eye maple.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE.

Sir J. MACDONALD said he saw that the British Government had given an unfavorable answer to a question whether they would assist in the Hudson Bay survey, grounding their refusal on old reports that the route was only navigable for a short season. Such reports had been disproved in other instances, such as that of our own St. Lawrence, and the result might be similar in this case. The Dominion Government would certainly send up a vessel this season.

THE SESSION CLOSING.

Sir J. MACDONALD said they would proceed with the liquor license resolutions on Monday, and with new railway subsidies on Tuesday, pressing other measures as rapidly as the public interest allowed. He hoped that if they could not prorogue before Friday, they would early in Easter week. He moved, seconded by Mr. Blake,—That Wednesday should be a Government day.

TEMPTING TO CRIME.

The Hamilton Spectator thus addresses Mr. Mowat:—

"A short time ago facts came to light showing that some members of the Legislature had been bribed, and that dishonorable proposals had been made to others. In taking immediate steps to bring the offenders to justice you did right. But you did other things which were wrong. You sent spies and informers to men who had committed no wrong act to tempt them to crime. You tried in every possible way to cause men to commit crime. Your creatures pretended that they were open to bribery. They made that pretence by your procurement, under your direct orders, to tempt men to the commission of offenses against the law. You suborned scoundrels to infamous acts for the purpose of trapping your political opponents by trick and device. The commonest policeman who should resort to such practices for the purpose of trapping a known criminal would be dismissed; but you, the Attorney-General of Ontario, who asks to be considered an honest and an honorable man, have deliberately planned infamies known to the lowest whisky detective. You did these things, Mr. Mowat. You stand pilloried in the gaze of the Canadian public to-day for having endeavoured to trick men into crime so that you could save your official position and your salary. Nay, more; you or your associates took private property from private citizens and have kept it. If you, individually, are not a thief, you are the associate of thieves, and you are consciously profiting by the theft.

Mr. Mowat: you must not complain if your political opponents withdraw the consideration they have heretofore extended to you—if they decline longer to treat you as an honorable or honest man—if they hold you responsible for the crimes of you administration, and equally guilty with the tricksters and criminals who are your associates.

FRAUDULENT DEVICES.

The Hamilton Spectator thus addresses Mr. Mowat:—

Several years ago you had a stringent election law placed upon the statute book. Your party had declared such a law to be necessary, and you had charged your political opponents with obstructing the passage of such a law because they desired to employ improper and dishonest agencies in elections. But in the Muskoka and Algoma elections you violated your own law. You violated it openly and shamelessly with intent to obtain dishonest and illegal advantages. In Algoma you passed over the officials, one of whom, under your own law, should have been returning officer, because those officials declined to be guilty of illegal conduct, and you appointed a returning officer whose one qualification was that he would violate the law and cheat Conservative out of their votes. You deliberately and with dishonest and illegal intent had the polling places arranged so as to cheat Conservatives out of their votes. Your deputy returning officers in some cases were instructed to be tardy in reaching polling places proclaimed by law—in every instance in districts where Conservatives were in a majority. In places where a large vote was reasonably to be expected, you gave instructions that an insufficient number of ballots should be provided, and Reform electors were notified of the fact so that they could vote early. The scheme was carried through, and Conservatives who came late, though some of them had come many miles, at great trouble and expense, were denied the right to vote because of your dishonest and illegal instructions. In other cases your deputy returning officers were instructed to refuse, and did refuse the votes of legal electors for the one reason that they were Conservatives. When the defrauded electors proposed to proceed against these criminals under your own law, you hastily in the closing hours of the session had the law changed, and enacted that the crimes should not be held to be criminal, and the criminals should escape.

Mr. Mowat: can you wonder that impartial men can no longer hold the perpetrator of those acts to be or to have been an honest man?

News from Rome.

Cardinal Czacki, one of the most enlightened and entrusted councillors of Leo XIII., on being questioned yesterday regarding the rumored intention of the Pope to leave the Vatican, replied that he did hot believe the report. In his opinion there had been two moments only when the Pope's departure might have been advisable—before the Italians came to Rome, and before it was formally decided to make Rome the capital of Italy.

The United States Minister has been communicated with, and two letters have been exchanged by Signor Mancini and Signor Gianuzzi Savelli, ex-Minister of Justice, recognising the American College to be exempt from seizure by the Government. There is reason to believe that Signor Mancini is elaborating a bill tending to neutralize the effect of the recent decision of the Court of Cassation regarding the Propaganda. In Ministerial circles this, of course, is denied."

A Steamship Ashore.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 5.—The steamer Newcastle City, Captain Garner, sailed from this port for Boston at six o'clock yesterday morning. About two o'clock in the afternoon, during a thick fog, she struck on Little Hope shoal, off Liverpool, Queen's, and dragging over, knocked several holes in her bottom. Water began to pour into the fore and main compartment in great quantity, and Captain Garner determined to return to Halifax. About four o'clock this morning, after the steamer had just passed Meagher's light, the water was found to be gaining so fast that to save the lives of those on board it was decided to beach the steamer. Pilot Richard O'Neil, who had the ship in charge, successfully ran her aground in Beech cove, McNab's island, close to Finlay's wharf, where she now lies in an upright and steady position, with her head to the northward. The steam tug, A. C. Whitney went down this morning, but nothing was done with the stranded steamer. The cargo in the hold is probably considerably damaged by water, but a number of cattle she had on board have not been injured.

HALIFAX, April 6.—Work has been in progress all day on the stranded steamer Newcastle City, steam tugs and schooners bringing her cargo up to the city. It is expected by tomorrow evening the steamer can be floated and brought up to the city for repairs.

How Would it do?

This bad weather requires a remedy. It seems as if the whole responsibility should rest on Vennor and Wiggins, for we had some kind of weather before they appeared upon the scene. How would it do to string them up? Would it make things better? Another hint of importance—don't hang on to your corns as weather indicators. Better string them out root and branch. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor will do it quickly, painlessly and with certainty. Don't buy dangerous flesh-eating substitutes. Get Putnam's, and no other.

Polson's Nervilline.
